Auction Articles, Student Services At Anotlia College Drive Assembly

The Anotlia College drive to send funds to the skillet college in Greece, got under way with an all-school assembly yesterday at 11 a.m.

Dr. William J. Tudor, SIU sociology instructor, who served as a Fulbriugh professor of agriculture in Greece, was the main speaker.

Also speaking on the program was Poppet Marion, a Michigan State university student from Greece, who worked with Dr. Tudor while he was in the country.

A number of services from different organizations and groups were auctioned. These included: Warren, Joy, the drive to raise funds for the library; Mabel, a drive to raise funds for the Greek gym; and Anna, a drive to raise funds for the Greek women's club.

Open Art Exhibit At Allyn Gallery

An exhibit of 39 paintings entitled "Abstract Painting in America" was opened Sunday, March 23, in the Allyn Art gallery. This is the fourth exhibit to be exhibited since the gallery opened last December.

Prepared by the Museum of Modern Art in New York, the coming exhibit is drawn from the historical survey, "Abstract Painting and Sculpture in America," shown at the New York museum last winter.

The variety of styles within the exhibit has been divided into two main groups by Andrew Ritchie, director of the museum's department of painting and sculpture. The first group is made up of paintings by the American school of 1914-1935, while the second group represents the second wave of abstract art which began in the 1920s.

Mike Scullin, and Max Waren, both of the Associated College Drive Assembly, declared that the exhibit was "a masterpiece of modern art." The exhibits are open to the public from 2 to 5 p.m. and from 7 to 9 p.m. each day.

Health Service Plans To Give Immunizations

Southern Trustees Make Appointments

Appointments made by the Southern Board of Trustees at a meeting last week were as follows: Arthur Gould, Washington State College, as visiting professor of journalism during the summer months; Kenneth Johnson, College of Education, as instructor in the SIU library; Professor Carter, Cornell University, as visiting professor of art; and Richard Wilkes, Central Junior College, as visiting professor of art.

Movie, 'The Magic Bow,' To Be Shown Here

The movie, "The Magic Bow," starring Stewart Granger and Phyllis Calvert, will be shown Tuesday, April 1, at 7 p.m. and again on Thursday, April 3, at 2 p.m. at the University School auditorium.

The picture is known for its music and for its polemic warfare. It tells the life of the great villain Paganini, from his humble beginnings in a small Italian town to his climactic appearance before the Pope.

University students are admitted free of charge. For others, 25 cents will be the admission fee.

SOUTHERN ILLINOIS UNIVERSITY

March 28, 1952 * Vol. 33, No. 24 * Single Copy 50
To Hospitality Week-End Guests:
Whatever the future in these uncertain days, one thing is certain: it would be fatal to mark time while waiting for whatever time may bring. In fairness to his country, his community, and himself, every young person must prepare to serve, whether in peace or war, to the best of his ability.

We at Southern Illinois University are ready today to help you discover the fields of endeavor in which you are most likely to succeed and to help you, as an individual, to develop those talents for greatest possible use.

We, too, are looking ahead.

Sincerely,
D. W. Morris, President of Southern Illinois University

That Southern Hospitality

Today, Southern's campus has approximately 175 new faces appearing on it, for there are many high school seniors visiting here as guests of Hospitality Week-End, an annual event. Perhaps everyone of these guests will be back on campus next fall to become a permanent part of our enrollment—that is, if they find Southern a suitable place to attend college.

We, the present SIU students, can help these guests make up their minds about entering here next fall by merely showing them the true meaning of "Southern Hospitality.

At 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. today, the Hospitality Week-Enders will visit various classes where that hospitality will be well demonstrated, for we students can welcome the guests to the classes and explain to them the procedures of the class.

Then tonight at the all-school dance, the guests will again be present and again our hospitality will be needed. The first requisite to make our guests feel at home tonight at the dance will be for as many of us as possible to attend the dance. It is to begin at 8 p.m. in the women's gym. The second requisite is for us to mix with and talk to the guests about interesting happenings here at Southern.

Several present SIU students first came to Southern as Hospitality Week-Enders and they all agree that they felt pretty lonely and lost—especially at the dance. Wouldn't it be nice if the students who are now here as guests come here next fall because they still remember the fine hospitality displayed here by the students?

Letter of Correction

Dear Editor:
I was in error in the material submitted, which you used in your editorial on March 25. In item 2, it stated: "... during your last term..." instead of "...during your last term..." and in question 3, the answer given should be "no" instead of "yes.

I am very sorry that this error has occurred.

Sincerely yours,
H. J. Rehn, Dean of the College of Vocations and Professions

Faculty Member Presents Concert

Gilbert Fischer, instructor in piano and theory in the music department, presented a program of original compositions last night.

The work was entitled "Twelve Preludes and Epilogue." It was written during the months of January and February. Although the work may be properly described as a modern work, it turns jauntily back on the various fields of composition, being an extension and correction of the musical traditions of Western Europe and America rather than an expansion of a radical approach to music writing.

Fischer completed his undergraduate work at Oberlin. During the war Fischer served as a band leader, used his skill in writing arrangements for orchestra, military band, dance bands and a duo-piano team of which he was a member.

Siu To Enter Beauty Contest

According to Doug Shepherd, president of Student Council, Southern has been invited to enter a national beauty contest sponsored by Max Factor & Co. The contest covers all colleges and universities in the United States.

A fund of $1,000 will be given to the school entering the contest. The winner will receive a $1,000 scholarship to be used toward tuition or other advancement of her education. An alumni group paid one week summer vacation trip to Hollywood, and 12 expensive gifts which will prove of exceptional value during her scholastic years.

The school contest may be held in any way the school chooses with a maximum of six candidates entered by each school. Each candidate entering will send a recent photograph, together with her entry blank to Max Factor, in Hollywood.

All girls interested in this contest should contact Doug Shepherd. The deadline for mailing applications is April 7.
