MISS MARTHA BUCK

An event widely heralded through the press of "Egypt" was consummated Sunday at the First Baptist church of Carbondale where fitting honors were given three of its members to mark a half century of affiliation and service to the church. Miss Martha Buck, Mrs. Christoph and Mrs. Wiseman, all of this city, bear this unusual distinction, and in their honor the jubilee was held. Miss Buck, who for 43 years was a member of the faculty of the S. I. N. U. and with a teaching experience aggregating 52 years, knows intimately the various phases of Carbondale's development and in which she has shared so largely in fostering high civic and moral ideals, Mrs. Wiseman and Mrs. Christoph chose the no less noble service of rearing a family and the queenly task of making a home.

Numerous were the guests from the circuit churches, students from the Normal and especially former students who sat at the feet of Miss Buck years ago, when she taught them grammar through the week and the Bible on Sunday.

The feature of the Sunday school hour was to have each of the honored seers present with Miss Buck teaching the entire adult department.
A Three Act Comedy-Drama, “Putting it Over”

The Zetetic Literary Society staged one of the most interesting and cleverest plays of the kind ever produced by the school’s literary societies. They absolutely and deliberately walked away with scores of praises from the assembled house. The Zetetic ball was filled to overflowing and could not accommodate all who came. Several who felt found entertainment in the Socratic hall, others went home but those who stayed roved with enthusiasm at the well worked up comedy-drama entitled, “Putting it Over.” This play required a two and one-fourth hours for presentation, but even those who stood were weary for they were deeply impressed with the cleverness of the characters.

Tom Browne, who always spelled his name with an “e” was impersonated by Carl Smith who held the foremost position of the play. Browne, the chief engineer of the dam construction company had obtained his position through crooked dealings and the theft of some valuable plans from another engineer, namely Jack Stewart, also impersonated by Carl Smith. Brown’s unlawful conduct was discovered and he was not man enough to make a chance for the better so he was easily influenced by the daughter of the contractor to elope with her.

Meanwhile a down and out victim of circumstances had stolen into Brown’s apartments where he found nothing to take but a bath, but much to his astonishment was treated with respect by Bolton, the valet. After chasing the actions of Bolton and a picture of Browne, he finds himself to be Brown’s double. Locating the plans which were stolen from him, and assuming the name of Brown, Jack Stewart risked a bribe of $5,000, became a friend to a charming maiden and put the plan over. And it is here we want to say, Smith certainly put it over big. Taking a double role and two entirely different characters was certainly a difficult task, but he dealt gracefully from an engine lacking cuss to an earnest, business man, benign lover, and symmetry of manhood perfect.

Filling the role of awate and dignified Colonel Lane, Mr. Cary Davis was one of the most appreciated stars of the evening. We feel that the Zetetic would have to go far in securing another actor to fill such a perfect stockholder’s place. Davis showed little less than genius in the way he carried the part of the hasty tempered, but well meaning old gentleman. Judging from the laughter and applause during the entire time Colonel Lane held the stage he was one of the most favored characters, and we predict for Cary a glorious future as a second Theodore Roberts.

Lannon, the contractor was none other than Thomas Whittemburg, who distinguished himself as an unsympathizing, sneaking crook—wé can hardly say villain, but who proved to be a loyal sport in the end. Mr. Whittemburg exhibited a wonderful power for stage activities.

Sometimes a man is found who never laughs, but Lannon Wells at Bolton, the valet, was not one of them. For once during the performance he laughed heartily. Mr. Wells made an admirable valet, but him led himself only when duty bade him so.

Erwin Kelly thoroughly carried out the part of Dantley, the foreman at the dam, and his part was not too prominent as some of the others. Mr. Kelley filled the place with true ability ad we know how easily reach the highest rank.

The noble-hearted, loyal friend, true blue girl of Jack Stewart’s dream was Miss Sybil Reiss, who was a true blue Eva Lane, the part assigned to her.

But let’s have one in every family, an independent little spit-fire, Torrence, Lannon’s daughter arranged affairs to please herself, and although she was defeated finally she remained loyal in love. Miss Roberta McCracken thrilled the audience with her charming mannerisms and fulfillment of this role.

And last was Eva Lane’s aunt, Mrs. Lane Turner, who added to “Putting it Over” by her strange ideas and sentiments, Miss Lucille Coulter, who took this part deserves an honorable recognition in the list of talented members.

On summarizing—the Zetetic Literary Society has an organization full of pep and vim, and who are going to win those above characters in putting the Society over. Come out each Friday evening. Tea join our Society.

ZESETZ STAGE THE FEATURES OF THE SEASON

IT CAN BE DONE

The newspaper reporter who returns from an assignment about some event, to tell the editor that he couldn’t get the story, will usually have fired at him by the irate chief, “Nothing is impossible. Just use your head!” Told once or twice the reporter begins to believe it.

One newspaper man in quoting from his own experience said, “When you find yourself face to face with a high stone wall across your path, know that there has got to be some way around. If you can’t go around the end, then either climb over or tunnel underneath.”

The picture of the wall which always can be surmounted in some way, has remained very vivid in my mind and always recurs to me when I meet a situation which seems hard to handle. It is really surprising the possibilities that present themselves when the word “impossible” is stricken out of one’s vocabulary. Try it once. You will find there is always a way to accomplish your purpose, if you will only use your ingenuity to find it.

DON’T FORGET THE HOMECOMING

You’ve noticed the posters and you’ve heard talk of the S. I. N. U. Home-coming Nov. 7-8, but have you given it any thought?

These are the days of the year when S. I. N. U. should be glistening with enthusiasm showing the Old Home-comers that our school was not only of the past but of the present. Don’t make this a home-going occasion! Stay on the grounds, note what rapport the previous graduates greet the old buildings, classrooms and faculty members. Copper them that you are backing your school and their school.

Remember Strat and Fret entertainment Thursday evening, and the sensational biggest football game on Friday. Check the dates on your calendar with red-Nov. 7 and 8.

“SEND THE BAND TO CAPE”

Last year the Socratic Literary Society thought that the team needed something familiar when they met Cape’s eleven at Cape Girardeau so they hired two trucks to take the band along.

THE TEAM, with the help of the band won to the tune of 13 to 0. The band is a real asset to the school and they deserve some recognition for their efforts. Therefore, as a loyal student to S. I. N. U. and also a friend of the band, I say, “Send The Band to Cape.”

SOCRATIC PARTY A GREAT SUCCESS

Long before seven-thirty, crowds of young folks wended their way to ward the gymnasium. Long Socrates were at the doors to greet the newcomers.

Each guest was presented with a and pencil with these was played a get-acquainted game which served as an icebreaker and in which old Socrates became warm friends of the new students. After everyone had become quite well acquainted, the following program was given:

Vocal Solo ......................... Neil Munai Talk .......................... Frank A. Smith Piano Solo ....................... Albert Burkitt

A little wire announced that the saxophone might be unable to be present because of a hold over engagement in St. Louis. Warren Van Buren, a new Socrat, kindly present-as a snappy collection of popular pieces.

This program was followed by a series of clever games under the direction of Miss Colette White. The games were brought to a close by a mental test which anounced to all those intellectually perfect that refreshments were served. It seemed that all were intel-llectually perfect.

It was a happy crowd at a snappy party given by whole-hearted friend-lv Socrates. It was an effort of the old Socrates to help new students forget their troubles and become ful-lled Socrates. With the backing that the loyalty of the Socrates gave it, this gathering was not a bore, was not a party for a few, but was a party full of pep, vim, life, joy and good times for the two or three hundred people who attended.

Socratic Society promises many such good times to its members.
Come on, get in soon, be happy, be merry and laugh and play with the Socrates.

SOUTHERN ILLINOIS HISTORICAL ASSOCIATION

As the date for the first meeting approaches, the Southern Illinois Historical Association takes our new interest. No part of the State is richer in historic lore than that in what is usually known as "Egypt," and this new organization elected last summer under the auspices of the Senior class of the S. I. N. U. promises to play a very important part in focusing attention on our achievements of the past and perpetuating interest in contemporary events. Except some minor features plans are already complete for the first ses-tion which will be held during Homecoming Week, November 8 and 9. Teachers generally throughout this end of the State will be interested in the proceedings of this organization and to their cooperation we must look largely for its future usefulness.

The territory embraced will be those counties touched by and south of the Baltimore and Ohio Railway. Tentative plans for eligibility to membership include faculty members and senior college students of the S. I.
N. U., County and City Superintendents, and high school principals and teachers. The usual membership fee will be $1.00 which will entitle the member to attend the meetings and to receive the printed procedings and other publications issued by the organization.

In another column of this issue of the Egyptian will be found a subscription blank which may be used in making remittance to the Secretary, Mr. Howard Wales, Carbondale, Illinois.

The Alumni Bulletin

This department is growing in interest as attested by the number of letters we are receiving from old friends. Interest is shown too, in a very substantial way by the subscriptions which are pouring in. Let us hear from you. We want to put in touch every former student, and we want to keep you in touch with the school.

We have a good letter from Earl Y Smith, former editor of the Egyptian. Earl is teaching agriculture in the Goreville, Ill., high school and making a great success of it. After receiving his degree from the S. I. N. U. he spent a year at the University of Illinois. Earl assures us he will be with us at Home-coming but he is in error as to the date. The date of Homecoming is Nov. 7 and 8.

A letter from John R. Keith encloses remittance for the Egyptian. John is studying in the Conservatory at Cincinnati.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Creager were week-end visitors in Carbondale. Mr. Creager is principal of schools at Pattered, Illinois.

Miss Frieda Wise has recently accepted a position in the high school at Mill Shoals to teach Latin. Frieda had entered school here with the expectation of going on with her advanced work.

Paul Chance, basketball star of '21 and '22, was a week-end visitor here. Paul is coach again this year in Carbondale.

John. Brim, another star of '23, was also here to see our football victory Friday. John is teaching at Carrollton, Ill.

Franklin Rich stepped into the Egyptian office on last Saturday and paid his subscription to the Egyptian. Mr. Rich is principal of the grades at Staunton, Illinois.

Kirby Lawlis is principal and athletic coach at Morehshoe, Mo. He has a strong football team and a good chance of winning the league cup. His letter asks us to give his regards to all "the gang."

Clarence R. Fogley of Marion, sends us his subscription and says: "My interests are always with the old school."

Russell Gregg writing from Fairfield where he is teaching in the city schools says: "The Egyptian causes me to feel that I still belong.

We peace makers whose palms are already itching for the much coveted championship would not relish, it is this persistent characteristic in the Anna lads which won them not only this game but the Benton struggle. With this same spirit dominating them they now lead the little ten and are looking forward to more victories. However, their real test of strength will come Oct. 15 when they meet Herrin at Anna. The Herrin Yellow Jackets have one of the heaviest forward walls in the conference and along with Harrisburg and Anna they look like the real contenders for Egyptian supremacy.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES
The Y. M. C. A. is one of the organizations on the campus whose interest would be far reaching if we only had many young men who would get into it and work. We are planning to have a number of socials and features throughout the year, and we want as many young men as will to join this organization. We wish to give you a special invitation to our meeting Tuesday evening. The purpose and functions of the Y. M. C. A. will be fully explained. Show your sympathy with the Y. M. C. A. by giving us your presence Tuesday evening.

important feature of the program the custom of the church to serve such dinner to its members and friends annually in October as a sort of fall heightened materially in importance because of the Buck-Carroll-Wise

At 2 p.m. an informal meeting was held in the church, where Miss back in its early history and of the stirring times of the Civil War.

The evening service was somewhat unique in that the pastor's father, the Rev. T. O. McKinney, preached the sermon. Thus closed a memory

FORUM HOLDS ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING
The Forum one of the many debating organizations of the Normal, held it's weekly meetings on Monday even ings in the Zetetic Hall.
Much enthusiasm was aroused by the debate on the question. "Resolved: That the elective system in American colleges should be confined to the junior and senior years," Mr.
Albert Carr and Mr. Jesse Dow supported the affirmative, while Mr.
Howard Walker and Mr. Leroy Wiley upheld the negative. A very spirited interchange of arguments took place during which many interesting phases of the question were developed, great ly to the enjoyment of the audience.
Mr. Clyde McSweeney presided, assis ted by Mr. Troy Stearns, who is secre tary-treasurer of the Forum. The fol lowing students acted as judges: Mar line Owen, Clyde Wickler, and Ray Tawney. They voted in favor of the affirmative side.
At the conclusion of the program, a business meeting was held. A large number of new members were voted in, which brings the membership of the Forum up to a large quota. Other candidates names were read, and they will be voted on at the next meeting.
Brief, but forceful speeches were made by Mr. Carr, Mr. Walker, and Mr. Wiley in which a threat posed the advantages of the experience to be de voted from participating in forensic and it was agreed that any male Nor mal student, above high school class ification, who desired any information regarding the functions of the Forum could receive same by applying to any of the officers, or members of the organization. The membership is limited, but there are still some vaca cancies.
Mr. Howard Walker, editor of the Egyptian, addressed the Forum mem bers, telling them something of the work of looking after the numerous departments of a college paper. Up on inquiry it was discovered that the Forum supported the Egyptian one hundred per cent. The Forum is proud of this showing and challenges other organizations to reveal their standing.
THE next meeting of the Forum will be held Monday evening, Oct. 19.

Students are urged to patronize
