Courageous FBI?
Rebel, Sir!

By Pete Pownser

J. Edgar Hoover, in his capacity as the Agency he directs functions in much the same manner as did the nefarious Gestapo, or the KGB, a research scientist at Harvard University, who has written so highly of his superiors as "brilliant," was successively named by the HCUA in 1957.

Before he committed suicide in his laboratory, Sherwood, left a note declaring, "I will be in two days anastomized by publicity at such a rate that would love to spend the next few years in laboratories, and I would hate to spend them in jail.

Sherwood was alleged to have been a "contact" man for "Marxist discussion group" twenty years ago before the hearing. Whatever the success and outcome of the HCUA have unequivocally that they could expect an HCUA subpoena unless they cooperated by naming names.

And then there is the Hoover (of the FBI's "Red Act" fame), perhaps the most insidious of all the "Communist" fakers in the USA. As it is, overloading a class with work tends only to make the student think twice about whether he should be spending his time doing the work. For some, the answer is an unequivocal "no," and this is not meant to be a criticism of the Southern faculty; rather, it is an analysis of higher education in general.

The news in education is not quite so good. Some 200,000 people have completed higher education in this country in the last year, whereas only 10,000 senior high school students are in college. This is not a matter of numbers, but of the quality of education. It is an analysis of higher education in general. At present the practice is prevalent, and the most dire results will be in the minds of students to think of the solution of the problems.

It seems that the HCUA has an inadequate share of these educators, and the real problem is with the ends that it has to arrive at. It is an analysis of higher education in general. The rising cost of education is already jeopardizing the school, and this was not, in fact, the only issue in the case, MURDALE.

Language More Than A Code At Southern German Institute
Now in its fourth week at Southern, the German Institute has found that German feeling among the persons enrolled, according to Dr. Helmut Ziebold, chairman of the Summer Institute.

"It is very easy once you stop with reading and writing a foreign language. Black and white is a code word, not a language. Language includes the way in which words are spoken, the way in which your "behave," commented Dr. Hartwig, professor of foreign languages at SIU in discussing the progress of students in the Institute.

To emphasize the spoken word, all classroom conversation is in German. Long films for study of German culture and many short oral stressing the linguistics and having no English translation are presented.

Even informal and out-of-class conversations are in German—German scrutinized by classmates, staff members who have student groups with which they stay.

Soon after arrival, all students—40 teachers from schools in 20 states, including California, Florida, and New York—were given exams, which came as a shock to many.

Along with the written questions and answers, tailor-made exams were used for questioning and answering. Subject matter revolving around Germany and German-speaking countries in many cultural aspects.

Testing was not done to "shock a student," but to help place him in his "speech category," depending on his rank in language proficiency based on speaking, hearing, writing and comprehension.

Progress is being made under this strict programming, but the big brag is that too many complaints for extra time for "well-versed" to demand to rework the program to provide a free hour. However, one lady confided to her friend that now she feels like an "alien unless she has a German-speaking styli."

Softball League Begins Season
The softball-slogging Salukis took the field Monday to begin the annual intramural league. Ten teams, divided into two leagues, will be vying for league supremacy.

The five teams in each league will play each other once a week and the winner of each league will meet to determine the summer champion.

The two leagues, appropriated by the American and Missouri National, seemed to be as balanced as their counterparts. The American league is comprised of such powerhouses as the Touches, the Argus, and the Owls and the Missouri is made up of popular favorites in the Smudges, the Argus, the Owls, the Hound, and the Hounds.

The National league teams started play in the summer schedule with games on Monday and Tuesday right. On Monday night Bailey 2 outslag the Brown 2, 22-18, to gain a picture of the league tie with the Argus. The Argus drew the Touchables 14-11 in Tuesday's rain interrupted contest. Fords drew a bye for the first week.

Unfortunately, the results of the American league games could not be obtained before press time.
