with hard work. He had the advantage of the public schools of his day and attended the “Oak Grove” school. He also attended the Highland school where he prepared for college.

In 1864 he and his brother, George, entered McKendree College and roomed in the home of Professor Deneen, the father of Ex-Governor Charles S. Deneen. Young Deneen and young Parkinson were play-mate friends and the youthful ties which were formed in those days were strengthened as the two youths grew older until they ripened into a friendship which has lasted even unto death.

Dr. Parkinson graduated from McKendree College while Dr. Robert Allyn was president of the college. Here another acquaintance grew into respect and love and warm affection. Following graduation Dr. Parkinson began teaching, beginning at Carlin. He later became a member of the faculty of Jennings Seminary, Aurora, Illinois. In 1873 he entered Northwestern University and took up advanced work from which he was called to the work of science in the Southern Illinois Normal University where he taught there until 1897. In that year he was elected president of the Normal in which capacity he served until the summer of 1902.

In this year he was made President Emeritus which position he held till his death. During this period he had taught part of the time and at other times he had acted as a part of publicity agent, but the last school year his health had been such that he could not give his time and his energies to the work of teaching.

On December 18, 1876, Dr. Parkinson was married to Miss Jula F. Mason who at that time lived in Normal, Illinois. One son, Daniel Mason Parkinson, was born to this marriage. This son is now manager of a very large telephone system in San Antonio, Texas. He was not able to be present at his father’s funeral. On August 6, 1879, Mrs. Parkinson died.

On July 30, 1884, Dr. Parkinson was married to Miss Mary Alice Raymond, who was at that time a teacher of art in the Normal. To this union two children were born, Raymond Fielding and Mary Alice. Raymond is now a resident of Carbondale, while the daughter is the wife of Hon. Charles E. Petrich. All three of Dr. Parkinson’s children graduated from the Normal.

Dr. Parkinson and his family have always been active members of the Methodist church, and the deceased will be greatly missed by that religious body. He has given of his time and his means for the furtherance of the interest of church work. Once or more he was a delegate to the General Conference. Three years ago the Methodist congregation in this city began the work of erecting a very elegant church building. It was completed in due season. Dr. Parkinson, though greatly expected at the time, was present at the dedication of the building. Very recently the congregation has erected upon the walls of the inner lobby entrance a bronze tablet with bas-relief portrait of its distinguished member.

An estimate of the real worth of a man can not justly be made by those who are close to him in time and place. However, we may know something of the real worth of a man by the very day does he perform and the character of the contributions he makes to the lives of those about him. If greatness is to be defied in terms of simplicity, and goodness in terms of “alms” towards none with charity for all, then truly Dr. Parkinson may be said to have been a great and good man.

No man has come so vitally in touch with the life that now is and with the life that will be in Egypt as has Dr. Parkinson. Many thousands of young people have been silently influenced to higher and holier lives by his precepts and his example. He thought and lived the sentiment “Not for myself, but for others.”

Beautiful and appropriate funeral services were held by the pastor and congregation to which he was devoted.

DANIEL BALDWIN PARKINSON

Daniel Baldwin Parkinson, a. m., Ph. D., President Emeritus of the Southern Illinois Teachers’ College, died at his home in this city, October 8, 1923, aged seventy-eight years. He was a native of Southern Illinois but traced his ancestry to the Cavaliers of the Carolinas. The Parkinson family came to Illinois through Tennessee. About the year 1850 the grandfather of Dr. Parkinson came to Madison County where he entered land from the government.

The Baldwins, Dr. Parkinson’s ancestors on his mother’s side, came into St. Clair County from Connecticut. They settled upon a choice piece of land two miles northeast of Lebanon, and built a home near “Emerald Mount” on the margin of “Looking Glass Prairie.” It was here that Charles Dickens got his first glimpse of America prairie.

Dr. Parkinson’s father, Andrew Jackson Parkinson, married Mary Elvira Baldwin in 1842 and they began life on the older Parkinson’s land near the Swiss settlement of Highland. To this marriage were born nine children, Dr. Parkinson being the second oldest child. Alfred J. Parkinson, the father of those children, was a plain matter-of-fact sort of man, quiet, unostentatious, frugal and industrious. He was, as his name might suggest, a Jackson Democrat. But in 1860 he voted for Fremont and in 1860 he cast his ballot for Abraham Lincoln. The older Parkinson’s forebears were converts to the new Cumberland Presbyterian movement though he was never allied with that church. Later in life he became a member of the Methodist Episcopal church. In 1878 he was elected to the state senate.

Daniel Baldwin Parkinson, subject of this sketch, grew to young manhood on his father’s farm. He was perfectly familiar

A NEW ENGLAND COMPARISON

The following is an article which appeared in the Journal of Education, Boston, in an article on "The Educational Situation." It is by the editor, A. E. Wiggles, a New Englander.

"New England must look to her laurels in her devotion to education.

"President Walter D. Scott, of Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., calls attention to the fact that Illinois has more college and university students than New England. There are 48,657 students enrolled in Illinois and 47,898 in all New England."

"What is more surprising is the fact that the Illinois colleges have more students from out of the state than New England has out of New England. Illinois colleges and universities have 12,000 students who come from every state in the Union, which is a larger number than among in New England colleges from out of New England.

"Illinois colleges and universities have more students from foreign countries than have all New England colleges and universities, which is a great surprise. There are 955 of these foreign students in Illinois and 943 in New England."

"There are a third more colleges and universities in New England than there are in Illinois. And all New England colleges and universities are of world renown. They include Harvard, Yale, Dartmouth, Bowdoin, Williams, Amherst, Brown, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Mounl Holyoke, Smith and Wellesley, world famous and as many more nationally famous!"

"It is a well recognized fact that young people generally go to the institution from which the parents graduated, and in this respect the New England colleges have a notable advantage over Illinois."

"Then the New England states have a larger percentage of college graduates and have inherited more scholarly traditions. Illinois has 6,000 young men and women of Illinois in colleges and universities outside of that state, and here again the New England colleges have a notable advantage over Illinois."

"Now is this all? There is one state normal school in Michigan that has more men students enrolled today than the entire enrollment of any state normal school in New England."

"There are two state normal schools in Michigan, in which the pay rolls of the two faculties are near $1,000,000 a year."

"There is a state normal school in New England that has more men in its faculty than are men in the twenty-five state normal schools of New England."

"The salary of the state normal school principals and other members of the faculties is that of the twenty-five state normal schools in New England look absurd."

IN MEMORIAM

Daniel Baldwin Parkinson, 1845-1923

More than half a century in distinguished service as a teacher—a half century of teaching one year in the teachers' college—is a record of altruistic service almost without a parallel. This was the distinction enjoyed by our beloved and lamented president emeritus, Dr. Parkinson. His connection with this institution began with its founding fifty years ago, and continued until failing health necessitated his retirement a year ago. He was the living embodiment of the ideals and worthy traditions of this great school. As a memorial of his beneficent influence and unselfish labors this institution is a noble fitting monument than any other that can be erected to this great and good man.

Dr. Parkinson was a great man, not as the world estimates greatness in material success, but great in his innate goodness and purity of soul, in his transparent simplicity of character, in his unwavering fidelity to high ideals of duty and service. Honors and applause he never sought, but distinguished recognition came to him many times as his just reward. The kindly, patient, tolerant Christian gentleman that he was made him often the victim of imputation, but no irritation ever tempted him to be other than a prince of courtesy and kindliness. His kindness was his most distinctive trait of character. He was a blessed immunity of influence. The many thousands of students whom he touched directly with the inspiration of upward influence, and the other thousands of persons whom he helped indirectly, extend the influence of his life in an ever widening circle. He was in the fullest sense a teacher who made teachers of those whom he taught, not alone in the classroom but in the daily walks of life. The inspiration of his own example was greater than the wisdom of his precepts. He is the select company of those immortal dead who live on in the enrichment of life.

ART APPRECIATION CLUB

The Art Appreciation Club held its first meeting of the year Thursday evening, October 4th. After the devotions, the president, Medrith Smith, stated in a brief way some of the purposes of the club. Miss Lois Favey then favored the club members with two very pleasing vocal solos. Miss Ina Tippett gave a reading which was very much enjoyed by the members. The Club has a number of definite plans which they intend to complete this year. A pin committee was appointed at the meeting and the club members are anxiously looking forward to the day when they will wear their A. A. pins.

The Club meets every two weeks on Thursday evening at 6:30 p. m. in the Scurry Hall. All those interested in furthering the Appreciation of Art are invited to become members of the club.

Y. M. C. A. CABINET MEETING

Last Saturday morning Ransom Sherrets took Dilla Hall, Edgar Booker and Fred Miller out car riding. Going as far as Cobden and then "dumping" them all out at the McGurke farm about eight miles south of Carbondale. Mr. Sherrets then returned to Carbondale for his second load, leaving his three passengers to explore the hills (hence the water melons). The second load, consisting of John and Wm. Keith, and Mr. Peace, state Y. M. C. A. secretary, arrived just in time for dinner.

Dinner was served in the open under some big shade trees. Hot wieners and coffee always taste good to hungry chaps. After dining the group went into session, discussing the work of the Y. M. C. A. and laying plans for the school year. Mr. Bunce, state Y. M. C. A. secretary of the southern division, joined the party at noon. Every one returned home feeling a great responsibility.

Come on now, we invite you to become a part of this great Y. M. C. A. movement.

Elmer Schuetz: "I want to buy some stamps."

P. O. Man: "How many do you want?"

Elmer: "How do you sell 'em?"

BEGIN BLDG. OF GYM IN MARCH

Gov. and Board assure S. I. N. U. President of Early Construction

Ground will be broken in preparation for the building of the S. I. N. U. $150,000 gymnasium early next spring, probably in March, was the report made to President Shroyer, October 4, when the S. I. N. U. executive and the president of the Normal at Normal Illinois met in conference with Governor Small and the Building Committee of the Board of Trustees at Springfield.

President Shroyer and Trustee Bridges of the S. I. N. U. returned home from the conference confident that building will begin as early in the spring as the weather will permit.

Hopes of seeing preparatory construction initiated this fall did not materialize.

FORUM ORGANIZES

The members of the Forum inaugurated an auspicious year at a recent business meeting. Among other things it was decided to change the time of the regular meetings from Saturday morning to Monday evening. Following are the officers that were elected:

President—W. H. Zahnow.
Vice-President—Lester Biford.
Secretary-Treasurer—Henry Marcum.

Chaplain—Clyde Stewart.
Editor—K. V. Kennedy.

The first regular meeting of this organization was held Monday evening, October 5th. The question for debate was: Resolved, that the products of science are greater than those of art. The resolution was upheld by K. V. Kennedy and Henry Marcum and opposed by Jesse Hirsh and Clyde Harress. A short business session followed the program.

The increase in interest in the purpose of the Forum's fortunate. It is a mark of the growing tendency to take advantage of the opportunities which this organization affords in the mastery of debating. The Forum specialized in formal speaking by having debates on set questions at stated intervals in which, at various times, all members participate. Side by side with this feature is the informal discussion and exchange of ideas on matters of common interest. Live topics of every kind are brought on the platform to the mutual benefit of all.

"There is something peculiar about ideas," one man has said. "You have three ideas. I have two: we get together; each gives his ideas to the other, and when we separate we each have five.

Visit the Forum at its next meeting and decide to become a member.

Not Guilty

The owner of an estate on which there was a lake was annoyed to see a stranger fishing on his grounds. He approached the trespasser and began to abuse him.

"This lake," he said, "is private-owned, and I stocked it myself. You must go away at once."

"Just a minute, sir," said the fisherman calmly. "What did you stock the lake with?"

"Trespass," was the answer. "And I won't have—"

"That's all right, sir," said the trespasser unconcernedly. "I'm fishing for pickerel."

Zackly Right

A traveling salesman from the North, while spending a few days in Atlanta recently on business, decided he would like to try a little of the local moonshine, about which he had heard so much. With very little difficulty he secured a pint of the "white lightning" and retired to his own room to sample it. One taste was all it took. It was a particularly villainous decoction. He did not care to throw it away, so he presented it to an old darky who had been driving him about the city.

The next day he asked the old negro how he liked the liquor.

"Boss, it was Zackly right. Yes, sir, it was just Zackly right."

"What do you mean by just exactly right?"

"Well, suh," said the darky, "it was just zackly right, cause if it had a been any better, you wouldn't 'a give it to me at all. If it had a been any worse, I couldn't 'a drank it.

Mrs. Newbyed: "Did you tell your parents that you married for my money?"

Mr. Newbyed: "I'm self-defence."

William: "Can we squeeze in here?"

"Just a Matter of Width"

The portly Irishman waddled into the shop.

"What can I do for you, sir?" asked the salesman.

"Oh, want a motor car," said the Irishman. "A first-class automobile."

"Is it for yourself, sir?"

"Sure, ye're inquisitive, but if ye must know, tis for me wife."

"Long body, sir?"

"Listen to the man!" exclaimed Pat. "Long body? Begorra, no! She's built like a barrel, same as me. But pushes that to do with it?"

Observer: "Your team looks right in practice, but do you think you could face the enemy with an un-ruffled front?"

Mr. Warren: "Certainly: we're not going to wear ruffles on our униvse."

MAROONS PRIMED FOR SESSER ATH.

To Meet Strong Pro Club Here
Friday—Benton, Cheer Leader

After four weeks strenuous training, the Maroon Mac is ready to unleash his Maroon warriors against the strong Sesser Athletics here Friday afternoon. As a team the eleven is yet green and inexperienced but the results of good coaching and hard training are manifest and the team will be well groomed for its maiden battle.

The calling of next Friday's game will initiate what promises to be the most successful grid year experienced by the Maroons in several seasons. The wealth of material presages the development of the best collegiate team in the southern section of the state.

The Macmen are out for a victory over their first foe, but they will find the Sesser aggregation a hard nut to crack. Sesser holds an advantage over the Maroons, in that they are experienced, having played already this season and their team for the most part is one that has played together for the past three or four years.

Sesser met defeat Oct. 7 when Harrisburg roamed over them for a 13-6 score. Sesser played a pepless game the first half and Harrisburg scored two touchdowns, the way for both being paved by the interceptions of forward passes. The Harrisburg Register says, "The last half saw Sesser hitting her true stride and our boys couldn't score again. In fact they had their hands full to keep the husky visitors from scoring."

Everett Benton, Cheer Leader

Everett Benton '24 has been chosen to pep up the spectators on the Normal grid at all the home games this year. A football field without rooters is like a cracker without cheese and "Judhead" Benton has the honor of coaxing earthy and unearthly noises and yells from the mummies that will dot the sidelines. No, that doesn't mean all the spectators. Gee, no! most of them will yell their heads off if there wasn't any "Judhead" or any other kind of head out in front trying to keep in time with their area for blood and maunching.

"We possess a real team, let's also possess a real mob of roosters. When the team comes trotting out on the field Friday afternoon and the band strikes up the first rowing note of our school loyalty, all you "eggheads" doff your skyscapes and give 'em a rowing cheer to start them off on a successful season. And then don't forget to pay attention to the antics of the cheer leader down in front and when the boys ring up some yardage cough and hum hollering their praise. And when they lose a yard..."
