Spelunkers Discover Unexplored Passages

SIU’s "spelunkers" have chalked up an original exploration.

The cave explorers said they recently visited a cave's passages and chambers never before seen by other humans.

Six members of the SIU Speleological Society recently spent the weekend at a newly discovered passage in Indiana's Saltwater Cave near Bloomington.

Their purpose was to explore and map as far as possible. They set up headquarters in an old barn near the cave entrance. The spelunkers were underground by squeezing through a small crack between two large stone slabs.

They then worked their way down a series of ledges, 70 feet to the cave floor. After proceeding a short distance on foot, they reached "the belly crawl."

This consisted of 1,300 feet of muddy passage with ceilings so low that the spelunkers had to remove their helmets in order to get through.

Emerging from this crawl, they found more passages and chambers they said had never before been seen by human eyes.

At this point, they decided to concentrate on exploration, because mapping the entire cave system would be too big a job for a single expedition.

They spent seven hours underground. With the temperature dropping, their clothing started to freeze. They strapped it like cordwood when they surfaced.

Petitioners Ask City Council To Improve East Park Street

The city council was asked to improve East Park Street two days after a meeting at which he hadn't noticed any improvement.

Mayor Miller then requested that the City Commissioners and the Town Council Commissioner do more research on the situation, in order to make recommendations to the city council. The city council, in other action, rescinded a prior motion that established a levy of $30,000 per year for public participators' fees.

Debaters Lose to Marquette; 2nd Team Places 5th in Ohio

Two SIU varsity debate teams went into separate sessions again, but the results were almost alike.

Jeff Schlitz, Trenton, Ill., senior majoring in history, and Janelle Schlingeman, of Harris, S.D., senior majoring in government, traveled to North Dakota for one of the major debate of the year only to be defeated in the end by the arguments of Marquette University.

Pat McKee and Charles Zwecker, second varsity team, were the third Annual Bowling Green University Debate Tournament at Bowling Green. They won five places over all. Zwecker placed second individually and McKee placed seventh.

Students Rely on Host of Solutions To Ease Tensions of College Life

By Max Williamson

Final exams looming ahead, a term paper due at 8 tomorrow morning, a professor issuing the ultimatum that one more cut and you're dropped from his class, a student worker shouting at you to go back to the end of the Sectioning Center line—all of these things create tension for the SIU student.

Such is life for a college student. But how do these students go about managing these tensions created by their hectic university lives?

"I relieve tension by eating, or reading the latest fashion magazines. Looking at the new fashions lets my mind wander from my problems," says Pam Greenfield, 22-year-old senior from Wood River, Ill.

"I watch television or take a movie. This gives me a chance to be lost. Comedies are the best, because the plot is usually shallow and I don't have to think. I can just sit back and enjoy it," comments Paul Kneale, '79, senior from Bensenville, Ill.

"I work crossword puzzles, write, and oil painting. I love to do these things, and they relax me," says Barbara Schally, '70, junior from Chicago.

"I go motorcycle riding, or I'm looking for a chance to rest. Comedies are the best, because the plot is usually shallow and I don't have to think. I can just sit back and enjoy it," comments Paul Kneale, '79, senior from Bensenville, Ill.

"I work crossword puzzles, write, and oil painting. I love to do these things, and they relax me," says Barbara Schally, '70, junior from Chicago.

Pianist Olegna Fuschi of California will present a recital at 8 p.m. tonight in Shryock Auditorium.

The young performer played 79 engagements last season in the United States and Canada, she has also toured both Poland and the Soviet Union.

Miss Fuschi will open her program at SIU with a Myra Hess arrangement of Bach's "Jesus, Joy of Man's Desiring." She will also present Haydn's "Sonata in D Major," Brahms' "Sonata No. 3 in F Major" and several of Chopin's compositions.

She has studied at the Julliard School of Music but was her first scholarship at the age of 12.

Miss Fuschi's appearance is being sponsored by the Carbondale Community Concert Association.

Packers Hiring Summer Workers

The California Packing Company, which produces Del Monte foods, is looking for students for summer employment.

Students completing their sophomore or junior years, in good physical condition and with a long-range interest in the canning industry, are urged to apply.

"Canshot" is looking for students interested in working for them after graduation.

Individuals accepted will be placed in key and semi-key jobs of responsibility with pay rates above the minimum schedule of $1.25 an hour. Students would work in the midwest area, Midwest division plants are located in or near the following cities: Rochester, Denver and Mendota, Illinois; Frankfort, Indiana; Arlington and Markesan, Wisconsin; and Elly Eye and Wells, Minnesota.

Students interested in this program should contact the student work office.

Staff Members May Compete For Fellowships

Economics, sociology, education or psychology graduates in the SIU staff interested in helping form educational programs in relation to manpower and economic needs may compete for grants this month.

Offered by the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, the fellowships will include training and research in foreign nations.

The organization in now attempting to forecast manpower and economic needs in relation to economic and social development. Final results will be used to formulate stipends educational programs.

Fellowships will cover a full year, beginning July 1. Winners will be working with the national planning team in various aspects of human resources development and using individual research on specific problems relating to the planning and use of human resources in one or more countries.

Candidates must be 35 years old and able to work in either French or English countries.

Letters of application can be written in either English or French and sent to the Director of the Scientific Affairs, OECD, 2, Place André-Pascal, Paris 16e.

Application deadline is March 15.

TV Fraternity to Meet

Sigma Beta Gamma, Radio and Television Fraternity, will meet at 7 p.m. Sunday in the WSUI radio studio (1-37), according to Ron Kinningham, president.
Signs of the Times

Shakespeare's Cansio isn't the only one on campus with that lean and hungry look lately. It's nearly that time again.

Students discover the Library is open weekends, after all. No longer is the occasional Saturday-night student an oasis in a desert of half-empty tables. Traffic at the reserve desk is brisk.

Sharp-eyed campus writers prowl areas near the periodical shelves, searching for that missing volume.

The coffee urn roosters its quarterly claim to be the most popular meeting place on campus. Sales of that awake pill increase.

Lights burn late over last-minute papers, conjugations and formulas. Walls and deadlines close in.

Attendance at concerts and convocations spurs new-found culture fans push to earn a term's convocation credits in two weeks.

"When do you finish?" becomes the No. 1 conversational topic. Migratory lust invades students' hearts, and Psi. Laodicea—or-bust fever fl ushes their winner—paled cheeks.

Sales of rabbit's foot charms are way up.

Can finals be far behind?

Letters to the Editor

Student Peace Union Policy On Disarmament Clarified

I was very pleased to see your editorial ("Crew by Association in Reverse," Feb. 20) concerning the Committee to Abolish Compulsory ROTC.

There was one comment, though, which implied a misunderstanding of the policy of the Student Peace Union. The editorial stated: "The SPU's anti-war program statement proposes a policy of American unilateral initiatives as the most productive approach toward effecting total and worldwide disarmament."

Actually, this is not a terribly strong statement. It is not advocating unilateral disarmament, that is, that the U.S. totally disarm without mutual disarmament by other nations.

It is advocating that the U.S. stop up as a long-term policy, a script of which trench will not make us vulnerable to conquest by any enemy which will challenge other nations to match us in disarming. This would include steps such as removing our obsolete first strike bases in Europe, declaring a moratorium on testing nuclear weapons, removing troops from costly countries, casting back on universal service troops and bases, and so on.

Some of these have been done in the past two years, however, not as part of a total program challenging the USSR to do the same.

None of these steps is a threat to our national security. They are meant to create an atmosphere in which the U.S. and the USSR can discuss disarmament with less suspicion than we have had previously, an atmosphere in which there is no danger of military agreement. We maintain a defense while removing our ability to attack.

There are very few people in this nation who will advocate attacking the Soviet Union. Studies have shown that most people want peace. They are afraid, even terrified, of nuclear war.

The problem has been finding some way of keeping back from the brink, to turn from the insanity of a nuclear arms race which threatens to annihilate humanity. The problem has been finding a means which does not threaten our security.

The Student Peace Union believes a program of unilateral initiatives is such a means.

Alton Instructor Tests Students To Evaluate Shelley Paragraph

After reading the first exchange between Mr. Paul Schleuter and Mr. David Hinson ("Even Shelley Couldn't make Grade Here," Feb. 11), and "Instructor's Answer: Writing Here Would Shock Shelley," Feb. 18), I taught a freshman class of 21 students on the paragraph by Shelley. This was a fair test, since my students never see the Daily Egyptian and know nothing of its interesting activities.

The comments on Shelley’s prose may be summed from the following extracts:

"Understandably, though whatever work it is trying to impress someone...I don’t like it. I guess I am just too young to understand.""This is a vague paragraph."

"I truly said don’t understand it."

"I would grade it low...rather muddy words..."

"...doesn’t seem to score anything."

"...terrible and confusing..."

"Now..."

Only four students responded to my invitation to grade it if they cared to. The grades they gave were: A, B, C minus and C minus. But the person who graded it B said: "...seems a little bit (sic) flowery...the writer is trying to impress..." And the student who graded it B said, "It’s a fair paragraph to fully understand it."

Men Cagers End Seasons By Splitting Two Cape Games

Southern's women's basketball team gained its most recent victory over Cape after an 83-71 victory in Cape in a battle that did not fit a conventional role of the game, but rather was a side show to the real main event in basketball. The Cardinal's women's basketball team, led by the legendary team of South Mississippi State, was considered the top team in the state and was expected to win easily. However, the women's team showed that they were not to be taken lightly, as they defeated Cape by 12 points in the final game of the season.

Hartman Worried About Status Of Reserves in Opener Tonight

Concerned over the status of at least two of his top reserves, coach Jack Hartman was certain only that his Saluki cagers would "show up" for first-round action in the NCAA college-division tourney tonight at 7 o'clock in Evanville's Roberts Stadium.

"Strange as it may seem, we're about to run out of players," Hartman said as he attempted to re-group his forces for their opening test against a second-team Ball State squad.

Hartman's worries began when center Lloyd Stovall was declared ineligible for NCAA championship meet consideration, and were augmented by Randy Goin's sudden illness and disclosure of a broken bone in right George McNeill's finger.

Goin spent the weekend in the hospital under observation following a chest pain for the second time this year. He since has been released, but may only be permitted limited duty at Evanville. McNeill will also be in uniform, but his status may be limited as he continued his week's splint on his fractured finger.

"Our first thoughts after losing Stovall were to shift Diana (Wright) to the pivot and move Goin into the starting lineup," Hartman said. But the coach has decided to use sophomore Boyd O'Neal in Stovall's spot and leave Warning at his regular forward spot.

Certain starters, however, are co-captains Joe Ramsey and Paul Henry, Southern's leading scorers, and Eldon Bigham, who is considered one of the Salukis' top blue-collar performers.

Ramsey was a major factor in Southern's fourth-place finish in last year's NCAA tourney, and has spearheaded Southern's late-season drive by averaging more than 20 points per game in the last eight outings.

Henry and Bigham, meanwhile, have provided the ball teams with scoring punch and through by averaging 8.9 and 7.9 points per game, respectively, through the third year in a row. But the most impressive development will definitely be on the Cardinals carry a 10-7 conference record and a 17.7 rebound mark into tonight's clash. The Cards, splitting their first appearance in an NCAA basketball tourney, are the highest scoring team in Ball State's history, with an average of 90.4, compared to SIU's 80.7.

The Redbirds are led by 6-foot center Ed Butler, who is considered one of the finest players in the Midwest. Butler carries a 23.5 point-scoring average and a 17.7 rebound mark into tonight's clash.

However, the Cardinals are certainly not a one-man team, as two other players average 17.9 points per game: Stan Neal, a 6-5 guard, 9.3 and Ron Galloway, 9.4 to complete a starting lineup that averaged 26.2 in height compared to Southern's 6-3/2 average.

Women Cagers End Seasons By Splitting Two Cape Games

Southern's women's basketball team is the leading scorer with the girls from Southeast Missouri State to close their seasons Saturday.

The previously undefeated Cardinals suffered its first setback of the season by dropping a 31-30 cliff-hanger to the girls from Cape Girardeau.

The Salukis team had rolled over four opponents prior to Saturday's contest.

Charlene Summers, who has been the leading scorer for the first team all season, paced the scores with eight points.

She was followed in the scoring by Judy Miller with seven and Diana Spenes with five. Beverly Sellinger, who had been a consistent scorer for the team this year, had only one point to his credit.

The second team evened the score for Southern in their game, as they fell behind the second team from Cape, 28-28.

It was the third win of the year for the SIU girls, who have lost five games during the season.

Joyce Niesemski was the leading scorer for the second team as she put through nine points.

She was followed in the scoring by teammates Jane Johnston, with who added five.

General Examination Information

Examinations for one and two-hour credit classes will be held during the last regularly scheduled period prior to the formal final examination period. Three, four, and five credit hour courses will meet at the times listed above.

A student who finds he has more than three examination on one day may petition, and a student who has two examinations scheduled at one time should petition, his academic dean for permission to take an examination during the make-up examination period on the next day. Provision for such a make-up examination period does not mean that a student may decide to miss his scheduled examination time and expect to make it up during the make-up period. It is to be used only for a student whose petitions have been approved by his dean.

A student who must miss a final examination may not miss an examination before the time scheduled for the class examination. In the event a student misses a final examination and is not involved in a situation covered in the preceding paragraph, a "W" grade shall be recorded. A "W" grade must be completed within one year of the end of the quarter involved; otherwise, it must remain as an incomplete grade.

A special note needs to be made relative to examinations for evening sections for those classes which have been given special time for examining all sections. As students attending at night may not be able to attend the special examination period scheduled for the daytime, each department has special examination periods for these students. This problem involves those night students who are fully employed during the day and who are taking night courses because it is the only time they are able to do so.

Students desiring to take evening exam periods for whom the time of their examination periods conflicts with their work schedules must present to the Dean of Examinations a petition before the exam period.
