The Illinois Institute for Juvenile Research and the college faculty of Child Guidance are conducting a psychological clinic for children. The clinic will be open to children and their families in the community. The clinic will be open on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays next week. The professional staff coming from Chicago are Dr. Sophie Schneider, who will be in charge of the clinic, and Dr. Robert P. Evening, psychiatrist, who will supervise the clinic. The clinic will be located in the basement of the Illinois Institute for Juvenile Research.

In order to encourage children to visit the clinic, Dr. Schneider plans to open the clinic to the public. She plans to invite parents and children to the clinic and to make appointments for children who need help. She plans to open the clinic to children who need help and to make appointments for children who need help.

In this way, the clinic will serve as a center for children who need help and as a center for parents who need help. The clinic will be open to children and their families in the community. MCMLXXV CROWN

Lay the foundations of the Mayan Empire. But in recent years, there has been a surge in interest in the ancient civilization of Mesoamerica, and the Mayan calendar has become a popular topic of study.

The Mayan calendar is based on the precession of the equinoxes, which is the apparent slow movement of the Earth's axis through space. This movement causes the position of the equinoxes to drift slowly through the sky, and is responsible for the changes in the positions of the Sun, Moon, and planets.

The Mayan calendar consists of three components: the Haab, the Tzolkin, and the Long Count. The Haab is a solar year of 365 days, divided into 18 months of 20 days each, with 5 extra days at the end of the year. The Tzolkin is a lunar year of 260 days, divided into 20 days and 13 periods. The Long Count is a calendar that tracks the passage of time in a cycle of 13 baktuns, each of which is 20 years long. The current cycle began on August 13, 2012.

The Mayan calendar is used in a number of ways, including to track important dates and events, and to predict future events.

TENNYSON REVIEWS: ART EXHIBIT

In a review of "Myths and Legends," by Alfred Tennyson, the reviewer states that the book is a "masterpiece of poetic art," and that Tennyson "has captured the essence of the human spirit in a way that few poets have been able to do.

The reviewer also notes that the book is "a study in character," and that Tennyson "has created a world of his own, and has brought it to life with the most vivid imagination.

In conclusion, the reviewer states that "Myths and Legends" is a "must-read" for anyone interested in poetry and literature.

FUN FACT: Tennyson was born on May 14, 1809, and died on March 6, 1892.

27 YEARS AGO

Editor's note: The following is a reprint of "27 YEARS AGO" in THE EGYPTIAN. For enough people have asked what year that was written to be.

Pep Meeting -

Last Friday morning in Chapel we had a pep meeting in the Student Gym. After a few words from P. J. McClellan, who opened the meeting in the stalls, we all delivered our speeches. We were visited by Bob McMillan, who delivered a fine talk on "The City of Silicon," and Dr. B. F. Knapp, who delivered a talk on "The City of Detroit." We then adjourned to the large gym for a game of basketball, which was won by the Economics team.
