Monday Marks Launching of Drive For Building Site For Future S.C.F.

Students of S.N.U. under the leadership of Chris and Curtis Hines are organized to launch a ten-day drive on the campus to raise $1,000 for the new "interdisciplinary" foundations building. The drive begins on Monday, November 12, and closes November 21, the day before Thanksgiving. A report dinner will be held on Monday, November 19. All students and friends of the Foundation will participate.

A Student Project

Many have felt that they are engaged in the drive to secure a building site for the new Foundation. A walk around the campus will reveal more than a hundred students and faculty members who have contributed to the effort. Students from the different organizations have been working closely together to ensure that the site is suitable for the purposes of the Foundation. The efforts of all have contributed to the success of the drive.

The Site

The site selected is located on the corner of University Avenue and Main Street. It is a large, level area and is well suited for the purpose of the Foundation. The design and construction of the building will be overseen by a committee of students and faculty members.

WE COULD LOSE THE RACE

If one can believe with H. G. Wells that civilization is a race, then the American Education Week should have especial significance today. Southern Illinois Normal University has been and still is the principal source of American education, and we should, therefore, in these days of progress, do our part to promote civilization and prevent catastrophe.

What is the object of the educator today? The supreme objective of education is improving society. Among the problems of today are the struggle for public school support and the acceptance of the United States in its relations with other nations. How well our nation stands in these respects is indicated by the extent of our educational programs.

School teachers have not been equipped to carry these tremendous responsibilities for many reasons. For one, how much of education is the result of the almost total lack of training in the field of teaching. For another, teachers are restricted to the comparatively unimportant function of teaching, and the duties of this function are not always appreciated.

So personally did it happen that the Armistice Day was felt like an immense burden of sorrow and pain.

This day is known mainly as the day on which Armistice was signed, ending the war of "to end all wars," where the war in its prime. Can there be any lasting peace?

Fertility Educated

Mr. Tom C. Busch, the principal of the Fertility Educator, was honored by his colleagues last week with a special dinner given in his honor. Mr. Busch has been a leading figure in the field of fertility education for many years and has made significant contributions to the advancement of this field.

The dinner was held at the St. Louis Hotel and was attended by many of Mr. Busch's colleagues. The speeches were given by Dr. John M. Young of the University of Chicago, who is one of the foremost authorities on fertility education. He praised Mr. Busch for his work and expressed the hope that his efforts would continue to be successful.

Mr. Busch also received a plaque from the American Fertility Association, which he accepted with distinction. The plaque was a symbol of the respect and admiration that his colleagues felt for his work.

The evening ended with a dance, which was enjoyed by all those present. It was a fitting way to honor Mr. Busch for his contributions to the field of fertility education.

Look, Mom—Here's Where the Bats Live

The bats are coming out of hibernation and into the streets. Keep your eyes and ears open for their fluttering wings and chirping sounds. These little creatures are vital to our ecosystem, as they help control insect populations.

They live in the warm, dark, and humid caves and crevices, where they hibernate during the cold months. When the weather warms up, they emerge to hunt for insects and other small creatures. Their presence can be a little unsettling, but they are an important part of our natural world.
