Applies started
In Denials of Housing Permits

Hearings of appeals from students whose applications for housing have been denied were started Monday.

The hearing are being conducted in Ballroom B of the University Center. Students whose last name began with the initials A to BZ met with a dean to discuss the decisions. The deans will hear the appeals until Friday, Nov. 11. Any student misses his designated time, there will be two make-up sessions on Nov. 14 and 15.

The times that the Student Affairs Office has designated for students to appeal their denials are as follows:

Students with last names beginning with the letters Ca to OZ may appeal from 8 to 10 a.m., and Kl to Ly will appeal from 10 a.m. to noon.

Students whose last name begins with Mc, Ma or Me, will report at 9 to 10 a.m., Nov. 8. Last names starting with letters Ml to Oz will appeal from 10 a.m. to noon that day.

Students whose name begins with Pa to Pz may go from 1 to 3 p.m., Nov. 4, and those whose names begin with the letters Pr to Ry may go from 3 to 5 p.m.

Those whose name begins with Sa to 5Q may make their appeal from 8 to 10 a.m. and those with the initials Sp to Ty should go from 10 a.m. to noon, Nov. 11.

The last day a student may appeal is Tuesday, Nov. 15. Students who wanted an interview should go to Ballroom B in the University Center at the designated times.

$179 Million Requests
Okay for State Colleges

DE KALB (AP) — Operating budget requests totaling $179,357,471 from six of the eight state-run universities and colleges were approved Monday by their 11-member governing board.

The total which would be available for the 1967-68 biennium is 5.5 per cent higher than for the current 1965-67 appropriation of $171,317 million.

Paul Stone of Sullivan, chairman of the Board of Governors of State Colleges and Universities, listed individual operating budget requests as:

Eastern Illinois University, Charleston, $23.7 million; Illinois State University, Normal, $39 million; Northern Illinois University, De Kalb, $57 million; Western Illinois University-Macomb, $29 million; Illinois Teachers College, North Chicago, $15.7 million and Illinois Teachers College, South Chicago, $15.5 million.

-$23 million, or 38 per cent of the proposed budget, was asked to provide for enrollments expected. The six schools currently have 4,214 students, 5,000 more than a year ago.

The figures do not include the University of Illinois or SIU, each of which operates under a separate board, although subject to over-all supervision by the Illinois Board of Higher Education, as are the regional schools.

At its regular meeting the board of governors also:

-Approved preliminary plans for a 27-story, twin tower residence complex at Illinois State, to cost an estimated $12.8 million and house 2,160 students.

-Approved a feasibility study for a $6.7 million residence at Northern to accommodate 1,020 students.

-Approved a low bid for general contracting on addition work at the student union, Western Illinois, for $1.7 billion by Iver Construction Co., Peoria. Total cost of the addition is calculated at $3.5 million.

WINNING FLOAT—One of the winning entries in the Homecoming parade Saturday, in the showing of the floats is a float made into the distance—as is the memory of the 1966 event. Thousands of photographs were taken of Homecoming, and some of the work of four Daily Egyptian photographers is carried throughout today's paper. They are Ed Bomberger, John Baran, Nathan Jones and David Lunsan.
Study to Discover Fertilizer's Effect

The reaction occurring when a fertilizer is applied to the soil is under study in research being conducted by Joseph P. Vavra, professor of plant industries.

"We want to determine the fate of anhydrous ammonia, a common nitrogen carrier, when applied to the soil," said Vavra, in describing the nitrogen fertilizer research he is directing at the Southwestern Farm Research Center.

Vavra said nitrogen, essential for plant growth, is necessary for cell development and increased protein content.

The research project, backed by a $2,500 grant from Phillips Petroleum Corp., Bartlesville, Okla., and a $1,500 grant from Hahn, Evansville, Ind., a specialized farm equipment manufacturer, began last July.

Phillips Petroleum has been supporting Vavra's nitrogen fertilizer studies for the past 10 years, especially his studies of anhydrous ammonia action.

Lack of Teachers, Economic Resources

Doesn't Stop Brazil-Peru Program

By Lockhart Hines

How do you run a school in an area with no teachers, few economic resources and archaic laws?

You may train teachers and set up cooperatives, but can you change the laws?

Charles Ekker, assistant director of SIU's Latin American Institute, had to do all three in making the Brazilian-U.S. Institute and the Brazil-Peru Institute successful in Latin America.

When Ekker arrived in Brazil 10 years ago as program director of the Brazil-U.S. Institute in Sao Paulo, Brazil, he was unquestionably well qualified for the job.

He spoke Portuguese fluently, had a bachelor's degree in Spanish, and a master's in sociology and Latin American history.

With this background, however, Ekker had to find a way to keep the institute within the law and avoid bankruptcy, a job which involved all the resources.

Since the Institute's primary purpose is to stimulate the study of English as a second language, Ekker set up a program to train Brazilians in the U.S. for this purpose. By this method more than 100 teachers have been trained to help the institute nearly 2,000 students.

Since that time Ekker has extended the program into a student and faculty exchange. Three American students are attending the Brazil-U.S. Institute.

It was more difficult to set up a similar program in Peru. Ekker said, Peruvian laws, he found, were incompatible with his teacher-training program.

Ekker took his case to the legislature and was promptly asked to draft a statute that would accommodate his program. "The law is still on the books," Ekker said.

Another major problem facing the Brazil-U.S. Institute at Ekker's arrival was one which afflicts many private educational institutions. How to meet expenses incurred through expansion?

Because students attending the institute are from primarily poor areas, Ekker realized he had to help them financially before he could do it educationally.

He solved this problem by setting up cooperatives and credit unions. By placing two dollars a month in the credit union funds, a person could then borrow money and invest in a small business venture that might increase his income.

Discussing the wide variety of activities of his organization, Ekker said, "For an educational program like ours to be successful, we have to close the socio-economic circuit also. One cannot expect persons with great financial handicaps to be good students." Ekker says he looks forward to returning to Latin America. "In Latin America there is continuous change," he said.

Wall Street Presents Pedestrian Danger

A dangerous traffic situation has arisen in Carbonel, one which could result in death or injury to S.U. students.

South Wall Street from East Park past the Wall Street Quadrangle has been under construction for months. Only recently has it been paved.

Food Buyers Dissatisfied

A wave of protests against high food prices, set in motion by established housewives across the land, promises to lead to a national consumer association. If it does, this will be a good outcome.

Groceries and meats cost United States families $55 billion last year, more than any other type of merchandise. Those who buy should make their voices heard.

We hope they will speak with an understanding of the problems of the food retailer who must struggle with rising labor costs and other effects of inflation.

While most of the aroused women in cities from Denver, Colo., to Montreal, voice only general charges, some are making specific demands. In Denver marchers carried signs with the message, "Down with frills and stamps." In Phoenix, Ariz., a housewives' group is urging members to buy only from those stores that do not use giveaway gimmicks in their merchandising.

We feel that is on the right track in pleading for sound food values. It is time that we as consumers recognize some of the cost of the "free gift." It would be well if they believed these groups of housewives were having their say on the real cost of their purchases.

But to bring down prices will take more than brief periods boycott and more than merely writing. It will demand consumers willing to give time to the study of the complex subject of food marketing. They will also have to make Housewives heart continuously over the years.

Study Lounge Popups State

To the editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to call attention to the operation of the Study Lounge in Morrisey Library. Although I am not one of the current "protesters," I feel that my patience is at an end with respect to the Study Lounge.

Specifically, the newspapers and magazines provided there are at least one week old (in the case of most newspapers) and two months old (in the case of magazines). For example, the latest issue of Readers Digest is now on sale, yet the September issue remains in the Study Lounge for students to read.

Today's newspaper is for sale at the Information Desk of the University Center, yet students are obliged to read stale news in Morrisey Library. This is a move to modernize the Study Lounge; too many students (me included) may, some days read last week's news a week too late.

Improper Parking Fills Lots

To the editor:

I am sitting in my car in one of the student-faculty parking lots east of the Illinois Central tracks. It is 8:15 a.m., and the last parking space has just been filled.

For the next two or three hours, I will sit here and watch frustrated commuters, who don't have classes until 9, 10 or 11 a.m., drive through this lot and curse the early arrivals. They curse these individuals who arrive before 8 because they had parked elsewhere or would be space for at least 15 more cars in this lot alone.

I include myself among the early arrivals and admit to being guilty of improper parking on occasion.

The problem is compounded each year by more cars and less space. However, with a little patient attention to parking, we could alleviate the problem to some degree.

People are already prone to lose these lots without checking to see if they are absorbing their ticket. The loss automatically fill up the front nearest exits to the campus in the opposite direction, parking could be done on a relatively fair basis.

I feel that the security section, which checks the lots regularly for illegal parking, could be eliminated. This could be begun with the verification of the parking tickets and when a specified amount had accumulated, a full ticket should be issued from the office. This should go toward the total number of parking violations allowed in a year.

If the above seems to be too great an inconvenience to the parking section, I have two other suggestions.

First, a much higher fee for parking should be required and individual parking locations allotted. This would immediately decrease the number of cars using campus and more individuals who drive alone would form car pools.

Second, a parking garage should be erected in a centralized location such as Thompson Woods or in one of the new Brush Towers. If the University finds it cannot fill these living quarters. Again a standard fee should be required for assigned parking spaces within these parking areas.

Players Triumph with 'Arms and the Man'
By Diane Anderson
The Southern Players triumph again—this time with George Bernard Shaw's delightful and significant "Arms and the Man", the closing performance Saturday was truly enjoyable.

One wonders if Shaw planned the occasional smirks of Raina (Rita Veree) and the constant hammy foibles of Sergius Saranoff, played by Dennis Schiacka. It matters little if he did or didn't— the audience enjoyed it greatly.

The most polished actor in the troupe was Bruce Logsdon, who played Captain Bluntschli. Bluntschli was the Swiss professional soldier who knew the facts behind the supposed glamour of war. There are only two kinds of soldiers, he claimed—the old ones and the young ones. The old learn to carry food instead of ammunition.

Bluntschli, when he first stole into Raina Petkoff's chamber, did not seem at all tired after his 48 hours of sleepless campaigning. However, when Logsdon remembered how tired he was, he portrayed it beautifully and comically in his "which do I want, sleep or danger" scene. Sleep won out as he sprawled across Raina's bed.

The action takes place in a Bulgarian town while the defeated Serbians are fleeing from the victorious—and lucky—Bulgarian army. Bluntschli, in the service of the Serbs flees for his life and climbs a water pipe to Raina's room. She is the daughter of a prominent Bulgarian mayor, ably played by Alfred C. Erickson.

Raina hides Bluntschli and he escapes to return the following spring. By this time, the war has ended and Bluntschli helps Raina's father and her betrothed, Sergius with some military strategy. Sergius is the one who led the foolishly brave charge against the Serbian machine guns. The Serbs, however, had the wrong ammunition and Sergius came out alive and Bluntschli escaped up the water pipe. This time when Bluntschli leaves the Petkoff home it is as Raina's future husband.

Sergius, meanwhile, has proved his true bravery by accepting the challenge of Louka (Anne L. Valle) to acknowledge his love for her, the Petkoff's maid, and marry her regardless of the communities of the status-conscious community. Her former betrothed, the servant Nicola (Naggy Falte), is not at all distraught.

Therese Gautreau played Catherine Petkoff, Raina's mother, and Dennis Mitchell played a Russian officer sent to find Bluntschli. The officer had a most unusual accent. All members of the cast only acted but had technical responsibilities as well. They seemed to be competent in both aspects because lighting, sound, costumes, etc., were all handled well.

Only one very minor inconsistency was noticed. In the second act, when Raina left the stage to get her clock, for a walk with Sergius, she returned sans cloak.

$75,000 in Materials Given To SIU's Viet Nam Program
Educational films and materials valued at $75,000 have been made available for SIU educators to use in strengthening the University's educational program in South Viet Nam, according to Kenneth R. Miller, executive director of the Peace Corps.

These materials are the gift of Encyclopedia Britannica Films which has presented $10,000,000 worth to the U.S. Agency for International Development—half to be used by SIU contract teams, the other half by Ohio University (Athens) which is conducting a secondary education program in South Viet Nam.

Announcement of the gift was made today by Charles Benton, president of Encyclopedia Britannica, Benton will visit SIU and Ohio personnel in the war-torn Southeast Asian country early in November.

SIU has maintained rotating teams of educators in South Viet Nam since 1963, as advisers to native educators in upgrading the country's entire elementary education system and strengthening the training of elementary teachers.

Newest member of the University faculty to receive an assignment to South Viet Nam is James E. Sexson, off-campus film specialist for Southern's Audio-Visual Services, who will leave Nov. 10 for a two-year stay there. Sexson is the first audio-visual specialist to join the contract team.

The South Viet Nam project is one of a number of overseas educational programs conducted by SIU's Division of International Services headed by Dean Oliver Johnson Caldwell. Current chief of the Vietnam field party is Harold DeWeese.
Ticket Sale Continues for Piano Concert

Tickets are still available for the Ferrante and Teicher show which will highlight the Parents Day Festivities. This second attraction in the Celebrity Series will be presented at 7 and 9:30 p.m., Nov. 12 in Shryock Auditorium.

Tickets may be purchased at the University Center information desk from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., daily.

Ferrante and Teicher first came to fame with their recording of "The Apartment." Since then their albums and singles have hovered near the top of the charts.

The pianists have been called "the least controversial of contemporary purveyors of music" because of their popularity with all age groups.

Tickets cost $1, $2 and $3. Payment plus a stamped, self-addressed envelope should be sent to the Student Activities Office stating the performance, number and kind of seats desired.

13,000 Attend Game to Make 1966 'One of Better Homecoming Years'

Homecoming 1966 offered something for everyone. About 10,500 entered the Arena Friday night for the Homecoming stage show. Harry Belafonte and Greek songstress Nana Mouskouri presented their own brands of folk and foreign songs, while comedian Ripley Russell drew laughs from the audience with pointed quips at the SIU administration, civil rights and the world in general.

Organization stunts—first place, Geology Club; second place, Phi Mu Alpha; honorable mention, Alpha Kappa Phi.

This was "one of the better homecoming years" as far as alumni attendance was concerned, according to Robert Ondanel, director of the Alumni Office.

He said that although the number of alumni on campus for the Homecoming festivities could not be exactly determined, there were probably "several thousand" here during the three-day celebration.

A REGAL GESTURE—Homecoming Queen Nancy Sunderland brushed a wig of hair from her eyes during the Homecoming parade. Weather Saturday was perfect for the morning event—bright and cool.

Astronomer, Course Retire

A long-standing departmental designation—the Department of Physics and Astronomy—is now shorter by "and Astronomy." This change is the result of a faculty member who taught Astronomy 201, the only course offered under the subject, the department will not renew the course starting this year, and the word has been dropped from the departmental title.

Charlotte Zimmerarchs, the astronomer, retired last summer after 39 years on the SIU faculty.

Clip and save this 10th in a series of Pharaoh's Femme Fatales!
The November Pharaoh's Femme Fatale is blonde-haired, blue-eyed Nancy Kopal. This 18 year-old beauty enjoys water-skiing, swimming, horseback riding, and folk music. Nancy, a freshman from Matteson, Illinois, plans to major in language and eventually wants to be an airline stewardess. It will be TWA's gain and SIU's loss.

These friendly merchants and the Daily Egyptian bring you this month's Femme Fatale.
Guinean "Prisoners"

ACCRA, Ghana (AP)—Rejecting a plea by Ethiopian Emperor Haile Selassie to settle differences with Guinea, Ghana told an Ethiopian envoy here Monday it will not release 19 Guinean diplomats and students until Chargi candidates held in Guinea are freed.

The dispute was a subject of discussion at a meeting of the Council of Ministers of the Organization of African Unity in Addis Ababa, where Selassie made his plea.

Guinea involved the United States in the dispute but Ghana cleared it of any part.

The dispute between the two African nations came to involve the United States after Ghana seized Guinea's OAU delegation from an American plane stopped in Accra while en route to Addis Ababa. Guinea then held U.S. Ambassador Robinson Mcilvaine under house arrest Sunday in Conacry, Guinea's capital.

In Washington, the State Department reported Mcilvaine was allowed to leave. Carmichael Says "I'm Not Going"

New York (AP)—"Black power" leader Stokely Carmichael, called for draft re-examination, said Friday if he is classified I-A "I'm not going to go."

Carmichael, just before leaving by plane for San Francisco for a meeting, said when asked on what grounds he would refuse military service: "I don't care which it is. I'll go to Leavenworth."

Carmichael has begun consultations with draft officials, which were completed Friday.

Carmichael, chairman of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee and the leading advocate of black power, cited the Nuremberg war crimes trials after World War II and said there is a higher law than the law of the U.S. government.

2 Million Welcome Johnson in Seoul

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Police in Seoul said two million Koreans turned out to see President and Mrs. Johnson. The President responded to the acclaim of record throngs by pledging anew that the United States would aid South Korea if it is attacked.

On this, his first full day in Korea, the President looked ahead to a visit with U.S. and South Korean troops near the demilitarized zone separating Communist North Korea from South Korea.

The promise of a U.S. defense of South Korea came in a toast Johnson raised to his host, President Chung Hee Park, at a state dinner held Monday night while gay crowds filled the streets of this capital to watch fireworks display capping the tumultuous welcome for Johnson and his wife.

Typical of the banners and placards waving about were those hailing him as "Great Texas Giant" and saying "We love big shot of free world." This is his final foreign stop on the tour around the eastern rim of Communist China. He has visited New Zealand, Australia, the Philippines, Thailand and Malaysia and flies back to Washington today with an overnight stop in Anchorage.

The outgoing of Koreans was Johnson's biggest reception of the tour and their enthusiasm in greeting him made the reception the wildest. Crowds broke down metal fences. Many clung to rooftops. There wasn't a hint of the anti-American sentiment that marred otherwise warm and friendly receptions in New Zealand, Australia, the Philippines and Malaysia.

Convocations to Feature Songs From Gilbert-Sullivan Operas

Helen Roberts and Richard Walker will be featured in songs and scenes from operas by Gilbert and Sullivan at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. Thursday at Shryock Auditorium in the University Convocations Series.

Miss Roberts, soprano, has performed principal vocal roles in the Gilbert and Sullivan operas for a longer period than any other singer in the Savoyard Co. history. She was trained originally for grand opera in Italy and has sung many operatic roles, both in England and on the continent.

Walker, a baritone, is also a member of the Savoyard Co. As "The Grand Inquisitor," "Pooh-Bah," "Shadbolt" and "Private Willis," his artistry and comic acting have won him tributes from critics and fans.

Miss Roberts and Walker have toured America several times with the D'Oyly Carte Opera Co. This will be the first time such a program has been offered in costume by D'Oyly Carte stars.

Michigan State University, Iowa State Teachers College, Valparaiso University and the University of South Carolina are among the schools and colleges which Miss Roberts and Walker have appeared. They have also made appearances at women's clubs in Oklahoma City, Minneapolis, York, Pa., and Springfield, Ohio.

A coffee hour from 11 a.m. to noon in the River Rooms of the University Center will honor Miss Roberts and Walker.

3-Year Wait for Win

Homecoming Victory Brings Happiness

By Mike Schwebel

Happiness was three years coming for SIU football, but when it did come, it seemed worth waiting for.

A definite underdog to the East Carolina College Pirates in the 41st Homecoming game, Southern thrilled a full house of nearly 14,000 in MacAndrew Stadium with a convincing 31-13 victory Saturday afternoon.

In defeating the major college foe, the Salukis gained win number three for the season — something which hasn't happened since 1963, the same year Southern captured its last Homecoming win.

First year coach Ellis Rainberger couldn't have wanted a more timely win from his crew after North Texas had creamed them 53-6 a week earlier.

Despite an injury-plagued offense termed before the game as "about 40 per cent effective" because of key personnel injured, the Salukis made it up for it with better than one-hundred per cent effort.

After trailing 13-7 at halftime, SIU rebounded to score 24 points in the last half through a devastating ground attack that dug out 306 yards for the afternoon.

The visiting Pirates invaded Saluki territory twice before an interception by defensive back Eddie Richards at the ECC 38-yard mark turned things around.

Richards grabbed the ball tossed by tailback Dennis Young and galloped down the left side to the 15-yard line.

Charlie Pemberton, the halfback who was supposed to be doing quite a bit of limping due to a leg injury, "limped" over on two plays of six and nine yards respectively to put Southern on the scoreboard with just 12 seconds left in the opening quarter.

The accurate toe of Tim Kelley made it 7-6, but the visitors came right back with a 76-yard drive of their own early in the second period.

Using the variety available with their single-wing offense, the Pirates led by Dennis Young moved quickly down the field.

Young took part in the two big plays of the drive, one a 20-yard pass play to Skipper Oliver followed by a 20-yard run which took the ball well into Saluki territory.

Fullback Jim Flowe ended the thrust with a three-yard scoring plunge. The conversion boot by Peter More was good, leaving SIU with a 17-6 lead.

The drive cost East Carolina the services of Young, who had to leave the game with a broken collarbone after engineering most of the early play.

Southern managed to get to the Eastern Carolina 33 on the next series, but there the momentum died.

The visitors took the lead after a poor punt by Southern helped set up excellent field position.

Taking possession at the 34-yard line of SIU, the Pirates scored on two plays. After a one-yard loss, wingback Mike Bridges ran down the right side for a 35-yard scoring play.

Moe's extra point was good, putting the visitors out in front 12-7 at halftime.

Led by Charlie Pemberton the Salukis moved 48 yards in 13 plays to score with 4:17 left in the quarter.

Pemberton ran the ball, received a Doug Moughay pass and took several pitchouts in the drive, scoring on a pitchout from three yards out.

Kelley again kicked good as Southern went ahead 14-13 going into the final quarter.

After gaining possession again the fired-up Salukis began where they left off in the third period. Fullback Hill Williams ran over everyone as he legged it up the middle for a 35-yard touchdown. Kelley's conversion made it 21-13 with 14:53 left.

The last drive, starting from the SIU 20, featured the second-effort running of halfback Roger Kuba and Williams.

Kuba carried the ball three consecutive times for runs of 21, 5 and 22 yards.
