Committee Proposes Reduction In General Studies Requirements

69-Hour Program Suggested
To Better Meet Student Needs

General Studies requirements may be reduced from the present 96 hours to 69 hours beginning next summer, according to a memo issued by the General Studies Committee.

The memo lists numerous proposed changes in the program so it will better meet students' requirements.

“We would be pretty egotistical if we claimed the original program was completely correct,” explained Amon Black, executive assistant in the General Studies program.

“We did not want to rush into anything, so we gave the program three years before making any changes.”

“We decided that the original program was too long, so we are proposing cutting the number of required hours so that the program will better serve the student,” he said.

If adopted, will be carefully studied, and if shortcomings are found they will be eliminated in the future.

Waivers in first-level courses would be eliminated if the proposal is adopted, but students would be allowed to substitute courses in their major field in some cases.

This change, according to Black, is mainly a way of guaranteeing a student takes courses in the field in which he received the waiver.

At the same time, a waiver would be converted in the third-level General Studies program and students would waive up to six hours of courses in the area closest to his major interest.

To assure that each student has some choice in his first-year courses, it is hoped, Black said, that mathematics would become a possible sequence within Area A and foreign languages within Area C.

Another requirement that would be dropped from the program is physical education. Whether a student will have to take it would then depend on the requirements of his college or department.

More freedom on how the departments meet General Studies requirements has also been proposed. For example, the present requirement that students have three three-hour courses in a given area would be charged so they would have to take an eight-hour total.

Departments could also change their programs in either a 3-3 or a 4-4 hour sequence. This would mean that many of the Area A and B programs could revert to the pre-General Studies sequences, Black said. For example, chemistry courses in Area A could again be taught with regular laboratory periods.

In areas where courses have always been predominantly in three-hour units, no rapid changeover to the four- and five-hour courses in a given area would be charged so they would have to take an eight-hour total.

The objectives of the General Studies program will remain the same, Black wrote:

“it will still guarantee a certain amount of breadth in any student’s program, but will allow students to take more advanced courses in their chosen areas,” he said.

Off-Campus Life

Section Featured

A special 12-page "Guide to Off-Campus Living" was published today as the second section of the Daily Egyptian. The section is primarily designed for students who are living away from home for the first time and who have had no opportunity to get used to campus life.

The project was done last year by 12-page "Guide to Off-Campus Living", which was published in the fall of 1959.

Rules on Cars Also Apply To Motorbikes on Campus

Curb Cycling

One motorcycle, one day old, plus one speeding violation equals so motor vehicle privileges and no more motorcycle.

He might have been the first but won't be the last.

A spokesman for the Student General Affairs office said, "It appears to me that the way in which motorized vehicles operate the future will determine the restrictions forthcoming.

According to the student General Affairs office there are several areas which will be watched with particular interest by the police, both campus and city.

Motorcycles are not allowed to pass on the right, even while hauled for a stop sign.

Cyclists are not permitted to operate on sidewalks.

Parking spaces are provided on campus for motorcycles, parking elsewhere will be considered a parking violation, and will be subject to fine.

Motorcycles are not permitted on the corson Avenue pedestrian crosswalk. In and particular, motorcycles are subject to the same speed restrictions as automobiles.

Students are also reminded to register their cycles. The registration is to assure identification and to aid the student if his cycle is stolen.

The price of registration is one dollar.

Many Campus Office Sites Already Moved; Other Shifts Planned for Later This Year

Even returning students may be at a loss to locate various University offices this fall, because of numerous changes in office locations since summer term. The following space reassignments have been announced by Rino Bianchi, administrative assistant to the vice president for business affairs.

Moves already completed include:

- Latin American Institute, from a house behind the present Health Service to another residence at 202 E. Pearl St. The old house will be removed for new construction at University Park.
- Faculty Club, from Harwood Avenue to 1000 S. Elizabeth St. The old building will be displaced by the Harwood Avenue widening project.
- Registrar's Office from barracks at the end of Harwood Avenue to the former Data Processing and Computing Center north of it. The offices of Thomas Purcell, data processing manager, and programmers, were moved to the Wham Education Building.
- Moved last week were:
  - Illinois Outdoor Education Association, from 800 S. Illinois Ave. to 606 Marion St.
  - Department of Food and Nutrition to rooms 128, 130, and 119 in the Home Economics Building.

Offices in the process of being moved include:

- Purchasing, into the space formerly occupied by the Registrar's Office.
- Treasurer's Office, Robert L. Gally's office, from barracks to barracks at the end of Harwood Avenue.
- Students who were placed in St. Gallen's office, from barracks T-40 into Gally's old space.

General Studies, Arts and Sciences, from two technology buildings north of University Center to ram-padded space in the University Center space in the University Center's second floor.

In November, the Student Work Office will be moved into one of the vacated buildings (T-55) and the other will be linked with the Harwood project.

In later October, Health Service and Pharmacy will be moved to the Small Group Housing area. If possible, the old Health Service building will be moved into space. The Pharmacy building will be removed.

In winter term, Education Advisement will be relocated in Room 110, Wham Building. Advisement centers for other major academic divisions will be at present administrative headquarters.

Other early fall moves will be linked with the Harwood project and the widening of Mill Street.

1965 Obelskis Can Still Be Picked Up

Copies of last year's Obel­lisk are available for those students who paid for them last year, but did not pick up their copy in the spring or summer. Students who were placed on the waiting list may also obtain a yearbook at this time. The yearbooks can be picked up at the Obelisk office, located on the northwest corner of the Agriculture Building.

Can A Good Year Save Football?

Coach Don Shroyer's 1965 football team may face an uncertain future with a possible expansion of the university faculty and staff. The team's success this year could depend on the appeal for student government to the students.

Having turned the wheels in the direction of the student, the party spoke; the party turned the wheels in the direction of the student government. The party was not only successful in this goal, but with one stipulation. That stipulation is that the party spoke in tones that recognize the authority necessarily and properly placed in the hands of faculty and staff.

One of the loudest cries heard last year was that which criticized the actions made by the administration of this university. The party, its delegate, or the powers of student government, and all students and affiliates of this university are under the supervision of administrators. They are there because they possess certain essential qualities, and they should be respected for those qualities.

For students to randomly denounce the actions and opinions of these administrators ignores the authority necessarily and properly placed over the student body. This disregard of the opinions and actions of the members of the administration of this university has been in effect idly and formally during this appeal for student rights. One should recognize the fact that rights are recognized and privileges gained only through permission of an authoritative body.

The party is also aware of the importance of the student in the battle for football survival. This year's equal is young and should improve with experience. In the meantime, the Salukis will probably more so, because they are a puritanical people.

Let's Update Our Foreign Policy Thinking:

Communism No Longer 'World Conspiracy'

By Robert Hutchinson

Returning from a visit to Moscow and Leningrad, I have one or two impressions:

One is that the 'great Communist world conspiracy,' which all Americans seem to believe, may have existed once. It is true that there is a puritanical people.

One is that the Soviet Union has got to have peace. After almost 50 years it is still a developing country, one that needs to put all its resources into supplying the elementary requirements of its people.

Soviet prices are high. Even accounting for free medical care and insignificant rents, wages are low. Moscow is full of soldiers who could be converted to peaceful employment.

One Soviet official de- announced a campaign to improve Saluki spirit, but failed to perform in front of the student spirited. The officials made several controversial calls.

But the Soviet Union has got to have peace. After almost 50 years it is still a developing country, one that needs to put all its resources into supplying the elementary requirements of its people.

Soviet prices are high. Even accounting for free medical care and insignificant rents, wages are low. Moscow is full of soldiers who could be converted to peaceful employment.

"Fellow Americans, it is with a heavy heart that I tonight in question to Mr. Johnson on Vietnam. Their 8-page white paper makes four concise points:

(1) The Soviet Union has got to have peace. After almost 50 years it is still a developing country, one that needs to put all its resources into supplying the elementary requirements of its people.

Commission Studies Problems
Underlying Student Unrest

Colleges and universities throughout the U. S. have been beset with problems of student unrest in the last few years and are presently trying to alleviate the problems causing the trouble.

In conjunction with growing interest in the students’ role on the SIU campuses, a commission to study the role of the University in society and the role and participation of students in University affairs was organized in late July.

The commission is headed by E. Claude Coleman, professor of English on the Carbondale campus. Other faculty members on the commission are William Herr and Irving W. Adams, assistant professor of studies, both from Carbondale, and George R. Macie, assistant professor of social studies, Robert W. Handy, director of Auxiliary Enterprises and J. Edmond White, associate professor of science and technology, all from Edwardsville.

Student membership on the commission includes John C. Henry, John H. Huck and John Paul Davis, all from Carbondale, and Roger Y. Zimmermann, Kathleen Sheenan and Nancy M. Jones, all from Edwardsville.

Terms of two-thirds of the present 24-member Carbondale campus Student Council will expire this quarter, leaving 16 student senators open for the proposed Oct. 13 election.

Karl M. Schiller, senior from Chicago majoring in industrial technology representing technology; Jean A. Cashen, of Arlington Heights, representing Vocational Technical Institute and Keith W. Poddall, of Kankakee, representing fine arts.

Senatorial seats now vacant and to be filled in the election include Woody Hall senator, married family housing senator, off-campus organized women's senator, Southern Acres senator and foreign student senator.

He is not related to Herbert Marshall, the prominent English actor.

He has served as national art editor of the American Guide Series and is the author of several books and numerous articles.

ROTC Placed On Voluntary Plan This Fall
The masses of blue that have flooded the campus every Tuesday morning since 1951 will dwindle to a mere stream this year, with the advent of a voluntary ROTC program. It was instituted following a student and faculty opinion poll last year in which 2,505 students voted for voluntary ROTC and 363 voted for the compulsory system.
Prior to this year, all freshmen and sophomores had to attend air science classes and a drill session every week. Under the voluntary system, a student has a choice whether to join ROTC.
SIU has two ROTC programs on the Carbondale campus; one in two years long and the other, four years.
In the two-year program the student voluntarily joins at the end of his sophomore year. He will then attend a six-week summer camp before his junior year.
Students in the four-year program will also attend a summer camp between their junior and senior years, but it will only be four weeks in length.
The four-year program is continuing because there are nine scholarships offered for students in the longer term of ROTC.
Registration for the voluntary ROTC programs will be held today from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Wheeler Hall.

Registrar’s Office Furnishes Information To Draft Boards
The effect of college enrollment on a male student’s draft status has been explained by Robert A. McGrath, registrar. He also described the role played by the University in relation to that status.
Basically, university registrants perform a reporting function by informing local Selective Service boards about male students registered as full-time students and then notifying them when the student’s status changes by withdrawal from school, a change from full to part-time, or by graduation. He said.
Full-time status for Selective Service purposes is considered as 15 quarter hours undergraduate and eight quarter hours graduate student. The graduate student has a teaching assignment.
The most recent information from Illinois Selective Service headquarters indicates that local boards will be strict in granting student and other deferments, McGrath said.
Registrants who are deferred as students will be expected to pursue satisfactorily a full-time course of instruction, and progress on schedule or in other words, to complete degree requirements in the normal length of time. Full-time status is determined by the institution, but students should know that local boards expect them to progress on schedule, the registrar warned.
For Selective Service purposes, local boards normally expect students to complete bachelor’s degree requirements within not more than four years, master’s degree requirements within not more than five years, and doctoral degree requirements within not more than five years.
Schools are requested to furnish information to local boards on all full-time male students by Oct. 31. Once reported, it should not be necessary to report again until the following October unless there is a change in status. Also, all new full-time students who enter school during the winter or spring quarters are reported. Part-time students may be reported but need to be identified as such.
Although Selective Service does not state what constitutes satisfactory pursuit of studies, the registrar expressed the opinion that local boards will increasingly request a quality indication from his office for registrants approaching draft status.

3 Pieces Added To Art Collection
SIU’s Architectural Arts program will receive three more pieces of art by authori- zation of the Board of Trustees at its Monday meeting. Raymond Duchamp-Villon’s “Recapitulating Head,” “Maggy,” valued at $10,000, is one of the new purchases. The 25-inch head is of black bronze and is the last of eight casts done in 1912. The art piece is being purchased from Louise Carré, Paris, France. A copper and silver welded metal sculpture by Claire Falkenroth, and an untitled crayon and pencil drawing are also being acquired.
No decision as to where the art pieces will be located has been made yet, although possi- ble sites have been con- sidered.
Art consultant for the SIU Architectural Arts program is Mrs. Katharine Kuh of New York City.

Tickets For Athletic Events

Season tickets for athletic events will be on sale today and this evening on the Arena concourse. According to Mrs. Neoma M. Kinney, supervisor of athletic ticket sales, the tickets will be on sale in the ticket office of the Arena, she said.

After today the tickets will be on sale in the ticket office of the Arena, she said. Season tickets, which are priced at $6 for fall and winter term only, will allow admission to the athletic events unless purchased by the ticket and a student activity card.

If a student does not wish to purchase an athletic event card, he may purchase a 75-cent ticket for the event by presenting both his activity card and identification card at the Arena ticket office. Mrs. Kinney said the ticket office will be open on Friday from 1 to 4:30 p.m. and on Saturday from 8:30 a.m. to noon prior to the six home games.

She stressed that these are the only times that the tickets will be sold for the student rates and that they are available only at the Arena ticket office.

Salukis Take on U. of Louisville In First Road Game Saturday

Although Louisville's conference opponents aren't the best on the books, it can be expected to be a tough opponent. Coach Camp has been at Louisville for 19 years and has produced such professional players as Johnny Unitas, Lenzie Lyles, Ernie Green, Lee Calland and Ken Kortas.

Last year's game was won by the Salukis 7-6, and this year's encounter could be just as close.

The leading pass receivers of a former Cardinal great, Johnny Unitas. The big man in the backfield are Ron Hall and Al MacFarlane, the team's leading ground gainers in 1964. Hall, a 6-1, 220-pound halfback, led the team in rushing last year with 301 yards in 66 carries. He packs a lot of power, and was dropped for loss only twice last year. MacFarlane is a 190-pound halfback who also is a fine passer receiver and punter. He hauled in 31 passes for 440 yards and two touchdowns last year. The Cardinals have another promising halfback in John Kolter, a 6-2, 205-pound sophomore.

In the line, Louisville has plenty of beef, but little experience. Anchoring the line center is Walt Jones, a 205-pound junior. At the guards are Dick Pinski and Bill Lette, a pair of 215-pound juniors. The two tackle positions will probably be manned by four lettermen, including 264-pound Charlie Johnson. Other lettermen include 235-pound Bill Fantas, 240-pound Jim Bridley and 245-pound Tom Holzer, Johnson's effectiveness was questionable, however, because of a past tendency to tire late in the game. But his coach is hopeful this year because the huge tackle trimmed down from his last year's playing weight, which was usually near 300 pounds.

The leading pass receivers of 1964 are back, giving Louisville experience at the ends. Split end Clarence Spencer is a big man at 6-4 and 200 pounds, but he could be a question mark in the offense. He suffered a broken neck in the sixth game of the season last year. The tight end probably be Mickey Seville, 185-pound junior who caught 20 passes for 200 yards last year.

Gymnastics Team to Perform At Thompson Point Thursday

World tumbling and trampoline champion Frank Schmitz and teammates Dale Hart, Brent Williams and Steve Whitlock are scheduled to perform in an exhibition Thursday at Thompson Point.

The performance will be at 8:30 p.m. on the athletic courts between Lentz and Bailey halls.

Coach Bill Meade and Rusty Mitchell, associate gymnastics coach, will also attend. Other members of SIU gymnastics team, which tied for third place in last year's NCAA finals, may also perform.

Schmitz, who also holds the NCAA titles in free exercise and trampoline, returned from Germany where he was high scorer on the trampoline in the F arnh Ack-Schuster Cup championship competition.

Flag Football Opens Intramural Program

Over 6,500 students took part in the program last year, and 8,500 are expected to participate this year.

SIU President Del C. Morris said, "The intramural sports program is for you. It will be as good as you help make it, while helping yourself to good health." The Intramural Department furnishes all necessary equipment, facilities and officials. Competition is on an individual, dual and team basis.

All regularly-enrolled male students of the University, undergraduate or graduate, are eligible to enter any intramural activity.

Freshman Coach Hiring Approved

He is James Allen Smelser, who was an assistant coach. In addition to coaching the freshman team, he will also instruct classes in physical education.

Smelser received his B.A. from Oklahoma State University and his master's degree in education from SIU.

Four leagues, determined by living area, will be used this year. That last year, there were only three.

Students play in the league in which they live, with these exceptions:

Fraternity men who do not live in a house may play in the Fraternity League if they live in an independent living in a fraternity house may only play in the Residence League.

The Independent League, created this year, includes students who live off campus in private homes or in dorms having a capacity of fewer than 30 students.

Round-robin tournaments will determine league winners. The all-school champion in each sport will be awarded a trophy.

An intramural handbook, listing in detail rules and regulations of the various activities, is available at the Intramural Department, Room 128 of the Arena.

Glenn (Abe) Martin, head of intramural athletics, said, "It is in the aim of the Intramural Department to provide every student in the University the opportunity to participate in athletics or some recreational activity of his choice."

Martin also added that officials are needed for flag football. Interested persons should contact the Intramural Office. A fee of $2 is paid for each game officiated.

Breakfast Puts 'Zip' in Your Day

After a night of fasting, breakfast is very important to the body's well-being. It helps face a half day of work or school with zip and prevents fatigue.

Here are some different breakfast suggestions that will make it worth your while to get out of bed.

Have hamburgers or small breakfast steaks occasionally as your protein food. In the wintertime try pancakes wrapped around sausages, or waffles covered with creamed chipped beef or chicken.

Simple Breakfast Aid

- BACON AND EGG
  - 2 cups sliced onions
  - 1/4 cup butter or margarine
  - 1 cup shredded processed Canadian cheese mixed the night before

Swiss cheese
- 1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/2 lb. bacon, cooked, drained and crumbled
- 1/2-inch slices French bread, toasted

Cook onions in butter or margarine until tender. Place onions in shallow 1 1/2-quart baking dish. Combine cheese, mushroom soup and milk in saucepan. Place over low heat and stir constantly until cheese melts. Place sliced eggs in a layer on top of onions (reserve center slices for garnish). Pour cheese-soup mixture over all. Sprinkle with crumbled bacon and garnish with egg slices. Bake in a 350-degree oven for 20 minutes.

To serve, spoon over toasted French bread. Makes four to six servings.

Time Put to Good Use

A PANCY BREAKFAST BRIGHTENS THE DAY

Simple Breakfast Aid For Calorie Counters

- they stay up late at night and oversleep.
- they don't want to waste time dressing.
- they want to lose weight and think skipping breakfast is the way to do it.

Do you fit into any of these categories?

Skipping breakfast is more common among men-age girls than boys. In an Illinois study, more than five times as many girls as boys are no-breakfast girls. Many girls skip breakfast for weight reasons. But to start a day at top physical and mental efficiency, students need nourishment. Students who are hungry will nibble snacks that are high in calories but low in nutrients, and wind up the day with more calories than the breakfast eaters.

When planning breakfasts, keep them simple but nutritious. Include fruit or fruit juice, cereal and/or toast, and beverage plus a snack when time allows. Vary your methods of preparation and use the convenience foods whenever possible.

Below are suggested breakfast menus for one full week. They are designed to meet the student's nutritional needs, his budget and his available preparation time.

It is best to vary your source of vitamin C during the week. However, most students prefer to purchase only one can of fruit juice per week rather than several kinds. If the fruit juice must be prepared, it can be mixed the night before, to save time in the morning. You might also wish to set out the cereal and dishes before going to bed.

Biscuits can be purchased at very reasonable prices in refrigerated packages. You could put them in the oven to

Students who have to plan their own meals too often ignore the importance of a good diet. If one is to func tion well in the highly competitive atmosphere of the campus, good health is a necessity. In order to insure the good health that goes with a good diet, wise management of food money is necessary. Since different foods perform different jobs, variety is important. Still, meals need not be expensive if one knows how to get the most from the food dollar. Here are five easy-to-follow steps to help meet food needs on a limited budget:

Step 1: Study the following menus for planning of good, easy-to-prepare meals. All of the normally required basic foods are included:

Breakfast: Citrus fruit or juice, cereal or egg. Toast = butter or margarine, milk.

Lunch: Main dish (meat, poultry, fish, cheese or alternate), vegetable (raw or cooked), bread = butter or margarine, fruit or simple dessert, milk.

Dinner: Main dish (meat, poultry, fish, cheese or alternate), vegetable (green or yam), potato or other vegetable, bread = butter or margarine, dessert, milk.

Step 2—Follow this food guide. As you plan meals, check them to see that the recommended amounts of foods in the following four groups are included:

1. Four or more cups of milk. This can be obtained from the following:
   - 1 inch cube cheese - 2 /3 Cup milk
   - 1 /2 Cup Cottage Cheese - 2 /3 Cup milk
   - 1 /2 Cup Ice Cream - 1 /4 Cup milk.

2. Everyone needs two or more servings of meat per day. Cheese, dried peas, beans and nuts count in this group.

3. Four or more servings of fruits and vegetables every day.

4. Four or more servings of breads and cereals every day.

Step 3—Take time to plan meals ahead. In planning meals consider today, tomor row... and the day after.

5. Take advantage of more time-consuming meals for days when you have the most time to devote to them, and the quicker, easier meals on your busiest days.

2. You make fewer trips to the grocery store by buying for several days at a time.

3. You get the most from your food dollar by getting the best use of low-cost plentiful foods and avoiding the "cut-rate" convenience foods, which are often more expensive.

4. You can stretch the budget by planning for leftovers.

5. You can check to be sure that you are eating appetizing meals that provide all of the important foods you need.

Step 4—Make a grocery list. Taking time to make a grocery list before shopping saves both time and money.

1. Time is saved because you avoid aimless wandering through stores. Also, items are less likely to be forgotten.

2. You save money because you are less likely to buy unneeded luxury foods. You also know how much food you need and avoid buying more than you can use or store properly.

Step 5—Shop and spend wisely. Remember these points when shopping:

1. Buy in quantities that makes... more servings of meat, cheese, dried peas, beans, milk.

2. Read and compare labels. Information on package labels often includes the amount in the container, the processing method, grade and suggested recipes or uses. Buy the less expensive grade when it is satisfactory for your purpose.

3. Take advantage of bargains. But remember that "cut-rate" prices suggest bargains if the quality is so poor that there will be great waste.

4. Compare prices for different forms of food. Sometimes the fresh "in-season" foods are less expensive than canned. Or there may be a "special" on frozen foods which might be more economical than other forms.

Now is the Time for All Hungry

One of the fundamental goals in cooking is to know the nature of the cut to be cooked and the proper method for cooking it. Meat cooking methods are divided into dry- and moist-heat methods, each with different combinations of heat and moisture. Dry-heat methods include roasting, broiling, grilling, and sautéing, while moist-heat methods include braising, pot-roasting, and steaming. Combining these methods creates a combination cooking technique.

Then you can divide the creamed cream / mushroom soup slightly diluted with a third of the cascara, and cover the pork chops and the potatoes, and run out of the cascara dish in a 300-degree oven, uncovered.

Five Factors Figure in Finding Off-Campus Housing

The Five: Location, Rent, Furnishings, Landlord, Roommate

The search is on. Finding an apartment, trailer or suitable off-campus housing is a major task in the lives of many students. To make this search a little less tedious, there are a few things to keep in mind when apartment or house hunting. These include finding desirable 1) locations, 2) rent, 3) furnishings, 4) landlords and 5) roommates.

A desirable location is one located near campus, food stores and laundry facilities. Being near campus, it is easier to go home for meals or breaks, rather than buying meals out. A desirable rent is one that fits your budget. Rent as well as utility bills must be considered. Having roommates helps reduce rental costs, but cramped quarters with no privacy do not make for pleasant living conditions. A month's average utility bills are as follows:

<tr>
<th>Type of Utility</th>
<th>Winter</th>
<th>Summer</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Gas and electricity</td>
<td>$30-$35</td>
<td>$15-$20</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Water</td>
<td>$4-$10</td>
<td>$30-$35</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Phone local service</td>
<td>$4-$10</td>
<td>$4-$10</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

The type of dwelling may make a difference in the utility bills. An apartment insulated by adjoining apartments is not exposed to cold temperatures, whereas house or trailer allows all four sides to be exposed and heating costs may be higher.

A desirable roommate is responsible and one who does not shirk housekeeping chores. Roommates should respect each other's needs whether they are cleanliness, privacy or quiet. Talk over grievances with your roommate when petty arguments arise.

Finding a place to live is only the first step in settling comfortably into a new situation. Paying bills, maintaining good relations with landlords, neighbors and roommates, learning to cook, shop, keep house, budget resources and study—these are all part of the responsibilities that accompany living away from home and, especially, off-campus.

Furnishing Home Away From Home Can Pose Challenge to Students

Living off-campus nine months of the year is more than just a temporary arrangement. With a little expense and trouble, students can make their off-campus home away from home a personal dwelling place that they are proud of.

First, look around at the furniture and fixtures that are available and consider the potential of each item. Since the furniture is probably all movable, arrange it in the manner which will give the utmost convenience and comfort.

Consider where most of the studying will be done because this will take up the most time. Try to arrange the desk, if you have one, in an isolated corner to insure the most privacy and quiet. Consider the available lighting. If this is not satisfactory a desk lamp is an inexpensive must. It is best to have a convenient bookshelf near the desk for textbooks and a dictionary. An easy way to make a simple yet decorative bookcase is to use small narrow boards as the shelves and clean or paint the bricks as the end supports. The shelves can be adjusted by stacking the bricks to different heights. The shelves should be sanded lightly so they are easier to keep clean. They also can be painted or varnished.

If you are sharing a double room and would like a more private divided room, a bigger set of these shelves could serve as a room divider. These shelves could hold not only books but other odds and ends.

Another way to decorate the room is to coordinate the appearance and colors of the walls, matching bedspreads in a double room, also add to the unity of the decor. Inexpensive but substantial spreads can be purchased at a number of stores in Carbondale. Throw rugs and scatter pillows are also available.

Couches and chairs which have the worn-out look can be covered with inexpensive spreads instead of the more expensive slipcovers. Marred tables could be covered with small pieces of end materials hemmed to make colorful doilies.

For cleaning ease in the kitchen, plastic table mats and plastic tablecloths help. To add to the decor of the bedroom or other rooms in the house it is worth looking into the paintings available for check-out at the library. On the second floor, in the humanities section, a wide variety of framed paintings can be checked out for a period of 12 weeks.

One problem most students encounter is that of keeping things organized and finding room for everything. If closet space is limited, extra room can be made for clothes by purchasing rack hangers suspended from doors.

For the closet, multiple skirt or pant hangers are available. Suitcases are handy storage boxes for out-of-season clothes.

Plastic bags from the dry cleaners should be saved and used as covers for coats and suits.

The main thing to remember when organizing and decorating a new home is to use imagination and to stay within a limited budget. All the things mentioned in this article are available at low prices in discount and variety stores. Make your choices wisely and you will probably be pleased with the outcome.

Have Lumps in Your Gravy? Try These Tips on Cooking

First roommates, first apartment and first time to cook. Sounds exciting but it could be discouraging. Burnt food, lumpy gravy and sticky cookies frequently happen but can be remedied.

Here are a few hints:

If you burn food, quickly dump the part that isn’t stuck into another pan and add enough water to complete the cooking, DON’T put fresh water into a pan where there is scorched, it will merely ruin the flavor of the unscorched bits.

When the fudge won’t fudge, you probably haven’t cooked long enough, re:ill, ba:ld. If you put in too much salt, you probably haven’t cooked long enough. With gravy you can also increase the consistency called for in the recipe.

First roommates, first or two of it. When the milk is on the verge of turning sour, you can sweeten it by adding a bit of baking soda.

If pudding is thin and won’t set, use it as a sauce.

If you put in too much sugar, it is sometimes possible to offset it by adding a small quantity of sugar or vinegar. In soup or gravy, try a cut-up raw potato, which may absorb the excess salt. With gravy you can also increase the consistency, thus diluting saltiness.

If cookies stick to the cool sheet and are difficult to remove, quickly run the sheet over a hot burner or return to the oven for a moment.

Non-Credit Course

Learning How to Wash Clothes Can Cut Time Spent on Chore

Although laundry is a non-credit course in nearly everyone’s curriculum, it is nonetheless time-consuming and requires special thought and consideration. This article is planned to give students a few helpful laundering hints that will save needless time, energy and money.

Keep all the tags from your ready-made garments as a laundry reference. If you sew most of your clothes, be sure to notice the fiber content and washing instructions when you purchase yard goods. The labels should clearly state the fiber content of the fabric and whether it is washable or dry cleanable.

Hand-washable items are fragile and should be washed with care, not thrown into the machine with heavy-duty fabrics. Do any necessary mending before washing. This will save you time in the long run.

Stains are one of the biggest problems in laundry. They hard to remove because they penetrate the fibers of the cloth more deeply than ordinary soil. However, the majority of stains, if treated promptly, may be removed. If they are neglected too long or treated improperly, it may be difficult or impossible to remove the stain without damage to the fabric.

Basically, there are two types of stains, those that require treatment before washing and those that should be washed and then treated. Some common stains need treatment before washing are oil, lipstick, butter and ballpoint ink. One link for stains such as grape, strawbery and raspberry should be washed and then treated.

Fruit and vegetable stains of red and purple color and coffee stains are removed by pouring hot water through the fabric. All other stains, including grease, oil, carbon paper, cosmetics, shoe polish and scorch should be treated with cool soapy water and gentle rubbing.

If hot water is used before the stain is removed, the color often becomes set and will require bleeding to remove it.

Special stains such as fingernail polish, paint and varnish require special treatments. Nail polish may be removed with acetone (nail polish remover) except on acetate or Arnel fabrics. Paint and varnish stains may require the use of turpentine. Never mix colored and white clothes in the same load. You may save 20 cents now, but it will cost you more later. Before washing any colored garment check its tag for color-fastness or give it a quick color-fast test. Soak a small inconspicuous portion of the garment in lukewarm water and blot it on a towel. If the color comes off on the towel or bleeds (runs) with another color in the fabric, you know that this item must be washed separately and dried quickly.

One layer of the garment must not touch another garment while it is drying. Madras plaid has taken advantage of this bleeding quality but that ‘smear look’ is not pretty on everything. Also, the old tale that soaking a fabric in salt water will set colors is not true.

Laundry doesn’t have to be a chore. It can be made simple by following common sense and a few basic principles.
Mobile Home Offers Student Comfortable Off-Campus Life

For Rent: New three-bedroom trailer with full bath, kitchen and modern living room; $120 a month plus utilities. Close to campus.

If you are tempted to answer "lulu ad," then you should know a few facts about trailer living.

There are many advantages to trailer living, but at times the disadvantages seem to outweigh them. The following facts will help you make a rational decision as to whether trailer living is for you.

A student's "plus utilities" may mean that the utilities cost more than the rent. The electric bill is usually the largest one in a trailer. Even though you turn the lights off and are away most of the day, the electric hot-water heater and the electric refrigerator are at work, and in the winter, the furnace is busy.

Also, some trailers are not well insulated and it is not uncommon to have to fill up a 50-gallon oil tank every two weeks in the winter.

Storage space is another drawback to trailer living. Do not bring anything you do not need or don't have room for in a trailer. There is only so much room in the closets and cupboards and unused articles usually clutter up the place and merely collect dust. In such confined quarters, extra consideration must be given not only to your belongings but to your roommates also.

Pets, such as parakeets and kittens, have no place in a trailer. In such limited space, tiny pets seem larger.

Meal-preparing is fun in a trailer. Most trailer kitchens are fairly large and have sufficient space for equipment. Time-saving cooking and cleaning chores make this type of living arrangement more comfortable.

Entertaining in a trailer can be pleasant provided the number of guests is limited. An informal get-together is more fun than trying to squeeze 25 into every corner.

The main advantage of trailer living is the wide utilization of space. Everything has a place and most trailers are furnished so you do not have to worry about sleeping, eating or studying areas.
