Dr. Bailey Speaks To Members of Y.M.C.A.

Dr. W. M. Bailey, of the Botany department, addressed the Y.M.C.A., last Tuesday evening on the subject, "Evolution, the Bible and Religion." He brought out the relation between religion and science in the past, elaborating on his theme by giving evidence and interpretations of organic and inorganic evolution. He showed the relations between evolution and materialism, evolution and religious science. In conclusion, he stated that Christian teaching had壁纸d the final scientific test, by proving the practicability.

For this week, this organization is to meet with Miss Julia Leona, at 6 o'clock, to read and discuss upon a play which the Y. M. is to present. There is still some question as to the type of play to be chosen. As all men's cast is desired, but it is feared that a subtle play of this type cannot be found.

WINTER ENROLLMENT EXCEEDS LAST YEAR TWO HUNDRED FORTY

FIFTEEN HUNDRED SIXTY NOW REGISTERED IN COLLEGE

The winter registration in this college is now 1,564, a decrease of 132 over the fall quarter. This is, however, an increase of 228 over the registration one year ago. The winter quarter regularly has a lighter enrollment than the fall and spring quarters. Two hundred and sixty students in residence the fall term did not come back the winter quarter, and the reduction in the number of eighty-four students in residence now, who were not here in September.

Of the 216 students who dropped out, thirty-seven may be accounted for as the basis of finances. Nine died and fifteen gave up their residence in order to engage in work other than teaching. Thirty-five have completed the requirements for graduation, certification, or may do so this year without being in residence this term. Ten of these are candidates for the degrees and five for the two-year diplomas. Nine of them had already graduated. Ten withdrew because of health, seven having withdrawn from the fall quarter have passed a scholastic record. One student left because his family moved away, and the registrar has no record of this.

Seventy-nine withdrew because of insufficient scholastic records. Forty-five of these dropped out of the heading "dropped for poor scholarship," their records being too low to allow them to continue. Another twenty had records considerably below the graduation level. Some of these

What-Do You Think?

Along with other innovations, the Pep Club has introduced at re- cord pep meetings girl cheerleaders. A student from each basketball team last week occasioned much comment that it was unusual and exciting.

"It's High School"

Virginia Scott declared, "It's high-schoolish. It's worse than anything I've ever seen before. I'm mad because we're not used to it."

"It's University"

Tommy Jones was anti-accumulative in his expression. "I like them. They're better than the other ones."

The cheerleaders have the pavement we are. And since over half the students are girls, I guess they should have a chance at it, too.

"I think it's all right to have them," Eleanor Stefanoff reported.

"They Don't Belong There"

"Girls don't have any business acting like that, and that's the way they've titled." I didn't like girl cheerleaders-the effect is too much.

Francis Blankenship holds the opposite view. "They're all right, I guess. They even up the games that they hold to please the pep of the school."

Dollins Also Opposes

"Girls are right as cheer leaders," Helen Dollins exclaimed. "Of all the dumb stunts of all, the most important thing is that they are in high school. But to have it in college, too, is too much. And I'm sure most of the older students feel that way also."

Dr. Beyer Sponsors Frat, Chi Delta Chi

Dr. Richard L. Beyer's acceptance of the sponsorship of Chi Delta Chi, newly organized men's social fraternity, met with an outburst of enthusiasm at the meeting held in the Chemistry Building last Tuesday evening. President James McGurie announced that the fraternity feels extremely fortunate in securing Dr. Beyer to fill the capacity of sponsor.

Nine male guests, some of them prospective pledges, were entertained at the meeting. Refreshments were served.

Classes of Allyn Training School Have Program Tomorrow

The classes in the Allyn Training School will hold their Christmas programs tomorrow afternoon with the exception of the junior high which will hold its program on Friday evening.

Almost all of the classes have drawn names and will exchange gifts after their programs.

The first and second grades will be entertained by a toy orchestra which will include only pupils from those classes. The fourth grade will present its program in the form of a skit.

Some of the pupils of the sixth grade will give a play called "Tell Tull Time."

The performance will include renditions, solos, quartets, and Christmas songs.

Dr. Beyer invited to Christmas party by some of the students and to be a part of the program.

There is a Santa Claus

To some of us, it may seem irrational that Christmas this year, no less than in more indulgent years, requires of us the ultimate in good cheer and conviviality. We are not to place our solution to the problem of the soul this holiday in the arms of Santa Claus. To do so is to be ingratitude to a kind tradition. Santa Claus was given us for the lean years. When prosperity rides high his position is only nominal and his work is a sinecure. This year Santa Claus is not at his best. And at his best or worse he can be no more than a symbol of our own charitable good fellowship.

It is childish to believe in Santa Claus. The most hard-hearted, disillusioned scientists deal in symbols. When we accept this jolly, befuddled, bewhiskered little man we are really believing in our faith in human kindness and charity. When we are drinking less cocoa and more water, when we stub our more and dance less, when our money goes for books and not for shows, when the hollowness of the bowl of the wolf at the door becomes a greater threat, then, indeed, do we need a loitering symbol of our faith in our fellows. The unhappiest of brews is always tempered by the milk of human kindness, and only as we can, in this season of adversity, be sure that there is a Santa Claus, then above all the lamentations of the day will ring our clarion, MERRY CHRISTMAS!

USE DISCRETION:

It seems that the warnings of common sense are never heeded until we are given some example of the consequences of heedlessness. Those examples are sometimes costly. When the recent snow and freeze gave us a fine slick pavement, our comings and goings were necessarily well planned. There is nothing more exhilarating than a ride through nippy air on a sled behind a speeding automobile. But circumstance leaves us to judge whether or not the exhilaration pays for the dauger of the ride. It could be unwise of anyone to persist about the releasing of joyous, energetic spirit; but we can look at it logically. At a speed of fifty miles an hour the slightest swerve at a curve or collision in catastrophe, usually results in hospital bills that no amount of regret will pay. Aren't there safer places to sleigh ride than the city streets?

Would not less specified enjoyment suit us and enjoy the minimum of risk? Isn't discretion the better part of valor?

A WORD ABOUT STRUT AND FRET

It is with a hat that we always welcome an innovation by an extra curricular organization when that innovation promises a benefit to interested students. Strut and Fret is a series of lectures on Dramatics which will prove of value to any student. Students engaged in more practical interests always look only at the artistic value of Dramatics and so deprecate its necessity. Everyone knows that, but must at some time depend on the complete presentation of his personality. To deliberately pass up an opportunity to make a representation of self expression is to miss the point of the purpose of education. We hope students recognize this purspose to the extent of justifying the policy of Strut and Fret. Whatever the outcome, we offer sincere thanks to Strut and Fret—its indefatigable worker and its enthusiastic adviser.

The Maroons won their second consecutive game from the Tennessee Junior College Friday night by the overwhelming score of 59-33. Tennessee's passing was poor, particularly the floor work, and the Maroons played well in the second half, finding the ring. Barrett, Tennessee's pivot, a star in scoring and rebounding, had been limited to work of the first half.  The Maroons scored the opening basket and held it for the half.  The score of the ball was 9-4 for the second half.

The two "little" boys, Gray and Lemil, along with Lemil and Mitchell played the second half. Barrett of the Tennessee Juniors keeps a beautiful one-hand shot, but the half by scoring for the first half.

Stephen, settled with the same second team and their favored team to win. The second team was doing excellent passing. Lemil seemed to have a place in that division, but the boys shot often enough.

The Maroons played the second game against the Tennessee Junior College on the local court tonight. The Dakota Bisons have for the past few years been in the upper bracket of their conference and according to Coach Baalwachtter, chances for a second successive championship of the north central conference depends on how well and how quickly the sophomores material fall in line with available veterans.

Three all-conference men are among the five experienced basketbal players returning to the Bisons fold. Vic McKay, a guard, is not tall, but weighs 165 pounds, and is fast and smooth. He is a driving player whose endurance and flight is unmatched in the conference.

In their opening game of the season the Carbondale Technical defeated over the University of Tennessee Junior College last Thursday night by the score of 52-26 over the Juniors.

The Maroons' passing and floor work was an improvement over that of the opening game last year. The "puny" team got sixty shots and made twenty for an average for 33% which is high for the beginning of the season. Fool shots ran about 300. The boys were getting rid of the ball rapidly and were working in close under the basket for "hot." Holden led the scoring with five field goals and three foul shots.

Holden took the tip from Brick and passed it to Reeves who made a beautiful one-hand shot close in for the opening basket. A minute later Barrett, Tennessee's star player, tied the score with the same kind of shot, but the tie was short lived. Holden made a shot good, then missed. Davison fouled Joyner who made the shot. Then Ensler drove in for the basket in succession, followed by a beautiful shot from the wing side of the court. Businessman made a good and good and Davison got a basket from the foul circle. Lemmil went in for Davison and made a difficult shot from outside the foul circle as the half ended. The score was 28-16.

Four new men went in at the half, Lemmil remained for Davison and worked with Stephens, Gray, Davison and Mitchell. Stephens dropped two in to start the half and Mitchell followed with two more from the foul area. Lemmil turned in a Gray made three.

Lemmil, a "Parry" Halp, went in with "Red" Tingle near the close of the game.

There is evidently little truth in old adage, "beautiful but dumb," because the University High team shows that beautiful co-eds are better scholars than are the homely ones.

The play, "To the Ladies," was presented on December 8, at Hardley Tech. This play will be remembered by S. I. C. at the Broken Spring play of last year.
