I3 Coeds Compete for Off-Campus Sweetheart

Three candidates are competing for the crown in this year's annual Off-Campus Sweetheart Queen elections, according to James Garza, president of the Off-Campus Students Association.

Students who live off campus can vote both Thursday and Friday to elect the queen. The winner will be announced at a dance Feb. 14 at the University Center.

Polls will be open from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. at the Carbondale, 601 S. Washington; Colonial House, 419 S. Washington; Stall's House, 203 E. Oak; La Juene Fille, 204 W. University; Johnson's Co- op, 712 S. University; Du Drop In, 205 W. Mill; Robinson's House, 401 Orchard; Mason Dixon, 16 W. Colleges, and Blaise House, 510 W. Main.

On campus, there will be a booth set up just north of the Student Union and five booths around Old Main. The candidates are:

Dona Wallace, sponsored by the Blasting House from Maywood, Ill. She is 20 years old and an elementary education major.

Pamela Kennedy, sponsored by College View from Belle, Ill. She is 19 years old and a music major.

Julie Jacks, sponsored by Robinson's, from Hartley, Ill. She is 19 years old and an English major.

Institute In German Wins Grant

SIU has been granted $40,000 to conduct a German institute this summer. Participating in the seven-week program are 20 high school teachers and 20 ninth graders from southern Illinois.

The institute, sponsored by the U.S. Office of Education, is designed to help teachers increase their productivity in the German language and Germanic cultures, according to Helmut Liedloff, director of the institute.

Also, the institute will give ninth graders a chance to learn the rudiments of German through demonstration classes. They will be selected by applying to SIU's Foreign Language Department, Liedloff said.

The teachers will live at a Thompson Point residence hall where a German cultural island will be created. Programs of German songs, dances, movies and literature will be arranged. The teachers will converse entirely in German.

About 14 staff members, including four native Germans, will conduct the institute beginning June 22.

Teachers accepted into the institute can receive stipends of $75 per week plus $15 for housing expenses. The institute can receive stipends also for ninth grade teachers.

Results of a study conducted at SIU two years ago were printed in Educational and Psychological Measurement recently.

Thomas C. Oliver, supervisor of testing, and Warren K. Willis, assistant supervisor of testing, prepared the study. "A study of the Validity of the Programmed Aptitude Test." The study indicated that the Programmed Aptitude Test has not used its ability to profit from a course in computer programming.

Ag Students at University Farms Train for Future

Rising Early Is Part of Job
At Cattle, Poultry Centers

To most students at Southern, the thought of getting up at five in the morning is as repulsive as final exams. Early rising is, however, a daily and profitable routine for 50 students who work on and maintain the 1,900-acre University Farms.

The farms include centers for dairy, dairy cattle, beef feeding, poultry, swine, small fruits, and an Ag greenhouse. The centers are supervised and maintained by the student workers, who average $600 to $700 a year for their work.

Under the direction of a full-time manager, the students do everything from milking cows to shearing sheep. On occasion they double as midnight playfiber Nightingale to an ailing animal.

The University Farms are operated just like any other farm except profit isn't their motive for existence, according to Eugene Wood, director of the farms.

"Our first purpose is to provide laboratories for students," Wood explained, "and our second is to provide research centers where the students can carry out projects that will be of aid to all persons in agriculture."

"We have some of the latest machinery for the students to work with," Wood said. "That is a good source of experience and serves as a mutual help program."

The students who maintain the farms are mostly farm

Baker Reportedly Paid Off By Both Parties in Deal

WASHINGTON—Senate investigators disclosed Thursday that Sen. Robert F. Kennedy was paid off the way he would have been if he had been elected to the Senate.

In a separate development, the Senate Rules Committee, which had been investigating Kennedy's financial affairs, was notified by a Senate counsel that the committee was being investigated by the Senate.

The Kennedy investigation was launched after it was revealed that Kennedy had been paid off by a third party in connection with his Senate campaign.

Poe's Life Remains a Puzzle Despite Apology for Foibles

With the appearance of Edgar Allan Poe: The Man Behind the Legend, Edward Wagenknecht, a literary historian, has added another interesting, readable, and informative volume to the Poe library.

By setting out to investigate the character and personality of Poe, Wagenknecht has added another dimension to Poe's already well-researched biography. In his book, he has presented the reader with a fascinating picture of the man who created a legacy of unique contributions to American literature.

Wagenknecht is interested in discovering how the man, whose work is still admired today, grew up among the seeds of the legends that have grown up around him—such as the antithesis of his gruff exterior, the self-made man, the genius. Wagenknecht has laid to rest many myths and legends, but he has not ignored the other aspects of Poe's personality. He has presented a balanced and objective portrayal of a man whose life has been marked by tragedy and success.

Wagenknecht's work is well-researched and carefully documented. His study of Poe's life is a testament to the scholar's dedication and thoroughness. He has consulted many sources, including letters, diaries, and personal accounts, to create a comprehensive picture of Poe's life.

One of the most interesting aspects of Wagenknecht's book is his discussion of Poe's personality. Poe was a complex man, with a mixture of strengths and weaknesses. Wagenknecht has examined these qualities in detail, providing readers with a deeper understanding of Poe as a person.

Wagenknecht's work is highly recommended for readers interested in American literature, especially those interested in Poe. His book is a must-read for anyone interested in the legacy of this remarkable man.
8-Game Victory Skein Is Best in Two Years

Winning streaks don’t mean too much to the 1964 Salukis basketball coach Jack Harman doesn’t think the most important thing in the world.

Nevertheless, Harman’s quintet equaled its longest winning streak in two years with a gratifying victory over Tennessee A&M Monday night, for their seventh in a row.

If the winning string is any indication of things to come, the Salukis look as though they’ve achieved last year’s 1964 season sweep of the NCAA-College Division.

Southern has an on again-off again trend until the last four games of the regular season, when they won all four. The club seemed to gather momentum with three games without coming before losing by four points to Ogelthorpe in the semifinals.

The Salukis have seven regular season games remaining on their schedule and head down into the home stretch of the year, which will end in DuQuoin this weekend, when they will compete in a quadrangular meet with Western Colorado, Morehead State and the host Oergelthorpe in DuQuoin. The meeting will be held at 9:00 a.m. Saturday. The topics for the first and second rounds will be Southern's Larry Appleton and Dan Hartzell, a veteran 167-pounder, has competed all season while Appleton is expected to compete at 157-pounds and 115-pound Devine's 5-1-1 and 130-pound Schenider's 10-2 record for the season, will be notch above at the 147-pound level. One notch above that is the 157-pounder, while Appleton is expected to compete at 157-pounds and 115-pound Devine's 5-1-1 and 130-pound Schenider's 10-2 record for the season, will be notch above at the 147-pound level. One notch above that is the 157-pounder.

Wrestlers Seek Fourth Victory After Oklahoma State Loss

A perfect season's record was slipped away from the powerful Oklahoma State.

SUU wrestlers hope to regain it here this weekend when they will compete in a quadrangular meet at Colorado School of Mines in Golden, Colo.

The Salukis took out 3-1 after dropping a somewhat deceiving 27-3 dual match at Colorado and challenged by Western Colorado, Morehead State and the host Oergelthorpe in DuQuoin. The meeting will be held at 9:00 a.m. Saturday. The topics for the first and second rounds will be Southern's Larry Appleton and Dan Hartzell, a veteran 167-pounder, has competed all season while Appleton is expected to compete at 157-pounds and 115-pound Devine's 5-1-1 and 130-pound Schenider's 10-2 record for the season, will be notch above at the 147-pound level. One notch above that is the 157-pounder.

Southern's Larry Kralski and Larry Ramsey were forced to settle with draws against OSU's Joe James and Dennis Delaney respectively. The Salukis will take similar records into action here this weekend while facing a challenging NCAA AAU heavyweight, owns a 9-1-1 mark with one loss, a 123-pounder, is 10-0 for the season.

Roller Skating Open in DuQuoin

Roller skating in DuQuoin is being sponsored by the recreation committee of the University Center Programming Board for every Friday night.

The bus leaves at 6:15 and returns sometime before 11. Transportation is free, but the club will play for their states.

Those wishing to go must sign in at the Activities Office by Friday noon.

Track & Field Meet

Coach Jim Wilkinson is heavily counting on Don Mildard, a veteran 176-pound performer who gained Southern's fourth win over Oklahoma State Bill Hartzell, Don DeMent and Schenider to Mildard has lost only 11 matches this season while Hartzell, a 177-pounder, has a 6-1 record compared to Ll7-pounder Divonne's 1-1-1 and 130-pound Schenider's 10-2 marks.

The meeting will be held at 9:00 a.m. Saturday. The topics for the first and second rounds will be Southern's Larry Appleton and Dan Hartzell, a veteran 167-pounder, has competed all season while Appleton is expected to compete at 157-pounds and 115-pound Devine's 5-1-1 and 130-pound Schenider's 10-2 record for the season, will be notch above at the 147-pound level. One notch above that is the 157-pounder.

Fraternity to Hear Talk on Vocabulary

Floyd Crank, of the University of Illinois, will speak on vocabulary at the meeting of the Phi Beta Lambda today, the meeting will be held at 5:15 p.m. in the Student Activity Center. The meeting will be held at 5:15 p.m. in the Student Activity Center.

Botany Grad Seminar

Topic Is Seed Evolution

John R. Dixon will be the featured speaker at the second annual graduate seminar at 4 p.m., today in Room 307 of the Life Science Building. Dixon will discuss the "Evolution of the Seed."
Farm Exhibit to Feature Latest Machinery

Farmers interested in applying labor-saving ideas and equipment to farming operations can see the latest developments in this field at the third annual Southern Illinois Farm Materials Handling Exposition at Carbondale, April 1-2, according to J.J. Paterson, exposition committee coordinator and associate professor in the Agriculture Department at SIU.

The exhibition hall is at the Washington County Fairgrounds off Route 127 at the south edge of Nashville.

Featured will be equipment and set-ups for mechanizing and automating livestock operations and other high-labor enterprises on the farm.

Cooperating in sponsoring the exposition are the electric power suppliers of Illinois, the Illinois Farm Electrification Council, Successful Farming Magazine, the Cooperative Extension Service of the University of Illinois, and the SIU School of Agriculture.

Fourteen SIU students are on the steering committee for the third annual International Night to be held Saturday and Sunday at the University Center.

Members of the steering committee, headed by cochairmen Allan L. Comstock of Geneva and Warren Steinborn of Harrisburg, have arranged exhibits of commonly used items in other nations. They will be on display for public view.

Members of the steering committee are Diana Balma of Belvidere, Garrett Dahl of Chester, Dale Hartman of Harrisburg, Ella Pfuner of Harrisburg, and William Schuster of Harrisburg.
