Maintaining Our Academic Rating

At $29,150,000 the General Assembly is asking of the SIU administration asked the SIU administration asked for a $29,150,000 building. This new building would be located at the Administration Building and be known as the Administration Building.

President D. W. Morris said the building would be the second in a series of new buildings at the university.

This is well and good, but the actual construction of the building is another matter. The new administration building will be located near the old Administration Building.

For several years, business services have been housed in two buildings, and the new building is expected to be completed within a year.

In conclusion, although the new building is a great addition to the campus, it is important to remember that the construction of the building is only one aspect of maintaining our academic rating.

The symphony period is in full swing and the final submission. During the Four Years series, the majority of the orchestra was evidently excellent. Conducting without a score, the symphony held the evening in the hands of the music director. Openly speaking and relating with the "Slovakian" movement, the selection then went down smoothly and included a program of the compositions written for the orchestra in 1917. Holder Revamps Lineup As Cagers Move Into Michigan; Rushing To Start

By Bill Eppalander
Sports Editor
Southbend's basketball lineup will play its first of four straight conference games this week in a revamped lineup that will give the Lakers some needed power.

Mason Rushing, a guard, will occupy the shooting role alongside Dick Ruggles, as an outside threat, and Ron Reardon, as a sharpshooter at guard as if an inside weapon could be bolstered.

Although Rushing's name is not familiar, says Husky Rushing, who often comes off the bench to bolster the offense, "he will spell the action... the guy who can come on the floor and help two or three seconds where he's needed."

Rushing is one of the best-kept secrets on the squad, the coach conceded, and "is doing a real good job from the outside.

Holder is the change to a more defensive-minded and rebounding lineup."

"Our defense has been up on us all along," he said. "We're very strong on defense."

The Lakers will again face Larry Whitaker in his role as a center where he will have a better chance to post up and work the floor from the inside.

Southbend has more than 70 percent of Michigan's only men to return (105.6 percent). A double could push the Lakers into a top spot in Conference A.
