NEW ATHLETIC PROGRAM CONSIDERED

Meeting To Be Held at Monmouth
May 26 or 27

For some time it has been the opinion of those in a position to know that the athletic situation in Illinois might be improved. At a recent meeting of the Illinois Federation of Colleges in Chicago, some fundamental principles of a constructive program for a new organization designed to encourage an entirely different type of athletics were discussed. These principles were set forth in a circular letter sent to the Presidents of all Illinois Colleges, together with a request that each send its Athletic Director, and a Faculty member preferably the President, to a meeting of the Illinois Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, to be held at Monmouth May 26 or 27.

This new type of athletics embodies the idea that athletics, as it has been taught in schools, has not reached the masses. It emphasizes intramural athletics, and discourages intercollegiate athletics. It also provides for mass-play and recreational athletics to reach the majority of the students. Whether this new idea of "athletics" is better than the old, whether the fundamental changes in it would make it better or not, this program as now outlined might be changed to advantage, these are the questions that will confront the conference.

There is no doubt but that the primary purpose of this is right. The question seems to resolve itself into this, and this is probably the only valid objection that we might raise to this plan, whether or not this plan, if adopted, would be practical, or whether it would defeat its own purposes in abolishing the type of athletics now in existence, and substituting for it something improved, and something that might be unprofitable with the masses of the student body.

REPARTEE

Prof. Warren attempted to be witty in Geometry class: "And can any of you gentlemen tell me where has my polygon?"

Carl Mason (in rear): "Up the geometree, sir."

The spirit of loyalty and cooperation which has animated the members of the Agora Debating Club, for their society is being carried further at the opening of the spring term. Perhaps no one in this school at this time can realize the value of an organization and the good that comes from it until that person has become a member and has taken an active part in the club. We are proud of our club, with its full quota of 25 members, who as active members have helped to make this club equal to none of its kind in school.

At a meeting the last part of the winter term John Hunsaker was elected president: August Meyers, vice president; Herbert Jay, secretary; Clarence Foegley, treasurer; and Edward Wilson, sergeant-at-arms. A very interesting debate was given at the opening of the spring term.

The affirmative was championed by John Hunsaker and Clarence Foegley, while the negatives were: Ivan Baxter and Frank Hight. The negatives won the question after much consideration of the judges.

Many fine programs have been arranged for this term. Visitors are cordially invited at all times to attend the meetings.

U. H. S. BASEBALL

With the coming of Spring the minds of all red-blooded youths turn to that game which has won the title as "The American Game," baseball. Although track had already started and several stars had appeared, when it was left to the vote of the students of the High School baseball carried. This can perhaps be explained by the fact mentioned at first and that we have many boys in school who are well-skilled in the art of the game.

Art Club Plans Trip

A trip to St. Louis, for the purpose of visiting the Art Museum and the Fine Arts Institute, a branch of Washington University, is being planned by the members of the Art Club. The members, while there, will study various works of art, some of which have been studied by the members, while taking an active part in the meeting of the Club this year. A valuable collection of prints owned by the Chicago Art Institute will be exhibited in the near future.

Annenements concerning this and posters will be posted on the bulletin board at a later date.

A few vacancies are still open for new members. To take an active part in the affairs in this club is the only way a person can realize his scope and work that the club is doing in this institution. If interested, Miss Williams will explain the pre-requisites for becoming a member.

The Agora Press has had a remarkable advancement. Although the old library high was always well represented in football, basketball, tennis, track, and cross-country, they never had a nine.

So it will not be so hard for the team to come back after a five-year lapse during which no athletics were indulged in.

The team will play Herrin there next Friday. We hope to be able to announce the schedule in full next week.

Arbor and Bird Day Program

The chapel exercises for Friday April 14 featured numbers in keeping with Liberty Arbor and Bird Day. Mr. F. White was in charge of the devotional exercises. Miss Wanda Johnson read a very interesting nature myth instructive talks were given by Mr. Ruther and Mrs. Miss Williams. Mrs. Asbyu Hendy read from Longfellow's "Wayside Inn." Stories the chief one being "Birds of Killingworth."

BORN Tailoring means much to the young man whose clothing budget permits no extravagance. A suit "Tailored to Measure by Born" offers all any man asks in good style, fit, rich appearance and long wear, at a price easily paid.

We are now showing some particularly handsome woolens at $30, $35, and $40; men who think good clothes are still high will be pleased to see these values.

NORMAL HONORS WAR HERO

Wednesday afternoon, April 19th, the faculty and students of the S. I. N. U. paused for awhile in the daily round of school activities to do honor to the remains of William Watson, the last of Carbondale's hero dead to be brought from France to a final resting place in his native soil. The funeral services were held in the Normal auditorium and were conducted by the American Legion, Capt. McAndrews officiating. The spacious auditorium was filled to overflowing by comrades and friends who came reverently to pay a last tribute to one who offered all, and gave all, to his country and to the principles of right.

The funeral address delivered by Dr. McCay was inspiring and deeply appreciative of the sacrifice of the youth who offers his life, and of the mother who waits, and prays at home. The services conducted by the men of the American Legion were impressive, from first to last, and indicative of the ties of comradeship and reverence for the fallen, which characterize the organization. Surely no hero ever received a more sincere tribute than Sergeant Watson.

From the first formation to receive the body; the solemn procession; the music; the soldiers' farewell salute by the firing squad; the last plaintive note of taps, bidding a soldier's last goodnight to a sleeping comrade; there was evident in the great throng a spirit of reverence which shows that Carbondale has not forgotten, and will not forget the tribute due a citizen who lays his life on the altar of his country.

ILLINAE Gossip

"I wouldn't miss an Illinæ meeting for anything," said a member of this club. That is the attitude of all the Illinæ members, for an "peppy" and enjoyable are its meetings.

Not much is heard on the campus of the weighty matters that are discussed behind the closed doors of the Illinæ.

For the benefit of new students we wish to say that the Illinæ is the girls' debating club, composed of twenty-five members. The Illinæ has more than proved its worth and established itself at the best debating club on the campus.

Both the Forum and the Agora composed of strong masculine debaters fell before the Illinæ girl champions.

The new Illinæ officers are: President, Grace Frederick; vice president, Lora Street; secretary, Grace Eagle.

ILLINAE members will give a banquet in the near future. Forum and Agora, "perk up", maybe you'll get a bid!

Theresa Bunting, member of the champion debating team, has gone to the Y. M. C. A. National Convention at Hot Springs, Ark.

WHO WILL VOLUNTEER?

The work of the Y. M. C. A. in connection with the Presbyterian church in the northeast part of town is progressing nicely. Mr. Ira Beare gave a very interesting exposition of the resurrection of Christ on last Sunday morning. A large number of mission scholars were there and shared in the excellent Easter program. Mr. Ditt Hall, superintendent of the Sunday School, was the presiding officer. A number of the Y. W. C. A. were there and contributed much to the meeting by aiding in the music.

Young men, the "Y" needs you at the church every Sunday evening. Volunteer to take your part. Mr. Harry Allan talked to the eager listeners of the church last Sunday. Who will be next?

Not only are you rendering an invaluable service to the community, but at the same time you are strengthening your character by an experience you can't get elsewhere. May we have enough volunteers to fill each Sunday evening of this term. M. S. WALKER,
Head "Gospel Team."

THE EGYPTIAN

WHY DO THEY DO IT?

(Reward for answer)

They were busily at work, two of them, one Senior College student and one Junior. There was no living thing in the house. Not a sound was heard save the slow and measured drip, drip, drip of a water tap with a worn gasket, or the occasional scratch of the drawing pen in the hands of the Junior. He, the Junior, was deep in the mysteries of manual arts, while the dignified Senior College man was trying to decide for sure the momentous question: Whether or not the eye really developed from a mere freckle on a crab's face, or was it a monkey's face? Oh, well—I've forgotten which, but anyway—"All was as quiet as the breath when the spirit has departed." It was one of those nights when the smell of spring seems to pervade everywhere. But this spring smell was wholly lost on these two very studious students. It was like casting pearls before swine, so to speak. This went on for sometime, but at last another odor drifted in, which entirely eliminated the spring odor. Still they studied. Yet the pen ran on so steadily and smoothly as before and the Senior College man began to stir lightly as if unconsciously, or was it subconsciously troubled. A scream! A scream! A woman's scream! The men sprung from their seats. The draftsman's pen rolled unheeded across the white drawing paper, wholly ruining the results of two hour's hard labor, while the freckle, crab, monkey and all were entirely forgotten by the Senior College man.

Each mind was filled with fleeting visions of a bureau building with beautiful maidens framed in one of its upstairs windows, screaming for just such a hero as himself to come to rescue her.

The Junior sprang to the window, then as quickly sprang back, drawing the shade closely, "Oh, God's sake! Come here," he whispered. His room-mate went Soon these two, with their own light turned out, were kneeling in darkness, gazing out at the window at the cause of their alarm. But strange to say, their actions no longer registered any symptoms of alarm. The Junior could no more for the parts of the gasoline engine he had been so interested in than for the running gears of a grasshopper. To the Senior College man it made no difference how, when or where the eye originated. It was enough for him that he had bad a chance against that he was permitted to feast upon the wondrous vision of the moment.

So Dear Reader, I will tell you no more. Much as I would like to tell you, who they were and what they are names that my limited knowledge did contain against my life had sealed my lip.

This only will I say. A few days ago Herman Sparr came to me and said "S——. you are a married man, the father of two girls; often have you heard you speak of your sister. It seems to me, in the past, you have shown anything about girls or women it might be you. What there about girls' natures that would make them wish to build a huge bonfire, then with clasped hands to dance wildly around that fire? Why would they leap over the flames and wet the embers, yet seem to enjoy it on wonderful spring nights?"

I assured him that my limited knowledge did not enable me to answer. "Mine neither," said his roommate, Alvin Feita; "but they show a look attractive doing it."

STUDENT COUNCIL

President Shryock has approved the following plan of the Student Council with regard to unexcused absences (cuts) from classes.

Each student will be allowed four cuts in each class per term (except in classes meeting less than five times per week, where the provision will be maintained). That is, if a student wishes to be away from a class on business, etc., he may do so without permission or being required to explain his absence. Of course any absence from a class will usually lower the student's term mark, or might cause a failure, but occasionally an absence seems necessary. Two unexcused cases of tardiness will count as one cut. Any student who has more than four cuts will be failed. Absence or tardiness because of sickness, or for any other reason which the teacher will excuse will not count as a cut.

A written excuse for sickness absence must be secured from Dr. Caldwell and presented to the teacher, or the absence will count as a cut. Any other circumstances than those named above are individual matters between the instructor and student.

Each instructor will decide in each case of late entrance whether the absences will count as cuts.

These regulations do not guarantee that absence from class will reduce the student's term mark, but they do allow greater freedom in the matter of class absences.

This spring weather seems to affect everyone from the parties of young people we see picnicking.

Senior College had long been contemplating one and last Saturday night, heavily loaded they set forth, on an egg-boat. Their general friend and teacher, Prof. G. W. Smith, accompanied them and proved his worth many times by helping all along the way, mud or otherwise.

After getting their shoes muddy and their feet wet, they found an ideal spot for campfire.

Several of the boys must be excellent cooks from the example they set Saturday night. Herman Sparr was the chief, he kept the fire burning and the oven standing and he made out a list of items:

Grilled hot dogs, fried eggs, boiled eggs, potatoes and buns.

Miss Galbraith and Kent Watkins can certainly fry ham—yes, boy! As for Irene Beare and Clarence Creager—"Peg and her family had the good fortune to be camping next to them, and with Prof. Smith helped bake some cookies.

Chas. Sattgast and Grace Frederick must have spent most of their childhood in making mud pies from the expert way they rolled potatoes in mud and then threw them in the fire. But for the boy's baked apples were the prize winners. They were tip-top.

While we were preparing eating we persuaded Prof. Smith to tell us a story, a ghosty story. He told us one with lots of thrills in it, but Chas. Sattgast told us one that was quite a story, "The Ghost of the Red Light." It was a so-called actual experience. We used to think the story was true; but—never again.

We decided that was good enough to quit on, and so returned home in good time, tired but pleasantly so.

MISS GALBRAITH FITS

ON "PEG OF MY HEART"

The Square News published by the high school of Highland, Ill., has an article this week on their play, "Peg of My Heart". The play was the biggest success the school has ever scored in the dramatic line. Miss Rowena Galbraith, one of last year's graduates, was the coach of the play, and almost the entire success of the performance was due to her excellent work. It will be remembered that Miss Galbraith took the leading role in "Peg of My Heart" here in 1920, and had one of the leads in "Charley's Aunt" last year.

Music washes away from the soul the dust of everyday life.

Money is the oil that lubricates the machinery of living.

Some drivers do their thinking after the collision. Others never know what happened.

The reward of faithful service too often is, "He was a good man in his day."

We subscribe for The Egyptian when by cramming your neck you can sponge from your pal's paper.

Of course, "You can't eat your cake and have it, too," but the successful people are those who eat their cake and then get another one.

It has been suggested that it would look better and be better for all concerned if the "Flappers" be kept at home longer each morning and noon to help their mothers wash dishes.

American freedom, equally divided as to sex, to seek a few hours recreation in "ye fresh air" by means of an innocent little flivver, said flivver being double-seated, why, I ask in the name of Hot Stuff, should there be a corresponding necessity for all four to sit in the front seat, leaving the back seat empty? Give you three guesses as to who they were, albeit you may need but one. Eh, Kabover?

The Contest is over so the "Egyptian" comes out this week in its workaday clothes. During the contest we have learned some valuable things. One is that there are many persons in school who have real ability, that previous to the contest had never written a line for the "Egyptian." We hope now that the ice is broken it will keep the good work going. We have no more silver cups to offer to motivate your energies but we will give you our everlasting friendship and good will. So as has been said before, Produce! Produce! Produce!

PROGRESS
"Flaming fish" is described by Popular Mechanics as the odd occupation by South Sea Islanders. The Islanders catch the fish in the shallow waters of the lagoons about the islands. They then place them in "tarms" or enclosed boxes of water, where the fish are left to be harvested when the owner finds opportunity to sell or barter them.

Take it from us there's a lot that happens around the S. I. N. I. that never gets into the "Egyptian."

An intimate view of college student life, compiled from 50,000 questionnaires, is presented in "The Wisconsin Mirror," an article in the January "Commercial Magazine" published by students of the University of Wisconsin, and in 30 tablets in the magazine office.

Some 250 questionnaires, carrying about 60 questions each, were submitted to 7,500 students, and about half of them were answered, the survey is said to be the largest ever conducted in an American university. Some of its high lights are:

Concerning best age for marriage, freshman girls prefer the age of 22, while senior girls suggest 27. About 50 per cent prefer marriage after 25. Some 250 never expect to marry. Among the men, only 14 per cent think of marriage before 26; 75 per cent between 26 and 30; and 10 per cent after 30.

As to income necessary for marriage, one girl in ten would marry on $2,000 a year; one in three on $2,000; one in five on $5,000, one in seven asks $5,000 and 10 per cent ask more. Among the men, 33 per cent say $2,000; 2 per cent say $2,000; 17 per cent say $3,000; 11 per cent say $4,000; and 10 per cent say $7,000.

In news made, 99 per cent read cartoons, 6,000 read the sport page, less than a third features, and one-fifth read book reviews.

About 86 per cent of the girls aim at "service" in after life, 60 per cent seek wealth. Eight per cent of the men seek fame; the rest average accomplishment.

Social affairs cost the social lion among men students about $25 a month, while the average men students spend about $15. The very popular co-ed dance costs very little, while other girls spend from $12 to $17 a month on amusements.

Less than half of the men in the university smoke. The number ranges from 46 per cent in freshmen year to 55 per cent in senior year, showing that few learn it in college. About one in ten admits that she has smoked.

A LOOK INTO THE BALL

It was a gloomy, dark day. Just such a day as that upon which the spirits of departed friends chose to make known to mortals the mysteries of the far beyond. As I wandered from my place of habitation in hope of finding something interesting which would serve to occupy my leisure hours, I chanced to notice a sign upon a house which read as follows:

Visit the Studio of The Mysterious Hindoo
One of the largest and most wonderful of its kind. The Mysterious Hindoo who communicates with the departed and gives information about the Past, Present, and Future.

Be somewhat curious and wishing to know to what extent the mysterious man's power reached I approached the house and knocked. I was admitted by the Hindoo himself. The room which I entered contained two Oriental cushions and a large vase, from which a thin column of smoke issued. I seated myself upon the cushion which the Hindoo designated. He seated himself on the other and placed the vase between us.

"Will thou cross my hands with silver?" he asked.

I look from my purse a silver coin and placed it in his hand.

"What do you wish?"

"I should like to know the history of the most important organization of the S. I. N. U." I replied.

The Hindoo uttered some strange enchanting phrases. The smoke which issued from the vase began to thicken and faint strains of music reached my ears. I recognized "Down Home Rue" and immediately I saw in the smoke a company of musicians which I knew to be our S. I. N. U. orchestra. Standing foremost among these individuals was one whom I instantly recognized as our esteemed director, G. C. Balnum.

A sudden change revealed the Barlow theatre and I noted that the music rendered was quite suitable for the "Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse." I then noticed that the members were assembled at Barnes Cafe and were partaking of a dainty supper which was being given in their honor by the proprietor of the theatre.

Another change showed these musicians playing for the Plays given by the Literary and Social Societies. The column of smoke began to fade away but I was still able to discern the figures of the orchestra members and I found them playing a strange dirge-like march while long columns of figures clad in caps and gowns filed into the auditorium. It was commencement day and the scene faded into obscurity.

So ended my most interesting interview and I was left to dream and ponder over what I had just witnessed.

SOCRATIC STAR SHINES

The Socratic Star did shine Friday night April 21, even as it shines every Friday night and as it will continue to shine.

The program was opened by a vocal solo by Norma Keen. Miss Keen sang a beautiful Indian love song, "By the Waters of Minnetonka," and for encore "Gipsy Love Song."

The Socratic Star, a journal of society happenings, was given by Belva Young. An extemporaneous debate was the closing number of the program.

After the literary program the usual business meeting was held. The serious business was finished and parliamantary practice was taken up. Here unsuspected talent was brought from under a bushel and was made to shine. To the utter surprise (and one might say delight) of the members, Mr. Wiegand was called on for a piano solo and executed wonderful tear-stripping sounds from the piano.

We also found that Claude Wright possesses a truly marvelous voice and has the rare ability of accompanying himself.

Another feature of this parliamentary practice was a solo dance by Paul Snider, whose sylphlike figure is admirably fitted for his graceful performance.

Watson Yields Emblem of Ali-Thoy to Jay

Harold Bigelow of the Salem H. S., has the honor of establishing the first wireless station in Salem.

We are much pleased to see a very good photograph of Dr. C. E. Allen in the Teachers' College Budget of Valley City, N. D. Some good things were said about him that we who remember his work here in S. I. N. U, know are well deserved.

Supreme in style
as they are in value

If you would have shoes which express the newest and best in footwear fashion, with never a trace of the "freakish" or undignified Comfortable as only perfect-fitting footwear can be, and of such superior material and workmanship that they will retain their shapely beauty under the hardest service Then look for the Queen Quality trade mark on the sole of every pair of shoes you buy.
To a million fastidious women it is the symbol of style, fit and that unusual service which means economy. It is your assurance of shoe satisfaction.

others fail"

LEXINGTON, KY., FIVE WINS NA-TIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP

LEXINGTON HIGH of Lexington, Ky., captured the national inter-scholastic high school basketball championship at Chicago U. last Saturday by trouncing the Mt. Vernon, Ohio, quintet, 46 to 28. Rockford won third by defeating the Hume-Pong Academy of Nashville, Tenn., by the score, 35-30.
Twenty-eight schools, representing many states, started in the tourney.
The Lexington boys completely outclassed the Ohiobins. MacFarlane, forward on the Kentucky team, featuring, scoring ten baskets. Lexington won the right to the finals by winning a close game from the Madison, Wisconsin quintet, 22-11, in its first game in the tourney. In turn the Kentuckians trounced Kalamazoo, Michigan, 25-24; Duluth, Minn., 37-8; Nashville,
Tenn., 35-28, and then by trimming Mt. Vernon in the finals took over the title.

Fort Scott, champions of Kansas, at the beginning of the tourney seemed a likely winner when they trounced Austin, Minn., but were easily defeated by Rockford, the score being 53-16.

LABORATORY WISDOM

The Senior College Zoology class had assembled. Each student was very busy with a microscope diligently endeavoring to find epithelial cells on a slide of frog intestine or maybe a cat stomach. That doesn't matter just now in our story. Miss Steagall was going the rounds lending aid and advice when suddenly a shrill "H.
rent the air around Hilda Stein's desk.
Whatever happened?" "What's the matter?" all asked breathlessly.
"O, I just discovered a wisdom tooth I didn't know I had!" was Hilda's exciting reply.
"Now isn't that just like a woman to find something and then crow over it?"

TRUE LOVE

She may be a moonshiner's daughter, but I love her still.—G.-Whit.

Extra! Have you heard the latest scandal? It's just that the distinguished Editor-in-Chief of the Ob-liak was arrested late Monday evening when in the act of boarding a train to return, as was his daily custom, to Murphyboro. The federal inspector who made the arrest claimed that he had seen the suspect frequently with his satchel, in which Leo is in the habit of carrying proof plates, mountings, et cetera, and for long had suspected him of "hootlegging." Leo indignantly denied the charge, but showed himself rather averse to the inspector opening the satchel. The Inspector prevailing, however, the satchel was opened, and though no bottle, dead or alive, were brought to light, in a pocket at the side of the
