A. A. U. W. Carries on Important Work for College Body

This all-faculty basketball game is focusing attention once more on the American Association of University Women, the membership of which, L. M. R. B. and the A. A. U. W., as a national organization with headquarters in Washington, D. C. The Carbondale branch, a comparatively new organization, is under the capable management of its president, Dr. Peacock.

The A. A. U. W. is well-entrenched in public life in the arts and sciences. It maintains a loan fund for the college fund is sufficient to staff the junior or senior head of standing whose general education is commendable may borrow fifty dollars each term, to be repaid within six months. The loan fund is designed to assist juniors or seniors who are in need of financial assistance.

Another aim of the A. A. U. W. is to bring women together at various times throughout the year to attend the lecture by Lewis Browne during the fall term. The association is working to expand the possibilities of educational entertainment as it wishes, due to the lack of funds. As soon as the loan fund is sufficient to meet its needs, the A. A. U. W. intends to see to the services of more educational entertainment for the students.

The activities of the A. A. U. W. in the city are not so limited as they are in Carbondale. Many of the activities are devoted to the education and development of the citizens, both students and adults. The educational organization sends pamphlets of educational topics to its branches, as well as programs of entertainment. The programs are designed to foster the educational and cultural growth of the citizens.

Robert Bown. to Review Education Books for Monthly

Carbondale people and students here will be interested in an item appearing in the January issue of "The Illinois Teacher." The item concerns Robert Bown, son of Prof. W. G. Brown, of the Chemistry Department, who recently appeared as a host of other books. He has presented a selection of the College's Education Department, in the course of his graduate work at the University of Illinois, and as well as serving on the faculty of the College, Dr. Peacock is pleased with the work he has done.

Stewardship Theme of Baptist Hour

The topic of "Stewardship" has been a major theme for the Baptist Church in Carbondale. The annual Spring meeting of the Baptist Church is scheduled for the week of April 12-14, and the theme for this year is "Stewardship." The meetings will be held in the W. C. A. room on the third floor of the New Science Building.

Miss Jonah Selects Society Spring Play

Those students who expect to compete in plays at the annual spring plays, the three literary societies will now be interested in knowing that Miss Jonah, dramatic supervisor, has selected a number of spring plays. Those students who have been chosen to participate in the spring plays will be notified by Miss Jonah personally.

GUY REED ON ROAD TO QUICK RECOVERY

Guy Reed, a freshman of S. I. T., is recovering from injuries received two weeks ago in an automobile accident. Failing to use an approach in time, Mr. Reed drove into a tree. The crash Mr. Reed was rather badly cut on the head, and he was taken to the hospital. After receiving immediate medical attention, he was removed to his home in Benton to convalesce.

Ruby Smith, a freshman of S. I. T., also escaped injury in the accident.

DEFINITION OF A COLLEGE FRESHMAN

By One Such

A college freshman is a student who has just completed twelve years of schooling and has four more years of inactivity. He looks upon these years in much the same manner as an oxen giving fresh spring rain, or a young man giving a first dinner party. The college freshman is not yet exactly sure what he is going to do, but he will be ready to do it. He doesn't think it very important what he is going to do, but he will do it. He definitely promises to make himself a man, and a very successful one, but he will not undertake anything until he has been defeated by a better opportunity.

DELTA SIG NEWS

In one of these sad, melancholy evenings when loneliness comes like a raft and scoops T. C. is unable to be in school this week from injuries received in an automobile crash driving on Union Avenue. Guy Reed, the beloved senior class chaperon, is expected to recover and return to campus soon.

BENEFICE DANCE IS SUCCESSFUL

Delta Sig Epsilon's benefit dance, held at the house on Wednesday, January 10, was a splendid success. Because of their own initiative and the cooperation of the faculty, the students were able to contribute about forty dollars to the Student Loan Fund, which is being organized. The orchestra furnished the music.

The Loan Fund is designed to assist students facing financial difficulties. By applying to Dean Woody, any thoroughly reliable student who has a C average and no debts at this time of the year is eligible for a loan of not more than twenty-five dollars a term to be repaid in a year with an interest of five cents. The fund, which is kept in constant use, has grown from its nest of forty-five dollars to its present sum of four hundred and twenty-nine dollars. Dean Woody estimates that, since its origin in 1927, it has accommodated about fifty students. From time to time the fund is increased by the generous donations of various campus organizations and by the "white elephant" sales.
The Socratic Society

"Parlor Tricks, a play by Anthony Hall girls, was the feature of the program presented by the Socratic Society last Wednesday.

The play centered around an old maid, who was going to have a date with an old friend, Bob Miller. As she was not accustomed to the "Whims and Whata" of the modern age, she asked a group of her intimate friends to fill in after having heard the story. A Lavahunt Gregory and Euphemia Manus, and Dorothy Stoecklin. The intellectual integrity, is the season with the Carterville team bearing a play in the Centennial.

The High School Debating Society entered the Forum Debate Club with a party last Monday evening, January 18th, in the Jackson Hall of the University. The party was opened by an introduction of the members of the High School Debating Society. The following was the program:

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

With the intramural basketball tournament now well under way, the students are getting their first and only athletic competition of the school year. This athletic competition among students should be, and is at most colleges a vital part of the college's curricula. The experience and healthful benefits derived from these games cannot be replaced by any other thing that happens. Some of the more skilled athletes may get their experience from varsity basketball, football, and track; but what of the less fortunate boys who crave such things but lack permission and encouragement from the higher authorities, those who are not permitted to blossom themselves?

In some colleges the intramural sports are comparable to the major sports in interest shown to and the rivalry between organizations, rooms, houses, fraternities, and clubs. Attendance at the more exciting of these is large, and sometimes there are admission fees which help pay expenses. Although a movement of this sort, like all others, is hard to get started, once started, there will be no stopping it. An extensive intramural sports program can be well introduced and will succeed if the faculty and students will cooperate alike in attitude and willingness to take part.

THE ABSENCE OF FRATERNITIES

One important phase of university life has been overlooked on this campus—the organization of fraternities and, consequently, the role that they play is not an insignificant one. Fairly good grades are a requisite for membership; therefore, stimulated by their desire to join a fraternity, many boys put forth a good effort to get in. Although the emphasis is otherwise. Round table discussions, so important in education, of lectures, of collateral reading assignments, or of mathematical problems also hold an important place in fraternity life.

Socially and economically—after the house and furniture have been paid for—the gamut of experiences is given. Economically, in that food, bought in large quantities, reduces the expense to a minimum for each member. Socially—well those advantages are so obvious that they hardly need explaining. Any who have been originated from a fraternity that no college should be so long without one as this college has been.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR THE FRESHMEN

Freshmen at S. T. C. are indeed fortunate that they are given equal rank with all other classes in major activities. It may be that they are not eligible for competition in major sports until their second year. Several of our fellow classmen have made names for themselves in the various fields of sport which offer opportunities to freshmen. T. E. H. The brief account of their accomplishments appear elsewhere in this issue. Also, the Freshman class has been able to distinguish itself in literary pursuits and various campus activities.

The new college life introduces new opportunities to participate in the life and activities of the school, and we will all do in our power to make the best of our advantages.

THE FRESHMAN EGYPTIAN

In this edition of the Egyptian we, the Freshmen, present our efforts as news writers. We wish to thank the Egyptian and the Treasurer for this opportunity to edit a part of the school paper, and we hope that this, the Freshman Egyptian, will meet with their approval.

In choosing our material, we have placed emphasis on the activities of the Freshmen in order to make the paper more thoroughly Freshman in all its aspects. We have attempted to make this edition representative of the college life of the Freshman class. Perhaps it will bring to upperclassman memories of their first college year; may they all be pleasant.

We may be able to present some new angle of freshman life, some new view of what we are doing and what we hope to do. By the same token, the next issue of the Freshman Egyptian of the Freshman class is to put our class before the eyes of the college.

THROCKMORTON'S REVENGE

In Technicolor

The scene opens and the plot thickens.

Rolly Rolloff, our heroine, is lashed hand and feet to a mammoth pine that from a small acorn grew. J. O. Over Throckmorton C. Van Hoover has already played his villainous role. Poor Rolly is a innocent city slicker that means no harm by rending the beautiful Nell costilly so and so's, but now! Alas and like wise alick, he is at the point of J. O. Over Throckmorton's death.

"And you smile curiously of a city slicker," snarls J. O. Oliver, "you who dares to match your wits against mine? Huh, huh, heh, heh! I shall now perme the pleasure of bleak..."

"Not while I live!" yells Rolly, surging against the ties that bind him. But it is useless. In spite of his terrific struggle, his Gordon setter "Brego! Brego!" Stalk in Twelve Legos" he can not enrap the cords. Perhaps if he had the other two he might be able to go. Without the help of his wings of a plane folded back three nights ago and it looks as if all were lost...

"Room his lecture," the greedy, the natchingly, the splendid hand of Mr. Rolloff, is about to pull the switch when the outburst of the bumblebees everywhere a shrill voice splits the static.

"Don't shoot," it screams. Without and here it's all out and out of the fog dashes Nell. Our hope strengthens. Maybe she can deal with the treacherous J. O. Oliver.

"And why not, me proud, and naughty beauty?" sneers the ever so agitated Nell. "Because I'll get you first," cries our Little Nell. Whereupon she pushes her treacherous J. Olever and his long hair barrels.

This deed being done, her next plan is to free her beloved Rolly. She is paid the aid of a Gilbert razor blade she quickly spins the twist of ones that birds...

"Don't shoot!" she his... Curve (fast). Submitted for publication by "My Wild Irish Rose."

WHAT A FRESHMAN!

I think I shall never see
A Fresh as good as he could be!
A Fresh who studies hard all day
And never goes to the Cafe.
A Fresh who can't say, "I don't know!"
Who never dates and leaves grades.
A Fresh who has no more than an "A"
With greatest care, and never squirms;
Who instead outside is well.
And thinks his lecture course is swell.
A Freshman who can stay awake
And take the notes he ought to take.
Good grief, and all the rest of it...
But he bet he can't make all of that!...

The first half was a thriller and the lead changed hands repeatedly. Only in the last minute of play did the upstarts draw away to a 17:14 advantage at the half.

Bryce lost blood in the initial period with a close in soon after the opening whistle. Ballard followed suit on his end of the floor. Holder came in for a nice one, but a moment later fouled Sinnex. Sinnex missed his first chance for a free. Ballard then fouled the long, scoring the score. Reeves fouled Grady, who missed both. Holder, momentarily rear under the basket for a close in. Lench fouled Sinnex. This time Sinnex made the single and deftly replaced Grady.

van Beek saik a long one and Reeves fouled Grady who missed the single. Holder, through a counter, was fouled. Feuree missed the first, the second and third. The game was decided at this point.

HARRIKANES OR SAINTS

There are those, harridan or saints, according to your point of view, who read the books from a public library, and mark out all exults that are a solace to the Commissaries. Those women, it seems, have read every smutty book in the library, in order to ferret out the profane, vituperative phraseology that is so characteristic of our erudite ladies and gentes in storybooks.

Proctor, of Equality, are making a name for themselves in basketball and are being used in nearly all games. Six football letters were awarded to members of the basketball class—Patterson, of Harrisburg; Wimberty, of Marion; Martin, of Benton; Holder and Reeves, of Carbondale, and Minton, of Murphysboro.

In organizations, such as the Forum and the Illiana, we find Harry Moss as president of the former, and Georgia Student, as vice president. Frances Leneck, secretary of the Illiana.

State Normal's basketball team, conference champs of last season, might justly be termed tri-state champions. They defeated the La Crosse teachers, minor college titans holders of Wisconsin, and disposed of Central Normal, who held the same title in Indiana. They also boast of a victory over the strong Bluffton College team, of Bluffton, Ohio. The Eddy, Normal, Illinois.

The freshmen nobly entertained the sophomores of the college last Saturday by giving them the opportunity to dance and eat at freshman expense. The Teachers College News, Charleston, Ill.
