Registration brings hopeful predictions of 18,000 enrollment

By Marcia Ballard
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Two busy days of registration bolstered hopes Tuesday that fall enrollment at SIU will reach at least 18,000.

By the time final figures are completed in 14 days, Institutional Research Director Loren Jang said as many as 18,500 students may be enrolled. Fall enrollment last year was 20,349, dropping to 18,303 last spring.

At least 18,000 students enrolled this fall, campus treasurer Danilo Grescanic said, finances will work out well. He predicted an 18,000 enrollment figure when he submitted last year’s budget, counting on that much money from tuition and fees.

Part of the annual budget appropriation is a stable state allocation. The other part is called an “income fund” determined by the number of students enrolled. Grescanic would not say how many students will be estimated will enroll next year.

Despite the lower enrollment predictions, University housing is filling up fast. By Tuesday, only 175 vacancies remain in off-campus housing for women. Very few off-campus female students are available and all male rooms are filled. Janice Tetzlaff, senior in Interior, Design, have already begun their studying—for prices, that is. Prices cause objections

Students voice anger over high cost of texts

Only one student out of about 30 interviewed Tuesday in the Student Center bookstore did object to the fact that students are required to purchase their textbooks.

A textbook sales and buy-back program is replacing the current rental system except for general studies courses (see story on page 36 of today’s edition).

John Mills, senior, a student working in the bookstore was the only student that saw the good side of purchasing textbooks.

"The time for buying books has finally come. Loy Allen, junior in English, left, and Janice Tetzlaff, senior in Interior, Design, have already begun their studying—for prices, that is. (Photo by Dennis Makes)

‘...prices aren’t really too bad and this way I can keep the books for later.’ he said. ‘I expect people to gripe since they have to toss out money for their books.’

‘Since I’m majoring in special education, I don’t think books are any good.’ Randi Fine, junior, said. ‘I’d rather be in the classroom with my students than studying from a book.’

A student representing SIU-Carbondale will assume a seat on the Board of Trustees at the November board meeting, Joff Lehrman, SIU representative to the Association of Illinois Student Governments, said Tuesday.

Gov. Dan Walker signed into law Sept. 12 a bill requiring all state universities and junior colleges to include a non-voting student member on their governing boards. The law requires each institution to hold a referendum to determine the method by which its representative will be selected.

A proposal for the form of general student referendum has been prepared by Lehrman, Mike Castle, president of undergraduate student government and Joel Blake, associate to Curr. Lehrman said the referendum proposal will be presented to the Student Senate for its approval at its Oct. 1 meeting.

SIU-Edwardsville, also entitled to send a student representative to the board, is holding its referendum Thursday.

Student members of the board will have the same official status as other board members, Janice Brown, chief of staff, said, with two qualifications. Besides not having a vote, the students’ presence cannot be counted in determining a quorum.

Student members, however, said the students will be reimbursed for... (Continued on page 2)

The biggest Daily Egyptian ever!

With production beginning summer quarter, the DE can boast the largest edition ever. 146 pages...

The 80 special pages and 36 regular pages constitute the most newspaper ever used for a DE run, over 15,000 pounds. The most color and advertising ever used by the DE also adds to the jumbo edition.

The DE staff members can take almost full credit for the edition. Over 150 journalism students aided by just a handful of supervisors put the paper together.

Financial support sought

By Marcia Ballard

Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

President David R. Derge and Vice President for Development and Service, T. H. Pratt are attending a convention of the National Business Aviation Association's Technical Careers (STC) this week to recruit financial support for SUI.

This is the first time "such a high-powered group" of University officials have filled the national roll. According to Arden Pratt, dean of the School of Technical Careers (STC), accompanying Derge and Mager are Terrence Brown, assistant to Pratt, and three Southern Illinois Airport officials, Gene Seibert, Ron Kelly and Elliott Ketry.

In addition to seeking financial support and some new equipment for the Aviation Technology department, SIU officials hope to recruit some new students for the STC baccalaureate program in Technical Careers.

Derge will address the convention about his recent trip to China. He and Mager will also show a film made during the National Collegiate Air Show at Southern Illinois Airport last spring. Pratt said the two men stopped to pick up the film on their way to Dallas.

The three-day convention is being held at the new Dallas-Ft. Worth Airport. The team of SIU officials flew there in a DC3 donated by General Motors Corporation to STC.

"It's not unusual at all for us to seek out donations of equipment like this," Pratt said of the trip. "If it weren't for donations our aviation technology program would have started to decay years ago."

Pratt said between $55,000 and $60,000 worth of aircraft equipment is being donated to the school this year. Ranging from airpods to the "sam- ple test" equipment, it is used in the aviation technology program in the new technical and the flight training program.

Mager said Monday he did not expect the university to receive any equipment at the convention or immediately after.

"What we were talking about is something in the future," he said. "Mager, a licensed private pilot, called the trip a "legitimate developmental function" on the part of the university. He and Derge, who are currently studying for his pilot's license, are slated to return to the campus Thursday and afternoon.

Pratt said airlines and industries don't want any sales pitches when donating such surplus equipment to the school.

Chairman of the Aviation Technologies program Tony Dalbosa said Tuesday he did not go with the group because he was too busy with the "usual" quarterly business. He said there are a number of aviation personnel attending the convention who have associate degrees but who might be interested in enrolling in a baccalaureate Technical Careers program at SUI.

Text prices, new policies irk students

A sophomore, Jim Bruno, said he already bought a few books and thought they were very expensive.

Lois Allen, junior, said that since she is taking English, her expenses are more than those of most students. She said she had to buy nine books for one class.

Ms. Allen, also a worker in the bookstore, said that until classes start to buy their books.

Student Center Director Clevence Dougherty said there has been a rush yet in the bookstore to purchase books. No preparation has been made of the price of books in certain areas of study, are anticipated, he added.

Jail term delayed for about 5 years by "forgotten" state

SPRINGFIELD (AP) The state of Illinois somehow forgot to put Dennis Millet in prison and now after about five years of freedom, he can't have to go.

The Illinois Supreme Court said Tuesday that a law "less" difficult in imprisoning Millet after his good behavior and productive life "wasn't in the law." That's why the use of books in certain areas of study, are anticipated, he added.

The state did not imprison Millet until 1970. He obtained a writ of habeas corpus in Cook County granting his release and the Supreme Court upheld it Tuesday.

Chief Justice Robert Underwood praised Millet's conduct.

"This unique delay of almost five years appears to be without reason; an irrational explanation," Underwood said.

"It seems clear that the state has been less than diligent in the matter."

Woman's mutilated body found near train tracks

EVANSTON (AP) The mutilated body of an unidentified woman was found Tuesday near train tracks in Evanston.

Authorities said the victim had been stabbed more than a dozen times. Her head was severed and the body had two bullet holes.

Donald Schram, Evanston chief of detectives, said a man or a revolver appeared to have been used to shoot the victim and a small knife used to stab and slash her.

"It's the next best thing to being there," or at least that's one statement used in an advertisement about telephone service.

"The other hand, around Carbon- dale it may simply be a case of more SIU students wanting to have telephones installed where they live."

"reasonable expenses" incurred while attending meetings or other board functions.

It will be up to the board, which has primarily heard over its own procedures, to determine whether members will be allowed to attend the board's executive sessions. Brown said, Executive sessions are closed to the public and the press.

Lohman is forming a support committee to provide information and recommendations for the student board member. Four or five people will be used to help the student board member. Five or six students will have been identified as "language contact people," said Brown. Members need no experience in communications.

Students interested in joining the support committee may call Lohman at 336-2234.

"Nothing has been unusual at all for us to seek out donations of equipment like this," Pratt said of the trip. "If it weren't for donations our aviation technology program would have started to decay years ago."

Pratt said between $55,000 and $60,000 worth of aircraft equipment is being donated to the school this year. Ranging from airpods to the "sam-day and Tuesday business hours.

Richard Kimberly, a General Telephone supervisor, said there appears to be a definite increase in the number of applications for telephones this quarter as compared to Fall 1972.

"However, we will not have any of official figures until our October-October statistical reports are available late next month," Kimberly said.

During a telephone interview Tuesday, Kimberly commented about General Telephone's planned $7.1 million building project, which the company hopes to have completed by early 1978.

"The equipment will be the newest electronic switching gear available," he said.

"In terms of service needs, we setup our equipment to meet the busiest hour, on the busiest day, of the busiest season."

Suit filed against Walker for impounding SIRS funds

By David C. Miller Jr.

Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

In an effort to force the State of Illinois to pay some of the millions it owes to the State Universities Retirement Systems (SURS), a suit has been filed against Gov. Dan Walker in Chicago Circuit Court.

The action, initiated Friday by the Urbana chapter of the American Association of University Professors (AAUP), asks the court to declare certain of Walker's recent legislative vetoes null and void. The General Assembly appropriated paying about $4 million into SURS, but Walker slashed this figure to about $30 million.

The state is presently about $450 million behind on payments into SURS, which was established in 1941. The pension fund for university personnel draws its money from their salaries and matching contributions by the state.

Walker's veto reduction of SURS funds runs contrary to a 1969 statute which declared state failure to pay its share was illegal, the suit said. However, Walker has said the cut in funding came simply because of a lack of funds.

When the case comes to court, a landmark decision must be made as to whether the governor's veto, given by law, can justifiably be used to override or abdicate laws contained in Illinois Statutes.

Police hunt for fugitive in killing

By Rafe Klinger

Local law enforcement officials are continuing the search for Keith Allen McKinney, 23, up the Monday shooting of a Herrin man at the Ramada Inn, 400 W. Main, while the two were allegedly engaged in a drug deal.

Reggie Freezer, 26, of 781 N. 11th St. in Herrin, was shot in the mouth about 5 p.m. and was two argued in room 107 at the inn, police said. Freezer was flown to Farmington Hospital in St. Louis and reported in serious condition, but improving on Tuesday.

Lt. Terry Murphy of the Carbondale police said officers had "just missed" (McKinney) by an hour" while searching for him Tuesday at a trailer in the area.

Besides the Carbondale Police, the Illinois Bureau of Investigation, the Jackson County Sheriff's Police and the Murphysboro Police are searching for McKinney.

Police believe that the shooting occurred when the two met in the inn to discuss a deal involving drugs along with Beth Brown, 19, R. 5 in Murphysboro, Edward Mitchum, 45, Decatur; and Jasper Purdy, 33, Libburn, Mo.

After the shooting, a sheriff's deputy spotted the car used by Miss Brown, Mitchell, Purdy and Freezer, followed it to a house on Williams Street in Murphysboro. Police believe that McKinney was also in the car, but left before the deputy spotted it.

Jackson County Sheriff John Hoffman said officers "recovered 10 to 12 big jars of pills" in the house believed to have been used in the shooting. "Mr. Brown, Mitchell and Purdy were all arrested or charged and hired with possession of a controlled substance and were taken to the Jackson County Jail."

The next time President Nixon drops in at the Hasta, a restaurant he frequents when he's staying at the Florida White House, he'll find the prices are higher.

Many restaurants across the country have boosted prices following the end of the price freeze and the Hasta is no exception.

"During the freeze, the cost of supplies went up seven percent," said John Liepe, manager of the Miami eating place. "We lost a lot of money because the freeze and had no alternative but to hike prices."

Liepe said the price on all items - including the Florida snapper Nixon is partial to - have been increased 40 cents. As the the President, Liepe said: "He'll have to pay more just like everyone else."

Some restaurants simply put stickers over the old prices announcing the new: tab; others printed up whole new menus.

One French restaurant in New York City, where dinner averages about $8 per person, put a handwritten notice on the menu several weeks ago telling diners to add 15 cents to each price. New menus incorporated the price change, but another handwritten notice appeared this week, adding another 50 cents to the total.

The price increases affected almost every type of restaurant. A Chinese restaurant in Salt Lake City raised the price of the combination special from $2.50 to $3.00 - a jump of almost 20 percent. A Mexican restaurant in the same city said there was a 10 percent increase on almost all dishes. The lunch special went from $1.65 to $1.85.

The restaurant owners blamed increases in wholesale costs for the price hikes. Mike Mandrus, part owner of the Ideal Cafe, a moderately priced restaurant in Montgomery, Ala., said he had raised the bill about 10 to 15 percent, but said the prices "haven't gone up as much as wholesalers have gone up on us."

Customers haven't been complaining too much. "People understand. The price of everything went up," said Howard Kali, the owner of a Milwaukee restaurant frequented by college students.

Pete Carter, the owner of the Cork and Fiddle in Kansas City, said he hadn't had many complaints either, but added that his business was off since he raised the price of a 10-ounce sirloin from $4.50 to $5.25.

Carter said that if costs go up again, he will have to cut portions although he doesn't want to. "It's got to look good on the platter," he said. "Most customers eat with their eyes too."

Kissinger peace meeting boycotted; Arabs protest

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) - A boycott by five states undercuts Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's 2nd bid this year for conciliation with the Arab world. But he made a sizable advance on contacts with European nations.

Iraq, Syria, Libya, Algeria and South Yemen sent their regrets and in a gesture against U.S. Middle East policy, passed a luncheon given by Kissinger at the U.S. mission across the street from the United Nations.

All five boycotters have supported the Palestinian position against recognition of Israel. Libya has an additional quarrel with the United States: Its objections to the presence of the U.S. 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean.

Warning signs are on the horizon for environmental polluters—particularly those who think they can get away with abuses because the public isn't willing to foot the bill for law enforcement.

The signs show the proportion of people who have hesitated to crack down on polluters fearing the voters wouldn't support vigorous anti-pollution measures are rapidly changing.

Concerned citizens want clean air and water. But are our legislators willing to listen to our demands? The signs show the proportion of people favoring increased government spending for environmental protection is higher than the proportion favoring increased spending for such accepted services as education, medical care, low-income housing, highway construction, mass transportation, foreign aid and defense expenditure.

Word of these pollents comes from Dr. George Koonce, author of the quarterly consumer survey. The survey, conducted by the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research (ISR), found the results of a nationwide survey (excluding Alaska, Hawaii) of more than two-thirds of the U.S. population (82 per cent) is willing to spend more than is now being spent to preserve and restore the environment.

Eight in ten of them support this attitude, even if it means higher taxes.

The most frequently cited advantage of more government spending—given more than one-fourth of the time—was control of the spread of disease.

One citizen said, "If we don't have clean air and water, we can't have good health. If we don't have health, what good is anything?" Others mentioned "youngsters dying in school—first and second graders—who have a very hard time breathing," and "people with asthma and lung diseases." Surprisingly, many expressed awareness that various forms of cancer have environmental causes.

Next to health, the most frequently cited reason for supporting pollution control was concern for survival of the human species and the happiness of future generations. Love of the outdoors and enjoyment of fishing and swimming were also listed, as were preservation of natural resources and relief of the energy shortage.

Although the fourth most popular cause for support of anti-pollution spending (eight per cent) was that pollution industry either couldn't or wouldn't do the job, 10 per cent of those who opposed more spending did so because "it's up to private industry and business to do it by themselves." "Polluters should be fined," one said. Another remarked, "It's up to the industry to spend more." Still another commented, "The money spent by the government should be spent to make polluters clean up." When these same people were asked for reasons of spending less on pollution control, the answers were few. Sixty-eight per cent said flatly they knew of "no reason not to spend more." Only two per cent faulted environmental protection, saying, "It's not doing the job." There were variations in the approval pattern. Favorable attitudes toward greater spending rose with income brackets and years of education. More women were more favorable than men, and whites were more favorable than blacks. Only people 65 years of age and older were strongly opposed to spending, and they were also opposed to spending for mass transit, education and medical care.

This survey of attitudes about government spending has been periodically repeated over a number of years. Twelve years ago, environmental pollution was not considered seriously enough to warrant a place on the questionnaire. Four years ago, it made the list. This year, it was placed last on a list of items interviewers handed to interviewees before asking, "Do you think the government should be spending more money, less money or about the same on these items?" as it does now?" The accompanying table shows how recognition of the importance environmental protection has grown in time, not simply in terms of supportive population percentages, but in the relative rating of pollution reduction and, for example, education. In 1969, spending for pollution control outranked spending for education by only two percentage points. In 1973, there is a 12 per cent gap between the two—as there is also between pollution reduction and medical care. Spending for low-income public housing runs a poor third.

The consistency of ecological attitudes is indicated by the steady decline in support for highway construction spending, and the approval given to spending for mass transportation in cities this year.

A recent ISR survey noted a shift in popular interest from international to local affairs. The data on foreign aid spending in this table confirmed the existence of this phenomenon and show that, as far back as 12 years ago, more than half the people wanted to cut foreign aid spending. During the last four years, this attitude has spread to three-fourths of the population.

Scene: The Heavenly Real Estate Office. The landlord is happily rummaging through a jar of ted starfish and exploding novas as his business agent, Mr. Gabriel, reads a report.

 Gabriel (flipping a page):  So much, sir, for galaxy MMXCCXVII. Let's see. Oh, here's a special request from the little planet, Earth. That you like so much. It's from Israel. There's been more fighting in the Middle East... The landlord (beaming): Israel! Ah, the Israelites! My Chosen People. What do they want, Gabriel? Gabriel: They respectfully request, sir, that after 10,000 years you might see your clear to choosing somebody else. The landlord (frowning): My Israelites are unhappy? Hmmm. Who was in charge of that real estate development. Gabriel? Gabriel: Moses, sir. As you recall he led them through the desert for 40 years to the Promised Land of milk and honey. No disrespect intended, sir, but all things considered, they wish he'd led them to the Saudi Arabia instead. The landlord: They don't like milk and honey, Gabriel? Gabriel: Oh, the milk and honey are just fine, sir. But in the Middle East these days it's better to have oil. The landlord: The Israelites need oil! Gabriel: No, the Americans do, sir. You see, American Presidents have always vowed to fight to the death for Israel on two grounds. The first is that Israel is one of the world's most thriving democracies, living proof of what obstacles brave, free men can conquer. The landlord: What's the second? Gabriel: The Jewish vote, sir. No American President wants to lose that. But now that the Israelites have milk and honey, which America doesn't need, and the Arabs have oil, which America does, the Arabs are threatening to withhold their oil unless America abandons its friends, the Israelites. The landlord: Abandon them? But I thought every American President had avowed to the death for them. Gabriel: Yes, sir. But that and rationing gasoline are two different things. You know how Americans feel about their automobiles. The landlord (sighing): Yes. What do you think I should do, Gabriel? Gabriel: The solution appears obvious, sir. Simply inject several billion barrels of oil into Israel's Negev Desert and the Americans will vow to fight to the death for them again. Their problems would be over. The landlord (thoughtfully): Yes, Israel's certainly a deserving country. They are out-numbered fifty to one by their ferocious enemies. Yet they go right on trying to scratch a thriving nation out of the rocky soil. They're so cocky and funny and bold. The young people are so healthy and dedicated. There's a man with a spirit. Gabriel: (nods somberly): Yes, sir. But somehow it doesn't seem fair to the Americans. All things considered, sir, they really deserve to be chosen for a while.
Nixon scores with press; more on nuclear energy

By John S. Knight
In the Detroit Free Press

President Nixon was apparently well pleased with the favorable reaction to his San Clemente press conference on Aug. 22. So he held another one last Wednesday in the East Room of the White House where a good many of his fellow citizens believe he should spend more of his time.

The soft lighting was better, too. So pictures of the President did him more justice than those taken in the bright sunshine of California, and about which angry readers thought they"d detected a plot by the nasty newspapers to make Mr. Nixon look like he was hanging on the ropes.

As in San Clemente, the President was generally forthcoming. In response to questions with just a sly remark or two about the "heads and sneers of commentators," Mr. Nixon has quite a hangup on the network newsmen, and sometimes with a fast amount of justification. They can be a rather snarl lot.

The President, an acknowledged artist in the question and answer technique, should have no worries on this score. As Robert J. Havcl of the Cleveland Plain Dealer said: "He jabbed the press sily in an obvious rematch of San Clemente. The news guys were a bunch of cream puffs, to prove again that in the arena of the televised news conference, it's no contest.

On the serious side, the President conceded that public confidence in his leadership has been eroded, but added sarcastically that "nothing you ladies and gentlemen in the press will say will restore confidence."

A Plain Dealer headline read: "Nixon Lashes at Congress as He Defends Watergate." A Cleveland Plain Dealer critic wrote: "Nixon's mind works in unpredictable ways, this may be the underplaying strategy in his endeavor to regain the confidence of his constituency."

An unusually hot summer—resulting in fuel and power shortages—has revived fears of an energy crisis in the years ahead. Following World War II, we heard about the need for atomic power, and how it would solve the nation's needs for all time. Now, with and the proliferation of nuclear power plants, both the environmentalists and respected scientists are not only questioning but asserting the dangers inherent in such plants, and particularly so as they are built near highly populated areas.

Last June, I quoted Dr. A. L. Jones, a research associate of the Standard Oil Co. of Ohio as follows: "Positive scientific evidence is that nuclear power plants, both the environmentalists and respected scientists are not only questioning but asserting the dangers inherent in such plants, and particularly so as they are built near highly populated areas."

For after all, the President knows what the tapes contain and he seems unconcerned about their content. The President is taking a hard line on executive privilege. But once the Supreme Court provides a "definitive order" which the President has said he will honor, Mr. Nixon may well decide to go public with the tapes to resolve public doubt about its contents.

Such a dramatic action by the President could be the last big gun fired at his Watergate critics. Since Mr. Nixon's mind works in unpredictable ways, this may be the underplaying strategy in his endeavor to regain the confidence of his constituency.

"For after all, the President knows what the tapes contain and he seems unconcerned about their content. The President is taking a hard line on executive privilege. But once the Supreme Court provides a "definitive order" which the President has said he will honor, Mr. Nixon may well decide to go public with the tapes to resolve public doubt about its contents."

They say, too, that no satisfactory method has been devised to contain forever the radioactive wastes now being stored and which will remain "hot" for centuries. Dr. Bell wants to know if the safety systems have ever been tested under accident conditions.

W.S. Lee, a spokesman for the Duke Power Co., replies that "Nuclear power is an essential part of the answer to our environmental and energy needs. It's the solution—not the problem, as suggested by Dr. Bell."

So where does this controversy leave the public which is understandably uninformed and, like me, considerably confused? The power companies maintain that increasing shortages of oil and natural gas for fuel—together with pollution problems from coal which is in large supply—force them to take the nuclear route.

But environmentalists want to halt the building of nuclear plants now. So where do we get the fuels needed to turn factory wheels, heat or cool our homes, maintain jobs and sustain our economy?

I am informed that the ultimate answer to fuel exhaustion lies in the harnessing of solar energy, an approach not now being seriously considered either by the government or by scientists in the power industry. Meanwhile, we have some 600,000 gallons of radioactive "garbage" on hand with the pile of "hot stuff" accumulating at a highly dangerous rate. The Environmental Protection Agency estimates that radioactive waste will grow to 4.5 million gallons by 1980, and to 60 million gallons by the year 2000.

Ladies and gentlemen, that is something to worry about.
City investigating lenient liquor law

The sale of hard liquor to 19 and 20-year-olds may be permitted in Carbondale if the city decides it has the power to adopt such an ordinance under home rule.

Mayor Neal Eckert said Monday that the city is investigating the possibility of such an ordinance. He added that state law might not permit it.

Under the new liquor law which goes into effect Monday, persons 19 years and older may purchase wine and beer. The required age for the purchase of hard liquor in Illinois remains 21.

Counseling groups to start next week

The Counseling and Testing Center, Washington Square A, will begin its fall counseling groups next week. Each group meets once weekly on the following schedule:

Couples Group: Tuesday night. Facilitators: Easy Zimmerman (Open to unmarried or married couples interested in developing effective intimate relationships.) Membership in a group requires a one-quarter commitment. Before entering the group, an interview with the facilitator must be arranged.

Counseling and Testing also offers individual counseling by appointment or on a walk-in basis. Walk-in hours are from 10 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday. Walk-in clients will see a counselor immediately.

For information about joining a group or to make an appointment for individual counseling, call 455-3271.

Counseling Services are free to students, faculty and staff.

Rosh Hashona service begins observance here

By Linda Lipsman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Between 200 and 1,000 participants are expected to attend Rosh Hashona (Jewish New Year) services at the Student Center Wednesday, Rabbi Earl Vinecour said.

Services will begin at 6:30 p.m. in Ballroom B of the Student Center for all Jewish students. More orthodox services will be held at 8:15 p.m. in Temple Beth Jacob in Carbondale.

Gary Golbani, SIU gymnasiu, will serve as cantor at both the center and the temple. Peter Adelman, junior majoring in economics, will blow the shofar, ram’s horn. Other students will read the traditional prayers and the rabbi’s sermon will feature Soviet Jewry and hopes for peace in the Middle East, Rabbi Vinecour explained.

Receptions will follow the services of the New Year holidays, “so new students may meet their professors and fellow students,” Rabbi Vinecour explained.

Services will resume Thursday at 9:30 a.m. at Temple Beth Jacob of Carbondale. Rabbi Vinecour said, “SIU students, faculty and townpeople are expected to mingle freely and warmly at the temple.” Free bus transportation to the temple will leave the Hillel 7:15 p.m. University of Illinois.

Services will again continue at 8:15 p.m. at the temple and 9:30 a.m. and 8:15 p.m. on Friday, with bus transportation leaving from the Hillel.

“The University has been very understanding of Jewish students not attending classes on the holy days (Thursday and Friday),” Rabbi Vinecour explained.

Reception: The eve of Yom Kippur (Day of Atonement) services will begin 5:30 p.m., Friday, Oct. 5 at the Student Center Ballroom B. Services will resume on Yom Kippur, Oct. 6 at 9:30 a.m. and continue throughout the day at the temple.

“Yom Kippur is a day of total fasting, so Jewish people can identify with less fortunate peoples, spend the day in prayer and meditation, and affect themselves or offer charity,” Rabbi Vinecour explained.

Rabbi Vinecour explained the Jewish New Year procedures as not a time for parties but a time for reflection and self-analysis. The Jewish New Year, 5724, symbolizes the age of the Jewish people.

Rabbi Vinecour said the individual’s fate is set on a balance on Rosh Hashona and sealed on Yom Kippur. The 10-day period between the holy days is used to seek forgiveness from any person the individual has sinned against. Rosh Hashona is the day Jewish people seek forgiveness from sins between man and God.

Theater members to hold meeting

A general orientation meeting of all Department of Theater faculty, staff, theater students and others interested in the department will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the University Theater, Communications Building.

Introduction of new faculty members, discussion of coming productions and explanation of the audition schedule will take place.

Copies of a new theater handbook will be distributed and a question and answer period will close the meeting.

All theater majors are urged to attend.

The Student Government Activities Council (SGAC) is looking for Aquariums, Gemini, Versus, and others, to work on the staging committee of "Horses of the Homecoming," the theme of Homecoming 73 (Oct. 23, 24, and 27).

Singer Paul Simon will be featured at the Homecoming Banquet Show Oct. 27. Other protected Homecoming themes include a parade, band, speakers, and open house.

Students interested in working on the Homecoming Committee should pick up an application at the SGAC office (third floor, Student Center) or attend the first meeting Thursday, Oct. 27, at 7 p.m. in Activity-Room D, third floor of the Student Center.

For further information, contact Thom Burkett, Homecoming Chairman, or Bob Sager, Homecoming Advisor, at the SGAC office, or phone 432-5741.

Office of CEW to hold open house

The Office of Continuing Education for Women (CEW) will hold an open house from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Thursday in Pulling Hall, room 112.

Jeanne Bart, director, said the open house is being held "so everyone can get to know where we are and meet the staff."

Crime stopper program including Jackson County

By Rafe Klinger
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Burglaries in Carbondale were cut almost in half last year by a special crime deterrence program, which has been continued this year and extended to include all of Jackson County and Murphysboro.

The Illinois Law Enforcement Division awarded $198,000 to the University of Illinois at Carbondale and $4 million to the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign.

University officials deny additional hiring at school

URBANA (AP) — A University of Illinois official denied today that the university has hired additional employees since Gov. Daniel Walker vetoed $4 million from the school's budget.

Walker appeared Monday night at an accountability session in Urbana and said 300 new employees had been added to the institution's payroll.

Rue Brady, a vice president and ombudsman of the university, said if there are new names on the payrolls they probably are in the University of Illinois Hospital where they are paid from patient revenue, or in medical related programs which have been authorized to expand and have special funds.

Carbondale and Murphysboro Police Departments and the Jackson County Sheriff's Department. The grant goes into effect Wednesday, providing the departments with salaries and equipment for supplementary police patrols.

Carbondale's share of the grant, about $40,000, will continue the supplementary patrols initiated last year, which reduced burglaries by 45 percent, said Tom McNamara, administrative assistant to Carbondale Police Chief Joe Dabos.

The program gives Carbondale 200 additional hours of police patrols each week, McNamara explained. Officers, in civilian clothes and unmarked cars, cruise neighborhoods where and during times when increased criminal activity is likely.

Even a burglar who is monitoring police calls on a portable receiver is in the dark as to where the Patrols are because the special signals do not call in and report their whereabouts as do the regular marked patrols.

These patrols give criminals less time to work and thus reduce the opportunity for criminal activity, McNamara said.

While Carbondale's crime rate decreased, crimes in Jackson County and Murphysboro increased, McNamara explained. That is why the program was expanded to include the rest of the county and neighboring Murphysboro.

"Hopefully, it (the expanded program) will reduce crime rather than disperse it," McNamara added.

Needy freshmen eligible for grants

Freshmen entering SIU or any other post-high school institution may be eligible for up to $450 in grant money from the Office of Education, Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare.

The grants will be assigned to first-time, full-time freshmen showing need of financial aid to attend college or other schools. Although the maximum individual grant for the 1973-74 year is $50, grants will average about $200-250, said Raymond DeJarnett, assistant director of the Student Work and Financial Assistance Office (SWFA).

The Basic Grant Program is new this year. DeJarnett said the $50 million in federal funding is about $500 million below the figure requested for the program. Hence, the grants are being limited this year to first-time freshmen.

To be eligible for the grant, one must be registering in a post-high school educational program for the first time; full-time attendance is necessary; and one must be a U.S. citizen or a permanent resident. The money is allocated according to need and how much financial help the student's family can afford.

The Basic Grant application states, as a general guideline, a 1973 income of under $2,000 for a family of four could qualify the student for a grant. Other factors are also used in considering the applications.

Grant applications take about four weeks for processing, which is the reason why some grants are not made within the same time if an application is received. DeJarnett said the SWFA will administer the money, disbursing one-third of the total grant each quarter.

Freshmen applying for the grants are urged to complete their applications prior to the end of this quarter. DeJarnett said applications received after the end of fall quarter will only be approved for winter and spring quarters.

DeJarnett explained the student would then receive only two-thirds of the grant money he would receive for the regular three-quarter term.

One nice thing about the grant, DeJarnett said, is it will travel with a student if he goes to another school. So, a freshman receiving a grant and then transferring will receive the balance of the grant in the next school.

DeJarnett said many times grants are limited to one institution, and the transferring student loses the remaining grant money.

DeJarnett said it was unlikely the Basic Grant Program would be terminated in the next federal fiscal year. Increased funds, he said, would enable the grant to go to students other than first-timers, and the grant monies could be increased.

Applications for the Basic Grant are available in the ground floor office in Building B, Washington Square.

Ice company family enjoys nomadic life, skating together

By Dave Striker
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Skating together and living together, the “Holiday on Ice” company is like one happy family, says Marion “Paddle” Mathis, who began traveling with the show at the tender age of eight.

Her father is chief carpenter of the show and her husband, Wayne, an ice engineer. The company has around 11 kids and is on the first month of their 18 month tour. Carbondale will have the opportunity to see these ice engineers perform six shows Friday through Sunday at the Arena.

“You get homesick once in a while for your friends when you’re on tour, but you have friends in the show so you don’t think about it too much,” Mrs. Mathis said. “We’re like one big family and near the end, we’re really close. When closing night comes, you get so depressed because you don’t want anyone to leave. We have people coming in from the national company of ‘Holiday on Ice’–this is the international company—and they say they can’t believe how close we are to each other.

Cast parties occur on the average of once a month, Mrs. Mathis says, but there are other private parties.

“We close in New Orleans this year so you can imagine the party we’ll have there,” she added.

“Most people think that show people are money, sloppy and dress real tacky. But ‘Holiday’ has high standards. We aren’t allowed to wear bluejeans to rehearsals,” she said.

And rehearsals mean adjusting to the size of the ice rinks in the various cities. “If the rink is larger than usual, then the skaters have to practice skating harder and faster,” Mrs. Mathis said. “But if the rink is smaller than usual, then they have to slow down.

“And if there are rough spots on the ice, we show the skaters where they are so they can be careful,” Wayne Mathis said. “They can make three feet other ways without changing the choreography.”

Saw dust is one essential supply for the show, which fills in the space between the six miles of piping under the ice. Anti-freeze is pumped through the pipes which then puts water down to a frozen 16 degrees.

“Saw dust is sometimes the hardest supply to get in the different towns we play. Anti-freeze is hard to get because there is a shortage,” Mathis said.

“A couple times last year our power has blew up which leaves the compressor from putting the anti-freeze through the pipes. Then the ice started to slush, which is dangerous for the skaters,” Mathis said.

Tendinitis and colds sometimes plague the performers, but Mathis said there were not cancelled or postponed performances last year. As the old saying goes, “The show must go on.”

World financial leaders hear Shultz say dollar on upswing

By Bill Neilirk
Associated Press Writer
NAIROBI, Kenya (AP)—U.S. Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz told the world's financial leaders Tuesday that the dollar will strengthen, and that the American balance of payments will move into the black next year.

Finance ministers and central bankers attending the joint annual meeting here of the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank welcomed the forecast, saying it brightened chances of monetary reform.

If Shultz's prediction pans out it will mean the first surplus in the U.S. basic balance of payments since 1964.

The basic balance of payments, including trade and long-term investments, is one of three key yardsticks for measuring the net flow of dollars from the United States. If it is the management must closely watched by economists, since it tends to show longer trends.

The postwar international monetary system collapsed two years ago after years of heavy U.S. payments deficits pushed billions of dollars into Western Europe and Japan, eroding the value of the U.S. currency. Shultz prediction would signal a reversal of that trend.

Shultz said America's trade balance, in deficit for two years in a row, also would show a surplus next year. That means Americans will export more than they import.

"Such surpluses for a period seem to be indispensable for full restoration of confidence, for encouraging a reflow of dollars to the United States and for implementing any lasting monetary reform," Shultz told the delegates.

$52,000 dream becomes nightmare, builder constructs it on wrong lot

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—For eight weeks Carlos Gonzales worked to buy his dream home only to discover the $52,000 house was built on the wrong lot.

"All I own is a vacant lot with nothing on it," Gonzales, 27, said Thursday as he pointed to the 13-by-118-foot dream house that has vanished.

The Miami banker said he moved into the house three weeks ago with his wife, Mirta, and their three children.

"A priest who baptized me in Cuba came on Sunday to bless the house," Gonzales said. "We had a big party to give thanks for being blessed with such a beautiful house."

The next day, Gonzales said he received a letter from the lawyers for Mr. and Mrs. Alfonso Rivero. "Mr. Rivero is the owner of the house that belonged on the lot next door."

"My wife burst into tears," Gonzales said. "I laughed at first but now I don't think it is funny."

Gonzales, who came to the United States eight years ago on a freedom flight from Cuba, said he bought the Spanish style, three-bedroom, two-bath home four months ago and has a $44,000 mortgage.

Mrs. Rivero said she and her husband discovered the mistake when a prospective buyer for their vacant lot went to inspect the land and told them there was a house on it.

"We sent out a surveyor who confirmed that the house was on the wrong lot," Mrs. Rivero said. "We don't want to sell to anybody."

Max Payanc, the Riveros' lawyer, said that under Florida law the house owns the house.

"But we are going to try and work out some settlement," he said. "This sort of thing doesn't happen but once in a blue moon."

He said the settlement would involve swapping the lots—but Gonzales would have to pay the Riveros damages and try to collect his losses from the builder.

"I always wanted a house like this," said Gonzales. "I worked as a dishwasher when I first came to this country and any family and friends, helped me raise the money for the house."

Council approves office for employment service

A contract for the operation of an Illinois State Employment Service (ISES) office in Carbondale was unanimously approved Sunday night at the regular meeting of the City Council.

The ISES will provide job placement and unemployment, employment counseling, manpower training, job training, community services and food stamp applicant service.

Carbondale will provide $38,945 of the $50,562 cost for running the office for a year. The state will pay the rest.

The main ISES office will be located in the Attackas Multi Purpose Center. An outreach office is also planned either in the downtown area or at University City.

In other action, the council passed an amended tax districts ordinance. The proposal was changed to include the Chardonle Clinic area.

The council also approved a resolution authorizing the use of certain property within the Urban Renewal Area for public parks.

The land is located near the new public housing being constructed in northeast Carbondale.

An ordinance establishing a new liquor license classification also received the approval of the council.

The Class U-1 license, which will cost $100 annually, allows the sale of alcoholic beverages for consumption on the premises of bowling alleys.

Players to hold auditions for fall season

Three days general auditions will be held this week by the Southern Illinois University Players to cast all parts to be presented for the fall season.

Auditions will be held from 7:30 to 10 p.m. Thursday and Friday, and from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m. Saturday in the University Theatre in the Communications Building.

No acting experience is necessary, and auditions are open to all. Auditioners should prepare ten-minute monologues—one comic and one serious.

Plays to be cast for the University Theatre stage are "Bay FEVER", a Noel Coward comedy scheduled for Nov. 2 to 4 and "How Santa Claus Came to Simpson's Crossing", a play for children, to be performed Dec. 5 to 8.

Two plays, scheduled for the Laboratory Theatre Oct. 19, 26 and Nov. 9 to 18, will be cast at the auditions.

Additional information is available at the Department of Theater, room 1623, Communications Building, 453-5741.

Associate program cultivates rapport

Communication between SIU students and faculty is getting a helping hand from the University Associate Program (UAP).

The UAP is a 3-year-old program designed to facilitate communication between students and teacher.

Informal discussions and get-togethers, the best way to find out about student problems and "bend breed relationships," according to Officer Don White of the SIU Police and a UAP volunteer. Through just sitting around and drinking Coke, White has a number of students have built "real friendships and trust."

Sometimes it takes more than just sitting around to gain new friends, White explained. Last year six students decided to take a three-wheel go-piter around campus to run errands.

After they were apprehended early Sunday morning by police, a call came to White from the six at Jackson County Jail. Due to White's fast-talking abilities with police, the six were released.

Other volunteers, including everyone from teachers to an on-duty supervisor, use other informal methods of gaining easy rapport with students. Such activities include lectures, dinners, sports and get-togethers.

Mrs. Julia Muller, Coordinator of Educational and Cultural Programming and also a volunteer, said that before the development of the UAP students were "on one side and the teachers on another." Since the program has begun, she continued, there has been constant improvement between the two groups.

Mrs. Muller pointed out that the program cannot "solve all problems, but it is a beginning."

In order to improve on the work that has been done so far, the UAP is sponsoring more activities this year. Schneider residents are invited to a dinner at 6 p.m. Oct. 2 at Grammar Hall. Thompson Point residents can attend a dinner at 5 p.m. Oct. 4 at Lent Hall Lounge.

Jazz bands to audition Wednesday

Auditions for the fall jazz bands will be held 1 p.m. Wednesday at Alpheld 114 for musicians playing reed instruments and from 5-7 p.m. for those playing rhythm instruments. The auditions are open to all students, Alan Oldfield, associate professor of music, said.

Oldfield, and London Branch, instructor of music, will be the new directors of the bands this fall.

At least two bands will be chosen, each consisting of 10-20 members. The first band will be meeting 1 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and the second at 1 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday.

The bands will perform several times throughout the year. The first concert is scheduled for Nov. 29 in Shryock Auditorium. The band will be performing a variety of jazz styles, including jazz-rock, experimental jazz and electronic jazz.

Anyone unable to audition at the appointed time should contact Oldfield or Branch at the School of Music Office.

Walker asks labor to back ethics law

SPRINGFIELD (AP) - Gov. Daniel Walker asked organized labor Tuesday to support what he said would be the toughest package of campaign ethics legislation ever presented to the Illinois General Assembly.

Walker told the 14th annual Illinois AFL-CIO convention only strict laws on political contributors and spending would restore the confidence of the public in its leaders.

"I want your support for my package of ethics legislation," said Walker, who has called a special session of the assembly to draft new laws on campaign ethics. "It will be the toughest one ever presented to the legislature."

The governor told the labor group his campaign financing had been attacked and that the names of union leaders had been mentioned in those attacks.

He was referring to allegations that highway contractors had been pressured into making contributions to the Walker campaign by the International Union of Operating Engineers.

"It is a smear of organized labor to imply that there is anything wrong with your supporting the candidates of your choice," Walker told the loud applause of the audience.

And Walker said he had issued an executive order giving some trade union rights to state employees, saying "I don't believe they should be second-class citizens."

But he said he did not have the power to give state employees the right to strike or establish union shops. He urged the labor group to petition the General Assembly to win those rights.

Surprised English professor wins Great Teacher Award

English professor James Benziger said he was "absolutely astounded" when he was named SIU-Carbondale's Great Teacher Award recipient for 1973 at this year's Alumni Banquet held last June 9.

The wording of the honor is meant to be a surprise. In an Oscar-type procedure, alumni are instructed to vote for the teachers they feel best exemplify exceptional classroom performance. Other things—such as research and administrative accomplishments—are not to be considered.

News of the winner was kept a closely guarded secret, as is past years. "It was a very long, laborious effort to win," Benziger said. "especially since you don't even know you're running." He added that the identity of each year's winner is "one of the few kept secrets left on campus."

Aside from the secrecy routine, Benziger admitted he was surprised for another reason. Until the alumni teaching award came along, he had always regarded himself more as a researcher than a classroom teacher.

Benziger was quick to add, however, that he enjoyed teaching more than he enjoyed researching, except when a particularly exciting project came along.

He made a point that good research can often be as rewarding as teaching. "A person who does research is likely to be happier at teaching, if it wins him an award," Benziger reasoned. He concluded that students are better off if a professor passes his research knowledge and enthusiasm on to his students.

Talking about the award itself, Benziger said it "came as a great surprise to me at the time. It was an honor to be named for what I have done.

"I'm not sure how I qualified for it, but I'm very happy to have been chosen."

In another area of research, Benziger is currently working on a book about the history of teaching in the United States.

Neely Hall to be site of counseling office

By Diane Misiakova
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Wednesday night, Neely Hall gets COOL.

COOL—a/an acronym for Counseling Outreach Office Location—is designed to bring the services of Counseling and Testing Center to student residents of east campus dorms.

Under the direction of counselor Yvonne Hardaway, COOL will offer its services from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Friday, by appointment. On Tuesday, walk-in nights, no appointments are necessary.

At COOL, students may receive individual or group therapy. Ms. Hardaway said that most individual appointments will be reserved for those unable to keep daytime appointments at the Counseling and Testing Center.

A group therapy session, Wednesday evenings, will “ha[ve an] opportunity to explore personal dissatisfaction issues and strengthen social skills,” Ms. Hardaway said.

On Monday, COOL will be the scene of an assertive training group. In a professional jargon this group will “help participants develop skills in maintaining personal rights appropriately.” Ms. Hardaway explained that group members will have an opportunity to learn how to avoid being emotionally raped off, stepped on and worked over.

A third group, a Friday night self-help program relying on peer pressure and support, will help clients solve weight control problems. Ms. Hardaway estimated this group’s popularity will cause it to fill rapidly.

COOL also will offer a program of staff training and referrals for dorm RF’s. Ms. Hardaway said, “Easy.” Zimmerman, Counseling Center counselor, will co-facilitate staff training sessions every Thursday night. The staff referral system will aid RF’s and RC’s in dealing with students who have problems.

To make an appointment with COOL or to inquire about joining a COOL group, students may call 453-8141 any weekday evening before 6 p.m. and 10 p.m. or drop in on Tuesday evening.

Student Center sets new restaurant prices

Hours and policies for the three main eating places in the Student Center have been announced by Clarence Dougherty, director.

The cafeteria will be open 7 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday-Friday but will be closed 12 p.m. to 1 p.m. The hours will be open 9 a.m. to 11 p.m. Monday, Thursday and Friday, 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. and 5 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. Saturday. The restaurant in the Student Center will be open 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Monday-Friday, 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. Saturday and 5:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. Sunday.

A room rental charge will be added to the menu price for groups less than eight in the restaurant. A minimum of eight persons is required for served meal functions in the Student Center in order to be exempt from a room rental charge.

It is suggested that all groups comprised of seven or less make reservations in the table service dining room.

Reservations for the dining room may be made by calling 453-5272 or 506-2051.

Veiling areas in the Student Center are located on the first and second floors in addition to the Big Muddy Room.

Dougherty stressed the fact that unattended dogs are a big problem in the Student Center. He said that, although, with the exception of seeing eye dogs, are not permitted in food areas according to state law and university regulation. This will be “enforced stringently,” he commented.

Worthy projects awarded excellence program grants

SIU President David R. Derge's Academic Excellence Program Review Committee has approved grants totaling $34,289 to finance 16 projects submitted by SIUC faculty members for the 1973-74 academic year.

The projects, ranging from a proposal to set up a PLATO IV teaching computer center on the Carbondale campus to a humanities lecture series, will be funded by the second round of grants from the Derge's Academic Excellence Program Fund.

The original $50,000 fund was established by the President with money derived from the sale of the University's interest in the University House to the SIU Foundation. The money is used to finance "deserving projects which further the ideal of academic excellence," but which are not eligible for funding from other sources.

The latest series of grants and projects are:

- $39,734 to Terence Brown, assistant to the dean, School of Technical Careers, to construct a modular mobile instructional and service center in a 45-foot trailer.

- $34,432 to Thomas Tyler, director of academic computing, to develop and install computer terminals for use by faculty, students and area community colleges.

- $38,705 to William F. Wright, assistant professor of computer science, and David W. Kammert, assistant professor of mathematics, to set up a PLATO IV computer-teaching system that allows interaction between the computer and student. It was developed at the University of Illinois.

- $22,000 to Robert L. Rands, professor in the University Museum, and Frank Ethridge, assistant professor of geology, to set up an interdisciplinary program for the study of prehistoric ceramics and pottery using the methods of archaeology, geology and nuclear chemistry.

- $16,000 to Keith Sanders, associate professor of speech, to field a series of lectures by well-known persons on "The Role of The Humanities in a Changing Society," during the 1973-74 academic year.

- $5,800 to Walter Robinson, director of Black American Studies, to expand BAS research facilities by acquiring the Schomburg Collection of microfilm dealing with Black American and African history.

- $5,000 to Edward B. Sasse, chairman of the Department of Educational Administration and Foundations, to investigate the development of graduate residency centers away from the SIU-C campus as extensions of the SIUC Graduate School.

- $3,000 to Guy A. Ronaglia, director of the Rehabilitation Institute, to support a conference and workshop in vocational evaluation held during August at SIUC.

- $2,700 to Michael S. Hoshiko, professor of speech pathology and audiology, to set up a "controlled speech" system to aid in the study of speech and other sounds by compressing or expanding the recorded time of sounds.

- $1,665 to Lucien D. Willey, associate professor, School of Technical Careers, to buy advanced audio-visual aids for classroom and self-instructional use in the study of automotive technology.

Lies near death

Boyle tries suicide before murder trial

WASHINGTON (AP) Former United Mine Workers (UMW) boss W.A. "Tom" Boyle lay near death Tuesday after a suspected suicide attempt within hours of a scheduled court appearance on murder, espionage charges.

Mr. Milton Gusack said blood drawn from the comatose Boyle showed large amounts of sodium pentol, a strong barbiturate, and that chances for survival were poor.

Boyle was rushed to the intensive-care unit of the George Washington University Medical Center Monday night. Hospital spokesmen said they thought at first that he had suffered a stroke.

But Gusack told newsmen at midafternoon that "It was an apparent effort at self-destruction."

The deposed UMW president had been scheduled to appear Tuesday before a U.S. magistrate for release on Pennsylvania to face state murder charges in the 1969 slaying of insurgent union leader Joseph A. "Jack" Yablonski and Yablonski's wife and daughter.

The hearing was continued until Oct. 21 following word of Boyle's illness.

Seven persons, including several UMW officials, have been convicted for their roles in the murder.

In addition to the state murder charges, Boyle also was charged in a federal indictment with conspiring to violate Yablonski's civil rights and plotting to kill him.

Boyle steadfastly denied any role in the killings at the Yablonski family home in Clarksville, Pa., less than a month after Yablonski was defeated by Boyle for the UMW presidency.

The election later was overturned by a federal judge and in the court-ordered runoff last December Boyle was defeated by Arnold E. Miller, a Yablonski supporter.

Marching band's new look includes 'topless' coeds

By Linda Lipilton  Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Eighteen new coed members of the Marching Salukis are gone topless this fall. For the first time in 12 years, women are in the band—but their uniforms aren't topped with the traditional hornbys that the men wear. Instead, they wear ruffled blouses, slacker-fitted shirtwaist jackets—and their hair up.

The first year that the band wore the uniform tunics that are now its trademark, 1961, was the last year for women in the band. Michael Hanes, Marching Salukis director, explained that the distinctively male uniforms had kept women out of the band since.

"The uniforms didn't work. They were uncomfortable to wear," he said. But this year we have alleviated the problem by giving the girls different uniforms than the men," he said.

The new uniform design for the drum staff Salukis represents a combination of the uniforms worn by the Salukis when they were introduced by Dr. Donald Brothers, a Greenville univestity which also made the men's uniform. The men's uniforms have standard length jackets and shorts without the frills that dress up the women's blouses. "Our tradition is to try to do things differently and that's why we changed the uniform," Hanes commented.

Hanes said the Marching Salukis have not received any negative comments about "women's libbers" to reopen the ranks to women. The band simply needed more members—been too welcome to coeds again after all these years.

"It has been difficult to find recruits. Band members receive only two hours credit for fall quart, while many universies give scholarships to their band members," Hanes pointed out.

Hanes considers turnout of the 18 female members a "good response for the first year." At least one woman plans to coast section and the number is expected to grow, the director said. Most are freshmen, some sophomore and junior women are also in the Marching Salukis.

The girls have helped fill the spirit of the band and have had a positive effect on the organization and the field," Hanes commented.

The increase in size of the band to more than 100 from about 90 last year has helped the group achieve a well-balanced sound. Hanes believes. The new members haven't hurt the appearance of the Marching Salukis, either. Hanes added: "We want women to look like women," he said. "Women in slacks look like gals nowadays, and are not be out of place in the band. I'm pleased to say that the girls in their new uniforms are certainly no deterrent to the look of the Salukis." Hanes said that since the women won't be wearing the hornbys any longer, he has asked the them to wear their hair up—"at least long enough to hold the plumes." The Marching Salukis will perform at every home football game and for the first time will also travel with the football team to Dayton, Ohio, on Oct. 6. They performed at the fireman's game last weekend.

For the next consecutive year, the band will perform in St. Louis at a Cardinals game and at Yankee Stadium Oct. 15. A concert is scheduled for the beginning of the season, Dec. 18. Hanes said the band will accept requests for performances from interested musicians may contact him at 100 Alford Hall.

Bakalis says he regrets decision

Illinois court rules state does not need to give half of school funds

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — The Illinois Supreme Court ruled Tuesday the state does not have a duty under the 1972 Constitution to provide at least 60 percent of the funds for public school education. State Atty. Gen. Michael J. Bakalis said he regretted the decision but said he felt it placed no barrier on what he called the legislature's duty to provide state funding at that level.

The opinion by Justice Walter V. Schaefer applied to Article X of the Constitution which says: "The state has the primary responsibility for financing the system of public instruction in the state."

The opinion said the article is an expression of a goal and does not impose a legal obligation on the state. The court rejected an interpretation of a 1971 amendment to the Constitution, that she did not intend the sentence to give the weight of a "legally enforceable duty."

The ruling upheld the Cook County Circuit Court in its dismissal of a suit by Nicholas Blase, Maine Township Democratic committeemen.

Commenting on the decision for the Association of School Boards, Executive Director Harold P. Seamon said the importance had been minimized by recent adoption of a new Illinois plan for state funding of public schools. It is expected to stay with inequalities between poor and wealthy districts, and to shift more of the burden from local property taxes to state income and sales taxes.

The court said it plans to pay about 40 percent of the cost of public school education, while local property taxes on the local level account for about 56 percent of the cost, remainder.

The court said that with the amount of financial aid is given by state and local taxes is a matter of public policy, not a constitutionally matter," Seamon said in an interview.

Bakalis in his statement said he had tried to mandate at least 56 percent state funding, but this had been conducted according to it.

"One important meaning of the decision," he said. "In that the system is not required to give the General Assembly. It should move to give 60 percent or greater funding by the state."

The Supreme Court upheld the Cook County Circuit Court dismissal of an attempt to throw out Chicago vehicle tax increases. In 1972, the taxes were raised from $3 and $3 depending on vehicle horsepower, to new levels of $4. $5 and $6.

The court rejected arguments the tax was an illegal one imposed by the Illinois General Assembly, revenue revenue court. The court said although the power to tax and the power to regulate are separate, either may be exercised by the imposition of a license fee. In this case, the court said, Chicago imposed a tax.

The Supreme Court also reversed a Circuit Court finding of unconstitutionality of a tax on gasoline for motor boats which did not apply to diesel fuel. The court said the gasoline tax receipts were used to maintain boating facilities which boats powered by diesel fuel could not normally use.

In the city's new pollution, the Supreme Court overturned one of the city's pollution and imposed a rest. The other cases which upheld the city's permit back for objections other than death.

Albert Kent, associate professor in the Southern Illinois University Carbondale department of thermal and environmental engineering, has been elected vice chairman of the Pathuah section. American Society of Mechanical Engineers (ASME).

After election by a mail ballot this summer, Kent will serve as vice chairman until July, 1974.

Chicago bluesman returns to SIU for free concert

Chicago bluesman Hound Dog Taylor will bring his Hoochroaders back to SIU for free concert this academic year.

Taylor is best known around Chicago and he has mainly performed for the past ten years. His band has been a hit in the area and he has brought a sold out audience in Shreveport, Louisiana, several times last January, when he played for the annual music festival.

Taylor also has an album out on Alfa Jazz Records.

Sponsored by SGC, the Hound Dog Taylor concert is free of charge and will be held at 5 p.m. Friday behind Woody Hall.

"Tango for tuba"

Female Marching Salukis have been given new, more attractive uniforms, but these male members of the band displayed their own freedom of dress as they quick-stopped their way through a rehearsal.

William McH. Herr, professor of agricultural industries at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale currently is on a one-year sabatical leave during which he will have a special assignment with the Farm Credit Administration in Washington, D.C.

Herr will be a visiting scholar in the FCA Research Division, carrying on research and exchanging ideas with leaders in the field of farm credit.

He has been on the SIU faculty since 1957, teaching and carrying on research in agricultural economics. In 1960 he was on leave for post-doctoral study at the University of Chicago and in 1962-64 he had a two-year assignment as a visiting lecturer to the Faculty of Agricultural Economics at the University of New England in New South Wales, Australia.

During a one-year sabatical leave in 1964-67, he carried on post-doctoral study at the University of Maryland and George Washington University in the Washington, D.C. area and conducted research in the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Dr. Ted Bulian of the Department of Agricultural Industries, Bill Cammock currently completing his Ph.D. studies at the University of Maryland and Don Bauer (currently farming in Windor) will present papers at the Annual Rural Sociology Meetings, August 23-26, at the University of Maryland.

All three of the papers deal with the subject of farm labor and are based for the most part on research conducted at SIU during 1971-72. Dr. Bulian's paper is titled "Crawlers on the Performance of the Seasonal Labor Market. The Bauer paper discusses "Hiring Practices As They Affect the Seasonal Farm Labor Market In The Vegetable and Fruit Industry."

The Cammock and Bauer papers are based on a series of over 130 interviews with Illinois Apple, Peach, Strawberry, Asparagus and Processing Tomato producers.
Scuba Club returns home

The Egyptian Divers, members of the SIU Scuba Club, have returned from observation and experimentation diving in the Bahamas. 27 divers made two separate trips collecting marine samples and exploring the ocean floor on a 75-foot chartered boat.

Peter Carroll, club advisor and assistant professor in physical education, said the groups observed and experimented with Sea Lab saturation diving. Saturation diving involves staying under water in a Sea Lab situation for one week at a time.

Carroll said a highlight of the trip occurred when he and diver Tim Johnson were diving off the boat at midnight and encountered a seven minute battle with an octopus. Johnson escaped injury.

The club will hold its first meeting of the year at 7:00 p.m. tonight at the Pullium Hall pool. All interested students are invited to attend, and possible Christmas and spring break scuba trips will be discussed.

Carroll said the annual Current River float is scheduled again for this fall and a trip to Bull Shallows, Ark. is also being considered.

Skin and scuba diving courses GSE 103 and e are still open for those wishing to enroll. Advanced scuba diving is also open and listed under P&L 215. Students must have a beginning diver certification to enroll in the advanced course.

Belleville West ranks first in downstate poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Belleville West retained its No. 1 ranking in the Associated Press downstate Illinois High School football poll while previously second-ranked Moline and Pittsfield were knocked out of the top ten.

Belleville West, once again led by fullback Joe Holl SCORE, defeated Alton 33-0. The Mighty Maroons were named first on eight ballots of a 14-man panel of sportswriters and sportscasters and piled up 121 points out of a possible 180 based on 10 points for first place, nine for second, etc.

St. Bede of Peru picked up two first-place votes and moved up one notch into second place with 93 points while Sterling, No. 5 a week ago, grabbed two first place votes and moved into third place with 86 points.

Peeoria Manual, Danville, East St. Louis Assumption, Rochester, West, Peoria Central, Quincy and Decatur MacArthur rounded out the top ten.

The other two first-place votes went to Peoria Central and Rockford East which missed the top ten by one point.

Chicago area teams are not included in the downstate poll. Quincy knocked Moline out of the top ten with a 14-6 decision last week and Pittsfield's record of going 6-0 games without a loss was snapped by Win­chester 12-6.

Holl SCORE, who scored three touchdowns for Belleville West in a season-opening victory against Assumption, added two more to his total against Alton including one on an 86 yard run.

"Our attack is built around Joe," said Belleville West Coach Bruce Aoki. "He has good speed and is a tremendous blocker"

The Mighty Maroons will try to make it three straight victories Friday night when they meet Collinsville, a team which was hammered by Edwardsville 48-31 last weekend.

Soccer men meet

The SIU International Soccer Club will hold a pre-season meeting at 8 p.m., Thursday, Oct. 27, at the Student Center Activities Room II. The purpose of the meeting will be to arrange practice schedules, elect officers and decide on the fall season opponents.

The season is scheduled to begin Oct. 4 against Murray. Other opponents already scheduled are-I tickets on sale

Students wishing to purchase Athletic Event Tickets or individual game tickets can do so from either the SIU Athletic Ticket Office or the SIU Student Center.

The cost of an event ticket is $6 and permits the student to free admission to all athletic events throughout the entire year. The individual football game tickets are 75 cents.

Tickets can be purchased from the SIU Arena weekdays from 1-3:30 p.m. and on Saturdays of the game from 8:30 a.m. - noon. They can also be purchased from the SIU Student Center on Fridays, from 1-3:30 p.m. and on Saturdays from 8:30 a.m. - noon and 3:30 p.m. for eight games.

Students must bring a fall fee statement and are urged to buy their tickets in advance to avoid waiting at the ticket windows.

Flag football meetings set

Flag football rule interpretation meetings for students interested in officiating at flag football games will be held at 4 p.m., Monday, Oct. 1 and Wednesday, Oct. 3 at the SIU Arena, Room 121.

A current ACT family financial statement is required to be on file at Washington Square. Officials will be paid $7 per game. Play will start Thursday, Oct. 4.

For additional information call the Office of Recreational and Intramural at 62-7579, or stop by the Arena, Room 128.
Southern Cal still No. 1 in college football poll; Nebraska gains ground

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Nebraska, which rallied for three touchdowns in the final quarter to overtake North Carolina State last weekend, gained some ground on Southern California Tuesday in the Associated Press college football poll.

But topping the Trojans, who have been added to the No. 1 spot since the first week of last season, seems as futile as trying to dispose UCLA as long as the Bruins keep winning.

Southern Cal; which puts its 2-0 record on the line against eighth-ranked Oklahoma this weekend, received 36 first-place votes and 1,120 points from the 63 sports writers and broadcasters who voted in the nationwide poll. The Cornhuskers, also 2-0, received 12 first-place votes and had only 836 points with 1,022. The margin the week before was 111 points.

Ohio State, winning a breather after a 56-7 triumph over Big Ten rival Minnesota in a season opener, remained third with eight No. 1 votes. The Buckeyes, with 1,095 points, 11 more than the previous week. Sixth-ranked Penn State received two first-place votes while No. 4 Michigan, No. 5 Alabama and No. 8 Oklahoma received one each.

The only change in the Top Five occurred when Michigan and Alabama switched positions, but theuster of Texas from the Top Ten after the Longhorns-ranked sixth with a week ago were up by Miami of Florida, allowed Penn State, Notre Dame, Oklahoma, Tennessee and Louisiana State to move one spot up.

Auburn moved up from 12th to 10th after a 31-6 rout of UT-Chattanooga and Oklahoma vaulted five spots to 12 after a 38-18 victory over Arkansas.

Roundup of the Second Ten are Arizona State, Texas, Houston, Florida, UCLA, Miami, North Carolina State and Missouri. The only team missing from the Top 10 was West Virginia. College football writers voted for the Top 20 teams.

Ohio St. to tangle with strong TCU

CHICAGO (AP) – Nationally third-ranked Ohio State routed last Saturday, but Coach Woody Hayes doubts that will benefit his once-tested Buckeyes against Texas Christian. Monday night, Ohio-Texas.

Ohio is in real good physical shape, but I don’t think the lay-off since our opener with Minnesota two weeks ago is any advantage,” Hayes said. “The Chicago Football Writers’” meeting Tuesday by telephone.

“The theory is that a team usually makes its biggest improvement between its first and second games of the season. That means we have to keep an edge for two weeks,” Hayes, whose well-manned Buckeyes routed Minnesota on Oct. 6,” hectares of pale buckeye leaves.

Hayes, who played eight straight seasons under Ohio State, 56-7 on Sept. 15, has been known to regard nonconference opposition lightly.

“I’ll tell you we’re paying attention to a lot of nonconference teams Saturday,” Hayes said. “Texas Christian may be the biggest test in the Southwest Conference.”

TCU opened with a 49-13 rout of Texas-Arlington last Saturday.

TCU also got five times in subduing Minnesota behind a ground attack, led by quarterback Cornelius Greene, which rolled up 333 rushing yards.

“The fans are saying we should pass more and maybe we will, but our best passers, Gifford, still is injured and Greene will start against TCU,” said Hayes.

Hayes was asked if Ohio State was headed for another Rose Bowl collision with Southern California whose Trojans trounced the Buckeyes 42-17 last New Year’s Day.

“Let’s think we’ll run into Southern California again some time,” Hayes countered. “It would be a pleasure from them and I think they picked us up some from us.”

Bob Blackburn whose Illinois team matches a 2-0 record with West Virginia in the first film home game Saturday reported his injury-riddled club may be on the mend.

However, Victor Geib Roberson could see action after missing the first two games with a recurrence of hepatitis. Versatile halfback Lonnie Perrin may come off the injury list to join three other Illini in the Illini attack. Trenkowan, who missed Illinois’ 24-14 victory over Indiana, passed last Saturday’s 27-0 defeat of California by rushing 149 yards in 23 carries and scoring two touchdowns.

A Giant says farewell

NEW YORK (AP) – A chopped-up Willie Mays bade farewell to baseball after being brushed with costly gifts Tuesday night and said, “In my heart, I am a sad man.”

“Now, you’re not only for this for me and not to be able to do anything about it makes me a very sad man,” he said.

“This is my farewell. You don’t know what is going on inside of me tonight.”

The 42-year-old all-time star announced his retirement from the game last Sunday.

Oakland defense earns praise around league

By Bruce Lowitt

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — If there’s such a thing as an errorless defensive game, we may have played it,” Gerald Irons said.

No one could dispute him. Certainly not the Miami Dolphins. Their winning streak, extending all the way back to the start of the 1972 National Football League season, was finally snapped at 18 games Sunday when they lost 12-7 to Oakland.

They weren’t overwhelmed by the Raiders. Not by their offense, anyway. After all four field goals are hardly what you’d call explosive.

But that defense? It limited the usually prolific Miami offense, forcing three total yards, 106 of them on the ground, and didn’t give up a point until barely a minute remained in the game. "To hold them to those points and that yardage we gave ’em was just fantastic,” said an overjoyed Phil Villapiano, whose Dolphins’ coach, was the first to aim the praise exactly where it belonged. "Their linebackers were especially tough on our running,” he said. "We had a few opportunities, but they killed us.

The killers were Irons, Villapiano and Dan Conners, selected Tuesday to share honors as The Associated Press Defensive Players of the Week in the NFL.

It was the three linebackers who shared the job of unmercifully smothering around the Dolphins by teaming for 17 tackles and five assists and forcing a couple of costly fumbles that paved the way to a couple of George Blanda’s field goals.

And more important, they were deadly in one area which statistics don’t cover, mainly they repeatedly stopped the Dolphins on the third-down-and-short yardage plays that eventually turned the game and the Raiders” around.”

"This is my most gratifying moment,” Irons said. "I don’t think I’ve ever played any better.

"We were so psyched up before the Minnesota game it was unreal,” Villapiano said of the Raiders’ season opener a week earlier. "And when we go beat, we just couldn’t believe it. We just weren’t going to let anything like that happen to us again.”

Rugby Club to meet Saturday

The SU Rugby Club is opening membership for those interested in playing rugby this fall. A meeting will be held at 11 a.m., Saturday, Sept. 29, in the Student Center, Activities Room B.

The Rutgers, who are now members of the Midwestern Rugby Football Union, will face such foes as the University of Illinois, Illinois State, St. Ambrose and University of St. Ambrose.

The first regular season game will be played Saturday, Oct. 6, in Bloomington.

The President

Dear New Students:

As you enter this University environment, you will find new challenges, options of choice, and opportunities to enhance your perspectives and your goals.

Southern Illinois University at Carbondale welcomes you and pledges itself to open avenues for occupational and professional development, for enriched intellectual and cultural stimulation, and for personal growth and understanding.

In the face of rapidly changing social conditions—in the fluctuating need for new approaches to problems—higher education faces its strongest mandate to provide students with the intellectual and technological resources needed in the years ahead.

SIUC is determined to meet this challenge, to build this already fine University into a great center of academic excellence and distinction with educational resources second to none.

As President of SIUC, I pledge you my personal commitment and that of the faculty to unremitting efforts to strengthen our teaching program and methods, to make our course offerings broad and flexible, responsive to your needs and those of society.

We have re-oriented and re-aligned many programs to encourage closer cooperation between related departments, knowing that elimination of barriers between disciplines will enable students to broaden horizons and design programs to fit their own educational development needs. We continue making in-depth examinations of the teaching-learning environment. This allows developing new teaching techniques to provide new learning experiences that in turn offer more opportunities for student participation in out-of-class activities, both on and off campus, related to educational objectives.

New Schools of Medicine, Law, Human Resources, and Technical Careers have been designed to provide new educational opportunities for students. These opportunities will assist in meeting the personal needs of society.

Despite limited state appropriations, SIUC is holding the line on registration, housing and other costs in an effort to assist students during this time of inflation. An extensive range of scholarship, loan and student-work funds is available for those needing assistance. Accomplishing academic excellence requires continual evaluation of all programs. We seek student expression of needs as you see them. By working together, we can achieve our goal of obtaining an education equipping you for a full life in today's changing world.

Sincerely,

David R. Dorsey

Ways to beat the utility hook-up hassle

By David C. Miller Jr., Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

While planning the big move into your new apartment, house or trailer this fall, set aside some time and money for getting your utilities hooked up.

The flood of students into Carbondale during September places a strain on the utilities offices. Lines of people stand before their doors, and there are waiting lists for getting a service turned on.

If you know where you will be living this fall, you can avoid a hassle by calling ahead, to arrange for the services you need.

Electricity

Carbondale is mainly served by the Central Illinois Public Service Company (CIPS). Fred Davis, CIPS office manager, said a person should check with them as to whether his dwelling is in CIPS territory.

A deposit may be required before power will be turned on. Davis said the amount of the deposit, from $15 up, is based on the average of the previous tenant’s bills for two and one-half months. Accordingly, a large dwelling with many appliances would have a larger deposit than a small one.

The deposit may be waived if the person has local utility credit, Davis said. If the customer pays his bills on time for a certain period, usually a year, the money may not be required. Davis added that CIPS will extend credit if a person has up to three late payments of his CIPS bills.

If two or more people are living together, the service is in the name of only one. This is to prevent confusion in billing situations.

Applications for service are available at the CIPS office, 334 N. Illinois St., 457-4138. Turning on the power will not be delayed by the normal back-to-school crowd if CIPS receives an application far enough in advance, Davis said.

Davis said that letters signed by the applicant are also acceptable, adding that applying by mail saves both the customer and CIPS time.

Davis stressed that the applicant must know exactly where he will be living in order to determine the deposit amount. This includes apartment or room number, or in some cases, the particular area in the building (e.g., upstairs, northwest). People living on rural routes should send CIPS either the landlord’s name or the name of the last tenant, Davis added.

After learning the amount of the deposit, if any, a check should be mailed to CIPS and arrangements can be made for turning on power as soon as the person arrives in town.

Davis said that lighting and small appliance use in dwellings is the smallest factor. A toilet may cost $5, or less being added for each person living there.

A person applying for water service should include his complete address and the deposit. CWS is at 1 Box 780 in Carbondale, 549-5202. Sorgen said that the bill is based on a minimum daily consumption of 100 gallons of water. A person using 3,000 or less gallons per month would receive a bill for $1.15.

The next 22,000 gallons go for $0.85 cents per thousand. Sewer rates are charged in proportion to the amount of water used, and are included in the bill. The rates for out-of-town service are slightly higher.

Sorgen said the charge for water and sewer is based on the tenant’s water bill, but a leak somewhere could raise the bill.

A toilet may not shut off or there may be a leak in an incoming pipe. Sorgen also mentioned that the amount of grass watering is expensive.

Telephone

This fall for the first time, deposits for telephone service will be waived for most applicants.

Water

Applications for water service will be “taken as they come in,” said Paul Sorgen, adding that waiting to apply may delay water hook-up in September by a couple of days.

Sorgen, finance director for Carbondale Water and Sewage System, (CWS), said that a deposit for water and sewer service is required by state law. A dwelling with one or two people requires a $5 deposit, with $5 being added for each person living there.

A toilet may not shut off or there may be a leak in an incoming pipe. Sorgen also mentioned that the amount of grass watering is expensive.

Telephone

This fall for the first time, deposits for telephone service will be waived for most applicants.

As part of a new billing system, General Telephone Company of Illinois (GTC) will eliminate the deposit and establish a monthly credit limit for customers. An individual’s estimate of his long-distance bills each month will be noted and will act as a guage for GTC. If a person’s calls begin to exceed this amount, GTC will ask for partial payment in advance of the monthly bill.

Richard Kimberly, GTC, said the only exceptions to the no-deposit policy will be established credit risks or those who have outstanding bills from GTC.

The very simple credit check that remains for most people is necessary because the telephone customer is the receiver of unlimited credit (long-distance calls) during the month, Kimberly said.

Installation of a phone costs $12.50. Kimberly said this non-refundable amount does not actually cover the cost of hooking a phone up, but he said there are no plans at present to increase the service connection charge.

Monthly rates for a private line in Carbondale is $7.15, with a two-party line costing $3.85. Rates out of town are $5.20 per month, with four-party lines costing $6.35. The charges mentioned are without the addition of tolls and taxes, Kimberly said.

The rush for phone installations begins before school. Kimberly said, and lasts up to Oct. 16. Applicants should go to office at 207 N. Monroe St., 549-2137.

Each dorm resident for this fall will receive an application for subscription to the UNITREX II phone system. Kimberly said that this service is provided solely for students in University housing.

Each subscriber receives a seven-digit billing number for use with long-distance calls. Kimberly said this enables the caller to enjoy the same reduced rates for direct dialing, without having to leave his room. Local calls are paid for by the student’s dorm contract, if he elects to send the $3.20 deposit.

Other utilities in the area, such as heating oil or natural gas, are handled by numerous local companies. Arrangements can be made with them after arriving in town.

The student should try to get into town during the week, since hook-up service for utilities is usually not available on the weekends.

East side dorms: High-rise or down-to-earth

By Ed Dunin-Wasowicz
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The East Side Dorms offer students the chance of living in the clouds with the high-rise halls or in the more down-to-earth Triads.

The living area is broken into two divisions: Brush Towers, which includes Schlegler and Maes Smith, 17-floor high-rises, and University Park which mixes Neely Hall, a high-rise, and the Triads, a group of 9 four-floor structures.

While the setting of these residence halls doesn’t match the lake-side situation of Thompson Point, it does have air-conditioned rooms, which the Point doesn’t.

This summer, Neely Hall is the only hall housing residents. It is a quasi co-ed dorm for the summer, in that the second through the ninth floors are male and the tenth through sixteenth floors are female, with the 17th floor used to house tutoring service offices.

Ms. Virginia Benning, University Park manager, said in the fall, Neely Hall will have two co-ed floors. Each suite will alternately house male and female students.

“Each fall, quarter the students vote for the residence privileges, by building,” Ms. Benning said, “Last year only a very few were opposed.”

There had been plans before the voting to designate a building for each of the seven co-ed dorms, who didn’t want the visitation. However, Ms. Benning said, the number of people against visitation was so minimal that the idea was discarded.

“If seems that those who did complain, were seeking an easy out from a problem with a roommate,” she said.

The single room option has met with considerable success. For fifty dollars more per quarter, a student can achieve the privacy he craves.

“This has been very popular with the students, and has helped fill the vacancies,” Ms. Benning said.

Vacancies are a problem the Towers have felt in the last two years, Ms. Benning said.

“We have had several floors vacant. I owe this to the popularity of Junior Colleges and also the trend towards off-campus living,” she said.

Ms. Benning also pointed to the drop in enrollment at SIU as a significant factor in the vacancies at the Towers.

One thing the East Side Dorms do offer is a co-ed dormitory floor. Neely Hall, which Benning has felt in the last two quarters, has felt a drop in enrollment.

Trailer living preferred for economy reasons

By David C. Miller Jr.,
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

For some, living in a trailer may conjure up visions of Lucille Ball in a big silver Airstream. In fact, trailers were attractive enough that an estimated 2-3,000 SIU students lived in them last year.

"They're the best type of living, for the cost factor," said Chuck Glover, president of the Greater Egyptian Mobile Home Association. "They've got privacy, more like a house; the price is usually right; and there's quality," he declared.

Unlike apartment living, noise is not generally a problem in trailers if the court maintains enough space between trailers. Also courts boast individual patios, paved roads, trees and grassy yards. It comes as a higher cost, of course; less expensive courts have gravel instead of blacktop, and the yards turn to mud after a healthy rainfall.

Economy is a prime reason many students adapt to trailer life. For trailer owners, the cost of a trailer and lot rental is less expensive than renting an apartment, the rental range from $25-50, with extras being included for the higher-priced locations. Some feel their families are better off in a trailer and lot apartment because of having more "living space.

Team up with a friend or two and it's a good way to reduce living costs without sacrificing breathing room. Some rental trailers have three bedrooms, a large kitchen and living room area and perhaps two bedrooms. Each share a lot of the rent, anywhere from $45-100, depending on the trailer and how many live there.

However, the rental fees with many court operators may be negotiable this fall. James Osberg, coordinator of off-campus housing, said he indicated that trailers are less popular than they once were and that the resulting vacancies work in the student's favor when he searches for a place to live. Osberg said students will have a greater variety of locations and types of trailers to choose from, and that landlords having only partial occupancy may be open to bargaining.

Most students agree that trailers, at their best, are nice. The same students would agree that, at their worst, trailers can be an expensive, worrisome bother. For the initiate, the following tips may make the search for a good trailer easier.

—How is the trailer heated? Fuel, whether electricity, propane, natural gas or oil, will be an expense to reckon with during winter. Check the condition of the furnace and try to find out from the tenants or landlord how efficient it is. Learn to operate the furnace important. If you like long, hot showers, check the heater's size and capacity.

—Is there an air conditioner? Carbondale summers are notoriously hot, and the fall and spring seasons can get uncomfortable. A de-humidifier would be a nice extra.

—Is the trailer well-insulated? Check the condition of the windows, and how tightly they close. There should not be any insulation hanging out of the bottom of the trailer. Underpinning around the trailer makes it look nicer, and also helps cut heating bills.

—What's the condition of outside pipes and wires? If the electrical line to the trailer looks strange, it may be unsafe and in violation of local codes. Water pipes above ground should be insulated or equipped with a heat-tape to prevent their freezing and bursting in winter. Take a quick look to see if any pipes are leaking.

—Are there any problems with bugs? It's better to know beforehand if you will be sharing your trailer with ants, cockroaches or even wasps. Once you discover how they get in, it may be only a matter of getting one small hole. If it looks like a real problem, move on. If not, get the landlord to move a hole you move in.

—Do the refrigerator and stove work? A small point, but important. Try to determine if the refrigerator will hold the under the summer heat. The stove should be clean, safe and operating normally.

What does the court look like? Gravel roads and sparse grass increase dust blown into the trailer. Trees cut the wind in winter, shade the trailer in summer and also make a nice rustling sound when you're out of sorts. Patios and concrete steps make life easier, as do in-court laundromats and shops. Look for the required 15 feet of space between trailers, and more if you can find it.

—Are pets allowed? It's a small point, but ask anyway.

—Move in and enjoy!

1973-74 HOUSING REGULATIONS

ALL SINGLE FRESHMEN UNDER THE AGE OF 20, not living with parent or guardian, are required to live in on-campus residence halls, or similar privately-owned residence halls. The privately-owned residence halls must provide facilities, food service, and supervision comparable to on-campus housing. These students are not permitted to live in trailers, rooming houses, or apartments.

SOPHOMORES UNDER THE AGE OF 21, not living with parent or guardian, are required to live in on-campus residence halls or University approved off-campus housing. Sophomore approved facilities include rooming houses and residence hall apartments. Such facilities are not required to provide food service but must have University-approved adult managers and are inspected and approved by the University.

There are no University regulations for junior, senior, graduate, married students, or those students 21 years of age or over on the first day of the quarter.

Violations of these regulations will result in a denial of future registration until the violation is corrected.

Student Tenant Union offers help for students

By David C. Miller Jr.
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Your landlord does not return your damage deposit, or your garbage does not get picked up, or the landlord does not do anything about the rats and bugs plaguing you; where do you go?

The next time you're up against the wall because of landlord problems, give the Student Tenant Union (STU) a call.

The three-year-old STU exists to advise students of their rights and responsibilities as tenants, said Sam Long, STU advisor. He said the union provides information for solving problems between students and landlords, and acts as a referral center for legal difficulties.

"At this point, we simply answer and do not act as legal assistants or counselors," Long said. "We are there to guide the student in getting other assistance. STU deals only with student renters at present. Long said, although campus housing may be covered by the union sometime in the future.

Long explained that the student counselors for STU are volunteers trained by "local legal types" and former counselors "who know the ropes." A seminar in tenant-landlord relations was offered last fall, and most of the dozen participants later joined STU, Long said.

Most problems between student renters and their landlords are of a contractual nature, Long said. This involves such things as the failure of a landlord to return part or all of a damage deposit, rent raises not in the contract and failure to maintain the rented dwelling. Many times the dispute goes to a lawyer, Long said, since the problem may be covered in the contract a student has with his landlord.

However, STU is going to take steps this fall to prevent problems growing out of students' inattention to clauses in the rental contract. Long said STU is preparing a booklet to be distributed in early fall, outlining the nature of students' rights and responsibilities as tenants. A model contract will be included in the material, so a student can compare his prospective contract and its features with the model.

Another STU project will be a random survey of student tenants, aimed at comparing different living areas and their respective good points or faults. Data from student reactions to their abodes and landlords will be published as a guide for prospective renters, Long explained, adding that it may be spring, 1974, before the material is available.

Summer finds almost no one on the STU staff, and Long said they will be recruiting in the fall. The organization is close at first, but he said they will be "getting going by the first week of the quarter." Long said he is aiming for a close knit staff of a dozen or less for next year.

"I honestly don't know what our relations with local landlords are," Long said. "Talks with various landlords have yielded both pro and con reactions to STU's activities, he said, adding that a landlord's reaction is probably based on whether he had come under fire from STU.

Long said STU is presently receiving adequate funding from student activity fees, but he added that, "with limited resources, there's only so much we can do." Among the things he would like to see coming from STU is compilation and distribution of tenant education material. This material would outline at least the basics for smooth landlord-tenant relations.

Long said that STU has been invited to participate on the Carbondale Citizens Advisory Committee. He hopes for future opportunities to utilize STU's input and perspective regarding landlord-tenant matters.

Long said he does not know what effect the proposed zoning ordinance, if passed, will have on STU's activity. Whether another landlord-tenant relations seminar will be offered this fall is among the other matters that will be decided later this summer.

Rules change to keep pace with student life

By Stan Kosinski
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

SIU's University Housing Regulations have, like those of other universities, undergone examination and evaluation for the betterment of the community.

Before 1969, a single, undergraduate student who did not reside with his or her parent or guardian would be permitted to reside only in those accommodations which have and which will continue to be classified by the administration as Accepted Living Center or be subject to disciplinary action.

"Accepted Living Center" means a dwelling which provides "facilities, food service and supervision comparable to on-campus residence halls" Samuel Rinella, housing director said.

"We try to keep pace with the lifestyle of the students," Rinella said. "We try to provide the student with what is desirable, such as undergraduate dorms, upper-class dorms, co-ed dorms and graduate dorms with 24-hour visitation."

In 1969-70, the SIU Board of Trustees resolved that only freshmen are subject to the old rule. Sophomores under the age of 21, "not living with parent or guardian, are required to live in on-campus residence halls or University approved off-campus housing." Sophomore-approved facilities include housing and residence hall apartments. Such facilities are not required to provide food service but must have University-approved adult managers and be inspected and approved by the University.

Juniors, senior, graduate students, married students, or those students 21-years-old are not bound by any University housing regulations.

"Southern has some of the most lenient housing regulations in Illinois. Most universities require all undergraduate students to live on campus unless given an exception," Rinella said. In 1972, the Daily Egyptian reported Rinella as saying, "It is possible that the housing restrictions on sophomores would be lifted, but added that restrictions on freshmen are likely to remain."

This year he said that nothing has changed from last year's provisions.

His reasoning in 1972, concerning the freshmen regulation was, he said, "because of the debt incurred by the University and the educational philosophy on the incoming student."

Even though off-campus housing may appear alluring, Rinella said he encourages on-campus living. The reason, he said, is economy.

"With the rising cost of living and food, it is more advantageous to reside on campus," Rinella said.

On-campus housing contracts are written for the fall, winter and spring quarters. The contract remains in effect for all three quarters. Summer contracts are issued separately.

Signing a summer contract does not guarantee housing for the following three quarters. Two separate applications must be completed—one for the summer and the other for the beginning of the next academic year.

All students can have a car. Freshmen and sophomores can register them with the University but cannot park lot which require a parking permit. Parking is allowed in metered lots on campus.

Room assignments are not based on either race, color, creed or national origin. They are made on the date of receipt of advance payment. Residence may retain their rooms for succeeding years as long as space is available and insofar as it is possible to comply with the student's wishes.

Roommates are selected by the students, provided that the requests are mutual, each student has a signed contract filed with the advance payment paid by July 1 and space exists at the time room assignments are made.

The student must report to the check-in desk and present the student's copy of the housing contract. Check-in location is designated by signs at the entrance to the living area.

Students will not be housed prior to the date indicated on the contract. Students who apply earlier must obtain local housing accommodations. Except for the Group Housing area, meals are served three times each day for six days, with breakfast and noon dinner on Sunday.

Residents may not possess or store firearms in their rooms or in any other place in the residence halls at any time.

Each resident is responsible for any University property missing from, or damaged in, his room beyond normal wear and use. All residents of a unit are financially responsible for their pro-rated share of loss or damage to occur in the public area of a unit that cannot be attributed to a known individual.

Pets are not allowed, except for goldfish or tropical fish.

At the beginning of every quarter, the University at times overassigns the halls.

"Every effort is made to alleviate this problem shortly after the opening of each academic quarter."

Weekly linen service is provided, except for towels or other bedding.

On-campus housing areas for single students include, Thompson Point Residential Area, University Park Residential Area, Brush Towers Residential Area, Small Group Housing Area and Southern Acres Residential Area.

Contract costs per quarter are; Thompson Point for men and women is $355; University Park, for two women only, $385; University Park, one woman room, $435; University Park, two men per room, $390; University Park, one-man room, $410; Brush Towers, men and women, $385; Group Housing, men and women, $394; Southern Acres Residence Hall, men, $345; VTI Dormitory, men and women, $265.

If there is a rate change, it will be reflected in the contract. "Rinella said these were the same rent rates last year and do not look as if any will be changed this year."

For information, the student can address his questions to Supervisor of Contracts, University Housing, Building D, Washington Square, Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, Illinois 62901.

Contract offers are based on space available at the time the student is admitted, Rinella said.

Single room option at Thompson Point lures SIU students

By Ed Dunin-Wasowicz
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A lakeside location and resort-like atmosphere aren't the only advantages to living at the Thompson Point (TP) dormitories.

The variety of life styles at TP gives the student the chance to live with one roommate, three or none. Single rooms are available for a nominal difference in price from regular room and board.

During the summer TP closes down, but Will W. Travelstead, dean of the living area, feels that the single room option is what keeps the 11 halls filled during the rest of the year.

"We have a waiting list of people who want single rooms that you wouldn't believe. We had set aside a certain number of rooms for single occupancy, and now they are all sold out," he said.

Before the single room occupancy option, the two choices were two-man and four-man rooms. These are still available.

Rarely two years ago, a co-ed living program was set up experimentally. Since, it has become a regular feature of the living area.

In the fall three dorms will be co-ed, Warren, Smith and Steagall. Smith will be reserved for president scholars and will admit first quarter freshmen.

"It takes a greater degree of maturity and sophistication to live in this environment," Travelstead said.

"He also added that co-ed living isn't the "hot item" that it was two years ago.

"I believe that in the beginning students were attracted to it because of the novelty. Now there is a much more mature outlook on it," Travelstead said.

"It's a very different life style, and some don't care for it," he said.

The 24-hour visitation is available for those who opt for more privacy, but still like to entertain members of the opposite sex.

"At the beginning of the fall quarter," Travelstead said, "or when there is a major turn-over of residents on the floor, the students vote whether their floor will host visitors for the full time or a variation on the hours.

Travelstead said that a 75 per cent majority is needed to pass visitation privileges.

Though no major problems have been experienced, Travelstead said that he had to face an increase in security problems and complaints of lack of privacy.

We are combating vandalism and theft by having the front doors of the halls locked. Residents are issued keys and guests must use the outside phones to gain admittance," he said.

By the end of last spring all the TP dorms were enjoying visitation privileges. Two floors had held off accepting it till that quarter.

"I sometimes feel that students vote for the visitation hours because they feel outnumbered by those who want it," Travelstead said.

Some halls have been classified to handle special group housing. Pierce and Bowyer accept only upperclassmen. For a few years, the third floor of Daily Hall housed the SIU basketball team exclusively. This fall Brown Hall will house the football team.

Thompson Point, in contrast and carry out his counseling duties more efficiently," Travelstead said.

Married student housing easy to find at SIU

By Stan Kosinski
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Married student housing will be easy to secure this fall, according to the University Family Housing Office.

Southern Hills, which accommodates married students with or without children, has 272 furnished apartments and Evergreen Terrace, operated under the Federal Housing Authorities (FHA), can house 364 families. These are the only married student housing areas.

Approximately 60 applications have been filed for both areas thus far. There is no deadline for application filing at either Southern Hills or Evergreen Terrace.

Although Southern Hills, now like Evergreen Terrace, has no waiting list, Business Manager Robert Wenc encourages interested families to fill out an application as soon as possible. First come, first serve is the philosophy University Housing follows in assigning dwellings, Wenc said.

Priorities for Evergreen Terrace assignment are graduate students with children, graduate students without children, undergraduates with children and undergraduates without children, Wenc explained.

Criteria for eligibility at both units are as follows:

1. Faculty must have a full-time appointment. Occupancy is limited to 12 months.

2. Graduate students must be enrolled for a minimum of eight credit hours. Some exceptions can be made, providing prior approval is obtained from Wenc.

3. Undergraduate students must be enrolled for a minimum of 12 hours.

4. To remain eligible for occupancy, a tenant must have completed a minimum of 36 credit hours for undergraduates and 27 hours for graduates during the academic year.

5. Prior to any quarter for which the tenant fails to enroll in the University, except the summer quarter, the student shall provide notice of such intentions to the business manager, together with a statement of his intention to enroll in the University for the next quarter.

6. The husband and wife must occupy the apartment for the full contract term. If either spouse is absent from the apartment, one month or longer, the University reserves the right to terminate the contract.

7. Space is allocated for the immediate family only—husband, wife and children.

Southern Hills, located approximately three-quarters of a mile from the center of the campus, was built in 1968. Its 272 apartments include 12 efficiency dwellings at $113 per month; 100 one-bedroom apartments at $125 per month; eight of which are specifically designed for handicapped students and eight three-bedroom apartments at $138 per month; 12 of which are designed for handicapped couples.

The rent includes water, light and heat bills plus an activities fee paid to the area activity council which plans activities, maintains the recreational areas and acts as a representative of the student tenants in any housing dispute.

Complaints are aired at monthly meetings between Wenc and the council, for which each building elects a representative.

In addition to the general recreational area, Southern Hills features nine playground areas for the tenant's children. A laundromat is available to occupants of the area.

All Southern Hills apartments are furnished while Evergreen Terrace is unfurnished. Evergreen Terrace has 216 two-bedroom apartments for $118 per month, nine of which are designed for handicapped students and 86 three-bedroom apartments at $131 a month. Like Southern Hills, rent includes utilities and a $1 activity fee.

Evergreen Terrace has central air conditioning, while Southern Hills does not. The activity council at Evergreen Terrace works in the same manner as the Southern Hills' council.

The reason for the waiting list at Evergreen Terrace is because the area is an FHA program, Wenc said. Maximum income for two-room is $6,500; for families of three and four, $8,100 and for families of five and six, $9,300.

A contract may be terminated by the University under the following conditions:

1. If the occupant fails to pay rent or other charges when due.

2. If the occupant and his family fail to comply with all the contract terms.

3. If one of the occupants is no longer a bona fide student of SIU.

4. If the student undercontract for housing does not carry the minimum number of required hours.

5. The occupant agrees to accept as sufficient service any notice of termination of occupancy delivered to them by registered U.S. Mail.

6. If SIU terminates occupancy, it has the right to reenter and take possession of the premises and University property and can remove all persons and their personal property.

When the student family wishes to move, an "Intent to Vacate" notice must be filed with the Housing Business Service office 30 days before vacating. Failure to file will liquidate damages against that student's account at the rental rate as charged per day up to and including 30 days.

For further information, contact Housing Business Manager, Family Housing, University Housing, SIU, Washington Square, Building c, Carbondale, 62901, or call 618-453-2301 Extension 38 or 42.

Morris Library more than mere book collection

By Mary Daniels
Student Writer

Just as a house is not necessarily home, a lot of books are not necessarily a library. It takes more than that.

Take SIU’s Morris Library, for instance. It has a lot of books—1,365,882 volumes as of May 1973, according to Sidney Matthews, associate director. But at a look at some statistics from the Association of Research Libraries, of which Morris Library is one of 78 members, gives an indication of other things that must be considered in running a first-class university library.

These are the association’s figures for 1970-71, the latest available, showing how SIU’s library ranked among the nation’s best:

- Volumes added: 136,628 (17th in rank); expenditures for books, periodicals and bindings: $1,300,446 (23rd); full-time staff, 119 (67th); total salaries and wages: $334,785 (48th); and total expenditures: $787,563 (265th).

Morris Library ranked 88th in total volumes—based on 1,494 holdings—when at the time of the 1970-71 report.

Matthews said the low ranking in number of full-time staff reflects the economy of certain library occupations and the relatively greater dependence that Morris Library places on student workers.

But what expansion of the library to eight floors has meant staffing and providing service for a larger operation with no addition of personnel Morris Library, he said, has had its problems in the current period of budget austerity.

Matthews said other major problems of the library are theft and mutilation of books and the continual installation of turnstyles to aid checkers in preventing theft will not come until there is an increase in state funds.

The Law Library, now located in the basement of Morris Library, will move to Small Group Housing and “hopefully will be out of the basement by September 1, 1973,” Matthews said. It will serve the new Law School.

In conjunction with the new Medical School, a medical collection has been added to the Science Library. There is now a small collection and reading room located in Small Group Housing.

An alternative to having the bulk of materials in a large collection, the Undergraduate Library on the main floor is a representative collection of works in all areas of potential usefulness to the undergraduates.

The Undergraduate Library has over 80,000 new books, 500 current periodicals, and serials for 500 students. Also provided and so-called “lost books.”

To keep the Undergraduate collection separate, the Library of Congress classification system has been adopted while the rest of the library uses the Dewey system.

Books in the Undergraduate Library are chosen to support the General Studies program, says Matthews. The two-year self-service Reserve Library is a part of the Undergraduate Library.

The subject libraries include Libraries for Education and Psychology on the fourth floor. Humanities on the second floor. Science on the fifth and sixth floors and Social Sciences on the third floor. Matthews explained that employees working in specialized areas are required to have masters degrees in their area.

Matthews explains books are selected for the library on an approval plan. Representatives of book suppliers meet to determine a subject profile—a guideline for keeping the library’s holdings in tune with new material and faculty and students’ needs. Books are sent to the library for the subject librarians to screen.

Book selection is not restricted to the approval plan. Matthews explained University departments, faculty, and students are able to order books the library does not provide.

“Any book can be ordered, depending on the budget,” Matthews said.

Other areas of the library include a Browsing Room, which contains popular books. Books and manuscripts whose subject matter, beauty, and rarity require special care for their preservation are kept in the Rare Book Room.

The Map Collection occupies the southeast corner of the fifth floor. The Army Map Service and the U.S. Geological Survey map services, in addition to many individual and specialized maps, make up a large part of the collection.

The library also offers a limited number of large-size framed art reproductions available for a 12-week loan from the Humanities library. Framed original prints are also available for loan and are displayed by the circulation desk.

There is a State-Wide Borrower’s Card available to students for academic purposes. The Law School Borrower’s Card has been developed so that graduate students and faculty currently enrolled or teaching at any of the state universities of Illinois may borrow library resources from any other university library of Illinois.

Variety of special services available

Services, ranging from transporting physically handicapped students in a special lift van to profession counseling for psychological problems, are available without charge to SIU students according to the Student Services Office.

These services are designed to supplement and enhance the student’s academic programs, a spokesman for the office said.

The services are available and provided at various units such as the Counseling Center, the Career Development and Placement Center, Specialized Student Services and Student Affairs Date Services.

The Student Services Office also provides direct services to students on a walk-in basis. These services include, spouse ID cards, child care center national service information and a variety of graduate students handbook.

ID cards are issued to non-student spouses. The card allows the spouse to use the University library and obtain University athletic, recreation and entertainment tickets at student rates.

To assist married students, the office publishes a list of licensed day care centers and baby-sitters.

Fall quarter, SIU students will be required to purchase their textbooks for the first time since the Great Depression.

A textbook sales and buy-back program will replace the current book rental system except for general studies courses, Clarence Dougherty, director of the Student Center, said in a recent interview.

The Textbook Rental Service will operate under a new system in which students will be assessed on a per book basis for rented textbooks, Dougherty said.

The Textbook Rental Service, until this quarter the largest textbook rental system in the United States, has announced the new rental policy effective fall quarter, Arthur Logue, manager of Textbook Rental Service, said.

Rental fees will be collected at the issuance of the textbooks on a per-book basis. The rental cost of the textbook will be determined by the manufacturer's list price and the number of times the book is used, Logue said.

"Students will need a current receipt statement, textbook rental service card, current schedule of classes and cash to rent books," Logue said. "They must pass both a cash register and charging machine to complete the new rental process."

The rental fee paid applies only to one academic period, and the return deadline will be one week after the last scheduled final examination, Logue said.

Students who drop courses and expect refunds of their rental fees must take action within the first two weeks of the quarter, Logue said.

Refunds will be made upon presentation of the book, cash register slip and valid drop slip, Logue added.

Books not returned by the deadline will become the property of the student and will not be returnable, Logue said.

The Textbook Rental Service will remain in the west end of Morris Library, Logue said.
SIU mascot was royal dog of ancient Egyptian nobles

By Ralf Walters

A Saluki is one of 15 dogs currently working as search-and-rescue animals for the United States Forest Service.

While the Saluki was originally bred in Egypt, it is now used as a search and rescue dog in the United States. The Saluki has a distinctive appearance, with long, silky fur and a slender build. It was developed as a hunting dog, specifically for chasing gazelles, and is known for its speed and agility.

The Saluki is a medium-sized dog, with an average weight of 15-20 pounds. It is a single-coat breed, with a smooth and shiny coat that can be any color except white. The Saluki has a lifespan of 10-15 years and is generally a healthy breed, though it is prone to certain health conditions such as hip dysplasia and bloat.

The Saluki is a highly trainable and intelligent breed, making it an excellent choice for outdoor sports such as hunting and tracking. It is also a loyal and affectionate pet, making it a great companion for families. Overall, the Saluki is a beautiful and versatile breed that is highly regarded for its physical and mental abilities.

SIU is poised to hop aboard the University monorail and ride to national prominence as an innovator in transportation systems.

An application for a 56-88 million construction demonstration grant from the U.S. Department of Transportation (DOT) is presently working through the University administrative mill. The City of Carbondale has applied for a DOT grant and SIU in applying for the grant, because plans call for an eventual extension of the monorail into the city's downtown area. The system, Lonergan said, is "clearly innovative. That means in considering monorail system design, SIU must look at a plan which constitutes a breakthrough in transportation technology."

Accordingly, SIU has contracted with Pereira and Insull Rapid Transit Systems, Inc. (PRT), based in Chicago Heights, for plans and design services and for help in preparing the grant application. A $50,000 contingency bond was placed with the City if SIU fails to receive the DOT grant, PRT will not submit a bill for its services. John Lonergan, formerly involved in the design of a high-speed train for the architect's office and now a professor of design, was the original creator of the SIU monorail concept.

Late last year he is credited with the idea of using monorails to move high-value office and retail goods at high speeds from the central business district to "a high-speed terminal at campus," he said recently.

Lonergan visualizes the monorail system as a project extending itself extensively to academic and technological study and input. The monorail will also gain a reputation for SIU as a pioneer in the field of transportation system problem-solving, he said, for the SIU system will be unique, a pilot project never before constructed.

The monorail system at SIU, once it gets underway, will probably be constructed in stages, according to R. Richard Lane, SIU vice-president for development and services.

A one-and-a-half mile campus loop system, originating at the SIU Arena and zipping past Brush Towers, the east campus high-rise dormitories, and back to the arena will be constructed first. This initial phase is estimated to cost $66 million, Mager said.

A second phase of construction would install a half-mile link down to Downtown Carbondale and another southwest to Evergreen Terrace, a married student housing complex. The most ambitious plans, produced and advanced by Lonergan, extend the monorail system even further. It would be feasible, Lonergan has said, to eventually extend monorail lines from downtown Carbondale to the extreme east and west edges of the city where there are large shopping centers.

Adequately large parking lots, dotted around the outskirts of the monorail loop, would be appropriate for the system. Most on-campus parking lots would become unnecessary, Lonergan said. Furthermore, the outlying lots will be able to accommodate more cars than the present 7,500-space campus parking system can handle.

There are now around 14,000 cars registered with the University parking division, Lonergan said. During SIU's peak enrollment years, 18,000 cars were registered.

While SIU was growing up, no plans were made to accommodate these thousands of vehicles. As Lonergan put it, "Our campus is built for people and not for automobiles."

Also, planners did not expect SIU's enrollment to climb as it has and no one could foresee that the University one day would drop its restrictions on student use and possession of cars.

A parking and traffic study now under way at SIU will produce specific recommendations for linking up the monorail with parking facilities. Vice-president Mager has said he expects the report to designate a central-campus parking garage as a workable complement to the monorail system.

Lonergan, who properly may be called "The Father of the SIU Monorail," has a verbal picture of what the University community might expect from the monorail system. Lonergan's projections were based on a PRT proposed system.

At peak hours, such as the 7:30 a.m. to 8 a.m. rush hour, 57 monorail cars would be employed to carry the inflow of students, faculty and University employees to their campus destinations. These 57 cars, Lonergan added, would be grouped into seven or eight trains.

Each car, Lonergan said, could accommodate 28 riders. Nearly the entire side of the car would be open to speed passenger entry and exit.

The monorail could make a complete circuit of campus in six minutes, Lonergan said. Even if a student takes the maximum ride on the monorail, he or she would still have 4 minutes left to move from classes to a station or vice-versa. With six stations along the circuit, the average distance from any building to a station could probably be covered in 45 seconds, he said.

The system would be controlled from a computerized panel and monitored by closed-circuit TV. The speed of the trains would be automatically controlled to prevent bottlenecking or other gaps between trains.

The cars, suspended from rails mounted 12 to 14 feet above the ground, would move on a friction-free cushion of air. This system, Lonergan said, is "positively noiseless."

The monorail would run 24 hours a day, and, perhaps its most appealing feature, would offer free rides to all.

Crime problems here; victims partly to blame

SIU, like any other university, has its share of crime problems. What is so tragic is that the victims are usually partly to blame.

Negligence and carelessness are behind many of the crimes which victimize students. Sergeant Don White, of the Police Community Services Center, said.

White explained that such thoughtlessness acts as leaving a dorm room door open, not locking up, assistant security officer McCue said. He added that it is a good policy for students to engrave valuable items with a driver's license number of similar number.

"This increases the recovery rate and lessens the chance that those marked items will be stolen since they have been traced so easily."

Donald Lane, administrative assistant to the Security Office, agreed that the engraving of items is a precaution against theft. He noted that the crime figures in recent years, which were used greatly by students, have dropped.

Statistics also show that the recapture rate of stolen articles has increased since engraving was used.

Mandatory registration for all bicycles on campus may be in effect this fall. Edwards said.

In order to complete this registration, proof of ownership of a bicycle will be required," McCue said. "In anticipation of this possible requirement, students who have bicycles on campus this fall are requested to bring proof of ownership with them."

Lane added that there are other things a student can do besides identifying his belongings in order to safeguard himself and other students from criminal acts.

A student should report incidents which occur so something can be done, Lane noted. Also, a student should report anything suspicious to the Security Office.

The more cooperation the security police receive from students, Lane said, the less appealing the campus appears to criminals. The Security Office, located across from Grinnell Hall, has the largest police force in the area. In addition to 76 policemen, the Office employs 25 students who help the regular policemen with their duties. Lane said.

The Security Office has a large investigative department. Lane said, and is equipped to handle many cases. Lane noted.

"Students can expect help in any crisis situation," McCue said. "We're here to serve and to help." McCue said. "Some of the services which McCue said are offered by the Security Office include contacting students to deliver messages from home, providing safe and orderly passage through campus, maintaining surveillance over the property of the campus and of the students and transporting people to the Health Service or to Doctors Memorial Hospital in Carbondale."

"We're here to help the other law enforcement agencies fulfill their obligations as far as

Locks needed around campus

SIU students are concerned," McCue said. The security police "also help agencies in investigation of narcotics and all kinds of criminal activities," he said.

McCue said the security police force usually confine their activities, to the items campus.

Gridders to play underdog role

Dick Towers predicts his 1973 Saluki football team will be better than the disastrous one of a year ago, but there are plenty of "ifs" in Towers' optimistic tone of voice. Even the Southern Illinois head coach is still skeptical of his team's ability to come back after missing last year's season.

"We're going to have a better offense if defense can do its part," Towers said. "but we won't be as tough on defense.

Both statements seem logical. Defense on a 1-8 team couldn't have been any better. And the offensive unit looked like a cavalry charge across the desert — without ammunition or shoes.

Southern's defense shined in all but two games last fall, but it didn't get any help from the offense. SIU didn't score a point until the fourth game, and was behind a touchdown until the sixth contest, the lone 13-7 win over Ball State. If Towers hopes to finish with a better record in 1973, he'll have to cope with a couple of critical shortcomings — lack of size, experience and a strenuous schedule.

"We were looking forward to last year because you have to be optimistic when a team has lost 11 in a row. We're returning with 10 seniors, and the freshmen will play a key role in our success,

Look for Towers, the fresh will definitely help in the offensive backfield. Especially at quarterback, center Bill Jackson, guard Randy Miles, tackle Leon Hopkins, fullback Brad McAliey, scrimmage Dennis O'Bow and center John Marker

The starting quarterback position is still "up for grabs" as the Sept. 15 season opener against Northern Illinois approaches. Towers has five to choose from — Mike Abew, Leon Hopkins, Brad McAliey, Dennis O'Bow and Areggi quarterbacked most of last year's season as a freshman.

On the basis of what we know he can do, Mike appears to be a strong candidate for the No. 1 job this fall.

O'Boyle, nephew of Tom O'Boyle, SIU's defensive coordinator, has been working at the QB spot to get some speed in the lineup. But it's likely that he'll remain at his most familiar position in the defensive secondary.

Towers maintains that the Saluki backfield is quicker than ever, if not a strong one. Steve Weatherby and Sam Leatenco will fight out at fullback spot along with high school All-Americans Mike Thorne, who Towers said is "a potential great at fullback," despite his small size (5-6, 175 pounds).

Larry Perkins, a two-year quarterback, will be hard pressed by freshman quarterback John Danske at tailback. Towers also said. Joe Laws, Jerry Pickle and Phil Jett are the three other fullbacks. Bruce Puhar remains at split end while Jerry Starbard and Bob Habbe return to solidify the tight end positions.

Like the offense, the Saluki defensive line is practically new. Only linebacker Gordon Richey returns from 72. Craig Schuette is the second linebacker while the third is still up for grabs among several players.

Also hoping to bolster the line are Primus Jones (tackle or guard), Ed Dixon (end) and end Bill Crutcher, who is coming off a knee operation that forced him out of action midway in the '72 season.

"Crutcher is the key to the defense," Towers said. "If he's healthy, then our line will be definitely helped.

Despite key losses in the defensive secondary, the Southern Illinois head coach thinks it's the strong point of the team. Returning veterans include two-time lettermen O'Boyle, Emmitt Burt and Mike Stone and Ed Bell. Handling the kicking chores will be Scott Ellis.

Moving up from college — division to university — division stature is another disadvantage for Towers' young Salukis. The 73 schedule includes, for the first time in school history, a contest with Big Eight foe Oklahoma State.

Tailback Larry Perkins (15) hopes to amend last year's football disaster.

Receivers add muscle to cage squad

Horace Gleeley's statement West, "young man doesn't exactly excite Paul Lambert. Lambert's Southern Illinois head basketball coach goes south for the riches.

First it was prize center Joe Meriwether from Alabama, now a pair of Georgians have joined Lambert's Salukis

What good is recruitment, though, if five men on a basketball court can't win games for the school? That's Lambert's dilemma as the 26-year-old Midwestern native tries to avert a third straight losing season with Saluki fans taking over from Jack Hartman in the summer of 1970.

Lambert's recruits for the upcoming 1973-74 year include James 'Corky' Abrams from Atlanta and Mike Glenn from Coosa County. The freshmen were high school basketball and academic All-Americans.

Two other recruits by Lambert are Perry Hines, All-America junior college transfer from Lakeland (III.) Junior College and, Chicago Dunbar's Tommy Harris.

"The recruits possess the things we like," Lambert said. "We need to add offensive punch in the lineup and at the same time keep our balance on defense. We think the kids can help us.

Last year's Saluki cagers finished with an overall 11-15 record, disappointing in many ways. One fan who denied Lambert's scalp during most of the winter.

People expected a better year but there were only 10 games we can recall where we were completely out of it. A lot of our losses came in the final minutes of the game," Lambert said.

Graduation losses include Nate Hawthorne, John Marker and Don Portugal. Hawthorne, a seventh-round selection by the Los Angeles Lakers in last spring's college draft, led the team in scoring with a 17.3 average.

Marker and Portugal both played sparingly for SIU at guard and forward, respectively.

Top returnees are 6-11 Meriwether, who averaged 17.1 points a game and led the team in rebounds with 307, a 12.3 average. Lambert called Joe C. "the most improved player of last year" and is undoubtedly looking forward to seeing the Phoenix City native in action next season as a more experienced junior.

But Meriwether played too aggressive at times last year, and Lambert hopes to take some pressure off the big man this fall.

"I think we can play a different game this year and give our guards more chances to shoot from the outside," he related.

The Salukis' offensive game was geared to the inside, as they frequently used the "one-man, front" approach. The lone guard was Dennis Shidler, who averaged 9.6 points per game. Other Salukis who saw action at guard were Rickey Boyton, Tim Rieci and Markert.

Returning at forward are George Thompson and Alvin "The Tree" Hendricks, both junior-college standouts before transferring to SIU.

"The competition is going to be tough until the fall," Lambert insists. "I don't think anyone is assured of a job yet.

Many of Southern's problems last year were caused by inexperienced college players trying to become unified and play under Lambert's system. This season, with a year of experience, the Saluki coach thinks more positively.

"The kids have learned a lot in that year of college ball," Lambert said of the six junior-college transfers. "They've been together awhile and know what it takes to win."

Winning won't be that easy. Lambert calls next year's home schedule the best in school history. Some of SIU's top foes include Florida State, run-uppers to UCLA in the 1972 NCAA finals. Creighton, Louisiana Tech, Centenary and Northern Illinois.

On the road, the Salukis will face St. Louis in a doubleheader which precedes the UCLA-North Carolina State game on Dec. 15, the season-opener against Michigan and '73 National Invitational Tournament participant Oral Roberts.

"The fans are going to see an improved team on the court this season," Lambert promised of his Salukis. "It's going to be an interesting year."
STOP and THINK

Where does a college student spend most of his time while away at school?

Most college students spend most of their time while away at school in their place of residency. Far more hours are spent at his housing unit, sleeping, eating, studying and socializing than at any other place.

In view of this fact, shouldn't a student living center be:

- Spacious
- Private
- Modern
- Well Furnished
- Air Conditioned
- Fully Carpeted
- Stimulating
- Secure
- Well Maintained
- Close to school

And conducive to his objectives in school?

By all means, and it should also have:

* Cable TV Service
* A Commissary
* Ample Parking
* Security During Breaks
* Outdoor Gas Charcoal Grills
* 8 Acres of Ground for Outdoor Activities
* Free Maintenance Service
* An Outdoor Swimming Pool

Vistas wide for President's Scholars

By Gene Charleston
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Interested in the sociological and cultural background of Southern Illinois? Or how about the sociology of Utopia? Students interested in subjects such as these won't find them listed in any regular departmental bulletin, but they will be taught this year as part of the President's Scholar Program.

President's Scholar Program is aimed at providing honors quality students a chance to take courses and explore areas outside the regular course offerings of the University, in addition to offering opportunities for obstnstant students to develop their full academic potential.

Eligibility for participation in the program is determined in several ways. Incoming students with a composite score of 28 on the ACT examinations who rank in the upper 25 per cent of their high school class can join the program. Those with an ACT score of 27 who are in the top 15 per cent are also eligible. The maximum possible score on the ACT series is 36.

Students who are not asked to join the program as freshmen can become eligible later. Two quarters work with a cumulative grade point average (GPA) of 4.25 out of five, enables a student to become a President's Scholar. Students without the required GPA can be admitted if other circumstances, such as evidence of exceptional improvement in academic performance, exist.

Several advantages exist for those students who become President's Scholars.

General studies Division and the College of Liberal Arts give President's Scholars early advisement appointments, allowing students a wider choice of class sections during registration.

The President's Scholar ID card permits books to be checked out from the library for four weeks instead of the normal three-week undergraduate checkout period.

A periodic bulletin is also published by the program to inform President's Scholars of future course offerings, schedules of advisement appointments and events of particular interest to President's Scholars.

In addition to these features, the program also maintains a cased dormitory in the Thompson Point housing area, Smith Hall, for use of President's Scholars.

A student who wishes to participate in the President's Scholars program is required to participate in the President's Scholars program. Not all General Studies honors courses are restricted to President's Scholars. Credit may also be earned in honors courses offered by individual departments. Participants usually do this type of study in their major field of study.

Other choices are offered directly through the President's Scholars program. These are independent study projects and special President's Scholars seminars.

The independent study programs involve study sponsored by an individual faculty member. This can be either an "Honors Project" or a "Undergraduate Honors Thesis." These projects can net the ambitious scholar between two and 15 hours of credit, however there is a caveat that work of less than "A" quality will not be accepted.

Various seminars are sponsored by the program each quarter on subjects outside regular courses of study. Past seminars have been offered on such different subjects as "Politics and The Media" and "Revolutionary Movements."

To continue participation in the program, a President's scholar must maintain a 4.0 GPA. If grades fall below this level, the student can be temporarily dropped from the program.

Successful completion of the President's Scholars program, with participation in at least one course connected with the program each year entitles the graduating President's Scholar to special recognition as a President's Scholar on academic transcripts and diplomas.

An outgrowth of the scholars program has been the recent establishment of the President's Degree. Under this program, outstanding students are allowed to, in effect, design their own curriculum.

An advisor helps students who wish to work toward the President's Degree to design a program which includes subjects and areas of study which are of particular interest to the student, even if they don't fall into any recognized departmental major. The only requirement set by the University is that the total number of quarter hours needed for graduation is successfully completed.

Student Center spot for relaxing, playing, unwinding

By Dan Haar
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Need a comfortable place to relax? Maybe watch a little television or catch up on some studying? Perhaps you need school supplies or want to buy a newspaper or magazine. Or maybe you prefer to unwind with a few games of pool.

The Student Center, located at the east end of Thompson Woods across from McAndrew Stadium, provides opportunities for all these plus many more.

"The center is here to provide the services, conveniences and amenities students need," Clarence Dougherty, director of the center, explained. "It is many things to many people."

A large portion of the center is devoted to food service. The cafeteria and serving area in the southwest corner of the ground floor consists of two main dining areas, each seating 450 persons.

A 250-seat snack shop is located next to the dining area for those who just want a hamburger and a shake or a cup of coffee.

Another snack area, designed with rustic features and dim lighting, is in the basement of the center and seats 225. It is equipped with a variety of food and drinks from 11 vending machines. This area has a centrally located stage for entertainment.

On the north end of the first floor are 12 meeting-dining rooms, with varying seating capacities from 10 to 40. Next to these rooms is a 150-seat dining room which "provides all of the niceties expected at a fine restaurant," Dougherty noted.

The ballrooms on the first floor provide space for student-sponsored activities such as dances, films and meetings. These rooms also are rented out to off-campus groups, Dougherty said. "To provide additional funds for the Student Center but, more importantly, to serve the community."

A spacious, comfortable lounge at the south end of the first floor allows students to relax with friends or study. Dougherty said.

The recreation center on the ground floor provides pool tables and bowling alleys. A TV lounge is also located nearby. Movies are shown regularly in the auditorium at the southeast corner of the first floor.

The bookstore, which is being expanded, contains textbooks, bestsellers, self-help supplies, clothes and any other item a student might need. Dougherty noted.

"The whole textbook service has been handed over to the Student Center," Dougherty explained. "The only books it will not carry will be the General Studies books. Those will be rented at the Textbook Rental in the library."

Dougherty said the newly-expanded bookstore should be "in full operation by the time fall quarter starts."

"The Information Service office, also on the ground floor, makes available answers to many questions students have," Dougherty said. "Newspapers and popular magazines also are available."

The center features a new 24-hour self-service postal station at the south end of the ground floor.

A large part of the third floor is devoted to a complex of offices for student government and student organizations, he said.

He said a central lost-and-found is being established.

"I wouldn't kid myself into thinking the Student Center is reaching its full potential," Dougherty said. "There's tremendous facilities here but we are always striving for new programs to reach the students in the best way."

Dougherty pointed out the center has a tight budget. "We have our budget concerns," he said.

No programs have been eliminated but such things as watching hours and slightly increasing prices have been necessary to stay within the budget.

"We know this facility is as good as any in the country," Dougherty said. He added he thinks the center provides any service that is feasible.

"We can't provide these services with just the bigdading though," Dougherty emphasized. "It needs the participation of the students as well."

Recreation geared to student desires

By Jim Braun
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Have you ever played crok-ball or pushball? Better yet, have you ever heard of the terms?

If you haven’t, then you just might get a chance to learn in the next few years. The Office of Recreation and Intramurals is considering adopting these activities. It’s one of several examples in the department’s recent expansion.

“If we see a need for an activity, we won’t hesitate to put it on our program,” Larry Schaake, coordinator of the Office of Recreation and Intramurals, said.

Schaake, who played baseball at SIU in the middle sixties, took over as intramural director in 1971 after the retirement of Glenn "Ace" Martin. In an organization restructuring last March 1972, intramural sports and recreational activities banded together. C.W. Thomas moved from the Student Activities Office to assist Schaake in the Office Recreation and Intramurals.

“It was a good move,” insists Schaake. “We’re better centralized now and students can come to one place for their information.”

Eighteen activities are presently being offered during the 12-month academic year in both individual and team play. Events range from the traditional flag football and softball games to the new wrestling and frisbee throwing contests.

“We keep our ears open for student recommendations,” Schaake said. That’s how we got the frisbee event started—by listening to what the kids wanted.”

In addition to intramural sports, recreational play is open to all students. The weight room, activities room, gymnasium and swimming pool in Pulliam Hall are open during all quarters to students possessing a few statement and identification card. Lake-on-the-Campus is open from spring to fall as students can use boat dock and beach during the day.

Statistics reveal that although student enrollment at SIU has decreased in the past four years, participation in the men’s intramural program has increased markedly. A total of 4,728 participated in intramural activities during fall through spring quarters last academic year. That’s a rise in 1,100, almost a 25 per cent increase in one year. Nearly 52,000 used the Pulliam Hall facilities during the same period, a 30 per cent increase in one year.

“It is sort of odd to see that much of an increase,” Schaake said. “I guess more and more students are getting interested in taking advantage of intramural and recreation activities.”

The women’s liberation movement has also altered the traditional men’s program. The girls can join mixed doubles teams in tennis, racquetball and the canoe races.

Schaake says that he thinks the intramural program at SIU is better than average. He adds that it can become one of the best in the nation once the proposed Recreation Building is completed.

“There’ll be more facilities available for both students and faculty then,” he said.

The women’s intramural program has also experienced a rise in the popularity in one year. Run separately from the men’s program, Charlotte West is director of both women’s intramurals and intercollegiate athletics.

“Some have been a definite increase in our programs,” Ms. West said. “About 4,500 participants were active in fall, winter and spring quarters.”

Activities for women include badminton, volleyball, swimming and other water sports, dancing, fencing, bowling, tennis softball and basketball. So you still think that watching television or going to the bars is the best method of unwinding after class?”

Pass-fail plan offers best of two worlds to students

By Linda Lipman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The pass-fail system at SIU works to help students. The scholar gets credit for his "A" while the grade is not used to calculate his grade point average (GPA). The pass-fail grading system initiated for undergraduate students summer 1972 states: "Students who earn an "A" or "B" by requesting this change at the Office of Admissions and Records before the end of the following term."

The guideline continues: "Neither the "P" or "F" will be counted in calculating the GPA."

The student receives credit for the course if he passes it. If the student fails the course, he receives no credit for it and the grade is not used to calculate his grade point average (GPA). Ms. Sue Eberhart, assistant to the registrar explained.

At the end of summer quarter, 1972, Ms. Eberhart calculated 153 students had taken advantage of the pass-fail option. More than 2,000 students took courses under pass-fail at the end of spring quarter, 1972, she said.

"It probably took that long for courses to catch on to the opportunity," she said. "We don't know where it will go from here."

The purpose of the pass-fail system is to encourage a student to experiment with courses outside his major curriculum, Ms. Eberhart said. The pass-fail eliminates competition for grades, she said. Any student may take a course designated for pass-fail under the traditional grading system. Formal permission of the major department is required before students are permitted to elect pass-fail for a major or minor requirement.

Currently for entering freshman participating in the general studies program, music understanding, philosophy, space science, earth science, government and sociology are offered pass-fail. The Department of Physical Education for Women encourages students to take their courses for pass-fail. The Department of Physical Education for Men also offers courses for pass-fail.

For majors, all courses required in the Department of Economics are offered pass-fail. Forestry 104 is offered pass-fail to forestry majors. Students in the School of Business may take required courses for pass-fail when the courses are offered outside the School of Business and when such courses are available for pass-fail.

The pass-fail option will be evaluated by institutional research before the end of the second year of its operation. A report will be made to the Joint Standing Committee on Undergraduate Education Policy.

Students follow usual registration procedures when registering for courses on pass-fail. They may change their course registration status from pass-fail to regular grading system and vice versa during the first four weeks of the quarter.

For more information regulating the pass-fail system, students may refer to the SIU Bulletin 1973-1974.
Student fees plummet; textbook rental dropped

Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

With the cost of living rising steadily in the United States it is difficult to purchase anything at last year’s prices.

But students attending SIU this fall will pay less student fees than students who attended last year.

Student fees for 1973-74 total $193 instead of the $201 charged last year. This is due to the elimination of the Textbook Rental Service which had cost students $8.50 per quarter.

Students attending SIU fall quarter will purchase books at bookstores located on campus in Carbondale.

The $193 student fee is divided into six categories: the Student Welfare, Athletics and Recreation fee (SWRF), student activities, medical benefits, Student Center, student activities, and tuition.

Students pay $15 into SWRF which is used for the construction of the Student Welfare Cooperation and Recreation Building.

Students pay $10 toward the Athletic fee and the Student Center.

Women’s Collegiate Athletics receives $30,000 a year with the remainder going toward Men’s Intercollegiate Athletics.

The Student Center fee is used for operational expenses for the center and also to pay the debt incurred for construction of the building.

An $11.50 Medical Benefits Fee is used toward medical services students received at the University Health Service.

This service includes:

- Clinical facilities which are open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday.
- Emergency service at Doctor’s Hospital in Carbondale where a physician is on duty 24 hours a day.
- Ambulance service to the Health Center or Doctor’s Hospital.
- Infirmary facilities for 15 days. If the student is in the infirmary more than 15 days the charge is $17 per day for a private room and $15 per day in a ward.
- X-rays, laboratory and pharmacy facilities.

The Minor Care Clinic which is designed to provide advice and medication of a non-prescription nature to “walk-in patients.” The clinic has two registered nurses on duty from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

- A drug and human sexuality program.

The administrators of the Health Service anticipate a hospital and specialty care plan within the next school year depending on the possibility of reallocation of fees so students fees will not be increased.

This plan calls for the Health Service to enter into a contract with Doctor’s Hospital and specialists in the area to treat students.

Students pay $3.50 toward the Student Activities Fee which is handled by the Student Senate Finance Committee.

This fee, which totaled $175,000 this year is used to finance various student organizations on campus who need funding for programs and operational expenses.

Organizations request funds from the Joint Fee Allocation Board, which consists of two administrators, two faculty members, two graduate students, six undergraduate students, and members of the Finance Committee. This board makes a recommendation to the Student Senate and Board of Trustees of how much money should be appropriated to the organizations. Funds received by organizations is determined by priority levels, which are determined in accordance with the number of students the organization represents and how much impact it has on the total student population.

Student Government and the Student Government Activities Council are in priority one. The remaining $145 is used for tuition. This accounts for about one-sixth of the total cost of running the University.

Programs for veterans consolidated with grant

By David C. Millet Jr.
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

With the help of a $125,000 federal grant, all veteran service and benefit programs at SIU have been consolidated.

Jack O'Dell is coordinator of the three offices which will take care of GI Bill payments, help veterans with their various problems and provide educational counseling, testing and tutoring for vets in school.

Most of the grant money will go for salaries and new positions in the Veteran Affairs program, said John Chaudoin, a councilor with Veteran's Outreach. New staff members will help with ongoing Outreach's functions and be hired, as well as a number of personnel for the college preparatory program.

Outreach has been concerned with helping Veterans with any types of problems they may have. Chaudoin said. He mentioned finding jobs, cutting through bureaucratic red tape and getting vets acquainted with SIU as a few of its services. With a bigger staff, Chaudoin hopes one person can be in the office on call at all times during the day.

The Veteran's Benefits office, coordinated by Lyle Williams, will continue its complicated task of arranging GI Bill payments for veterans, maintaining their records, and investigating checks that do not get sent out on time. Williams expects to be assigned three more part-time workers, and he said their help would be needed in his office and coordination with others in Veterans Affairs.

The third office in the program will be concerned with providing programs to educationally assist veterans entering SIU. An intensive, one-quarter program is being initiated to give veterans help in obtaining knowledge and background skills necessary to college work.

In addition to these plans, efforts will be made to give both on- and off-campus veterans information about benefits they may have coming. Williams and Chaudoin said. They agreed that the new program would be advantageous to all veterans in the area.

11 departments, agencies join to form new college

By Ed Dunin-Wasowicz
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A common goal of improving the quality of human life at the individual, family and community level has been adopted by 11 SIU departments and agencies which have been formed into the new College of Human Resource Development.

The units in the new college are Black American Studies; the Center for the Study of Crime, Delinquency and Corrections; the Rehabilitation Institute; the Department of Design; Community Development Services; the Social Welfare Program; the Department of Child and Family; the Department of Clothing and Textiles; the Department of Family Economics and Management; the Department of Food and Nutrition; and the Department of Interior Design.

Stanley H. Smith, dean of the college, stressed the roles of each of the units.

"Each department or unit will have full autonomy to plan and develop its own teaching, research and service programs, but they have chosen to act in consort because of their common interests in human relationships, environment, economic and personal potential."

Smith is the first black dean at SIU. He came here from Fisk University in Nashville where he was the university dean. It was also at Fisk that Smith received his bachelor's and master's degrees in sociology and psychology.

500-pound black bear killed in Chattanooga by policemen

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn.-A 500-pound black bear was killed in a tree after a wild pursuit by police.

The bear was first reported by a motorist who called police headquarters and said, "You're not going to believe this, but..."

Officers didn't, until a similar report came in from a policeman patrolling the area. Officials said they had no idea where the bear came from or how it got there.
Black American Studies plans 1975 degree program

By Linda Lipman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A bachelor's degree program in Black American Studies may be offered by fall 1975, Clifford Harper, director of Black American Studies, has announced.

Harper, who became director June 1, said the first major change under his direction became effective July 1 when Black American Studies became part of the new, College of Human Resources.

"Our priority for this summer is to get the proposal for the bachelor's degree written and sent to Dean Smith (new dean of College of Human Resources)," Harper said.

"Due to the complicated process within the University, it will take some time before the proposal is approved by the Board of Trustees," he added.

Harper explained the advantages of the bachelor's degree in Black American Studies. "Due to a lack of information, the University community has not been able to deal with blacks.

Harper pointed out that, particularly, students in Business or education would benefit from a degree in Black American Studies.

"The future businessman should be exposed to the black experience. There is a definite black economic market. The future teacher would be better prepared to deal with any child if he has information on what the black child is all about," he said.

Clifford Harper

Any student who learns the sensitivities of black people can deal with them better, Harper added. The program is for any student who plans to deal with black people.

"Black American Studies is a valid academic program using academic expertise to serve people to return better service to the community," Harper remarked.

The Black American Studies program at SIU was formally approved at the end of the 1968 summer quarter by Chancellor Robert Mac Vicar. The acceptance of the operational design was made by a committee of black faculty: Staff and students on the Carbondale campus launched the program.

The program now includes more than fifty course titles, seven of these under the Black American Studies departmental heading. This program offers both a special major and two minors in Black American Studies.

"Our final major is considered interdisciplinary, because it brings together a body of closely related but traditionally separated disciplines. Information regarding procedures for becoming a major or minor in Black American Studies may be obtained from the Black American Studies Office.

Harper is presently negotiating to add courses to the Black American Studies curriculum for the fall quarter.

Students who want information regarding course offerings should consult the registration center or the Office of Black American Studies.

Harper came to SIU from Sangamon State University in Springfield where he was assistant professor of literature and faculty administration in the School of Humanities.

President says U-Senate 'an arena for conflict'

By David C. Miller Jr. Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The University Senate is “an arena for conflict,” said John Hawley, president.

“We provide an open forum for all the various types of people existing at the University,” Hawley stated. Conflict and discussion, compromise and change are the medium for the group’s progress, he said.

The U-Senate is a kind of United Nations for the various interest groups on campus. The U-Senate’s membership includes representatives from the student government, faculty members, graduate students, undergraduate faculty and the administrative and professional staffs.

The groups’ memberships in U-Senate enable them to exchange ideas and solutions to problems, and to present a united front in dealing with the administration.

Hawley said he was concerned with getting U-Senate going and discussing substantive issues. After the senate agrees on a particular course of action, he said, its findings, recommendations and advice are forwarded to various university officials.

The administration welcomes Senate input into university matters, Hawley said. He said both sides benefit from the exchange of ideas and advice, and the administration lately has been seeking U-Senate opinions. Hawley, although “neither for nor against” the administration, said good rapport exists between the bodies.

U-Senate has had to reorganize this past year, following a denial by President David R. Derge of the senate’s legislative powers. Hawley explained the senate formerly had veto power over University decisions, but Derge withdrew this power.

“Now all we have is influence, and for my money, that’s more than enough,” Hawley said. He said he recognized that the president and the Board of Trustees have the sole legal power in University matters, and “that’s the way it should be.”

However, Hawley said he feels U-Senate has more power now than it did when it possessed the legislative vote.

Hawley said he feels U-Senate has more power now than it did when it possessed the legislative vote. He said the veto posed a threat to some administrative officers, who in turn would not readily listen to what the senate had to say.

“The threat of influence” is the senate’s tool now, Hawley said. The administration is no longer intimidated, he said, and is accordingly more open to ideas and suggestions. “If we make sense, they’re going to buy it,” he said confidently.

There have been recent charges that the administration does not consider the advice of the U-Senate or its constituents. Some say that outside advice is only sought for appearance’s sake. The U-Senate is organizing a committee to document cases in which the administration has allegedly not lived up to its promise to consult with various bodies.

“I do trust them (administration),” Hawley countered. Derge appeared before the U-Senate July 16 to refute charges against his administration. Hawley said his faith is with the administration’s statements until he sees evidence to the contrary.

“Chewing up and sorting out recommendations, then making them operational” will be the biggest task facing the senate this fall, Hawley said. The senators must choose which programs they want to follow, although Hawley said their content will not be known until U-Senate convenes for fall quarter.

The senate has a “chance to move, even if a little more slowly than in the last five years,” Hawley said. Derge’s 17 months as president have produced “no substantive (University) direction yet,” he said, but he felt that time would take care of this. He said the University must adjust to the “managerial” type of president Derge represents.

The administration has assured him the University will go where the faculty wants it to go,” Hawley said. He sees this as an imperative for action.

Hawley is not pessimistic or disappointed about the University or its future. He said the next 20 years will provide the chance to prove the University can “flourish on ideas, not money.”

Organizations make SIU a paradise for joiners

By Ken Townsend
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

An old maxim states there are as many different interests as there are people.

Southern Illinois University, which prides itself in educating the “whole man,” offers a comprehensive co-curricular activity program, with seemingly as many diverse organizations as there are student interests.

Presently the Student Activities Center recognizes 250 major organizations and assists these organizations with student fees, Carol Coventry, assistant to the coordinator of student affairs, said in a recent interview.

Organizations partially or wholly funded by student fees are divided into four major categories, according to the general nature of their purpose, programs and structures, Ms. Coventry said.

Approximately 30 organizations designed to be of service and importance to all students at SIU are categorized under "University Impact," Student Organizations and Programs, Ms. Coventry said.

Additionally, there are hundreds of departmental organizations, scholastic and professional honoraries, and special interest groups, Ms. Coventry said.

"All University Impact" organizations include include government functions, publications, coordinating councils, sports and entertainment functions and public interest activities, Ms. Coventry said.

Governmental functions include clubs, organizations and the Graduate Student Council.

Departmental organizations are the representative arm of the student body which dedicates itself to the political, economic and social elements of the student community.

The Graduate Student Council is the official representative organization of 2,500 graduate students at SIU. The Council consists of 15 members elected by the graduate community on both academic and social matters.

Publications under the Daily Egyptian, the Obeisik and the Student Voice. The Daily Egyptian is the campus newspaper, distributed free Monday through Saturday. The Obeisik is the SIU yearbook, student-edited, produced and written, available at minimum cost. The Mirror is a quarterly publication which provides a means of voluntary evaluation of instructors and courses.

Coordinating councils include the Black Affairs Council, the Inter-Greek Council, Interfaith council, International Student Council, Married Students Activities Council and the Student Government Activities Council.

Sports, Recreation and Entertainment includes the Intramural and Recreation program, Lectures and Entertainment, music activities and the School Spirit Council.

Public Interest activities include the Family Planning Program, the Illinois Public Interest Research Group (a Ralph Nader-styled action group) and the Student Environmental Center.

Departmental organizations are open to students wishing to further study in their major or related field, Ms. Coventry said.

Some of the major departmental organizations include the Accounting Club, Agriculture Student Advisory Council, the Arnold Air Society for AFROTC cadets, Debate Squad, Der Deutschke Klub, Philosophy Club, Pre-Law Club, SIU Women's League, SIU Press Club and the Undergraduate Sociology Club.

Scholastic and Professional Honoraries are open mostly by invitation, Ms. Coventry said. Memberships in organizations are usually sponsored or selected from the top students of different departments, she added.

Honoraries include Alpha Kappa Psi for students in business management, the American Institute for Interior Design, Chemeka for chemistry students, Kappa Tau Alpha for journalism students, Phi Eta Sigma for scholastic achievement among freshmen, and Zeta Phi Eta for speech students.

Special interest organizations are groups composed of students who share an interest, cause or hobby. These organizations usually are initiated by students and open to anyone, Ms. Coventry said. Special interest groups wishing to receive fee allocations must file petitions for recognition with the Student Activities Center, Ms. Coventry said.

The petition form must be signed by 10 students and returned to the Student, Activities Center. The petition is then presented to the Student Senate, the Assistant Dean of Students for Student Activities and the Dean of Students for approval, she said.

Each recognized student organization is responsible for submitting five copies of a constitution and statement of purpose with the petition, and must agree to deposit all funds with the University Business Office, Ms. Coventry added.

The Student Activities Center keeps an updated list of organizations, officers and advisors.

A "pentaflex" filing system is used to identify the organizations and their purposes.

The "pentaflex" system is similar to a library card-catalog system, Ms. Coventry explained. The file will be located in the Student Affairs division of the Student Activities Center, and will be a matter of public record.

Special Interest groups include political parties, religious and social activities, Ms. Coventry explained.

Some of the major specialized organizations are the Action Party, the Arab Student Organization, the Bahai Club, Black Student Union, Campus Crusade for Christ, the Council of President’s Scholars, Gay Liberation Organization, the Hispanic-American Friendship Association, SIU Cycling Club, the SIU Science Fiction Club, the Student Civil Liberties Union and Zero Population Growth.

The number of special interest groups changes yearly as new organizations come into being and others become inactive, Ms. Coventry said.

Students wishing to join an organization and who find it inactive are encouraged to start their own, she said.

Petition forms are available from the Student Activities Office, third floor, Student Center, and must include the proposed name of the organization, a statement of purpose and a signature of a faculty member who will serve as fiscal officer.

Top administration to include two new faces for fall quarter

By Gene Charleton
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Students returning to SIU after the summer break will find two new faces in the top administration—both in new positions. That of the dean of students was not known as this edition went to press.

When the 1972 academic year began last fall, new administrators were getting used to a new set of positions recommended by President R. D. Derge's Management Task Force. The task force was set up to examine the University's administrative structure and come up with an alternative to what Derge described as administrative chaos.

The report issued by the task force called for a restructuring of the University administration, with four vice presidents replacing a number of assistant to the president.

Most of the persons and positions established by the reorganization which followed the task force report are still around, although there have been a few changes in the intervening year.

Fall quarter will mark the beginning of Derge's second academic year as president of SIU-Carbondale. He came to SIU in February, 1972 from Indiana University, Bloomington, where he was executive vice president and dean for administration.

He had been associate dean of the UI graduate school and a professor of political science. Before joining the IU faculty in 1956, Derge taught at Washington State University at Pullman, Northwestern University and University of Missouri-Columbia.

Working under Derge are three vice presidents for academic affairs, administration and development and services—recommendations of the task force and also a dean of students.

Keith Leasure, vice president for academic affairs and provost, is one of the faces in a new position. He replaced Willis Malone when Malone resigned June 30 from the positions of vice president for academic affairs and provost and executive vice president.

Prior to becoming academic affairs vice president, Leasure had served as assistant provost under Malone. As one of two assistant provosts, he was responsible for a number of functions. He also has served as chairman of the Department of Plant Industries in the School of Agriculture.

The second new administrator, the dean of students, was to be nominated by Derge in time for the Sept. 14 Board of Trustees meeting. Upon board confirmation of Derge's nominee, he or she will take office Sept. 15.

He has had the effective resignation date of George Mace, outgoing dean.

In June, Mace requested reassignment to full-time teaching in the Department of Government. His resignation was announced Aug. 3. As this issue went to press, Derge and Daniele Orescanin, executive vice president, were conducting interviews to determine the administration's nominee.

Although the Management Task Force report recommended the appointment of a vice president for student affairs, that appointment has never been made. Derge has said the new dean of students will hold office only until July 1974.

While in office, the new dean will be asked to study ways of revamping the student affairs division. Derge has said he doesn't see this assignment as being in conflict with the work of the Management Task Force. There is a possibility that analysis may indicate changes in the student affairs division which might make a vice presidential appointment inappropriate. Derge said.

Vice President for Administration, Campus Treasurer and newly-appointed Executive Vice President Daniele Orescanin "was brought to SIU by Derge in 1972. At IU he had been Derge's assistant. He was named vice president for administration and campus treasurer in the task force-recommended reorganization, and assumed the additional duties of executive vice president July 1 when Malone's resignation became effective.

T. Richard Mager was named SIU legal counsel in 1971. Before coming to the University, he had been legal counsel for the University of Missouri curators and had a private law practice. He became vice president for development and services during the services during the reorganization last summer, and was replaced as legal counsel by John Huffman.

Other top administrators, new and old, include Hollis Merritt, Derge's executive assistant, also appointed in July, 1972.

People’s Mart helps families fight increasing grocery prices

The People’s Mart of Carbondale at 100 E. Jackson is for people who want to combat high food prices.

Jim Roberts, a member of the co-op, said the co-op is open to anyone willing to work a few hours per month. The business opened in 1971 with around 20 member families and presently has 40 families.

The co-op, a non-profit organization, buys food in large quantities in order to get the lowest possible prices for its members. It buys produce from a larger co-op in Belleville and purchases dairy products from the local Sealtest distributor.

Meat is purchased from a local farmer who slaughters, packs and freezes it for the co-op. However, Roberts said meat sometimes is difficult to get.

Mary Anne Dalzell and Denis Luczycki, two original members of the co-op, do most of the ordering and also are the head buyers. There are about six or seven more “regular” volunteers who do most of the work around the People’s Mart, Roberts said.

Food pick-up for members is between 2 and 6 p.m. on Fridays at the Old Long Branch Saloon on East Jackson. When members pick up their food, they turn in an order for the next week.

There is no “official” credit extended to members but if a family cannot pay in full they can usually work something out, added Roberts.

According to Roberts, the average family of four saves from 10 to 20 per cent on food prices. The foods most frequently ordered are fresh fruit and vegetables, meat, milk, cheese, yogurt and bread.

There is no dominant group among the approximately 100 members of the co-op, Roberts said.
Variety of loans, scholarships, part-time jobs available at SIU

By David C. Miller Jr., Daily Egyptian Staff Writer and Ed Haysaky, Student Writer

Well over half of SIU's students will have the occasion to visit the Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance (SWFA) this fall.

For some, it's for a loan, grant or scholarship; for others, it's part-time work. SWFA Director Frank Adams oversees the complex operation of finding some kind of financial help for the student.

Adams explained that there are three basic types of help available: A student may be eligible for a scholarship or grant; a loan may be needed for the student's resources; or the student might by looking for a part-time job.

Scholarships and Grants

The Illinois Scholarship-Grant program is the "basic, number one source of money" for many students, Adams said. A student's tuition and fees are paid, based either on scholastic performance or need. Adams estimated about 5,000 students will be in the program this fall.

There are also about 675 SIU scholarship available. Adams said, assigned by individual schools and colleges. The scholarships pay for tuition only, based on a student's grades.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) provides financial help for worthy athletes. The full NCAA scholarship includes payment for athlete's full room and board, tuition, fees and books.

The administration of records and funds is in Adams' department, but he said selection of the individual athletes is up to their coaches and the physical education department.

Outstanding scholars may be eligible for monetary awards during the year. Adams said the College of Art and Communications, General Motors and Kodak may send checks to SWFA with stipulations for disbursement. Adams said the grant is often based on whether the company has any SIU graduates in its employ.

There are a number of other scholarship programs being planned. Adams said, including a "free ride" which would pay all of a student's yearly expenses. Adams said this particular program is based on outstanding academic achievement.

Frank Adams

Loan Programs

The Illinois Guaranteed Loan program will be more selective this year, but Adams expects about 2,200 students to receive loans through it. A "need analysis" will be run for each student, Adams said, in order to screen those who may not be in serious financial trouble.

The state program arranges banks with loans, with the maximum available amount being $1,000 for freshmen, $1,500 for sophomores and $2,500 for juniors, seniors and graduate students. Adams said the loans are available only once during the student's senior year. Students pay seven percent interest on the loan while they are in school, unless sufficient need is shown to waive interest payments until after graduation. Adams said applications for the loan are taken all year.

A National Direct Loan provides an amount which varies with individual need, and provides up to $1,000. Adams said this loan is assigned according to "extreme need" of the student and that 700 to 1,000 students will be in the program this fall.

The student is changed only the per cent interest. Adams said applications can be made any time, although the student should apply one term before expecting the loan.

There is a "great deal of concern" at federal and state levels concerning the loan programs. Adams said the number of students who do not re-pay the loans has resulted in the program being "in jeopardy right now," Adams said.

"I predict that if collections are not increased, the loans may be discontinued," he said. Adams felt that if the students do not respond to the trust they are given, the money for loans may not be available in a generation, or sooner.

Another function of Adams' office is to provide emergency loans for students in a sudden financial crunch. However, Adams stressed there are regulations and policies guiding when the loans may be made. The short-term loans, for $50 to $100, will probably go out to 3 to 4,000 students this year, Adams said. The loan must be paid back in 60 days, and there is a $1 service charge.

Student Work

About 1,000 jobs will be open for student workers this fall, French said. There are about 200 different kinds of work programs, and nearly all of these will need workers. The turnover of students following the spring and summer quarters is the reason for the big job market in September, French said.

Laboratory work, maintenance, greenhouse care, feed production and surveying are among the "eligible jobs for a student. Job-seekers can also find clerical work, jobs with food services and driving for Campus Transit, among other possibilities.

French said jobs are always available to people who have typing and shorthand skills. The University employs over 1,000 student clerical workers, he said, adding that the quota for these jobs has not been filled in two years.

"We do not place students, but refer them to the jobs they want and are qualified for," French explained. The office also can refer students to the estimated 1,500 off-campus jobs.

Before a student can be referred to a job, SWFA must have an American College Testing (ACT) Financial Statement on file. The form lists both student's and parent's income and assets, although French said the parental information is not needed, if the student has had state recognition as being financially independent for three years.

"All the information is kept in confidence and the purpose of obtaining this data is to let the office know what the financial need of the student is," French said.

Diverse music offerings open to anyone interested

By John Russell
Student Writer

Have you ever heard the sackbut or the Krummhorn played? If you had lived in the years between the Middle Ages and 1750, you probably would have. At SIU, you will still have a chance to hear these instruments and others from this period.

The Collegium Musicum is a group of singers and musicians who play and sing music from the 13th to 18 centuries. The instruments include sackbut (ancestors of the trombone- two Jazz Ensemble players); and recorders (vertical flutes).

John Boe, director of the Collegium Musicum for the past two years, says the group is composed of 20 singers and "an expandable number of players, between three and 15, depending upon the music to be performed."

The Collegium Musicum performs at least once a quarter, usually in the Student Center of the Home Economics Auditorium. Instruments are provided by the university or by the musicians themselves.

However, the SIU School of Music offers other types of music programs. Any student interested in playing or singing can become involved.

Robert House, director of the School of Music, says that the school offers programs emphasizing participation for all students, not just music majors. There are groups for anyone.

The Marching Salukis are probably SIU's best known musical organization. They perform during football games in the fall, and this year will travel to Pittsburgh to play during halftime of a Steelers game.

Membership in the Marching Salukis is open to anyone who can play a band instrument.

Some of the other groups offered by the School of Music are:

- The Symphonic Band, open to all students. The band numbers between 90 and 100 musicians and performs one concert each quarter.
- The Wind Ensemble, made up of wind and percussion instruments. There are openings for approximately 50 students, with auditions required.
- Two Jazz Ensembles, with close to 20 musicians in each. These are large dance bands and auditions are again required.
- The SIU Orchestra, comprised of 60 members who play string, wind and percussion instruments. Auditions are not required.
- The Brass and Percussion Ensemble, which has openings for 20 musicians, who must audition for spots in the group.
- The School of Music also offers many programs for those who would rather sing than play.

Some 100 singers are needed for the University Singers group, with no audition required. The University Singers perform large mixed ensemble works.

The University Choir requires an audition for its 50 members, who perform serious choral works. The University Choir performs on campus throughout the year.

The SIU Chorale performs contemporary choral literature, mainly from the 20th century. The SIU Chorale is composed of approximately 60 singers and is open to all students.

The 25 members of the Southern Singers perform popular works. Anyone can audition for membership in the group.

The Male Glee Club is open to all males. The 30 to 40 members perform many concerts throughout the year.

The Women's Chorale Ensemble performs one concert per quarter, comprised of 25 vocalists and is open to all women.

The Opera Workshop performs one big opera during winter quarter and opera excerpts during fall and spring quarters. There are openings for 40 singers.

The School of Music also provides free music lessons for members of the groups. This year, for the first time, the school is offering guitar lessons for those who are interested.

"We would like to serve all who have an interest in music," says House. And if you're interested, there's an opening for you.
Student Activities Center services organizations

Like most large universities, SIU boasts an incredible number of student government committees and student organizations. Such duties as money matters, formulating program policies, maintaining group dynamics and following university policies and procedures are but a few of the “orders of business” assigned to each committee and organization.

The Student Activities Center (SAC) provides help in the areas and offers assistance with any other problem that may come up. Sharon Hooker, assistant coordinator of student activities, said, “We’re service oriented.” Ms. Hooker said the philosophy behind the SAC, she said, is student programming for students. “We work with students to program their activities.”

Some of the main activities of the center include providing advisors to the Student Government Activities Council (SGAC), programs educational, social, recreational, cultural, entertainment-type activities on campus. Ms. Hooker said. These advisors, she noted, help the many committees of the SGAC in fiscal matters and other such operating duties. It also aids in the communication between the SGAC and other organizations.

Some of the programs with which the center helps the SGAC are the Spring Festival, Parent’s Day, concerts and local film series activities and weekly dances and entertainment in the Student Center.

The Staff personnel of the SAC also assist in the formation, recognition and faculty advisement of the many student organizations. Ms. Hooker said. Ms. Hooker said advisory and clerical staff are provided to help with the fiscal management of the student organization. She noted. Ms. Hooker noted that the SAC approves purchases which are made by a committee or organization only after a particular purchase has been approved by the Student Senate.

A certain amount of student fees are allocated to the Student Organizations Fund and money is provided to the groups from this fund with the authorization obtained from the Student Senate.

The SAC coordinates and maintains records of these student groups and provides information concerning all recognized student groups to those interested.

“If a student wants to know how to join a committee or a student group, we have the information for him,” Ms. Hooker said.

There are about 3000 students actively engaged in one or more of the 240 student organizations on campus, she noted. “Last year the SAC scheduled more than 4300 meetings and functions for these groups, averaging more than 300 meetings or functions per month.

Another program which the SAC sponsors is the Mobilization of Volunteer Effort (MOVE). This program, Ms. Hooker explained, provides recruitment, training, orientation, evaluation and recognition of volunteers.

The staff of the SAC also coordinates and implements group travel programs such as the annual Spring Break charter flight to Europe and regional bus trips.

In the past years, the SAC has sponsored charter travel programs to Switzerland, Spain, England, Italy, Germany and Greece.

The SAC offers two formal courses for credit. Higher Education 402 is a group leadership and ship course, Ms. Hooker said, and is designed for members of fraternity and sorority groups.

The other course, University 300, provides an introduction in higher education and is for students who are either involved or interested in student governance.

Ms. Hooker said that about 100 students enroll for one or both of these courses each year.

The SAC also provides a variety of services for the Student committees, and organizations including duplicating, sign making, mail boxes, handbooks, storage and typing facilities and room scheduling.

The center keeps an extensive file containing information on speakers, bands, films, theater groups, booking agents and vendors to help the student groups plan their activities.

The SAC is sponsoring with the New Students Activities a pre-registration orientation this summer. Ms. Hooker said. Students are invited to come to the Illinois Room in the Student Center on the dates they are scheduled to register where “every and all questions students may have can be answered,” Ms. Hooker said.

At 11 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. guided tours through the campus are offered on the tour train.

Working on committees and other groups offers a unique learning experience, Ms. Hooker emphasized. She said students learn how to operate within a budget, discover how to overcome problems which arise when trying to put ideas into action, and to experience from working with people.

“Most students who have worked with the SAC have been very positive concerning what they’ve learned,” Ms. Hooker said.

Ms. Hooker said the cutback of student fees has demanded more creativity from students in planning their activities. No price has been allocated, she said, but cuts had to be made.

The committees and groups constantly reevaluate their programs, she said, attempting to plan their activities to fit what the students want.

Religious organizations offer services, activities for SIU

By Joanne de Fiebre
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

SIU is affiliated with several religious organizations which provide activities and services for many students.

For Catholic students, the Newman Center, 711 S. Washington, provides a sense of community for university personnel and residents of Carbondale.

Liberty services are held at 12:15 p.m. and 5:15 p.m. daily, 5 p.m. on Saturday and 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. on Sunday.

Confessions, baptisms and weddings are held at the Center.

The Newman Center offers pre-cana conferences, scripture sessions, films and social activities. They have a cafeteria open during the week and a day-care center.

The Lutheran Student Center, 700 S. University, provides a “Lutheran” campus ministry designed not only for Lutheran students, but also to provide a unique Lutheran ministry to the campus.

The Rev. Alvin Horst, pastor, stresses the freedom of the Gospel of Jesus Christ from the particularistic perspective of the Lutheran heritage.

The Center includes worship, study, lounging and recreational facilities.

The Chapel of St. Paul the Apostle at the Center has services every Sunday at 10:45 a.m. ranging from traditional to folk style.

The chapel has the finest pope organ in the area the Rev. Horst said.

He said quarterly study sessions seminars and instruction in New Testament Greek are available.

The Center participates with other campus religious centers to provide retreats, fellowships, nights and the Spring Festival of Hope.

The Student Christian Foundation, 913 S. Illinois, is an attempt by six denominations to provide a ministry to SIU students.

These denominations are American Baptists (Northern), African Methodist Episcopal, National Baptist, United Presbyterian and United Church of Christ.

In recent years the foundation has served as an information distribution center for various organizations in Carbondale.

They provide facilities for the Southern Review newspaper, The Carbondale Friends, a women’s conscience raising group, and a yoga society.

A community vegetarian meal is held at the foundation at 6 p.m. each Sunday afternoon is open to anyone in the community.

The foundation also provides counseling services and works with various legal counselors in the community.

The Center holds four large activities throughout the year, usually around major holidays.

The Center also sponsors an International Banquet and has a recreation room with ping pong and pool tables which is open to the public.

The Wesley Foundation, 816 S. Illinois, is supported by the United Methodist Church in Carbondale and provides a campus ministry to students.

A Sunday service, called Celebration, is held at 10:45 a.m. The service makes use of a band and other contemporary art forms.

Other religious organizations at SIU include the Intervarsity Christian Fellowship, 1297 N. Freeman, Hillel Foundation, 803 S. Washington and the Lutheran Fellowship 301 W. Elm.
Student welfare at heart of Government interests

Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Student Government at SIU is a highly organized mechanism created to represent students and their interests. The student government constitution preamble stresses its role in matters pertaining to student welfare, student activities, student participation in University planning, and administration and student opinion.

Mike Carr, student body president for 1973-74, said Student Government acts as an advisory board to the administration.

"We deal with spending student fees and advising the administration on student welfare as a whole," he said.

Carr said the administration doesn't look at Student Government as having much power. "We're not all that powerful but we can be if we become more self-sufficient by working on projects where student government can make money," Carr said.

Carr said Student Government needs the support of new students. "Unless students are dedicated and have a feeling for the destiny of this school, Student Government won't go anywhere," he said. "New students represent a lot of talent and if we can stimulate they're interest they can help us out."

Student Government operates under the Student Affairs Division of the University and is funded yearly from student activity fees.

They were funded $2,000 for this year which pays for salaries, organizational and operational expenses, special projects and contingency funds.

The student body president and vice president are paid about $2,000 a year. There are also two executive aides and a secretary on their payroll.

The executive branch of Student Government is comprised of the president, vice president and chairman of student activities.

The president is elected each April and serves as a liaison between the administration and the Student Senate. Carr said his most important job is to encourage the senate to do things that are necessary for the good of the student body.

The legislative branch of student government consists of the Student Senate which is comprised of 36 senators representing nine geographical and population districts.

The senators are elected for one-year terms by the student body fall and spring quarters.

The nine districts are: Thompson Point, Brush Towers, University Park, Small Group Housing, Commuter, East Side Dorm, West Side Dorm, East Side Non-Dorm and West Side Non-Dorm.

The judicial branch of Student Government is comprised of the Student Conduct Review Board, Campus Judicial Board and the Superior and Inferior Judicial Councils.

The judicial system mediates and rules in matters pertaining to student rights, Student Government operation and violation of University rules and regulations.

Student Government is one of the seven constituency bodies comprising the University Senate and has six representatives on the senate, appointed by the Student Government vice president.

Student Government also has representatives on most University committees. In the past the Student Senate has been involved in student rights and welfare, has eliminated women's dorm hours, helped establish visitation, eased student motor vehicle restrictions and financed WIDB campus radio station.

The activity programming branch of Student Government is the Student Government Activities Council (SGAC). There are six major committees operating under the activities council: films committee, Student Center programming committee, cultural affairs committee, spring festival committee-alternative programs, international relations committee and the Black student programming committee.

Each of these committees schedules activities in its field and organizes and finances their implementation.

The Student Government offices are located on the third floor of the Student Center. Students may obtain access to Student Government by attending senate meetings, dealing with Student senators, working with the Student Senate Finance Committee or visiting the Student Government offices.

Popularity of bikes continues to grow rapidly around SIU

By Tom Harrison
Student Writer

The Bicycle boom at SIU continues to resound. After all, bikes are economical, they don't pollute and bike riding is good exercise. The increased number of bikes, however, is causing some problems.

One problem that has developed along with the greater number of bikes is more bicycle thefts. This year, from January to June, $34,000 worth of bicycles were reported as stolen, according to Dan Lane, assistant to the SIU security officer. This is about 160 bikes. Lane said 361 bikes were reported stolen last year.

One solution to this theft problem would be more widespread bicycle registration with the police. Capt. James Rossiter of the Carbondale police said. There are two advantages in more extensive registration.

'The first is to cut down the number of bike thefts, and the second is to gain a higher recovery rate of stolen bikes." Rossiter explained. Rossiter said that a registered bike is much easier to trace than one that isn't registered.

A student may register his bike at either the Security Office on campus, or at the Police Community Services Center in Carbondale.

Another problem caused by the bicycle boom at SIU is traffic congestion. Dan Shannon, who is conducting a bicycle route feasibility study for the city on a federal grant, said there were 21 traffic accidents in Carbondale involving bicycles last year. He said there were only 12 such accidents in 1970 and only three in 1968.

The Department of Public Works in Carbondale established a temporary bike route in the city this spring.

"These routes were established to provide safer bike paths around the town and through the campus," Shannon said. He said that the routes are traversed mostly on lesser traveled streets.

Shannon noted that his study, which will be completed this fall, will include recommendations for new bike routes and more bike parking spaces downtown.

The rising number of bikes on campus is reflected by registration figures at the Security Office.

Lane said only 3,000 bicycles were registered on campus from 1961 to 1970. In the 1970-71 school year, 5,190 bikes were registered and the number increased to an all-time-high of 13,000 in 1972-73.

Lane added there are now more than 2,000 bikes registered with the security office. He said this figure represents about 50 percent of the bikes on campus.

A committee at SIU studied bike traffic, regulations, and parking on campus last year. This committee submitted a 17-page report to the University Senate with recommendations for more bike paths, parking spaces, and a mandatory registration program. These recommendations haven't been acted upon, however, because there were no funds available to finance them.

Theatrical crew, cast opportunities available to all

By Mary Ward
Student Writer

If you're interested in acting or directing, the SIU Department of Theater offers a variety of opportunities.

Any student has the opportunity to be involved in Theater Department productions, according to Jo Mack, theater manager. A student does not have to be in the Theatre Department to try out for a production, usher, take tickets or work on a costume or makeup crew.

Southern Players repertory group produces around five mainstage productions, directed by a faculty member, each year.

Children's Theatre productions is usually directed by a faculty member of graduate student and produces children's plays.

Fall Tour is directed by graduate students and faculty members and is managed by a graduate student. It includes one mainstage production and one Children's Theatre production. Fall Tour travels all over Illinois and to neighboring states performing at public elementary and high schools.

The Lab and Experimental Theatre presents four or more shows during the school year. It is also used for classroom purposes.

Quarter Night At The Theatre consists of two one-act plays, with one play being presented fall quarter and another spring quarter. These plays are written and directed by students and their primary purpose is educational.

Kutana Players and Kutana Touring Theatre are designed with a contemporary black theme. Kutana Touring Theatre travels to colleges and universities in the Midwest and southern states to present their shows. The tour and its productions are managed and directed by graduate students.

Summer Theatre includes a music theater which produces musicals, a dramatic section which produces plays, and a children's section. These productions are directed by faculty members and actors are usually paid.

Summer Theatre attracts many students from other colleges and universities because of its similarity to professional summer stock. One play or musical is produced every week during the summer.

Each year, SIU has the opportunity to send a production to the national showcase, a contest sponsored by the American Educational Theatre Association, in Washington, D.C. SIU has won the midwestern regional contest twice with its productions, "Caretaker" and "Home." Every other year the Theater Department co-sponsors the international Playwriting Contest. Co-Sponsors for the contest vary. Professionals and non-professionals may take part.

The winner of 1971, was written by Ann Buer, a non-professional writer from Pennsylvania. The play was guest-directed by Maria Piscator, wife of internationally known Erwin Piscator. He was "famous for political theater in Germany and an innovator of unusual effects in the theater," Mrs. Mack said. Since his death, Mrs. Piscator has carried on with these unusual effects.

Southern Players plans to produce five mainstage productions this year. "Has Fever," a sophisticated comedy by Noel Coward, will be presented Nov. 2-4. It will be directed by Christian Moe, professor of theater. "Tartuffe," a classic comedy by Moliere, will be presented Nov. 30 and Dec. 1 and 2. It will be directed by Alfreds Trauman, professor of theater. "All's Well That Ends Well," a comedy by Shakespeare, will be presented Feb. 15. It will be directed by Elinor-Steward Harrison, associate professor of theatre.

"Six Characters In Search Of An Author," a comedy from Pirandello's theatre of the absurd, will be presented May 3-5. It will be directed by Darwen Reid Payne, associate professor of theater. The Annual Dance Presentation by the Southern Dancers and Southern Players will be produced May 17-18. It will be directed by Louise Gordon, associate professor of theater and woman's physical education.

Reserved seat tickets for the productions cost $10 for the entire series and $7.50 for five coupons to be exchanged for reserved seat tickets.
Celebrate its 100th again

By Jim Heleny
Student Writer

SIU will celebrate its 100th birthday this June, and a second time next year when it celebrates its 100th anniversary.

The problem stems from the difference between when SIU was chartered and when it started classes.

Southern Illinois Normal was chartered in 1869 by the Illinois General Assembly but did not start classes until 1874. A dispute over where the college would be located delayed the opening.

Originally, SIU was chartered as a two-year teachers college, from which it has grown into a four-year university and a complex of over 136 permanent buildings and 250 temporary buildings on more than 7,000 acres.

SIU's birthday will have lasted five years at the close of the celebration in 1974.

The centennial has been spotted with special events. They entail the opening of a 25-year time capsule, the presentation of the first centennial book, "Land Between the Rivers," to SIU President David R. Derge. A centennial plaque will be presented to President Nixon by two SIU students.

Carroll Richard, acting chairman of the directors of the birthday and curator of the Anthropology Museum, said that the final celebration will take place either in May or June. A guest speaker for the celebration will be announced later along with the other details, Riley said.

Riley said a special edition of books is being issued with the centennial seal of SIU on their covers.

These books cover subjects related to the history or future of Southern Illinois or SIU. Riley said the books include "Land Between the Rivers," "The Credit Merchants Spiegel" and "The Manuscript of Hugo Fretey: An Inquiry into Meaning." Manuscripts in preparation are "The First 100 Years," The University Museum at Southern Illinois University" and "A Catalog Resume of the Black Sun Press Collection," all by the SIU Press.

Riley said the centennial seal on the books would provide a permanent way of remembering SIU's 100th birthday. Riley said through the long celebration of SIU's birthday he has received over 50 formal congratulations from some of the leading universities in the United States. Drew University, Cresson University, Texas A&M and Marquette University sent congratulations. Riley said.

Celebrity Series concert contingent upon U.S. visas

By Gleen Amato
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Celebrity Series hopes to inaugurate its eighth season Monday, Oct. 5, with a concert by Greek composer Mikis Theodorakis.

The concert, explained Hazel Burnett, assistant to the coordinator of Special Events and Speakers, the office through which Celebrity Series attractions are booked, is contingent upon the United States issuing Theodorakis and his company visas to perform in this country.

"Our own government," Ms. Burnett said, "has seen fit to recognize and support the corrupt government of Greece and, until now, consistently denied Theodorakis and his company permission to perform here.

The ensemble has attracted capacity crowds in every city it has played and has been proclaimed one of the most exciting and provocative productions currently before the public, she added.

Theodorakis composed the music for the films "Never on Sunday," "Z," "Justicia," and "Z." He also wrote the score for "Blow, Darlin," the Broadway musical version of "Never on Sunday.

His output of musical work includes symphonies, ballets, oratorios, cantatas and requiems. Theodorakis' music is said to be an affirmation of freedom and human dignity in the hearts of his fellow countrymen, despite the fact that performance of his work has long been banned in Greece.

The Goldovsky Grand Opera Theater's English-language production of Puccini's "Tosca" will be presented Sunday, Oct. 21. The company and orchestra number fifty. The Detroit Symphony will pay its first visit to SIU Monday, Nov. 5. Rafael Frubbeck de Burgos, musical director of the National Orchestra of Spain, will serve as guest conductor. Cristina Ortiz will appear as guest soloist.

The Tony award-winning musical "Two Gentlemen of Verona," based on the William Shakespeare play, is penciled in for Sunday, Nov. 11. Hailed by critics Richard Watts Jr. in "The New York Post" as "sheer joyous fun." the production, originally produced by Joseph Papp's New York Shakespeare Festival, has been adapted by John Guare and Mel Shapiro. Guare also supplied the lyrics to Galt MacDermot's score. MacDermot is best remembered as the composer of the "Hair," while other scores include "Dude" and "Vio Galactica.

The 1960's, epitomized by Elvis Presley and rock 'n' roll, is the setting for "Grease," which opens Wednesday, Feb. 6. A Tony award nominee for best musical of the 1972-73 Broadway season, "Grease" has book, music and lyrics by Jacobs and Warren Casey.

"Tea For Two" and "I Want To Be Happy" are two of the Vincent Youmans tunes audiences will hear when the revival of "No, No Nanette" comes to SIU Friday, March 6. The Franz Lehár Orchestra, one of the most celebrated concert orchestras in Europe today, will present "Forever Yours" Saturday, April 20. The 34-man ensemble, under the direction of Eduard Macku, will offer the melodies of Strauss, Lehar, Krezzat, Stolz, Fall, Ziehn, Kaltman, von Suppe, Benatzky, Melcher, Oscar Strauss and other Viennese "Glamor merchants.

Rising construction costs dampen Rec building plans

By Gene Charleton
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Increasing construction costs appear to have put the final plans of the Co-Recreational Facilities Building for east campus in some doubt.

The recreational building and associated complex, which will serve the Brush Towers-University Park area of campus housing as well as the largely student-populated east side of Carbondale, was originally budgeted at about $8.9 million. Increases in construction costs since the recreational complex was designed and budgeted have pushed total bids received on the project to the vicinity of $10.4 million, well over the budgeted amount.

The co-recreational facility, planned to cover some four square blocks, approximately bounded by Washington Avenue, Park Street, Wall Street and Stoker Street, lies east of the Illinois Central Railroad tracks and north of the Brush Towers-University Park area.

This area is now mostly vacant lots with trees outlining what were once lawns. Clearing the area of vacant buildings has been going on for several years, while construction of the recreational complex is tentatively scheduled to begin sometime during the 1974-75 school year.

Speaking some time ago, Emil Speck, dean of student services, emphasized the co-recreational aspects of the proposed facility. He said the only area of the building that would be off-limits to females would be the men's locker room area.

It was originally conceived to provide students facilities for basketball, handball, swimming, weight lifting and driving range for golf. Also included would be men's and women's locker rooms and so-called multi-purpose areas.

Details of the facilities included three large gymnasiums, each with three basketball courts, 16 handball courts and an indoor Olympic-sized swimming pool. Each of the three gymnasiums were designed to seat about 360 spectators.

Rino Bianchi, facilities planning director, said two handball courts would be eliminated, locker rooms would be reduced in size, and one general purpose gym would be built smaller to keep the project within the budget.

Other areas in the building will include a small weight lifting room and a 60-foot golf driving range. Also included will be storage, maintenance, machinery and administrative areas.

Outdoor areas designed to be included in the recreational facility included play-fields for football, soccer and field hockey, as well as facilities for speedball, tennis, archery, track and a putting green for golf.

A small pool is also projected for the outside facilities in the complex. Former Campus Master Planner John F.H. Lonzgan described the pool as a reflection or swimming pool. It will have a maximum depth of about four feet, he said.

SIU Law School to open Sept. 5

By Ed Dustin-Wasowicz
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

After five years of planning the SIU School of Law has become a reality and will begin classes Sept. 5.

A proposal for the school was submitted to a master plan committee for Legal Education in Illinois in August 1968. Nearly one year later the State Board of Higher Education recommended allocation of state funds for the new school.

Ivan A. Elliott, an attorney from Carbondale and an SIU Board of Trustees member, called the school "a major step toward completing Southern Illinois University's academic maturity and a tremendous stride in efforts to meet the demands for young attorneys in southern Illinois. I hope it will be established as soon as possible."

This fall, 25 prospective lawyers will begin instruction at the new school, equipped with seven man staff and a law library.

At the present time Morris Library contains a collection of legal documents included in the collection are: 12,000 volumes of statutes and collected documents from most of the states of the United States dating back to early years, information about the development of not only public administration and government in the United States but of the law itself; and substantial holdings in British, Canadian and French law and other international bodies.

These materials are broken down into indexes, encyclopedias, court reports, statutes, codes, government documents, legal periodicals, and a vast amount of material of basic research in the field of state, local and national government.

One of two buildings in Small group Housing, now being remodeled, will house this material in the new law library. The other building of the $467,219 renovation will house faculty offices and classrooms. There is a request in the 1973-74 budget for a School of Law Building which would cost about $825,800 and would accommodate nearly 300 law students. The present renovated facilities can accommodate only 200 students.

The new seven man staff will be headed up by Hiram H. Lesar, dean of the school. Lesar was appointed in July 1972. He was formerly dean of Law at Washington University, St. Louis. He was a Sterling Research Fellow and received his doctor of judicial science at Yale University Law School.

SIU Law School

After five years of planning the SIU School of Law has become a reality and will begin classes Sept. 5.

A proposal for the school was submitted to a master plan committee for Legal Education in Illinois in August 1968. Nearly one year later the State Board of Higher Education recommended allocation of state funds for the new school.

SIU Law School
to open Sept. 5

merly of the University of Win-dor, a professor of law and librarian; Edward J. Klonka, formerly of Columbia University, associate professor of law;
Frank W. Miller, from Washington University, visiting professor of law; Thomas G.
Boddy Jr., formerly of the University of Tennessee, professor of law and associate dean; Edward Welch, an ex-labor attorney with Allis-Chalmers and the National Labor Relations Board, lecturer in law; and Carl W. Helm, of the Yale Law School, assistant professor of law.

Southern Illinois people were given preference for accepttance to the SIU law school, so only 60 per cent of the 75 first-year students are coming from out of state.

One thing that will distinguish the law school from other disciplines at SIU, will be that it will be on the semester system one year before the rest of the university.

Leary said that the reasons the semester system are that most law schools are run on semesters because the faculties feel quarters are too short for proper presentation of the material and that the response of the university will be on semesters by fall 1974.

The main purpose of the School of Law, as outlined in its bulletin, is to train lawyers who will be competent to practice law, both now and in the future.

The bulletin also emphasizes the importance of specialized training through small classes.

"It is the School’s position that this process can best be accomplished with a student body of from 300 to 450."

Outlined in the bulletin are plans for expansion, to follow with the construction of a new building to house the school.

"In the meantime, an enter-ting class of 75 will be accept-ted early each year and the faculty will be expanded to approximately 15 full-time members to accommodate a total enrollment of about 300."

An interesting section of the Bulletin is the one dealing with an honor code.

"The cornerstone of our legal system is the integrity of the individual lawyer. Preparation for law, therefore, must encourage individual integrity as well as understanding of law.

The system yields immediate immediate evidence of convenience — examinations are not supervised, a student’s word is accepted as truth, and ownership of personal belongings is respected; it yields also lasting intangible values of the spirit — those that have lived under an Honor Code are forever dispossessed with any less rigorous standards. It is anticipated that students of the School will abide by the Honor Code and elect an Honor council to enforce it."
Fraternity membership up; sororities also optimistic

By Diane Misilko
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The SIU Greek system, after hitting the rock bottom of its popularity in 1976, is experiencing a resurgence. Last school year, fraternity membership jumped nearly 100 per cent, Steve Schueneman, president of the Fraternity Executive Council, said recently.

Sororities are still having difficulties with low membership, but expect to attract many new members in the next year. Margo Carlock, president of the Panhellenic Council, said.

The resurgence of the Greek system is a nationwide phenomenon, Nancy Harris, assistant to the dean of Student Life and advisor to the Inter-Greek Council, said. Sororities usually lag about two years behind the trends set by fraternities, Harris noted.

University funding to the Inter-Greek Council, which is the umbrella organization for all SIU fraternities and sororities, has reflected the increase in Greek membership and activity. Last year, SIU gave the Greeks $6,000 in funds but this year, the Greek budget has climbed to $10,351.

The atmosphere of student political activism, which peaked at SIU in 1976, was the main factor in the decline of the fraternity-sorority system, Schueneman said. However, he noted, student interests seem to be changing in a direction favorable to the Greek lifestyle.

There are presently 22 recognized fraternities and sororities at SIU. They are grouped into three councils on the basis of sex and race. The white fraternities, of which there are five, are governed by the Panhellenic Council. The ten white fraternities are joined in the Fraternity Executives Council. The Pan-Hellenic Council represents the seven black fraternities and sororities at SIU.

All three of these councils are represented on the Inter-Greek Council, the main governing council of the Greek system. Racial grouping of fraternities and sororities does not reflect any racial discrimination, Harris said. "The students want it that way," she explained.

Three of the white sororities, five of the white fraternities and one of the black fraternities have houses on Greek Row, officially called Small Group Housing, on the west side of campus. The other groups either do not offer campus houses or do not offer group living.

To kick off the school year, the Greeks will sponsor a "Welcome Festival" on Friday, Sept. 21. All incoming freshmen will receive invitations to the reception. Those attending will be welcome to attend the reception. The purpose of the get-together will be to acquaint students with the nature and aims of fraternities and sororities.

The Greeks help plan and operate a long list of university activities. Harris said, ranging from Homecoming and Parents' Day to community service projects. Recently, the Greeks have assumed the responsibility of running the all-campus variety show, formerly staged by Theta Xi.
Few problems anticipated in switch to semesters

Do three hours equal four hours, or is it the other way around?

Students, and possibly some instructors, will be asking that question as well as others when SIU changes from a quarter to a semester system in the fall of 1974.

The changing of systems means that instead of four quarters in the school year, there will be two semesters and a summer session. Fall semester will begin Aug. 27 and last until Dec. 20. Second semester will begin Jan. 20 and end May 16. The summer session will be from May 26 until August 8.

John Baker, assistant provost, said there may be a few problems in the switch from the quarter to semester system. "We can work out problems if there are any," he said.

However, students who have completed all but one quarter by the fall of 1974 might have a problem. Baker conceded. "They'll still be out by Christmas, but they'll start earlier," Baker said. Students who need two quarters will stay the entire second semester, which lasts until May. Any student who expects to student-teach during the last quarter will instead be teaching a whole semester.

Transfer students who have earned semester hours which are changed to quarter hours at SIU will go once again to semester hours. "This shouldn't be any problem at all," Baker said. "It may even work to their benefit."

In May, the Faculty Senate approved a recommendation to require fewer hours for graduation (180 quarter hours, 120 semester). Baker said students will benefit if they have a lot of hours as they go into the semester system. They may be ahead; he commented, because of the reduction in required hours.

Under the semester system, the hours required for each class division are as follows: 6-25 freshman, 26-45 sophomore, 46-65 junior, and 66 and above, senior. Forty-five hours will be needed in the General Studies area.

Fifteen or 16 hours a semester will be the normal load, but graduate students will probably carry less. Graduate assistants who teach will probably only take nine hours, Baker said.

Last March, when the decision to change to early semesters was announced, SIU President David Derge said he felt there would be more flexibility in the use of instructors' time. Baker agreed. "It's potentially true. It depends how the instructor approaches the problem of changing to semesters. The potential's there, but they may not choose to do it that way. A flexible schedule is a mixed blessing."

Derge also said that purchasing textbooks only twice a year would be less expensive for students. Baker said he would think total cost of books would definitely be lower because there will be fewer courses required and fewer hours for graduation.

When asked if he thought people were going to be happy with the semester system he said, "It depends on how instructors change, how students accept flexibility."

Baker added that he prefers the semester system as a teaching vehicle. He said the semester system is easier, gives people more time.

Most common questions about housing answered

Whenever a new experience is about to be undertaken the first thing on the mind of a student is questions. This sounds logical, so the Office of Off-Campus Housing has come up with "The Most Common Questions and Answers on Renting Off-Campus Housing.

The questions and answers are as follows:

1. Who is responsible for upkeep such as shampooing rugs, cleaning draperies, etc.? Who is responsible for maintenance? What are the house rules concerning the tenant's conduct?

   Questions that probably would be best answered by the present tenants:

   - Are repairs made promptly by the management? How does the management respond to criticism? Is the unit noisy? Does the landlord keep his promises?

   Other important questions may be best answered in Carbondale by consulting with the Central Illinois Public Service Co. (CIPS). This organization has cost records available for every facility in Carbondale. Although a trip to CIPS may be inconvenient, it could save you a considerable amount of money in heating or air-conditioning costs.

2. What is required of the student?

   It is important that the contract be read and understood before it is signed. The extra time involved is well worth the effort when you consider the possible consequences. The conditions under which the contract can be terminated and the payment plan are other items of concern that should be fully understood: Make certain that you can make the required payments to assume responsibility for maintenance of the facility. A landlord will usually guarantee maintenance of the facility. A landlord will usually guarantee maintenance of such items as the furnace, wiring, plumbing and major appliances. Keep certain the contract is filled out completely, that all copies are signed and dated by you and the landlord and that you keep one copy of the important contract. Your signed copy should include all important verbal agreements, promises for repair and contract changes.

3. Can a person under 21 years of age sign a legal contract?

   Yes. Illinois law provides that a minor can be held responsible for contracts involving the necessities of life such as food and shelter.

4. Are verbal agreements binding?

   Verbal agreements are binding but difficult, if not impossible, to enforce. A verbal agreement is only as good as the words of the contracting parties. To be safe, verbal agreements of any consequence should be stated in writing and signed. Never permit a verbal agreement to conflict with any written signed statements and make sure any promises of repair of maintenance are stated on the contract with a completion, date and statement of consequences added should the repairs not be made.

We have many years of experience (we know something about fashion). We have a part of our success has been in retaining our old customers and getting new ones. And this is where you come in. We want you as a Goldsmith customer. We hope what we think will be the greatest collection of clothes and accessories to be found anywhere. Of yes, the more thing, prices. Of course we have a few extra special things that might be a little expensive. For the most part, our prices are very reasonable. What we ask is: give us a look, ask a few questions. Try us out. We could become good friends.

Know the conditions in that facility. This means that if one roommate leaves, breaking the contract legally or illegally, the rest of the roommates will have to assume the responsibility for paying his rent.

1. What is an eviction?

Usually, evictions are costly in time and money. The landlord is required to send a written statement indicating that you will be evicted because of a violation of your contract or housing rules. An appropriate amount of time, depending on the reasons for the eviction, must elapse before you are required to vacate the facility. If you are being evicted, the time period for non-payment of rent is five days. 10 days for contract violations and 30 days for any other reason. If you are evicted and vacated, you will be held responsible for the full amount of rent due for the term of the contract.

2. What are the legal ways to terminate a contract?

Several procedures may be followed for legally terminating a contract. The most generally accepted way is to find a replacement. This usually involves advertising for a replacement, bringing the landlord for his acceptance, which should not be unreasonable withheld and having the replacement sign a new contract.

The SIU Model Contract has two circumstances under which it may be terminated without penalty. The first is forced withdrawal from the University because of physical or mental incapacity (such incapacity verified by a physician) or a serious financial hardship. Several other clauses in the contract make provisions which eliminate some liability for breaking your contract. For example, a contract can be terminated with a liability of half the total charges still due if 34 days notice is given prior to the end of the quarter.

9. What can be done to assure the return of damage and security deposits?

Check with former tenants to establish what type of reputation the landlord has for returning deposits. A student, upon moving in, can use an Inventory Check-In and Check-Out List. This provides you with a means for showing what damages existed at the start of your occupancy. When you leave the facility, this could save problems because it offers some evidence that various damages were not caused by you. Inventory Check Lists are available at the Office of Off-Campus Housing upon request.

The Model Contract is a lease constructed through the efforts of many people in the community. It has been endorsed by the Greater Carbondale Area Chamber of Commerce and Student Government. The Office of Off-Campus Housing believes it is the most easily understood, thorough and fairest of contracts for student tenants. It clearly specifies the responsibility the tenant has to the landlord and the responsibility the landlord or lessor has to the tenant.

11. Does a landlord have free access rights to his rented facility?

Absolute free access rights are not permitted by Illinois state law. Any contract stating that a landlord has free access rights is not enforceable. The rationale behind this law is to rent a facility automatically restricts the access rights of the landlord.

12. What should one consider when renting a mobile home?

The most important thing to consider when renting a mobile home is to check its utility consumption during the peak hot and cold months. Many mobile homes are not properly insulated and the utility bills could be unusually high. Here again, CIPS could provide information on past utility usage for a particular facility.

One thing to remember when renting a mobile home is that constant heat must be maintained during the winter months, so pipes and plumbing will not freeze and break. Ordinarily, any broken pipes on the inside of the trailer are charged to the tenants, those freezing on the outside are usually the responsibility of the landlord.

13. Where can a student go concerning a housing problem?

There are several agencies in the Carbondale area that can help students with housing problems. One agency is the Office of Off-Campus Housing.

Counselors are available to students and householders with problems concerning housing matters. Another agency operating in Carbondale is the Student Tenant Union. It has volunteer counselors available to help students.

14. Are there legal services available to students?

This must be answered with a qualitative "yes." The Legal Aid Assistance Program in Carbondale is available to some students. However, the large case load it handles precludes its ability to handle every student-landlord dispute. Therefore, it is recommended that a student begin by going either to the Office of Off-Campus Housing or the Student Tenant Union for legal information or assistance in resolving a student-landlord dispute.

15. Where can a student go to have questions answered concerning his contract?

The Office of Off-Campus Housing or the Student Tenant Union has counselors available to consult with students on contract ambiguities. All questions involving contracts will be answered by these counselors.

16. Can Carbondale City Codes protect student interests?

The Carbondale City Codes Enforcement Department has a staff available to inspect and help enforce Carbondale City Codes. A student should bear in mind that Carbondale City Codes are minimal standards for safety and health and these minimal standards will not provide him with luxury items.

General Studies postpones major curriculum changes

SIU's General Studies program will not make any major changes until the university converts to a semester system, according to John W. Voight, dean of the General Studies Division.

Voight said every course in the General Studies curriculum will be reevaluated before conversion to semesters and many courses will be added.

The named General Studies areas will remain the same with GSA, B, C, D and E in the conversion to semesters, Voight said, and there will be a reduction in the required hours in some of the areas.

Area A covers the physical sciences, Area B the social sciences, Area C foreign languages and humanities, Area D English, speech and mathematics, and Area E health and physical education.

The student will need 45 semester hours compared to the 68 quarter hours now required.

"My whole approach is to increase the options," said Voight.

Voight emphasized the general education aim of the General Studies curriculum.

"I'm not against specialization, but the problems of the world cannot be solved by specialists alone. The man of the future has to be multi-talented. He needs a broader base to build his education so he can have viewpoints in other areas." In other words, "general education is education for survival," he said.

As of July 1, SIU can award a University Studies Degree in General Studies, according to Voight.

Maintenance workers manicure SIU campus

Students and visitors who admire the SIU campus have 38 maintenance workers to thank for its appearance.

Laborors perform a variety of jobs to keep the campus in shape, Tony Blass, director of the physical plant, said in an interview.

Lawns on campus are fertilized in the spring and fall, Blass said. Grass seed is sown and fallen leaves are raked in the fall, he added. In the spring, trees are planted and sodding is done.

Fourteen pieces of equipment are used to mow the vast lawn of SIU.

Two tractors outfitted with mowing attachments known as wide. Mowing crews use four machines which cut a swath 48 inches wide and seven mowers which cut 16-inch paths. A rotary type mower is also available.

Laborors spread fertilizer, water, seed and sod the lawn, pick up litter and trim bushes. Installation and repairs of signs are done by maintenance workers.

Crews are responsible for the upkeep of Abe Martin Field, where the baseball Salukis play their home baseball games Joe Widdowson, superintendent of buildings and grounds, said.

The grass on the field is mowed before each game. Parts of the infield are resodded as the season advances.

Crisis Intervention Center serves people with problems

By Michael Ruffley

Do you feel depressed, lonely or simply down? And don’t know why? If you do, call 457-3366 between 8 p.m. and 2 a.m. to find anonymous understanding and advice.

Linda Dutcher, graduate assistant said the Carbondale Crisis Intervention Center was established, “to serve community people, college people, or just people-people.

The confidential service is performed for anyone needing help with almost any problem. Although the term “crisis” may seem extreme, Ms. Dutcher said, “If it’s troubling you, it’s enough of a crisis.”

The center was begun in the Fall of 1970, mainly through the efforts of Thomas Schill, SIU psychologist, and his associates. The staff is made up of volunteers from the University community and the Carbondale area.

Volunteers undergo a training program. After the training period, the center requires six months of work on the phones by the trainees.

The training, Ms. Dutcher explained, emphasizes three major topics. The first covers training in empathetic listening and responding. The volunteer is trained to hear and understand the caller and to communicate to the caller effectively.

“It is important that our volunteers recognize the conflicts which exist in a situation and how to deal with them,” Ms. Dutcher said.

The second area of training emphasizes the volunteer to familiarize himself with the referral agencies in the area.

The third area, Mr. Dutcher said, involves “some particular training with emphasis on the common types of problems we get at the center, namely suicide calls, general depression, loneliness or interpersonal difficulties, anxieties about school or work, drug-related calls and problems related to sexual behavior.”

The training is conducted in groups of five students and a trainer. After 15 hours of training the trainer and his group accept responsibility for Center phones.

Two volunteers serve at a time in two three-hour shifts a night.

The ethical code of the Center, Ms. Dutcher said forfits workers from discussing calls with anyone but other staff members.

The anonymity of the telephone is probably responsible for the relatively even ratio of men to women callers, Ms. Dutcher suggested. In a walk-in clinic, there are usually two times as many women clients as men received as patients, she explained.

One thing, the anonymity does not bring, said Ms. Dutcher, is crank calls. The center has had very few, crank callers and those few have found someone who tries to help them instead of someone who hangs up in terror or disgust.

Ms. Dutcher said the center has suffered from an image made romantic and fearful by the “suicide line” concept often associated with similar services.

In fact, Ms. Dutcher said, only about five per cent of the 630 calls received last year involved persons who talked of suicide.

Shiplike Faner Building may be occupied this fall

By Gene Charleton
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Looming over central campus like a concrete aircraft carrier magically set down next to the Student Center, the 900-foot-long Faner Humanities Building seems almost like a ship waiting for a crew.

Still vacant four months after the first third of the $12.8 million structure was scheduled to be occupied, it now looks like 16 classrooms in section "A" the southern third of the building, will be in use fall quarter.

David Grobe, space administrator for the Facilities Planning Office, said tiles are down in almost all classrooms in the first third of the building and they should be occupied this fall quarter.

Grobe said present plans call for 39 classrooms and 18 department faculty and administrative offices to occupy the 225,000 square foot building.

But, he said, administrators are meeting to consider final allocations of space and these figures will probably change.

Office and classroom space was originally scheduled to be occupied in March, but funding delays have caused moving in to be delayed and final schedules are still unsure.

The south third of the building—section "A"—should have been occupied in March, the second third in January, 1974, and the final third in March, 1974.

Latest in the series of funding delays involved an apparent reliance by Gov. Dan Walker to release some $255,000 for purchase of office furnishings. These funds were released at the same time the governor signed SIU's appropriations bill for next year.

But due to purchasing procedures, Grobe said it would probably be at least Christmas before the section "A" offices are ready for the departments to move in.

Classrooms in the "A" section are mostly completed, and classes are being scheduled in those rooms for fall quarter.

There is no definite schedule for occupying the rest of the building, Grobe said.

"I can tell you what the latest guess is," he said. "But that changes almost daily."

The departments scheduled to move into the Faner Building include most departments usually considered as in the humanities area. They are presently scattered across and around campus in other on-campus facilities, temporary off-campus structures or leased off-campus office space.

Moving the departments into the building should save the University some money. Rino Bianchi, facilities planning director, said the leased property being vacated includes dormitories at 600 Freeman St. and College Square. He said vacating these buildings will save the University about $158,000 per year.

The first wave of departments to move into new quarters in the Faner Building includes the Department of Foreign Languages and Literature, Department of Government, Department of Philosophy, Public Affairs Research Bureau, Center for English as a Second Language, Community Development Services and the office of the dean of the College of Liberal Arts.

These departments will be followed, according to the schedule, in about four months by the Center for the Study of Crime, Delinquency and Corrections; College of Liberal Arts Advisement Center, Department of English, Department of History, Department of Sociology, Department of Religious Studies, and Department of Linguistics.

Four months after this, the last contingent will settle in. These include the SIU Museum, Department of Anthropology, and Department of Geography.

Grobe said the space originally allocated to each individual office was set when enrollment was projected to rise above present levels and require departments to expand their facilities. Since enrollment has been dropping, office requirements have been cut back and some extra space has developed. Campus offices that will probably move into these newly available areas will include the Office of Facilities Planning, Grobe said.

Refuse law crackdown under way

By David C. Miller Jr.
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A crackdown on garbage violations, begun in Carbondale last June, will affect students living off-campus.

The city Office of Code Enforcement has men checking to make sure garbage cans are on tight, to see if cans are left out more than 12 hours after collection and whether garbage is placed in plastic bags, said Jim Trammel, chief inspector. He referred to Carbondale Ordinance No. 1720 for garbage guidelines.

The ordinance states that garbage cannot be placed in a plastic liner, without being in a can. Trammel said the can liner is “a real good idea” when winter comes and the garbage may otherwise freeze inside the container. He noted however that liners are not required for in-can garbage disposal.

“For leaves and grass raking, high-strength bags which can be fastened at the top will be considered suitable containers,” the ordinance reads. Refuse other than garbage must be in a clean, neat and sanitary condition for collection, the code says, and it must be able to be handled by one man.

Trammel said this means small items outside of garbage cans will be picked up. He mentioned that such items as scrap wood or tree trimmings should be cut into about 4-foot lengths and bound together.

Many violations of the code come because of garbage being in an improper container. Trammel said. Garbage cans must have lids, the lids must be tight-fitting and each container must have strong handles on the outside, according to the regulations. Trammel also mentioned that citations have been issued where garbage knocked out of the can was strewn about.

Containers are required for each dwelling. Trammel said the tenant is often bound by contract to provide and maintain the container, but in some cases the responsibility lies with the landlord. If the landlord fails to provide adequate containers, Trammel said, the tenant should contact the Code Enforcement office.

There is a “garbage amnesty” twice a year, during which “anything put out for collection goes, even grass or anything.” Trammel said. The Street Department arranges to pick up any items left curbside, he said, adding that the next such period would be sometime in November.

Dumping of any kind of garbage in city limits is prohibited by the ordinance. Trammel said the people desiring to dispose of bulky items could take them to the Jackson County landfill, near DeSoto. There is no charge for the service, but he warned that garbage transported to the site must be secured so as not to create a traffic hazard.

People wanting to dispose of liquids such as old motor oil or turpentine should place them into discarded bottles and cap them, Trammel said. Pouring the liquids into city sewers is prohibited, he added.

Violations of the code are considered a misdemeanor. If a person is convicted on a garbage charge, the code says he may be fined between $10 and $200.
University requires vehicle registration

By Dan Haar
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Students who bring their cars to SIU and want to park them on any campus parking lot must register them with the Parking Division of the Security Office, August LeMarchal, supervisor of the division, said.

Any graduate student, junior or senior may own and register a car at the University, LeMarchal noted. Freshmen and sophomores are granted exceptions, but as a rule they cannot have a car on campus, he added.

Exceptions include students 21 years or older, veterans, married students and students living with their parents or guardians. Also, students who have a certified letter from the SIU Health Service stating that a car is necessary for health reasons can qualify for exception.

If a student is certified in writing by the Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance to require a car for employment purposes, he may also be eligible for an exception.

LeMarchal cautioned that "no student will be granted an exception to the policy solely on the basis of the remoteness of his housing from campus, so long as housing is available in accepted living centers located where use of a private motor vehicle on campus is not required."

The four parking decals available at the Parking Division are: blue decals, which cost $40; red decals, which cost $10; silver decals, which cost $10; and yellow decals, which are free.

Blue parking decals are usually reserved for faculty and staff. Any student who shows a need may be allowed to buy a blue decal, LeMarchal added.

The fine for parking an unregistered vehicle on university property is $15. Improper display of a parking decal or parking in the inappropriate lot are punishable by a fine of $3 if paid in five days and $5 if paid afterward.

Overtime parking in any University meter space is punishable by a fine of $1 if paid within five days and $3 if paid after that time.

A student may file an appeal at the Parking Division. A hearing will be granted before the Traffic Appeals Board.

"Guest permits are available to University visitors to University offices and guests of the University housing residents," LeMarchal said. The permits may be obtained from the Parking Division between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. during the weekdays or from the Security Office at any other time, he said.

Lt. Marvin Braswell, of the Security Office, said that the University will tow away all vehicles that impair traffic or whose records show there are more than three parking violations on file that have not been taken care of. "Before it will be towed, it will be issued a tow warning," Braswell added. "Of course, if it is blocking traffic it will be towed immediately," he said.

JOFFREY ANNOUNCES CURTAILED SEASON
NEW YORK (AP) — The City Center Jeffery Ballet has announced a four-week season, starting Oct. 19.

The company, which usually plays a six-week season, has cut back because its subsidy from its parent, the City Center, has been cut 86 per cent. The subsidy was in the form of services provided, such as paying the orchestra, and it was cut in early 1973 from $300,000 to $75,000.

The company will present two premieres, two firsts by the company and two revivals. The season opens with Sir Frederick Ashton's "The Dream," the first time an American company has been allowed to produce this ballet. The second company premiere will be Jean Linson's "The Moor's Pavane."

Whether there will be a spring season in 1974 has not been announced.
Ice show, skating party set in Arena

By Glenn Amato
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

When students arrive on campus this fall, they will find the Arena has been converted into an ice rink.

The conversion is only temporary, however, as a portable ice floor will be constructed for six performances of "Holiday on Ice" Thursday, Sept. 21, through Sunday, Sept. 23. The extravagant ice show will be appearing at the Arena for the fourth time.

Through special arrangement between "Holiday on Ice" officials and the Arena management, the portable ice floor used for the show will remain in the Arena an extra day. An ice skating party and activities fair, sponsored by New Student Activities, will be held from 7 to 10 p.m. Monday, Oct. 1, in the Arena. Students owning ice skates are encouraged to bring them to campus this fall. An effort to obtain rental skates is being made, but details have not been finalized.

"Holiday on Ice," which features the top solo and duet names in the skating world, will be highlighted by several large production numbers and several comedy and juggling acts.

"Holiday on Ice" will be performed at 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday, 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. Saturday, and 2 p.m. and 6 p.m. Sunday. Tickets are priced at $3.50, 3.50, 4.50 and $5. A discount of $1 off any ticket price will be available to SIU students for the Friday and Sunday performances.

Group discounts for 20 or more tickets will offer the same savings of $1 off any ticket price for the Sunday evening performance. Those under 16 will be admitted for half-price at the $2 p.m. Saturday and 2 p.m. and 6 p.m. Sunday performances.

Mail orders, which should be sent to the Arena box office, will be processed beginning Tuesday, Sept. 4. All mail orders should be accompanied by a self-addressed, stamped envelope for return of tickets. Tickets also will be available at the Central Ticket Office in the Student Center, Penneys, Sav-Mart and Tempo.
