Publicity To A Purpose

Any journalist knows that one of the first essentials of editor writing is to know the complete facts before the writer starts any statements or comments on an event or condition. Such knowledge is essential to the proper understanding of the situation by the reader. The writer of an editorial is responsible for the accuracy of his statements, and the reader has a right to expect truthful and unbiased information.

The Stairs of Old Main

Brass, when properly made, is one of the most beautiful materials that we have at our disposal. In its proper place, it usually adds a touch of elegance and grace. However, if it is not used properly, it can also create a pleasurable and attractive atmosphere to the eye. In its proper place, it can enhance the beauty of any setting.

The Use of Copper in Architecture

Copper is a versatile material that can be used in numerous applications. It is lightweight, durable, and easy to work with. Copper is often used in architectural designs to create unique and striking features. It can be used in the construction of buildings, as well as in decorative elements such as railings, doors, and windows.

Economy or Education

The Chicago editorial page tied the case of economy to the tail of the budget request of Southern Illinois University.

The peculiarity in the case of economy is that there is too much of a conflict of interest. The people of Southern Illinois are not willing to pay for education, but they are willing to pay for everything else.

The editorial states that the issue of economy and education is being mishandled. The people of Southern Illinois are not willing to pay for education, but they are willing to pay for everything else.

Home Stand Record
Hurt As Maroons Lose
To Strong Panther Team

East End's Panthers took sole position of first place in the HAC standings by edging out Southern, 29-47, in a game that was held on the night of December 15.

The game was the first in the last 15 home games for Charlie Otis, who played for Southern with 11 points, closely followed by Ed Bryant with 11. In 1955, Otis scored 11 points in 50 games, impressing the fans in his junior season.

Secondly, by Biography

Biology is the study of life, its origin, structure, function, and development. It includes the study of plants, animals, microorganisms, and the interactions between them.

Some examples of biological fields include genetics, which studies the transmission of traits from parents to offspring; ecology, which examines the relationships between organisms and their environment; and evolution, which describes how species change over time.

Biologists use a variety of methods to study life, from the molecular level to the global scale. This includes observing, collecting, and measuring data to understand the behavior, development, and function of living organisms.

Southern Drives To Equalize Operational Standing

Southern is "in the cellar" as far as per capita state support of higher education in Illinois is concerned. Dr. D. W. Morris, president, stated recently to the Board of Trustees that the University is equalizing its operations and that it must do so in order to be comparable with other state-supported institutions.

President Morris pointed out that practically all of the expenses of the University are in the form of state funds and that almost the entire state budget is equalized. However, the University's enrollment is so small that it must be operated at a lower level of efficiency.

"The only alternative," he said, "is to decrease our per student costs, which means a decrease in the state's contribution to the University's budget." He said that the University is determined to operate as efficiently as possible.

"Our faculty is greatly overloaded, and to bring our operating costs per student down to the state's level, we must reduce our enrollment," President Morris added.

The University's enrollment is decreasing, with a loss of 7,000 students since 1933. The University has been trying to equalize its operations with those of other state-supported institutions by decreasing its enrollment and increasing its per student costs.

"We are not undertaking any major new programs of instruction," President Morris said. "Our main concern is to operate as efficiently as possible and to reduce our per student costs."
New Governing Board Plan Will Increase Efficiency

President D. W. Morris has called attention to the fact that Senator J. G. Crandall of Urbana will soon introduce a bill to allow the General Assembly to create a separate independent governing board for Southern.

He said that the Almond Board of Trustees has been working to present a proposal in the General Assembly to present a separate independent governing board for Southern.

We can fully support this program," he stated. "It should be clearly understood that there is a proposal to create a separate independent governing board for Southern."

This is not a proposal to come up with a new way to run Southern. As a matter of fact, the two Southern University and Board proposals are already introduced in the Assembly. We are supporting this proposal because it will increase Southern's efficiency and will lessen the educational burdens.

After the library was established, 10 percent of the books had to be stored in various spots about the campus. Above, the site of the library building became a storage space for the overflow.

The library basement became another storage space for books and equipment. The limited space does not allow for extensive filing. Books can only be found by digging in
