Happy hour law causes controversy

By Teresa Livingston
Staff Writer

A new law banning happy hours has a lot of University students and Carbondale bar workers upset at state legislation.

"It's drastic. A lot of the people who come in where I work on weekends are total happy hour people," said Jennifer Boyd, senior in management and cocktail waitress at Tims Horne's, said.

The bill, which Gov. James R. Thompson signed at the Du Quoin State Fair Thursday, prohibits happy hours.

The new law states establishments cannot:
- Serve two or more drinks at one time to one person
- Serve a still slimmed drinks during any set period of time for a fixed price, except for private functions not open to the public
- Charge a fixed price other than that charged during the rest of the day

"The blood drive at SU-C was scheduled at a critical time," Ugent said, saying there are increased accidents and fewer collection for the Red Cross during holidays.

"It's a little late to go looking for blood when a person comes into the emergency room bleeding profusely," Ugent said.

The four-day post-Labor Day blood drive will kick off Tuesday at the Memorial Hospital of Carbondale with donation hours from 11:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Ugent said the goal is 55 units.

The blood drive will be on campus Tuesday from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday in Ballroom D of the Student Center. The two-day goal is 90 units.

Ugent said the drive will continue Friday at St. Francis Xavier Church, 303 S. Poplar, from 1:30 to 8 p.m. The goal for Friday is 130 units.

Ugent praises the students, faculty and staff of SU-C for their participation in past blood drives.

The students have been exemplified, Ugent said.

The American Red Cross will be in Carbondale this week, looking for new donors.

The first blood drive of the semester is badly needed as blood supply can be rebuilt after Labor Day, according to Vivian Ugent, regional blood drive coordi­nator.

Students declared residents in census

By Jackie Spinner
Staff Writer

Carbondale will adopt University students as city resi­dents for the 1990 nationwide census.

"If you are living at school in Carbondale, then that's where you'll be counted," Information Specialist Patsy Lichtenhan-Panzer said.

Carbondale's population from the 1980 census, 26,414, is about half University students and half Carbondale residents, Director of Community Development Don Money said.

Each dormitory resident will receive a hard-covered census questionnaire about a week before Census Day, April 1, 1990. The questions ask for information about race, age, marital status and whether the applicant owns or rents his residence.

Every sixth household will receive a longer questionnaire asking about ancestry, employment, education, income, type of housing and utilities.

"We are very concerned with responded burdens, so an 83 percent of the population will get the short form," Lichtenhan-Panzer said.

A census of the U.S. population is required every ten years by Article I, Section 2 of the Constitution for determining how many seats a state is entitled to in the U.S. House of Representatives.

Information from the census also is used for determining state funds, planning locations of hospitals or schools and funding various social programs.

Lichtenhan-Panzer said the bureau of the Census is expecting about 10 percent of the questionnaires to be returned compared to the 83 percent returned in 1980.

The 8 percent drop in returns is due in part to the increased mis­trust in the federal and form of government, she explained.

"We have to be realistic," Lichtenhan-Panzer said.

The bureau has an accuracy rate of about 99 percent.

4 injured in near riot during annual celebration

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (UPI) — An annual Labor Day weekend battle among thousands of black hooligans and white students erupted into a near riot early Sunday with random shooting, burning and looting in the beach area that left four people injured and more than 100 damaged or looted, police said.

Two people were shot and another person critically injured after falling from a fourth-floor hotel window. A fourth person suffered a head injury during the disturbance, which began around 1:30 a.m., when police spokesman Kathleen Martin said.

City and state police and National Guard troops patrolled the area, much of which was cordoned off to the public.

U.S. anti-drug plane destroyed in Colombia

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI) — A bomb blew up a U.S. anti-narcotics plane on the ground and a second device exploded as an apartment building as Colombian drug lords presumed their "local war" against the government. No injuries were reported in either blast.

The latest bombings came as two U.S. military planes arrived with the first installment of President Bush's $55 million emer­gency aid program, and the pub­lishers of the newspaper El Espectador, whose planes were bombed Saturday, demanded "justice, justice, justice" in an edito­rial.

The U.S. plane was severely damaged by a bomb at 1:45 a.m. at an airport in the city of Montebello, about 300 miles north­west of Bogota, according to a police official there who identified himself only as Col. Pinzon.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman in Bogota said the plane belonged to a State Department anti-narcotics program and was undergoing repairs in Colombia. He said the plane was on its way from Peru to the United States two weeks ago when it experienced engine failure and had to make an emergency landing.

An Embassy spokesman said only, "Early this morning a fire broke out on a C-123 cargo plane at the airport in Montebello, causing serious damage. The cause of the fire is under investigation by the Colombian National Police."

Pinzon said no one was injured in the attack and that the plane's four-man crew, all U.S. citizens, were not nearly at the time of the blast.

Another bomb exploded Sunday in an apartment building in the northern city of Barquisimeto, the national news wire Caracal said.

Meanwhile, the publisher of the El Espectador newspaper, Allison Cason Isaac, demanded "justice, justice, justice" in a column pub­lished Sunday, the first edition since a bomb exploded Saturday outside the paper's plant, killing one per­son and wounding scores of others.

Police in Medellin, headquarters of a powerful cocaine cartel, reported they discovered a bomb placed beneath a bridge Sunday.

Black, Indian protesters hit whites-only beach in Durban

Johannesburg, South Africa (UPI) — Thousands of blacks and Indians descended on a whites-only beach in Durban in a peaceful anti-apartheid protest three days before South Africa’s most important election in 41 years. Authorities said 58 people were arrested in the Durban protest, but police were generally restrained, in sharp contrast to the crackdown Saturday on a march in Cape Town in which more than 500 people were detained and scores were beaten. A two-day general strike has been called by leaders of the anti-apartheid Mass Democratic Movement for Tuesday and Wednesday, election day.

Palestinian collaborator killed, 3 wounded

Jerusalem (UPI) — Masked Palestinians beat to death a suspected collaborator and wounded three other Arabs Sunday during the latest escalating in intercommunal attacks in the Israeli-occupied territories. A fifth Palestinian was shot and wounded in the Gaza Strip in an apparent revenge attack, Palestinian sources said. The Arab, who was transferred to an Israeli hospital, was a suspected collaborator but the source said residents of Khan Younis believed he was shot in retaliation for wounding another Palestinian in June. A guerrilla ambush an Israeli patrol, killing one soldier and wounding two others before he was gunned down.

3 cardinals recommend convent removal

Belgrade, Yugoslavia (United Press International) - Leaders of developing nations representing nearly half the world’s population gathered in Belgrade for the ninth non-aligned summit Saturday amid signs of a shift in the organization’s traditional anti-Western stance. Communist officials and a draft declaration to be presented to the 103-member movement at the start of Saturday’s Tuesday calls for “new confidence-building measures” and “a just, equitable, and comprehensive solution” to the Israeli-Palestinian conflict. The statement also rejects a Palestinian call for an independent Palestinian state at the expense of Jews in any state.

Ling-Ling’s panda cub dies after infection

Washington (UPI) — Ling-Ling’s tiny panda cub died at the National Zoo early Sunday after a 40-hour battle against an infection contracted in its mother’s womb before birth, zoo officials said. The hideous white cub, cared for as an incubator since shortly after its birth Friday morning, died at 12:30 a.m. Sunday, the zoo said. The infection was detected by zoo veterinarians shortly after the cub’s birth, spokesman Robert Arime said. The cub, about the size of a stick of butter, was taken to the intensive care unit at the zoo’s veterinary hospital where it was placed in an incubator and died a special formula.

Drivers with cellular phones to help report drunk drivers

Chicago (UPI) — A citizen’s group is enlisting the help of drivers with cellular phones to help report drunk drivers on area highways this Labor Day Weekend. The Alliance Against Intoxicated Motorists is enlisting motorists with cellular phones to report erratic driving through its new “Drunkbusters” program. Through Drunkbusters, AAIM is providing a public service to Illinois citizens,” said Secretary of State Jim O’Toole. “People who are aware someone they think is driving under the influence are asked to dial (near) 999 and give a dispatcher the license plate number, description, and location of the car. The calls are free.

Richard Little’s impersonations have crude sense of humor

By Doug Toole
Staff Writer

Richard Little’s Saturday night performance at the Du Quoin State Fairgrounds combined comedy and music with a sharp tongue and sometimes crude sense of humor.

Little opened by saying that he took responsibility for all the evening’s political humor — or lack thereof — and that the audience shouldn’t necessarily blame the actual people he was impersonating.

During the course of the evening, the audience heard the voices of Andy Rooney, Jack Nicholson, Johnny Carson, Frank Sinatra, John Wayne, Gregory Peck, Dr. Ruth Westheimer, four presidents and Paul Lyman.

The first part of the act consisted of Little’s portrayal of various performers in some of his earlier professions. He imitated Rooney as a boxing announcer, Carson as a radio soap opera star, Westheimer as a bank teller and Nicholson as a history professor.

The impressions were great and the jokes got laughs from the audience but the humor occasionally got vulgar, especially during Dr. Ruth and Nicholson. Little said the audience was more broad-minded toward his jokes than he had expected.

“May be a little stronger for Du Quoin,” Little often said, but the majority of the audience didn’t seem to object.

Next Little performed a mock press conference featuring President George Bush and former President Ronald Reagan, Jimmy Carter and Richard Nixon. Little received whoops of laughter for bopping their heads and letting his thoughts wander like Reagan.

“We are on poverty in the poor lost,” he said. “They didn’t have a chance.”

During his Bush impression, Little suggested that Dan Quayle was selected as vice-president so that Bush wouldn’t have to worry about assassination attempts, and that the best way to open a small business today was to open one and wait.

Little’s Nixon had some strong jokes. He described a violent facial twitch as a “jowl movement,” and said that Dick Rose was “his kind of guy.” Finally, he described Nixon as a great lover since he “did it in the whole country.”

From there Little did some impressions of male vocalists, accompanied by the National Contemporary Pops Orchestra. Little sang songs by Harry Connio, Neil Diamond and Tom Jones and then performed a song with the band and sang “On the Road Again” as Willie Nelson. Little said he wouldn’t impersonate Elvis out of respect, especially since Presley worked at the Burger King down the road.

Little finished his show with a selection of songs from patriotic mov-es. He performed George C. Scott from “Patton,” James Cagney from “Yankee Doodle Dandy,” Gary Cooper from “Mr. Deed Goes to Town” and Pack from “MacArthur.”

Research library aids in obtaining grants

By Tony Mancuso
Staff Writer

Students searching for external grants should visit the Research Resources Library for information on how to obtain funding for theses, travel, dissertations and other research activities.

The library, located in the Office of Research Development and Administration, contains numerous reference books filled with information on grants offered by federal and state agencies as well as private organizations.

Set up to help both graduate students and faculty, the library is primarily used by professors.

Carolyn Donow, in charge of the ORDA Library, said, "I’d like to get the word out to graduate students that we are here and would like to help."

Donow said the library is usually able to direct students to "at least some funding for most study areas."

"It takes a while to search for the right fund, to write a letter (of application) and to wait for the agency’s response. It might take six months to a year to get the response," Donow said.

Black graduation rate could be boosted

The recent report by the Illinois Board of Higher Education stated the black graduation rate at SIU-C was above average for the nation. It would be ideal for SIU-C to change what sort of student high schools are producing and what the University receives. But the University should look in the mirror on its own and see if there is anything that the University can do once the students get here.

The suspicion that the reason black majors are not faring well on the university level because they are not taught properly on the high school level. It would be ideal for SIU-C to change what sort of student high schools are producing and what the University receives. But the University should look in the mirror on its own and see if there is anything that the University can do once the students get here.

As Seymour Byrson, assistant to the president for affirmative action, pointed out, there is definitely room for improvement in the graduation percentage for blacks.

Happy hour ban ridiculous law

The hysteria over the war on drugs has reached epic proportions, now encompassing state legislatures as well as federal.

Tenz frenzied quest to purify America to a Bible belt morality has codified its war to include alcohol. Nowhere is this better exemplified than in the great state of Illinois. Politically, it is a state that built its reputation on the misuse of a social form. The Secretary of State Jim Edgar has been getting the help of the local political leaders to pass laws that destroy the drinking driving laws to the extreme. Still fail terms for second offenders and an exceptionally conservative difficult to change. The people who are the legal he and his kind have left. They drank away the days a few boors and a faulty tailight can land you in a $3,000 fine and a year in jail. Governor Jim Edgar has steamrolled bill after bill through the state legislature, lodging appeals and fighting every inch of the way as a drunk driving supporter.

But the camel's back breaks this weekend after Gov. Thompson signed a ridiculous piece of legislation that outlawed happy hour in the state of Illinois. Now specified bars, clubs, taverns, a regular happy hour patron I can only feel contempt for Big Jim and his minions of evil.

This law does little more than hit the pocketbook of the blue collar worker who enjoys a few drinks with his buddies after a long day of hard labor. Instead of making America safer, this law will only reduce the number of alcohol-related accidents but that means more costs for the beer maker who will make a person give up guzzling.

This would have been a result of fanatical Carrie Nation pressure groups. These are bands of grizzly women whose only job is to force citizens to not drink. The press operation is in the public interest that the American people are entitled to know what their government is doing with their money and in their name. I continue to hold in high regard most of the U.S. combat veterans I speak to as well as the U.S. civilians I met who did their jobs in difficult, hazardous circumstances.

But I still maintain the arrogant government strategy and performance that lost the Vietnam war.

Well, banks. It's about time.

As a correspondent who covered the conflict off and on from early 1963 to mid-1966 — when my wife and I concluded that Vietnam was no place to raise a newborn son — I have come to believe that the press did a better job in Vietnam than the U.S. government did.

The Army's confession is welcome because ever since that prolonged, disastrous conflict, the Pentagon has been the main source of the complaint that "negative" press coverage caused the American public to stop supporting the war.

In particular, the Pentagon has always maintained that the 1968 Tet offensive, in which Viet Cong guerrillas suffered heavy losses but the American public, still believing the enemy compound in Saigon, was a defeat for the Vietnam war.

In fact, Hammond concludes, the Vietnamese officials was convinced. The Viet Cong, on the other hand, wasdecidedly an ascraggly, vicious menace that seemed to never be defeated.

Though it was officially denied, U.S. military "advisers" offered to help the Vietnamese commanders, and U.S. pilots, while Vietnamese pilots went along for the ride.

As the late Charlie Mohr, a reporter for Time magazine and later for The New York Times, recalled, "There never was a day I wasn't led to.

The official U.S. establishment — The White House, the State Department, the Pentagon, the CIA, Congress, armed forces — never understood what the war was about. It was the continuation of the community-led, nationalistic, anti-colonial revolution against France that launched after World War II by Ho Chi Minh. The United States unwittingly became France's replacement.

But successive U.S. administrations viewed the war as aggression by North Vietnam against democratic South Vietnam and tried one strategy after another to "win" — and ultimately failed.

When the policy of "vietnamization" failed because the Vietnamese refused to make necessary political reform, the United States switched to massive numbers of troops, eventually more than 500,000 — and tried "attrition" to grind down the enemy. The Vietnamization of the war, a euphemism for withdrawal.

All along, American reporters saw, wrote about, photographed and filmed what was going on — and caught unremitting official lies for eroding the American public's support for the war.

The press didn't distort the war effort, Hammond wrote. Despite flaws, "the press reported the war often more accurately than the public statements of the administration in portraying the situation in Vietnam."

The United States might have escaped failure in Vietnam if then-President Lyndon Johnson had not decided the military with strategic restrictions and limited goals in Saigon, not Hanoi. In fact, Hammond concludes, what a difference a change in the public's view of the war, which was still more positive than ever, made in 1973 and 1974."

That needed to be said — and to be backed up by chapter and verse, as it is in Hammond's 413-page treatise.

the extra money for a margarita or whatever. The bars on the Strip have a different clientele, though. They seem to be happy to be there and bring in a lot of people that way," she said.

Boyd said the forecast an "increase in private parties and "loose interpretations" of the happy hour ban resulting from the legislation.

"There will be a lot more people having parties early in the day because the drink specials have been eliminated, but they'll go out afterwards. There are a lot of ways to work around the law, through.

most blood donated during peace time by any university in 1986.

"I can't think of a better thing for a university to be known for," Ugent said.

She said the SIU Alumni Association, sponsors of the drive, will provide much of the non-technical help. This will include making appointments, serving refreshments and whatever else needs to be done.

H.A. Hartwig, an assistant board member and retired professor, said, "We're the only chapter involved in sponsoring a blood drive."

Ugent said the Red Cross plans to make donating as quick and painless as possible. She did recommend that donors make appointments, but said walk-ins are just as welcome.

Ugent said the refreshments for donors will include sandwiches and homemade cookies as well as drinks.

Fraternity votes to alter pledging rules

By Jeanne Bickler
Staff Writer

The Tau Kappa Epsilon International Fraternity has voted to "alter pledging," and this is all it's chapters with a leadership development program by the fall of 1991.

Traditional pledging in most fraternities include such activities as members eating the Greek alphabet as well as facts about the fraternity's history.

"TKE is not trying to eliminate pledging," Jim Hartigan, SIUC's TKE chapter president, said. "We are trying to change pledging's focus to leadership that can be applied later in life. Instead of memorizing things, our members are going to know what's going on with the fraternity and what their rights in it are."

"We no longer have the old pledge program. We call new members associate members rather than pledges," Hartigan said. Traditional pledging has a bad history, he said, and is often associ­ated with "hazing."

Craig Jackson, graduate assistant for Greek affairs, said as new members from initiated members by making them feel "beneath the old mem­bers."

Fraternities thought hazing brought loyalty, but this was not the case, Hartigan said. The SIUC TKE chapter has had no hazing incidents.

Eileen Stevens, who's son died during a hazing incident, made a "Drink at the TKE national convention in August. Whenever you have a two-tiered system where frater­nity members and 'pledges,' the opportunity for hazing persists. TKE undergraduates have taken the lead in coming to that opportuni­ty," Stevens said, according to a TKE newsletter.

Stevens cited 50 hazing inci­dents in the last ten years in which her son have died.

"There is a nationwide push to eliminate 'hazing,'" Jackson said. "Most chapters are voluntarily changing to get out of hazing."

Jackson and Hartigan agreed that pledging is not what it was 20 years ago.

Committee venturing to rekindle local ACLU chapter after five years

By Sean Hannigan
Staff Writer

Carbondale will have an American Civil Liberties Union chapter for the first time in over five years if the steering committee meets Thursday night is success­ful.

At the meeting, held Thursday in the 22 North Room of the Student Center, nominations were held to head the committee in charge of forming a local chapter. Rob Schofield, legislative and campaign assistant for the ACLU located in Springfield, is in charge of developing and reviving chapters throughout Southern Illinois.

Schofield said to the crowd of 3, "We are lucky in that we have a strong core of members in this community. He estimated that there were over 125 members in Carbondale already.

The ACLU came under attack from the Bush campaign during last year's presidential elections. Bush criticized opponents Dakakis for being a 'card-carrying member' of the ACLU, which in the past has gone to court to defend the rights of Nazis' and pornographers to protect the rights guaranteed these groups under the Constitution.

Since the campaign there has been renewed interest in the group from both old members and people who have never been in the ACLU, Schofield said.

"We have been besieged by people who want to become 'card carrying members,'" he said. "The ACLU is protecting and defending the Constitution, particularly the Bill of Rights. It's really a very conservative-­ that.

Sophomore Amie Padgett stayed close to the top two commanders for awhile, according to DeNoon. Padgett eventually finished third in the race with a time of 20:27. Freshman Dawn Barefoot came finished fifth with a time of 20:11. "I donated a lot and picked up throughout," DeNoon said. "She ran a consistent race."

Three more freshman Saluki runners also took the 11, 12 and 13 slots in the race. Laura Barefoot finished 11th with a time of 20:47 and Leslie Tynes 13th with a time of 20:50.

The Salukis will make its home debut 10:30 a.m. Saturday when it runs against Kansas and Purdue.

announced he would be inducted into the Hall of Fame. "It's a very pleasant surprise. I've been to a lot of induction ceremonies, I never thought I would be inducted myself," Iublelt said.

I feel great about it. It's icing on the cake," Iublelt said. "It is the ultimate feeling after coaching for so many years."

Coaching has its ups and downs and Iublelt has shared both sides of the spectrum. He said his biggest accomplishments on the court were when his team beat Arizona in the 1977 Midwest regional tournament, and the women's team beat Louisiana State University in the second round of the 1987 Midwest NCAA regional.

entire game at quarterback in the blowout because sophomore Scott Gabbert was suffering from soreness in his elbow and shoulder during the week prior to the game, Smith said. Gabbert played only in kicking situations at the holder.

Smith said he did not want to risk further injury by playing Gabbert and wanted to give Gibson some experience in the two-minute offense drill late in the game.

Knowing the UNR game would be difficult, Smith said the game was played in a similar fashion as NFL preseason games.

"We played a lot of kids," Smith said. "We tried a lot of different things and played a lot of people and we accomplished what we set out to do. We were a good football team in the first half."

SIU-C will be at home next week against Western Illinois' Leathernecks, last season's Gateway Conference champion. The Leathernecks won its season opener 24-10 over Arkansas Monticello.

Record shattered at Trotting Derby

By Greg Scott
Staff Writer

It was "Ladies First" at the Du Quoin State Fairgrounds over the weekend as the filly Peace Corps defeated Shogun Lobell in three heats to win the ninth annual World Trotting Derby.

Peace Corps took home $300,000 of the $600,000 purse and set a world record for her sex in the process Saturday. The lone filly in the colt-dominated event, Peace Corps time of 1:52.4 in the second heat was the fastest ever recorded by a filly around a one-mile track.

Peace Corps also shattered the World Trotting Derby record of 1:53.2, set by Prakas (1985) and Napolitano (1987). The filly then outdrew Shogun Lobell in the third and deciding heat.

John Campbell, the driver of the filly, had previously won the filly division of the World Trotting Derby. This was Campbell's first victory in the open division. Peace Corps was the only "she" in the 13-horse lineup. Campbell has

The fourth game moved quickly as the players scrambled to break the 2-1 alumni advantage.

Senior middle blocker Nina Brackin's timing was slightly off - on the short sets and she landed in the net a majority of the time. "I'm still working on the short set," Brackin said. The alumni geared ahead to win the game 15-10.

The Salukis made a late-round comeback in the final set to beat the alumni 15-7. All the alumni won 3-2 in match play.

"We're looking good but we still have work to do," Brackin said. "They are a tough team, all they need is time. Nisa was by far the toughest opponent out there," Bauer-Howes said. "We'll try to do better next time," Hagemeier said.

Salukis crushed in season opener

By Daniel Wallenberg
Satl White

Despite dropping the season opener to the University of Nevada-Reno by the score of 41-3, Head Coach Bob Smith said the Salukis traveled to Nevada to compete, and will use the game as a benchmark for the year.

The Salukis traveled to Nevada knowing the game would be a learning experience, and a difficult challenge. During the pre-game warm-up the team performed well on the field, although it put only three points on the board.

The Salukis went into halftime tied 0-0, at the half is total offensive 125 yards to 58, trailed 2-3. The Salukis opened the scoring late in the second quarter when sophomore John Hill lined up, the leading scorer from last season, kicked a 37-yard field goal with 3:06 left in the half. Earlier in the half junior Steve Warden, considered by Smith to be a better long-range placekicker, missed from 43 yards out.

Both teams possession of the ball moved 43 yards from midfield, and was the only first down of the first half. The Salukis scored on the next two plays before giving up a 28-yard touchdown pass from freshman Stephan Gallina to wide receiver Tramelle Taylor with 36 left, giving the Wolf Pack an early lead.

Smith said that going into the locker room at half time the coach- ing staff had the team use the time they had for the half time like they wanted them. The Wolf Pack was running well against UNR, were eating up the clock, had led the ball over 21 minutes and allowed the Wolf Pack offense from making any mistakes.

"But they must have been a few players who just didn’t believe us," Smith said.

In the first half the Salukis had accomplished what they had set out to do in preparing for UNR but had not put points on the board. Smith said.

The pace of the game changed dramatically as the second half opened, UNR scored on its first five possessions and kept the Saluki offense from moving the ball as it had in the first half.

Smith said a lot was learned about the Saluki team that the coaches will draw from in the second half.

"We’re a little fragile mentally, we let one thing bother us a little too much," Smith said of the Davis fumble.

The Salukis had the game get away from us in the second half," Smith said. "In the first half we dominated in every aspect but didn’t score.

Saluki volleyball player Kim Schaeft, a sophomore from Mattis, returns a serve during the Saluki volleyball game held Sunday afternoon at Davies Gymnasium. The Salukis pulled out a win in a closely played third game. The volleyball alumni show they still know a trick or two

By Tracy Sargeant
Staff Writer

Who says you can’t teach old dawgs new tricks? The Saluki volleyball alumni found out they still had some tricks up their sleeves when they swept these old teammates at the Alumni Memorial in Saturday’s volleyball alumni game.

What they found was a game of hard, fast-paced driving volleyball. The first game went to the alumni as they pulled out into an easy 8-5 lead against the Salukis. This margin-to-open was filled with a series of excellent short serves and kills for the alumni. But the alumni team coalesced around the attack with seemingly impossible digs and saves.

Alumni Janet Bauer-Howes from Webster Groves, Mo. had the team together to capture the win for the alumni, 15-10.

Bauer-Howes had a unusual short serve spike serve that was equally as powerful as the regular offensive.

“Developed the serve to save my shoulder. The other way tends to wear on my back,” Bauer-Howes said.

The second game of the five-game match also went to the alumni. The score was close until the alumni served four back-to-back points to make the score 10-6.

Coach Patti Hagemeyer called a time out and the Salukis served for one additional point after she added in a new boomer.

At the ball and against the incredible alums, the Salukis tied the score at 14 before the alumni regained the serve.

Cathy Lies of South Pasadena, Calif., served two game winning aces to put the Salukis ahead.

“Everything is going great. We have never practiced before and things are just falling into place," Lies is impressed with the team (Salukis), they are powerful, I think we have a definite mental edge because of our experience,” Lies said.

The Salukis pulled out a win in a closely played third game. The game was highlighted with several long volleys back and forth until the game was tied 11-11. The Salukis played offensively for the rest of the game and served the final point to make it 15-12.

Women harriers dominate meet

By Greg Scott
Staff Writer

The SIU-C Saluki women’s cross-country team is the big story out of the top 10 places in winning its first meet of the season at Eastern Illinois University Saturday.

The Salukis won the triangular as a team with 53 points. Murray State finished second with 45 and Eastern Illinois was third with 70.

"It was a good meet for us," coach Don DeNoo said. "I was pretty pleased with the overall performance and I felt we can really well."

One of DeNoo’s highly-leated freshman, Lecos Canyon, wasted no time in the-shing the coach she could make an impact this season. Canyon was the overall winner of the meet in a time of 19:01.

"I was the fastest of the two freshmen," DeNoo said. "We battled it out with Conway for the top spot in the meet early on.

"Muller stuck with Lecos for about the first two miles," DeNoo said. "Leann took charge after
