STATEWIDE ALERT TEST SET TODAY

Starting today, the first Tuesday of each month will be Civil Defense test time in Illinois.

The test time for the public warning devices will be 10:30 a.m. on each first Tuesday of the month, according to a special bulletin to the faculty and staff.

John E. Grinnell, vice president for operations, said the testing time will be standardized throughout the state.

The 73rd General Assembly enacted legislation for the uniform tests. Col. Donovan M. Vance, Illinois CD director, has announced the plans.

The statewide uniform testing is designed to familiarize the public with the different signals, to reduce confusion when Illinois residents are visiting in other communities, and to conduct the tests at a time when businesses, schools and industries are in operation, the bulletin stated.

The test on the first Tuesday of each month will consist of:

1. A one-minute steady blast for the alert signal.
2. A one-minute period of silence, followed by
3. A one-minute of the wailing tone or series of short blasts for the take-cover signal.

ROTC HEAD GETS TRANSFER ORDERS TO MAXWELL AFB

Col. George H. Blase, commanding officer of the 3,000-member Air Force ROTC detachment at SIU for the past five years, has received his transfer orders effective Aug. 20.

Col. Blase, a native of St. Louis, has been assigned as director of the Aero-Space Studies Institute, an activity under control of the Air University at Maxwell Air Force Base, Alabama.

He will be succeeded by Lt. Col. James F. Van Ausdale.

Col. Blase, a guest in the Mediterranean Theater during World War II and a veteran of the Korean conflict, said the Alabama move is scheduled to be his last assignment prior to retirement, in June, 1967.

Family of Six Finds Living Conditions At Southern Hills Tight but Educational by Ed McCorkendale

It is what it is like to live in a seven-foot square for two years?

That is how much space the Roseillon family has per person in their apartment at Southern Hills if you don’t count the space taken up by the furniture.

According to Rossillon, graduate student in speech, it isn’t nearly as bad as he thought it would be.

“...We had apprehensions about moving our new, soon to become five, children from a four-bedroom eight-room house,” he said.

“The space here compares to the kitchen and dining room back in Kansas,” he added.

Rossillon, who came to SIU to work on his dissertation in speech, was on the faculty at Kansas State Teachers College at Emporia. He now has the distinction of commanding the largest family residing at Southern Hills.

Yvonne, share the apartment with Suzanne, age 7, Roxanne, 6, Jerry, affectionately known as ‘House’ and the male ward of the family, Michelle, otherwise known as ‘the Mickey Mouse,’ and Jacqueline, 6 months.

The first thing I learned when we moved here, was that ‘Mama’ needed my help.

BIG FAMILY— The seven members who comprise the Joseph P. Roseillon family fill the compact apartment in which they reside at Southern Hills. Zigzagging down, from right to left, is Jerry, Michelle, Yvonne, Suzanne, Roxanne, Jerry, Michelle and the family’s pontiff ‘Mama.’

With everything that there is to do for five children-including 15 months of laundry a week, it is understandable that strong hands were needed around the house.

“The two oldest girls are a bit high with the housework,” Rossillon added. “They have to do before they can go out and play.”

SIU Rights Worker Is Beaten

“I feel that they are doing the thing that must be done... I wish there was something I could do to help the cause along,” said Mrs. Pleasant Neblett about her son Charles’ civil rights activities.

Glenn Neblett, an SIU junior, accompanied by three other civil rights workers, walked into an Atlanta, Ga., state rights rally on July 4th.

George Wallace of Alabama had brought his unchallenged electorate campaign to the city.

The civil rights group said they went to be the rally "just to hear the speeches." The result was a beating for the four workers.

The Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee identified the group members as Neblett, 23, of Carbondale; Matthew Jones, 26, of Knox­ville, Tenn.; Wilson Brown, 30, of Birmingham, Ala.; and Karen Haberman, 19, of Long Island, N.Y.

Neblett, national field secretary for the SNCC, described the outbreak as "cops beating ice and folding chairs coming down on us like rain."

Neblett was resting at another son's home when a fire broke out. In the bright light of the demonstration.

"I wasn't able to sleep any­thing for ashing," she said. "It was just going to call down there when Charles (Continued on Page 8)
Beaded Dress of '20s Given To Historic Costumes Exhibit

An elegant beaded dress of the early 1920s has been presented to the Historic Costumes Collection of the School of Home Economics by Mrs. Roy P. Blake of West Frankfort.

Worn first at a wedding, the cinnamon-colored pucey willow silk was also worn by Mrs. Blake when she and her bank president husband entertained William Jennings Bryan and his 13-year-old grandson in West Frankfort, June 1923. Later the dress was loaned or donated, while some was in use on SIU campus before the Historian Room was completed.

Mrs. Blake took part of her high school work and was a college student here at the University. She was a member of the Socratic Society, a bloomer-clad basketball player, and played the piano in the orchestra. The young SIU baseball player whom she later married also played the violin in the orchestra.

Sang has been donated by Mrs. Blake, a graduate student under the guidance of Mrs. Blake, and for the Historic Home Economics Department.

According to C. D. May of the architect’s office, the room will have a wood parquet floor and beige and white wallpaper in a design popular during Lincoln’s time. The chandeliers will be replicas of gas lights and will have cut glass prisms. The drapes will be of 19th century design.

Some of the furniture for Heritage Room have been loaned or donated, while some was in use on SIU campus during the 19th century. The book case and hall tree are from the Dale home in Washington, D.C. While was commissioner of Indian Affairs, Lincoln visited his home on various occasions. These two pieces are being donated by the Stinson family of Kankakee, Stinson was formerly a professor of agriculture at SIU.

A cherry chest of drawers by Thomas Schuyler, Abraham Lincoln’s father, is being donated by Mr. Philip Sing of Chicago, Mr. Sang has also donated contemporary paintings, and a collection of primitive portraits painted between 1850-1900. Most of these primitive pictures are painted by itinerant artists.

According to Ralph E. McCoy, director of the library, some of the furniture in use during the early days of SIU is of excellent quality, Carl B. Kiney of the physical plant is preparing the furniture.

President Delcy W. Morris has been interested in preserving the antique furniture on SIU campus.

One or two of the sofas are needed, preferably Sheraton style. Mr. McCoy was informed that further donations would be appreciated. He says, “We will reupholster if necessary. Mr. Sang is of good style, and the wood must be in good condition.” Two large chairs are also needed.

The Heritage Room is the only room in the library that is not in 20th century style, painted to look very handsome when it is Finished.

Summer Theater to Continue With 'Look Back in Anger'

Opening the Southern Playhouse Wednesday for the second summer offering, the Southern Players will present “Look Back in Anger,” written by John Osborne.

Opening time is 8 p.m. nightly through Sunday.

Directed by John Osborne, the play concerns contemporary England. Osborne, prime exponent of Britain’s new wave writing, has created a realistically picture of an embittered young tyrant, stuck in a marriage and an almost ferocious scorn.

James Symonds is directing the play at the Southern Playhouse, assisted by Carleton Winters. The setting was designed by Darwin Payne.

Although to some critics the play’s dial-pee is gayly, many viewers classify the play’s dialogue and plot as a “Look Back in Anger” as an absorbing and powerful drama, stinging wit and forcefully and beautifully written. Critics have praised the play’s dialogue, and almost ferociously scound.

James Symonds is directing the play at the Southern Playhouse, assisted by Carleton Winters. The setting was designed by Darwin Payne.

Individual admission for the play is $1.50. The box office, located at the Playhouse, accepts mail reservations accompanied by a check or money order.

Brochure Explains Outdoor Education

What is outdoor education? Is it just a jaunt to the woods to look at the birds and the trees; in other words, a happy outing?

It’s more than that, educators in outdoor teaching say. It’s a common sense method of learning—plain, direct and simple, and is recommended as a regular part of school life, not as a substitute.

Those are words from a new brochure, "Outdoor Education for the Schools of Our Communities," published by the Educational Council of Illinois, a 31-county organization devoted to improvement of education in southern Illinois.

The brochure, to be mailed to members of the council, council advisory committee members, county school superintendents, and other school administrators of southern Illinois, says that educators have learned more and more through the years the importance of teaching from natural situations.

Outdoor education is far, more deeply appreciated, and is retained longer, the brochure says.

The council and Southern Illinois University have joined in establishing an Outdoor Education Center south of Little Grassy Lake, where pupils from elementary and secondary schools can study the out-of-doors under direction of educators trained in that area of knowledge.

Ike's Brother Will Nominate Scranton at GOP Convention

CHICAGO -- Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania announced Monday that Milton Eisenhower, brother of the former President, will nominate Scranton at the Republican National Convention next week.

Scranton opened a news conference with this statement: "I am delighted and pleased to announce that Dr. Milton Eisenhower will nominate me for President at the Republican National Convention in San Francisco. Gen. Eisenhower knows about this, and I am very pleased about it. The general said that was the best news he has heard yet."

Scranton was asked how he happened to call the former President.

Scranton said: "I asked him to report to him from time to time on the Eisenhower campaign. I called him to tell him some things. I told him to tell Ike from time to time that Eisenhower said that was the best news he heard ever.

After the game, he turned to announce: "He is delighted."

Castro Makes Bid for Easing U.S. Relations

NEW YORK -- Prime Minister Fidel Castro said Cuba would commit itself to withdraw material support of Latin-American revolutionaries in the United States and its allies would agree to cease material support of such activity against Cuba, the New York Times said Monday.

A story by Richard Eder quoted Castro as making the statement Saturday night. Castro made "the most explicit" bid he has made in recent years for easing relations with the United States, the story said. Castro suggested that the time has come when an extensive discussion of issues between the two countries would be profitable and said Cuba's leaders are now more mature and the United States has given some indications that it is willing to accept a degree of social change in Latin America.

GOP Platform Work Starts; Scranton Urges Rights Plank

SAN FRANCISCO -- The 1964 Republican platform writers started work Monday under formal notice from the Scranton camp that the fight over civil rights plank is on.

Platform committee Chairman Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin said at a news conference that Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton told him Sunday by letter and in a telephone conversation that his backers will presume a party declaration that the 1964 Civil Rights Act is constitutional.

The announcement to a challenge to supporters of Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, who makes a strong fight on that plank for the platform committee.

Leird, preparing for a week's hearing with former Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce as the first witness, repeated he does not think the week should be spent debating constitutionalism of the law.

"Prompt implementation is the way to test it," he added. He also said he could not recommend to the platform writers the battle Monday as a rough combat.

The battle Monday at Nam Dan camp raised the number of Americans killed in combat in South Vietnam since late 1961 to 12, with two others missing and presumed dead. Ninety-six other Americans have died in accidents.

More Americans Die in Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam -- Two American Special forces men and an Australian army adviser were killed Monday in what other Americans described as a magnificent defense of a central highlands Special Forces camp under heavy Communist Viet Cong attack.

In a five-hour battle characterized by hand-to-hand fighting by troops and courage by a group of Vietnamese nurses, at least 57 Vietnamese special forces mercenaries were killed, in addition to the Americans and the Australian.

And tangled over broken barbed wire of the outer perimeter of Nam Dan camp, 30 miles west of the northern city of Da Nang, were 48 Communist Viet Cong bodies, by the nearest American count. It was the third such Viet Cong assault in the central highlands within a week.

The battle Monday at Nam Dan camp raised the number of Americans killed in combats in South Viet Nam since late 1961 to 12, with two others missing and presumed dead. Ninety-six other Americans have died in accidents.

"Just off Campus"
Barefoot in the Cafeteria

Students get a pretty good deal at the University Center Cafeteria these days. The quality of food is generally good—although there have been a few complaints that the food is generally cold. The teachers also seem to have developed some new plans to keep the price at a minimum. At least once you’ve become accustomed to them.

For many teachers, the idea of eating at the university center cafeteria is a bit of a stretch. They have never been quite used to the idea of the cafeteria being a place where they can eat. However, the cafeteria is now open to all students, regardless of their status, and this has led to some interesting developments.

In addition, a meal ticket is not a meal ticket on Sunday. It is a sandwich ticket. On Saturdays and sometimes even on Sunday nights, the user of a meal ticket finds himself booted off the campus and its somewhat lighter bill of fare.

Gentlemen of the cafeteria, we do not mean to harshly judge you. We realize that for the most part you provide an outstanding service, a service which helps make SIU a good place to go to school. We do, however, feel that a good service made even better. To this end—should your toes ever go out—look out.

Fourth in a Series

The Campus Greeks

At the national level, most of the Greek groups are in theory, integrated, but none of the chapters at SIU are. Most of the organizations are now active at SIU, are for Negroes. Of the five, four are for whites. The houses allotted to the Negro groups by the international are few of the white groups are not filled by members of the groups. The houses are independent (non-members) who are allocated by the SIU housing authorities and may thus be of any race.

The University is pushing integration but there is social pressure from the parents, said a Greek leader. "The boys are hesitant to make the move," said Mrs. Elizabeth Jouse, president counselor for Phi Kappa Tau. I was informed that some white boys were interested in joining Alpha Phi Alpha (a Negro fraternity), but their parents and friends talked them out of the idea.

"One white kid last fall was definitely going to join (APA) but he goofed in his grades," I was told.

Delta Chi, a white fraternity, actively sought a Negro, but he refused to join. He refused to join APA too. He now lives in APA as an independent.

Of all the foreign students, only one, an African from Nigeria, is a Greek. He belongs to APA, and says he is doing fine.

Mrs. Elizabeth Jouse referred to one of four Nigerians who at one time lived in Phi Kappa Tau as "very popular and one of the best boys" she had. The Negro groups house a considerable group of white students. There has never been any incident reported.

I asked a Negro Greek whether they had social exchanges among the groups.

"No. No. We don't," he said. "We have some fraternities in the city, and fraternities at the University, which they have to participate together.

"One boy," said Mrs. Jouse, "never date over here (colored).

"Well," I asked. "We don't know. They just don't. For one thing, there is no other woman, to see a good among all the groups regardless of color." Another Negro Greek was more straightforward in his comment, but perhaps he was a little too harsh. He said: "This bottle down to prejudice. The Greek organizations are the most prejudiced on the campus."

Salukis Face Tough Choice For Annual Hinkley Trophy

Now that the 1963-64 SIU intercollegiate sports season is officially on the record books, the time is at hand to choose the outstanding Saluki athlete of the year.

Next month more than a hundred SIU varsity athletes will voice their choices for the recipient of the Hinkley Hinkley trophy, the most coveted honor for Saluki athletes. Because the past season produced a bumper crop of outstanding athletes, this year's voting is expected to be the closest since the trophy was first awarded in 1946.

One of the early favorites to receive the annual award is Bob Sprengelmeyer, a Saluki netman honored four times as most valuable player on the SIU tennis team. He won 60 of 64 dual matches in four years of varsity competition at SIU.

But Sprengelmeyer will have to contend with such standouts as gymnast Rusty Mitchell as well as wrestlers Terry Finn and Don Millard, quarterback Jim Hart, basketball standouts Joe Ramsey and Paul Henry, swimming ace Theodore McAneny, and Gene Vincent, John How and Kent Collins, diamond stars who led Southern's baseball team to an outstanding 21-1 season, and nationally recognized shot-putter George Woods.

In addition to his sparkling record, Sprengelmeyer advanced to the finals of the NCAA college division singles competition last month before losing to Los Angeles State's Gary Johnson 8-6, 4-6, 7-5.

Mitchell, a West Covina, Calif., senior, led the Salukis to their first national championship as he personally accounted for 41 points in Southern's 841/2-0-0-91/2 victory over Southern California in the NCAA gymnastics meet.

Finn and Millard, two seniors from Oak Lawn and Dolton, respectively, won national wrestling titles in the NCAA university division competition.

McAneny, Miami, Fla., placed in two events at last winter's NCAA swimming meet and was responsible for Southern's 12th place finish, while Woods, a Sikeston, Mo., junior, was second to New York University's outstanding Gary Grubsman in the recent NCAA track and field championships.

Although he did not gain much national acclaim, grid ace Hart established several new school records last fall when he passed for 14 touchdowns and 1,041 yards while completing 72 of 152 attempts.

Vocational Education Seen Key To Economic Needs of 1970s

States that meet their needs in vocational-technical education during the 1960s will be the ones leading the way in employment and economic growth in the "70s, according to a prominent national vocational-education figure serving as a visiting teacher at SIU.

Dr. M. Mobley, executive secretary of the American Vocational Association, Inc., and a member of the National Advisory Committee on Manpower, told educators attending a recent conference here that area vocational-technical training schools will become increasingly important in the future as each state has the responsibility of evaluating its own needs.

Mobley is at Southern to teach a two-week course on "Federal Legislation and Evolving Programs of Vocational Education," part of a series of classes on new developments in technology and education offered by the School of Technology.

By 1970, Mobley said, the American labor force will have grown so that 3 million young workers annually will be added to the job market. At the same time, employers will require even greater technical training of their workers than is needed today, Many of the unemployed youths will be unemployable unless they have marketable skills.

Mobley, who was state director of vocational education in Georgia before taking his present post in Washington, D.C., praised SIU's Vocational-Technical Institute as the kind of institution needed to train skilled workers in areas which do not require a full four years of college and can still keep vocational education in the hands of educators.

Daddy Solves Space Problem
For 4 Kids at Southern Hills

When asked if Jerry had problems being the only boy in the family, Rossillon replied, "Mama spoils him because he is the only boy. He is the big production as far as the girls are concerned." With all the activity at home Rossillon spends most of his study hours at the library. "I never study at home," he said. "You just can't explain to five young kids that daddy is studying and they should be quiet," he said. "We don't have nearly as many space problems as the people with older children and mixed sexes," remarked Rossillon. "We can stack the kids and the other people can't!" "No, we don't have a problem," claims Rossillon.

The kids are all comfortable in the bunk beds and they have a place to play. With five children ingenuity is a must. A rack that enables five people to slide into a narrow bed into it provides sleeping space for three of the kids and bunk beds serve the two older girls. "Our biggest, and only, problem is making ends meet on a graduate assistant's pay," he hastily remarked. "Of course, everybody knows it is ridiculous," At this point Mrs. Rossillon said, "If there is anything that I will remember about going to school it will be always being hungry." Rossillon added, "We eat like hogs at the table, but there just aren't any frills or macks."

"When we decided to come to Southern we had great apprehensions but now that we are here and have accustomed ourselves to the apartment most of our problems are gone," said Rossillon. "When I told Yvonne that the space here in the apartment would be as big as the kitchen and dining room back in Kansas she just looked at me."

"But now that we are here it isn't as bad as we thought it would be."

"We did think that we would have trouble with tempers flaring," said Rossillon, "but even with the limited amount of space we were pleasantly surprised with how well they get along together."

"The only time that tempers are short is in the hot weather and then they can settle their differences outside."

"In these any lesson to be learned from living in such a confusing area and any advice to other people with several children?"

"I recommend it highly." Rossillon said.

called me. He wasn't as seriously hurt as it wore out." Referring to the three of her sons who have participated in SNCC since 1960, she concluded, "They don't write too often because they move too often. But they call before they leave a place and when they get to a place. That keeps me from worrying about what happens on the road between the places."

Always calling the civil rights movement and SNCC activities "us." Mrs. Neblett said her sons "don't feel nervous over it. They expect most anything to happen."

Going different places with 4-H Clubs, and later with Boy Scouts, the Neblett boys "began to see the difference between people," their mother said. When the Nebletts moved to Carbondale in 1960, the boys, Charles Carver, and Cortez, joined SNCC.

"They got the idea themselves to join us," Mrs. Neblett said. "But I would encourage other mothers to encourage their children to join."

"The time is right for now," she said. "Growing-up children are more deter-
