Veterans' Administration Guidance center will discontinue its programs in Illinois and SIU veterans by Thursday, Feb. 15, according to Dr. Charles Tenney, lieutenant governor and assistant to the president. The center, with offices on S. Thompson, is sponsored by the Veterans' administration, and is not a university agency, although SIU did make a financial commitment to its operation. Present supervisor is Ernest R. Wolfe.

ESTABLISHED AFTER World War II, this office has been in operation for approximately five years and has advised veterans about armed forces and educational benefits. Reasons for closing the Carbondale office is that the number of veterans needing its service dwindled rapidly in the past few months, according to Dr. Tenney.

Top Three Names for SIU Symbol Will Be Chosen by Students

Five suggested names for a Southern symbol will be submitted to a student vote at the election for Spring Festival chairman on Tuesday, Feb. 20. Students are to indicate their first, second, and third choices, with prizes of $5, $10, and $15 awarded to those contributing the winning names.

Committee members for the symbol contest, sponsored by the Alumni Service, chose the names and will be voted upon at a meeting on Tuesday evening.

THE FOLLOWING: were selected from a total of 15 submitted: Edgar Lynch, to Carbonia Ma- rauders; Southern Colonels, Southern Flyers, Southern Knights.

Southern's new emblem will be chosen by the committee from the three highest selected by the student body. Voters are asked to keep in mind the criteria for choosing a symbol: appropriateness for selected space, life and action, utilization of school colors, and eye-appeal.

Tentative Plans Made to Disband SIU Fraternities

At New Year's Day. - Cassandra Wagner, an SIU freshman majoring in art education, has invited Mary Preble, supervisor of art at Washington University, St. Louis, to exhibit paintings at the 35th annual showing of the St. Louis Society of American Artists. Mrs. Preble is currently exhibiting at the University of Minnesota and at the Central Illinois Art Fair and watercolor show in De- catur.

New Program Allows Naval Reserve Members To Continue College Work

A new program which will allow regular college students to continue with their regular college curriculum and receive the rank of Ensign USNR upon graduation has been put into effect, according to Bob Etheridge, military information officer for Southern.

This is the Reserve Officer Candidate program and is for reservists at colleges where the regular Naval ROTC facilities are not available.

TO ENTER THIS program a student must be a member of the Naval Reserve, must have had previous military service. The reservist must be over 17 years of age, must be a full-time student with an instruction before his 26th birthday.

The Naval ROTC program shall take place at SIU students must attend at least two training periods, the reservist will not be called to active duty until he has completed the advanced course and received the commissioned rank of Ensign USNR.

The age of passage of the new draft law, regular college students not affiliated with a reserve unit may still join the service of their choice.

It must be done in the months prior to the final months of the school year. A student entering this time will not be called to active duty until after the completion of his year. A student who chooses not to enlist will be subject to the draft.

Reservists who are interested in the Naval ROTC program should contact either the Naval ROTC Wing at the Municipal airport, Cape Girardeau, Mo. or the Marine Corps. The Marine Corps has set up a similar program which is called the Platoon Leader Class. A Marine Corps officer will be on campus Feb. 16, and students desiring entering the Platoon Leader Class may contact him at this time.
Brazilian Artist Shows Skill in Interpretation

by Kate E. More

Biday Sao, Brazilian soprano, presented one of the finest concerts of the season at Symphony Auditorium Tuesday evening. Miss Saoys has a voice and a sense of interpretation which qualify her particularly for the singing of song literature.

This rare ability was displayed in the French songs by Duparc, Huy, Moret and Hahn. Songs such as these can be dull and meaningless when sung by an unimagination singer, but when sung by an artist like Miss Saoys they are revealed as little gems of our great heritage of vocal literature.

It takes not only great technical skill, but also deep sensitivity to poetic and musical beauty to sing the lyrical songs of any nationality, and the soprano gave evidence of these qualifications in the French songs as well as in those of her native America.

In her arias, she was most successful in the Puccini encores: "Un bel di vedermi" from "Madame Butterfly" and "Mio bambino caro" from "Gianni Schicchi." It is doubtful if a better interpreter that Miss Saoys could be found for the role of Madame Butterfly. She also gave a fine impersonation of Manon in the chanty little aria from the Massenet opera.

The two arias from "La Traviata" were sung with skill and understanding, but here, perhaps more than anywhere else in the program, Miss Saoys's temporary vocal indisposition interfered with her tone quality. These arias lacked the brilliant coloratura which they demand. This was also the case in the score, which number in the beginning of the program.

The songs in English were charming in spite of the fact that the artist seemed at home in French. Spanish, Portuguese, and Italian. One of the many strong phases of Miss Saoys's great interpretative skill in her voice, her diction, her expression, and her artistry.

Questions Value Of Some Stories

Dear Editor:

...Basically, I like the idea of having a school paper two times a week, but if it is going to resemble an excerpt of a news paper I would rather see a paper once a week with news and sports.

...Such articles that have appeared in recent issues of the Egyptian such as "Horticultural Experts Speak to Orchards," and "Carbondale To Add Fluoride to Water," may be fine...in the Southern Illinois, but definitely not in the Egyptian. Most of the students read the local paper and actually the students are not interested in such items...May I also mention that I think it would be fine if the gym would be open on Saturday for the benefit of the students who stay down on week-ends...

Sincerely, Jack Ludwig

(EDITOR'S NOTE: THE EGYPTIAN during the past couple of years has made an earnest effort to eliminate news of little consequence. Nearly all faculty news has been eliminated to make room for students' views.)

We think the story concerning fluorine being added to the water...was quite worthy since it is being added to the water students will drink. We like the idea of having the gym open Saturday.)

SOUTHERN TO AID IN FOREST PROGRAM

Southern Illinois University and the U. S. Forest Service will conduct a cooperative research program designed primarily to provide better markets for woodland owners in this area, R. D. Lane, forestier in charge of the carbon- dal branch, Cetral Illinois Forest Experiment Station, announced today.

In addition to improving markets through investigations, experiments and demonstrations, the joint projec- tor is being undertaken in an effort to expand existing wood-using industries, to attract new wood-using industries, and to increase greatly employ- ment opportunities in the wood producing and utilization throughout Southern Illinois.

Land said the Forest Service will provide over-all supervision, technical specialists, clerical per- sonnel, and equipment needed for the study. The University will provide technical and other person- nel as needed and will pay salaries of personnel assigned to the project.

The present agreement extends only to June 30, end of the current fiscal year. However, it is in- tent of the University and the For- est Service to continue the program in the biennium beginning July 1.

Job Opportunities
For College Grads
Greatly Increase
by Marshall Smith
Job opportunities for persons with a college education are better at the present time than since shortly after the second world war, according to Roye Bryant, director of the Placement Service at Southern Illinois University.

The "employment situation," continued Bryant, "has changed tremendously in the past eight or nine months. Much of this change can be attributed directly to the tense international situation and to U. S. mobilization."

Employers, however, are hesitant to employ veterans who are in the reserves, or non-veterans who are subject to the draft, declared Bryant.

PROBABLY the greatest change has been in the field of industry and industrial education. Bryant pointed out that whereas only last May, the field of industrial education was becoming overcrowded, now any one of several companies will employ all the available graduates in the field of industrial education from SIU.

"Present indications," declared Bryant, "point to the fact that there will be a period of slack employment during the first half of this year, during which time industry will be retooling for military production, but this will be only temporary, after which time more jobs than ever will be available."

"RUMORED" industrial needs are coming at a time when university enrollment is declining and when the calls for military service are increasing. "It is for this reason," declared Bryant, "that the outlook is good for the recruitment of college women in industry. Chemists, laboratory technicians, engineers, and allied fields are expected to be extremely short of candidates this year.

Demands for persons in the fields of accounting, secretarial, management, banking, and sales work are high. Bryant stated that many business firms offer excellent training programs leading to managerial positions. He observed that the supply of secretaries has consistently been less than the demand during the past few years.

In the teaching field, the best opportunities lie in the kindergartens and primary. Bryant stated that his office had received 25 per cent more calls for teachers in grades 1-3 than for teachers in grades 4-6 during the past placement season.

"IN ILLINOIS" announced Bryant, "the demand for qualified teachers in the elementary field is at least on the junior high level. Some of the reasons for this abundant supply of junior high teachers are salaried, the high school certificate is valid for teaching in grades 7-12, and that both men and women are employed in the junior high grades, while the lower grades employ mostly women teachers."

Bryant pointed out that job opportunities at the high school level should be good for another two or three years in the fields of home economics, library science, and girls' physical education. Commerce, music, art, Spanish, Latin, and perhaps French, should offer good opportunities for at least one more year.

All 1950 graduates of SIU have been placed with exceptions of those men in the fields of social studies and men's physical education, declared Bryant. Southern's 1950 graduating class is working in 21 different states, and 75 of the 102 counties in Illinois.

Jurors Inspect
Land Asked in SIU
Condemnation Suit

Jurors selected to hear a condemnation suit brought by Southern against four Carbondale landowners in the time that area on the-street examination last week of the four tracts of land listed in the suit.

Under the law, jurors in such condemnation suits usually are required to make a personal inspection of the property in question prior to the actual trial, so that they have a picture of the property desired during the progress of the trial.

The property sought in the suit is located in the general area south of SIU's new training school around Grand and Chautauqua streets.

Mr. Bryant, C. H. Owens, Jr., lawyer for the property owners, is maintaining that the property owners are entitled to a fair cash market value for the property. Testimony in the case may continue for several days of court time before the issue goes to the jury, at which time the property owners have asked an amount considerably higher than SIU's best offer.

A Notable Precedent

We think that the Career Conference held here last week was one of the most practical approaches to vocational education. The well-known speakers, the varied subject fields, co-operation of Southern's faculty and students in making arrangements, and the interest by the student body, account for the good attendance and the favorable feeling toward the Conference.

Career Conference served its purpose and should be repeated next year.

SUGGESTIONS FOR improving the Conference include arranging for larger rooms (even if it means cancelling some classes), to make a greater effort for bigger speakers and more extensive coverage of the various fields.

Some fields, like dentistry, law—and even marriage—were not included in the list. If possible, it might be good to get two speakers (one each day) for some of the larger fields.

ONE OF THE weaker points of the Conference this year was the lack of faculty members who had to fill in when speakers could not be obtained elsewhere. (Southern has some brilliant professors, but in most cases an out-of-town speaker adds more interest.)

Some sessions might be better handled in a two-hour session instead of one.

The personnel deans, the Student Council, and faculty members and students helping to make arrangements for the conference should be commended for their work. The Conference has set a precedent which should become a Southern custom.

Quote of the week: Associated Press ace correspondent Hal Boyle, who has just returned from Korea, has a novel way of bringing the international crisis to a head in a hurry. His suggestion, which he says he obtained from a fellow in Kansas City, is for Joe Stalin to write a review in "The Old Sarge," Gabby Street, although disliked by many, will be missed by baseball fans of this area. We will remember Gabby by the salmon cake sandwiches he ate during a radio broadcast when we visited him and Harry in St. Louis a few years ago.

Eastern probably will be ordering a new three-disc scoreboard after beating Southern 107-78 there last week. It probably will be some years, however, before three-disc scoreboards become very popular.

'Suitcase Student' Praises Egyptian

Dear Editor:

For a long time I have had to scrounge for a place to stay. Last week, it looks of doubt about my sanity because I like to go home on week ends. Therefore, I would like to thank the Egyptian for its efforts in the recent research project on week ends. I'm glad someone finally recognizes

I agree with the views of the students who give for staying in Carbondale, but on the other hand, a student from a larger town than Carbondale has all these good reasons multiplied by more entertainment

And more friends. I also like the privilege of using the family car on week ends.

So, may I again thank you and congratulate your staff on the fine work you are doing here at Southern.

Some Lincoln Anecdotes

Roy V. Jordan, curator of the Clint Clay Tilton Library of Lincolniana and Americana of the University of Illinois, celebrated Lincoln's birthday yesterday by relating some of his and wheezing about in the Sangamon river. It had a five-foot boiler and a seven-foot whistle, and every time it whishted the boat stopped.

Another story of Lincoln in court took place when Judge Logan was his partner. Two farmers, who had a misunderstanding respecting a horse-deal, went to law. By mutual consent the partners in law became antagonists in this case. On the day of the trial Logan, having bought a new shirt, open in the back and with a huge outstanding collar, dressed himself in extreme haste and put on the shirt with the bottom at the back, a linen coat concealing the collar.

HE DAZZLED THE jury with his knowledge of "horse points," and as the day wore on, he took off his coat and sumpted up in his shirt sleeves. Lincoln, sitting behind him, took in the situation, and when his turn came remarked to the jury:

"Gentlemen, Logan has been trying for over an hour to make you believe that he knows more about a horse than these honest old farmers who are witnesses; he has quoted largely from his 'horse doctor'; and now, gentlemen, I submit to you" (there he lifted Logan out of his chair and turned him back to his chair and the crowd, at the same time flipping up the enormous standing collar), "what dependence can you place in his horse knowledge, when he has not sense enough to put on his shirt?"

On the occasion of a serenade, the president was called for by the crowd assembled. He appeared at a window with his wife who was somewhat below the medium height, and made the following brief remark: "Here I am and here is Mrs. Lincoln. That's the long and the short of it."

Educators Discuss Special Education for Atypical Children

Leading Southern Illinois educators met at Southern yesterday to plan methods of encouraging teachers to specialize in the field of education for atypical children. Less than 10 percent of the teachers needed are now available, according to Dr. Marshall S. Hickey, chairman of the Department of Guidance and special education.

SIU sponsored the meeting in cooperation with the Illinois Division of Education of Exceptional Children. The division is a branch of the Office of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction and is under the direction of Ray Graman.

Atypical children are those who are handicapped physically or mentally or those with very high intelligence. Of the five million atypical children in the U.S., four million have visual difficulties. Other handicaps include hearing, crippled or deformed, mentally defective, rheumatic fever and rheumatic heart disease. Another one-half million are atypical and need special attention because they are mentally superior to the average school child.

During the meeting of the educators yesterday, four factors were considered in regard to meeting the needs of these children, including opportunities offered in Southern Illinois communities for beginning new programs and strengthening those that are already established, facilities available at SIU for training teachers, methods of encouraging qualified teachers to enter the field, and methods of coordinating cooperation between Southern Illinois public schools and the university.

As the Maroons’ invaded Eastern at Charleston last night, hopes for a repeat conference champion performance seemed dim. At this writing, we don’t know the results of the game, but all odds are stacked up against the Maroons, and victory appears rather difficult, to say the least.

However, say the Maroons did win last night, they would be in good shape in conference standings. This is the kind of thing the Maroons would like to experience, for they still have to make the trip to Western on March 1. This, too, seems fairly impossible, since even the Western outplayed Eastern on their home court.

All of which go to prove just how much better a team is on its home court. And no better example can be found than the Southern Maroons themselves. Take Evansville for example: The Purple Aces had a 10 point lead over the local men by 28 points earlier in the season. Here on the home court a couple of weeks ago, it was all Evansville could do to eke out an eight-point victory. If Southern hopes to remain hitting at all, we’ve had the Aces easy.

However, even if Southern did lose last night, they still have a good chance to finish out the conference season. We’re not too worried about the Northern and Normal contests remaining, for they’re on our home court. And optimistically speaking, we even look for Southern to beat Western at Macomb. Why? Because the Maroons, aside from a 15-18 win over Michigan Normal early in the season, haven’t really been themselves away from home all season.

So we look for our cages to have one good night on the road somewhere along the line. It could be that good night was yesterday at Charleston. But in the event that the Panthers did come through in their usual style, we still get one more big chance to win on one road. At Macomb, that is.

STOP RAISING CAIN

Another big game is coming up with Washington university at St. Louis Saturday. Although this is another conference contest, it will be important in that it should settle a number of arguments concerning us and Washington. The Hilltoppers have already beaten Normal and Western of our conference. Most Washington followers think the St. Louis boys will also stop us there.

It all hinges on one big “if,” as we see it. For “if” Ernie Bozarth, or whoever has the job, can take care of Washington’s Charlie Cain, we can take care of the Hilltoppers. Cain has been the high scorer in almost every Washington cage contest, and is a point-getter extraordinary. Looks like a good game from where we’re sitting.

Ouch! Northern Cagers Here This Saturday

Another tough conference game is in store for Lynn Holder’s basketball Maroons this Saturday night in the Men’s gym, when the local cagers entertain the Northern State Huskies. The Northern is currently in first place in the IAC, with seven victories and two losses.

Southern Matmen Look Better In Losing To Normal

By Don Duffy

For the second time this year Southern’s matmen were pitted against the grapplers from Normal; and, for the second time this year, Southern’s matmen were defeated by the grapplers from Normal. The Maroons’ defeat was a much better showing. Wednesday night five matches went the distance, but lost to one in the previous meet.

- Also on Wednesday night Southern won two bouts and tied one as against Normal in their first meeting of the two teams. The team score Wednesday was Southern, 15. Normal, 13. The Maroon matmen opened with a victory and five team points when Russ Halley won the 135 lb. class bout in 1:38 of the second period. Normal tied the match with a victory, pinning Charlie Currell, Southern’s 130 lb. grappler, in 1:35, also in the second period. The 137 lb. class found McAdams wrestling to a 2-2 draw.

NORMAL, pulled ahead in team points when Art Hargis by a score of 6-2 in the 147 lb. division. Hargis earned his points by successfully executing two escapes, while Camboni picked up his by working one take-down and two reversals. Derek Spratt’s string of two successive victories was halted when Egozko’s power move forced him 7-3. 167 pound Nick Vernocci also fell prey to his opponent from Bloomington, by the long-scored 14-0.

PHIL. BRUNO, Southern’s crafty 177 pounder, remained undefeated in the weight class, after having enough riding time to give him one point and a 3 to 2 decision over Hinds of the Red Birds.

Heavyweight Leon Mayer, who fought twice against Great Lakes, was sidelined by an ankle injury and replaced by Warren Littleford football fighter for the first time in the season. Mayer knocked out his opponent from Bloomington, by the long-scored 3-0.

Mr. and Mrs. Alan Stachen, members of the Stachen family, are bulletin board just outside the conference room. They have a bulletin board just outside the conference room.

The overall team performance proved to be par excellence as compared to their earlier efforts and the loss of the conference championship.

The matmen will venture into Bloomington for their next meet, when they match weights again with the powerful team of Arkansas on February 11.

INTRAMURALS

By Jim Dowell

Several teams have already advanced to the playoffs in intramural basketball play.

In the Navy League the Army, the Navy, and the Fighting Fliers are all in the playoffs. In the American League the Navy is the only team to be sure of advancing to the playoffs. The Broadjumpers and the Rovers both have a good chance to represent the Indiana League in the finals.

In THE ILLINOIS loop the Manor House and the Sabers have already won enough games to participate in the finals. The Maroon Matmen have the only certain squad to represent the Army League, and the Gillespie Miners of the National League have won four straight games, putting them in the grand finale of the intramural action.

Mr. Whitman of the Teals is the high scorer so far with 84 points, while two men have scored 21 points a game. Don Pratt of the Gillespie Miners is running a close second in the race.

These statistics do not include Thursday night clashes.

Friday night the Haas Yanks will meet the St. Louis Sabers at 6:30. The Manor House will play the Sabers at 7:30, and the Broadjumpers will battle the Teals at 8:30. The Broadjumpers and the Teals each have four wins and no setbacks. This battle will determine the championship of the Indiana League.

The playoffs will begin Wednesday night. According to John Corn, supervisor of the intramural tournament, no game will be played off in the remaining weeks. According to Corn, the coaches of the teams concerned should check the bulletin board to see if they are to play in Monday’s action.

The playoffs will be played the full length of the season, but two sections of the bleachers will be pulled from the wall for the convenience of the fans.

Eastern 107 (Correct) SIU 78 - Nuff’ Said

By Jim Kahmann

There’s an age-old line scribbled in the "book of adages reading: ‘‘the sky the limit.’ But Eastern State College went even farther than that last night at Charleston, when they set a new school scoring record in humiliating Southern’s basketball team, 107-78.

The Panthers were out for revenge, finding themselves at 2-0 against them at Carbondale a few weeks ago, 62-60, and no victory for the sensational basketeers from Charleston. The win gave them a tie for first place on the season, and eliminated Southern from a future similar position. The Panthers led all the way after two and a half minutes of play, and commanded a 40-22 lead at halftime.

Every man on Eastern’s first team scored at least 18 points, with Tom Katsimpolis getting 23, followed by Dom Golew in 22. Johnson, Wilson, and Patberg of Eastern tallied 18, 19, and 20 respectively. Tom Milikin and Bill Garrett shared the scoring for Southern with 17 apiece. Bob Nickolau got 16 for the Maroons. One of the finest tributes paid to the Eastern team was a statement by Bob Black, a senior guard for the Carbon- dalon Tournament, who phoned in after the game. Black said, ‘‘Eastern missed a lot of good shots.”

The Council advisory to the president is composed of 13 faculty members and two students appointed by the President.

Southern’s museum is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., and from 8 a.m. to 12 noon on Saturday.
