Morris Defends Housing, Vehicle Rules in Letter

A defense of SIU’s newly tightened restrictions on unsupervised housing and motor-vehicle rules for single undergraduates will go to parents in the form of a letter from SIU President Delyte W. Morris.

The letter is in reply to “complaints that they are taking away our trailers, our apartments, and our motorcycles at Southern Illinois University.”

The letter identifies “they” as the administration and Board of Trustees who are responsible for “washing up more than 60 million dollars a year in order that 25,000 young men and women can further their educations.”

Morris said it was “logi­cal decision” by the SIU Board of Trustees to include motor­cycles in the regulations restricting student use of motor­cycles and that the decision was communicated well in ad­vance of the beginning of fall term.

“At first the motorcycle memorandum was merely an ex­tension of the bicycle, the traditional method of trans­portation for students. Then the sound of ambulance sirens was heard with increasing frequency. There were injur­ies and deaths,” Morris said.

“There was another jarring note in the sound of cycle exhaust as the number of motorcycles seemed to engender a certain responsibility among students which sent them roaming off through the night, neglecting the stake you as parents and taxpay­ers had invested in their edu­cation,” Morris continued.

One year given early this term for proper motorcycles under the same restrictions as cars for single undergradu­ates was the mobility shown by students on cycles during the disturbances in June.

Morris assured parents that the Housing Office will assist any student in finding approved living centers at a cost with­out losses.

“There seems to be a mis­taken idea that the only ac­tion the University could take was to enforce the safety, sanitation and educational standards for students living in dormitories away from the home,” Morris said.

“Many dormitory complexes, both on- and off-campus, provide the safety, sanitation and educational standards for students living in dormitories away from the home,” Morris said.

“However, there is a need for more student re­sponsibility in matters re­lated to student welfare and University decisions on all levels.”

It was also mentioned that “there is no reason for any student now enrolled to feel insecure if this primary reason for attending the Uni­versity is to obtain an edu­cation.”

Morris and other University officials have several meetings to attempt to clear misunderstandings of student living conditions, and they are hopeful that the confusion will be cleared.

Editors note: As the dust begins to settle in the wake of the furor created by recent housing restrictions, there is some question as to why and who is affected by the new policies.

The Daily Egyptian will present in a four-part series some of the answers.

During recent years there has been a proliferation of large multimillion dollar dormitories in Carbondale. Most of these are owned wholly or in part by large outside in­terests.

As recently as 1963, SIU suffered from an acute housing shortage. Business, like na­ture, abhors a vacuum. And when the University appealed to the business interests to invest in Carbondale, the building boom was on.

The town is dotted with large dormitories that run the gamut of services and luxurious prices.

The fall of 1966 at SIU is marked by the end of the World War II baby boom, a war that left a nation that is trying to invest in dormitories, Budget.

Protest Rally Proposed At Student Meeting

Six main proposals were presented at a meeting Monday evening of students interested in the recent housing and vehicle rules made by the University.

One of the main proposals was student use of the gymnasium. There is a movement coming to the realization that the gymnasium be set aside for the University. There is a movement coming to the realization that the gymnasium be set aside for the University.

There are many reasons for this movement, including the need for more student re­sponsibility in matters re­lated to student welfare and University decisions on all levels.

Registration Stickers Stolen From Vehicles of Students

There has been an unex­pected number of registration stickers stolen from vehicles during the first two weeks of the term, according to Thomas L. Leffler, head of the Security Office.

Leffler said most of the stickers stolen were taken from motorcycles. About 25 stickers were taken, of which 24 were student registration permits.

If a student brings a motorcycle on cam­pus with a stolen permit on it, "we’ll get him," said Leffler. He said the campus police will begin to check vehicles for stickers Monday.

In other matters, Leffler said there was been less strip­ping of motorcycles or bike thefts in the past, particularly since the large number of bikes appeared on campus.

September rainfall in Car­bondale has exceeded the average for the month.

According to records at the Carbondale Sewerage Disposal Plant, rainfall this month has totaled 4.08 inches.

The SIU Climatology Lab­oratory lists the average September rainfall at 3.71 inches. The wettest September, 9.28 inches, was in 1945, and the dries, .09 of an inch was in 1928.

Food Escalation, U-Center Style

In one respect, the University made a wise choice by accepting the bid of International Food Corp. to handle the food concessions in the University Center.

On the other hand, prices for the food to be served should have been reviewed in advance to see if they would increase to any appreciable amount.

Granted, so far, the food has been excellent. But who wants to pay "crowd Desky" prices for "Howard Johnson" food? As the saying goes, you have to pay more for something that's better.

In many cases, students have perhaps an hour in which to eat lunch before going back to class. The only place close was the University Center.

When do you stop International Food is shooting for, students, and others alike, should be taken into consideration before prices are set.

School Teacher Discovers New Reading Technique

Fast Reading Ineffective Without Good Comprehension

"Reading is a waste of time, slow or fast, if you don't understand what you are reading," stated Evelyn Wood at a recent teacher's conference. "If you aren't comprehending, you aren't reading." Mrs. Wood was critical of skimming techniques, commonly used in speed reading courses and informed her teachers that to increase comprehension at the same time they are achieving high speeds. She said, "Skipping words is dangerous, as you can't tell whether or not you have skipped a word which could change the whole meaning of the sentence. You read five times faster, not by reading every fifth word, but by reading five times as many words in the same amount of time. "It is impossible to tell which words to skip or disregard until you have seen them all and determined their relative importance and meaning."

"I didn't invent fast reading, I just discovered it." These words of Evelyn Wood sum up the history of development of the Wood method. It was Mrs. Wood's discovery, 20 years ago, of the 6,000-word-per-minute reading speed of her professor at the University of Utah that triggered today's overwhelming interest in fast reading. Mrs. Wood's curiosity caused her to look for other exceptional readers and over the next two years, she found 50 people who could read faster than 1,500 words per minute, with fine comprehension, outstanding recall and great satisfaction in reading. She was now sure it was possible to read faster than anyone had thought, but the question of how these people did it was not yet answered.

Dr. Robert Hutchins, former President of the University of Chicago, and founder of the great books program, once said, "To destroy our Western civilization, we won't have to burn all the books. We merely have to leave them unread for one generation." The principal problem we have to face today, as the frontiers of human knowledge are being thrust back, is that this knowledge is being compiled to print, and it must be read before it can be used. Advances have been made in almost every field of human endeavor. We run faster, fly higher, and dive deeper, but we still read at the same speed that our grandparents did; 300 words per minute. The shame of it is that this is no longer necessary. The whole philosophy of learning could be changed if every person in this country would take the time to use his dormant capabilities. No industry could use the same standards and techniques it used 25 years ago and expect to continue in existence. Yet we remain committed to the same old reading standards and techniques and would be fine if there were no better. "There is nothing in this world so powerful as an idea whose time has come." And this is just such an idea. Some day our national survival may depend on how well we are able to utilize our greatest resource, the minds of our young people. The "New Math" was first published in very much its present form in the 1890's. Do we have to wait 70 years for each valuable new concept to gain acceptance? Nor if we can help it!

Senator Talmadge
Georgia

"It is my opinion that if these techniques were instituted in the public and private schools of our country, it would be the greatest single step which can be taken in educational progress.

Conventional rapid reading courses expire in 450-600 words per minute. Most reading dynamics graduates can read between 1,500 and 3,000 words per minute, and many go even higher.

"Half a Sixpence" Is Bright Mixture Combining Songs, Comedy, Dances

By Pam Gleason

Take one old-fashioned script, mix liberally with lively songs sung in a Cockney accent, add lots of enthusiasm, and you've got "Half a Sixpence," the first in a series of productions for the SIU Celebrity Series. The musical was presented twice Saturday night by the touring Theatre, Inc. It is based on H. G. Wells' story "Kipps."

The play tells a simple tale of a young clerk in a drapery emporium who comes into money, lives high and then loses his money. Arthur Kipps, the clerk, is played by Kenneth Nelson. Nelson uses all his singing, acting and dancing talents to win sympathy for the spritely Arthur, who always seems to be getting himself in a bit of a jam. And the rest of the cast followed suit. Even though they were working in a cramped space, their dances and stage movements were lively and looked spontaneous.

Besides Kipps, fondly referred to as Artie by his friends in the emporium and his girl Ann, other members of the cast included Shalford, the shop owner, whose by-words were "efficiency, system economy." Helen Walsingham, the society girl who does her best to marry Kipps; and Chitterlow, an unemployed actor and playwright who radically changes Kipps' life twice.

Kipps' fellow workers in Shalford's Emporium include Buggins, Pearce and Sid Porridge, brother of Ann. Along with Kipps they lament that their boss is so tight that he "sends them to church to save his soul."

Just such old-fashioned musical comments as this keep the show lively and moving without de-scending into the realm of "corn."

Even though orphaned and poor, Artie decides to marry Ann, and as a token of his love cuts a sixpence in half, commenting that at least it's better than a penny or a farthing.

Shortly after this Chitterlow bursts on the scene, carrying Kipps half way across the emporium on the handlebars of a run-away bicycle.

He further shakes Kipps up by announcing that he has just come into a fortune—£1,200 a year. Artie immediately goes high hat, and decides to become a "proper gentleman."

To do so includes marrying Miss Walsingham, and he almost does, stopping only at the last minute when he hears a society matron berating Ann, who is working as her maid. As always, the hero comes to his senses and marries Ann instead. But soon afterwards he finds that Miss Walsingham's brother (a smooth-talking villain) has speculated all his fortune away and left the country.

Even though "the system caught up with him," just as his friend Buggins had warned, Kipps decided to make the best of everything.

He and Ann buy a book shop and are living quite happily when suddenly Chitterlow comes bursting in again, this time to announce that his play which Kipps backed is a smashing success.

The play goes on to end happily, the only possible way for a play set in England during the 90s to end.

Although the dialogue moves rapidly, the brightest spots of the musical are the songs themselves, from "Half a Sixpence" to "Flash Bang Wallaby," a complaint about the ways of photographers.

This last number is perhaps the liveliest in the show. It combines the talents of both singers and dancers in a musical comment on the way photographers are always asking for just one more shot to "stick in your family album."

The costumes and sets also deserve praise. The sets were based on a revolving center set and a front and back curtain, and the costumes looked authentic, down to the last button, bow and bit of braid. As with many other things English, it seems that "Half a Sixpence" will be just as popular nationally as it is in New York.
INEZ LASHES BAHAMAS

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) - Coastal residents of Grand Bahama Island huddled with tourists in luxury Freeport hotels Monday night as gale force winds and torrential rains from Hurricane Inez lashed the resort.

Tourists continued gambling at the Lucayan Beach Hotel casino while the hurricane thrashed closer. The U.S. Weather Bureau said it was expected to gain strength before battering the northern Bahamas.

The storm's gale force winds uprooted trees and damaged many of the fragile homes that house most of the island's 20,000 natives.

Costal regions were flooded and emergency electricity supplies were set up to serve the island's only hospital, Grand Bahama Clinic, if Inez cuts off regular power.

The island's two largest hotels - The Lucayan Beach and the Holiday Inn - are located on Freeport's south shore, close to ominously rising tides. But they are more solid than most private homes and many local residents checked into the hotels for the storm's duration.

By lunchtime, most stores and offices had closed. An English-type pub, however, went on serving pints of beer into the night as customers casually played darts.

Freeport, a multimillion-dollar creation built during the past five years, boasts luxury hotels, casion, lavish apartment buildings and fancy shops. It has a permanent population of 15,000.

All flights into and out of Grand Bahama were canceled, and Nassau Airport was closed.

Grand Bahama authorities said they were worried about flying debris from the island's many construction projects.

Inez had top winds of 85 miles an hour near her center, gusts whistled out 150 miles to the northeast and 50 miles to the southwest of the storm's center.

Her movement - although generally northward - was erratic and the Weather Bureau raised gale warnings along the Southeast Florida coast from Stuart to Key Large.

A sudden lurch to the west could still send Inez smashing into Miami, weathermen warned.

Georgia Nominee Withdraws Rather Than Vote for Maddox

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) - Rep. Charles L. Weltner, in a startling move, withdrew Monday as the Democratic nominee for a third congressional term rather than vote for Lester C. Maddox, arch segregationist who won the party nomination for governor.

"I will give up my office before I give up my principles," said Weltner. He said he could not keep a pledge required of Democratic candidates to vote for party nominees in the general election.

"I cannot compromise with hate," he said. "I cannot vote for Lester Maddox."

"Today, the one man in our state who exists as the very symbol of violence and oppression for the Democratic nominee for the highest office in Georgia," Weltner said.

"His entire public career is directly contrary to my deepest convictions and beliefs. And while I cannot violate my oath, neither can I violate my principles. Therefore, I am withdrawing as the Democratic nominee for the House of Representatives."

Percy Will Reactivate Campaign

CHICAGO (AP) — The senatorial campaign organization of Republican Charles H. Percy, which virtually closed down after the slaying of Percy's daughter, Valerie, 21, Sept. 18, is being reactivated. Some 30 storefront headquarters around the state are to be reopened Wednesday.

At the main office in Chicago, an aide said that Percy and his family, who have been in seclusion since the tragedy, were expected to return from the West Coast in midweek.

Sen. Paul H. Douglas, the Democratic incumbent whom Percy opposes in the Nov. 8 election, has been marking time in his campaign pending resumption of activities by Percy.

Top aides of Percy were reported busy today conferring with regional and local campaign leaders, and Percy, himself, was reported to have been in telephone communication with Thomas J. Hounse, his campaign manager.

A number of tentative speaking appointments have been lined up for dates in the near future, but, a spokesman said, nothing can be called official yet.

The investigation into the killing of Valerie by an unknown intruder in the Percy's Kenilworth home will get Percy's attention immediately after his return home. Chief of Police Robert M. Daley said he wants to confer with Percy on a number of aspects of the case. The Percy campaign is expected to re-start with a formal news conference at which the candidate will outline plans, probably late this week.

The two-man Senate race attracted a late-starting third contender today when Mayor Robert Sabonjian of Waukegan announced he will seek a seat in the Democratic party.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower said today if he were in the White House he would not automatically preclude the use of nuclear weapons to win the war in Viet Nam.

"I would do anything that would bring the war to an honorable solution as rapidly as I could," Eisenhower said.

But Eisenhower said he was implying no criticism of the way President Johnson is directing the U.S. effort.

When a reporter asked about nuclear weaponry, Eisenhower recalled his own experience as president during the Korean War.

"I never threatened openly to use the weapons there," Eisenhower said. But he also said it was never openly ruled out either.

"You would not automatically preclude the use of nuclear weapons," the reporter asked.

"I would not automatically preclude anything," Eisenhower said.

Market Continues Downward; Lowest Closing Since 1963

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market took another jolting loss Monday and the closely watched Dow Jones industrial average fell below its previous 1966 bottom, closing at its lowest level since late 1963.

Multi-point losses were taken by many of the high-flying stocks which were most glamorous early this year when the Dow industrials were climbing toward their record close of 995.15, with the legendary "Dow 1,000" a virtual certainty.

The drop was the greatest since July 25 when the average fell 16.32.

Convocations Series to Offer
"The World of Carl Sandburg"

The Ramapo Readers will present "The World of Carl Sandburg" at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. Thursday in Shryock Auditorium in the University Convocations Series.

Jim Naismith, actor-director, formed the professional group to give his drama students a change of pace from their normal schedule and to provide experience working with professional people.

In addition to Naismith, the group is composed of Ruth Yorke and Thomas France. Naismith, who also is director of the College Barn Players of Rockland Community College, Suffern, N.Y. has found three functioning theaters and produced over 50 productions in the last eight years.

He began acting at age 18 when he toured the country with "Junior Miss. Naismith's performance with the Ramapo Readers, he says, fulfills his wish to tour again with a vital and significant play.

France, who joined the company of the College Barn Players' Association last summer, possesses a folk-singing style which is described as being direct, warm and sincere.

Miss Yorke, who attended Rheinishardi Seminar in Vienna, appeared in such Broadway productions as "Morning Star," "Parnell," "Plumes In the Dust" and "All the Living."

In addition, she has performed on television and radio for the past 20 years.

The name of the convocations series was changed this fall from Freshman Convocations to the University Convocations Series. The required number for credit has been lowered from nine to six.

The program Oct. 13 will feature Emme Kemp, a jazz singer.
Dorm Investors Here Suffer; Housing Shortage Over Hump

major cause was the large number of students living in unsupervised housing.

Owen Hunsingr, resident manager of the Saluki Dorn group and president of the SIU Householders Association, agreed with Johnston that the major cause of the vacancies was due to the number of students living in unsupervised housing.

Hunsinger reported that the Saluki Dorns were filled. The vacancy rate in some private dorms, though reached as high as 80 per cent.

Johnston, in emphasizing the plight of some dorms, said, "the operational break-even point is very near full occupancy. Consequently, we have to fill the dorms to turn a profit."

The householders say they feel it is not the University's obligation to fill the off-campus dorms. They do maintain, however, that if there is a rule governing approved housing, the University should enforce it.

Johnston said the investors' decision to build in Carbondale was partially predicated on the regulation governing the approved undergraduate housing.

On whether there was any pressure applied Hunsinger said the SIU Householders Association as a group never threatened any legal action against the University if the regulations were not enforced. He said he was not aware if there was any individual action taken.

C. Richard Gruny, University legal counsel, said it is possible that a court could make the University enforce the regulations.

Referring to the building question on the part of investors, Johnston said he didn't feel building existed at present. He did say, however, that when SIU's new Brush Towers residence group opens, the problem could become acute, reaching the limits for the current enrollment.

In answering charges by some of the unapproved housing owners that big business and outside money was forcing out the little man, Johnston said:

"This is not the case. In the first place there was not adequate capital in the area to meet the housing needs. Building like this requires a huge investment, and there just wasn't the money here to do it."

Johnston also said the unapproved housing landlords did not have to meet University standards and could thus operate at a much lower overhead than the large dorms. Hunsinger, referring to the Householders Association, said there are a number of members that are small businessmen. He mentioned the three-and-four bed residence in the approved status.

Among the approved housing managers there was agreement that approved off-campus housing had reached the limits for the current enrollment.

They felt tighter regulations of undergraduate students will ease the problem, but would not predict whether an equitable arrangement, if one is arrived, would be permanent.

Tomorrow: Unapproved Housing.

Engineers Sponsoring Coffee Hour Tuesday

The event has been scheduled to acquaint all prospective pre-engineering students with club members.

Peace Corps Vets Will Speak at Creative Insights

This week's Creative Insights program will feature five returned Peace Corps volunteers who will show slides of the countries in which they served. The program is set for 7 p.m. in Activities Room C of the University Center.

The volunteers will be at SIU Oct. 3-8 to recruit students for the Peace Corps. They will administer a language aptitude test and set up a display in Activities Room B of the University Center.

Paul A. Schillp, professor of philosophy, will speak on "Ethical Implications of the Space Age" at the Sunday Seminar at 8 p.m. in the new student lounge on the second floor of the University Center.

Peace Corps Vets will speak at Creative Insights.

Yearbook Receives All-American Award

SIU's 1966 Obelisk has received the All-American Honor Rating award, the highest award given to a college yearbook.

This is the fifth time the Obelisk has received the honor since the yearbook first earned the All-American award in 1960, according to William M. Rice, fiscal sponsor for the Obelisk.

The yearly contest is judged by the Associated Collegiate Press at the University of Minnesota.

The Obelisk falls into the category of yearbooks produced by colleges of more than 15,000 enrollment.

No total number of All-American awards given this year was available, but Rice said that the SIU yearbook received 7,290 points. The All-American yearbook with the least number of points received 7,100, he said.

Yearbooks were judged on quality of writing and editing, picture content and thoroughness of coverage.

"There was very little the judges didn't like in the Obelisk," Rice said.

According to Collegiate Press Judge Benjamin W. Allnutt, "Editors and staff have done their job well. They have produced a fine record of the year, one of which they and the University may be proud."

SIU Classrooms, Laboratories
Operating On 61-Hour Week

Classrooms and laboratory-ners at SIU operate on a six-day, 65-hour week and "not like it that way."

"It has been a happy marriage of convenience and necesity," says President Delye W. Morris, "Convenience to students whose college at-tendence depends upon establishing blocks of hours in which to work, and necessity to gain maximum use of facilities for a maximum number of students. The working students—approximately 7,000 of them each year—need the added income; we need their services; and the people of Illinois need the additional classroom spaces thus provided."

Southern's maximum use of classroom space places it in the top one per cent of the nation's public degree-granting institutions, according to calculations in the manual
"Studies of Space Utilization in Colleges and Universities."
The University also ranks at the top of Illinois public universities with an average classroom use of 39.92 hours a week. The Illinois State Board of Higher Education suggests a standard of 30 hours a week for classroom use, based on 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. scheduling week.

"Forty-three per cent of the classes at the University's Edwardsville campus meet after 5 p.m.,” Morris said.
"This enables residents of the populous St. Clair-Madison Counties area to work full-time during a regular work week and as commuters to pursue degree-earning studies through regular evening attendance.

Football Preparation Includes Loving Care for Turf on Field

By Bob Forbes

The turf of McAndrew Stadium, where football Salukis do battle with invaders, gets tender, loving care between games.

Most football fans are aware of the sweat and toil a football player exerts every week to prepare himself for the "big game." On Saturday nights, but few people realize the effort that must be made to ready the "gridiron" before the opening kickoff.

According to Ralph D. Carter, assistant superintendent of buildings and grounds at SIU, the turf at McAndrew Stadium must have special care and consideration before each game.

McAndrew Stadium, erected in 1938, is at least 20 years older than the present turf on which Saluki footballers do battle.

"About five or six years ago the field was resurfaced," said Carter. "We dug up four or five inches of dirt and refilled the field with sand and sawdust. After this the turf was sodded and fertilized," said Carter, who explained that the resurfacing was done to make the turf softer.

Work begins on the football field in the spring with an application of fertilizer, and ends in the fall with another coating of the fertilizing agent. Field grooming procedures begin a few weeks before the opening football game and are continued until the Salukis end their season in late November.

"One man is assigned to the field in early spring and takes care of most of the work until the end of the season," said Carter. "None of the field markings or any of the stadium maintenance is done by the groundskeeper," Carter explained. "His (the groundskeeper's) only job is to keep the field in top condition," he said.

Nearly every Monday and Friday during football season, the groundskeeper is perched atop a big lawnmower, cutting the grass to a level of approximately 2 3/4 inches. After the delicate mowing, a gadget known as the aerolathe is used to remove all of the cut grass. This ride the field of any loose grass or foreign objects which might hamper the running of a swift halfback or blocking of a rugged tackle.

"Our main concern is fungus, rust and foreign weeds, but our biggest problem is keeping the players from scrumming on the field before a game," he said. "We always seem to have a bare spot around the goal line," said Carter, who explained that the Salukis like to practice their goal-line defense on the playing field instead of on the practice ground.

Various types of insecticides are used to remove the fungus and weeds which would destroy the turf in a short time, if left unattended, said Carter. "We have to watch the grass closely for foreign weeds," he said.

After a tough beating through the football months, the field is resseeded with Kentucky bluegrass and given a rest until the next spring. Then the pounding of football shoes and the rugged action of collegiate football once again summon the services of the groundskeeper, who must begin the ritual of maintenance and beautification for another season.

ROUGH GOING—Saluki ballcarrier Barcley Allen (16) finds the Drake defense rough as he tried to gain yardage Saturday for SIU. The Drake defense proved strong throughout the game as it limited the Salukis to one touchdown. The Bulldogs downed SIU 30-7. The Bulldogs displayed a strong passing game, completing 23 of 40 passes.

Drake Passes Crush Salukis

An unstoppable passing duo and a disastrous third period spelled defeat in a big way for the Salukis at Des Moines Saturday afternoon.

The Drake Bulldogs parlayed the passes of quarter-back Ron Royer and the catches of Manley Sarnowski for a 30-7 victory. These two teamed up for 154 of Drake's 298 passing yards on 13 completions.

Sarnowski, a 6 foot 3, 215-pound senior, proved unstoppable to the Saluki defense. He used his size to snare Royer's short aerials and run over and around the Southern defenders.

Royer threw six consecutive completions to Sarnowski once and five straight another time, Drake scored in the first and second quarters for a 14-0 lead.

The Salukis marched 80 yards late in the second period for what proved to be their only score. The score was 14-7 at the half, but Drake put things out of reach in the third stanza. Southern only had the ball for nine plays in that period and could gain no yardage.

Drake, meanwhile, scored on a Sarnowski field goal and a Royer to Sarnowski pass to take a 17 point lead into the final period.

The Bulldogs added another touchdown early in the final period and handed the game to the reserves.

The Salukis did not look as bad statistically as they did on the scoreboard. Southern outgained Drake rushing 157 to 70 yards, but the Bulldogs' 298 to 126 yards edge through the air gave them a total of 366 yards to Southern's 283. Drake completed 23 of 40 passes and the Salukis hit on 13 of 28 tries.

Southern gained plenty of yardage, but couldn't move the ball on third down. On the other hand, Drake didn't face too many third down situations early in the game. They found a weakness in the size of the Saluki defensive backs and exploited it time and again with passes to Sarnowski. Sarnowski showed the ability to run with the ball whenever he gathered it in.

Quarterback Wally Agnew suffered a concussion in the third and didn't return. Halfback Bill Bazzard injured his ankle late in the game and was also removed.

Efforts for Soccer Team Having Limited Success

By Bill Kindt

A group of SIU students who meet on Sunday afternoons to play soccer have been attempting to get a university soccer team organized, but their efforts have had only limited success.

The idea started two years ago when a group of primarily foreign students got together one Sunday afternoon and thought of forming a SIU soccer team. The Department of Athletics has installed goals and made a playing field for the players, but the idea of forming a regular team has not yet gotten off the ground.

Frank Lumsden, a spokesman for the group, says, "We have a lot of boys here who are real good soccer players and really want to play the game on a team competition basis.

"We have connected St. Louis University and they would like to play us," said Lumsden.

St. Louis is the defending NCAA soccer champions.

Another member of the group, Lanzo Hamley, says, "We would like the sport on a team basis, but even if the University started an intramural competition in soccer it would be better than the present situation."

Donald Boydston, director of athletics, says, "We would encourage any group to participate in sports such as soccer, but we don't have the facilities or the money to support these sports on the varsity level."

So it seems that while soccer may be on the boom in other areas of the country, SIU will lag behind because of the lack of money.

"These guys want to play so badly that they are just about ready to finance the team themselves," said Lumsden.

That may be exactly what this group will have to do in order to make a team out of a bunch of men getting together on Sundays to have fun and exercise.

Flag Football Officials Have Meeting Today

A meeting for flag football officials is scheduled today at 4:15 p.m. in the intramural office, Glenn "Abe" Martin, head of intramural athletics, has announced.

Los Angeles (AP) — The strong arms of Sandy Koufax, Don Drysdale and Claude Osteen were the key to Los Angeles Dodgers the 8-5 favorites over the hard-battling Baltimore Orioles in the World Series, opening Wednesday at Dodger Stadium.

Orioles Manager Hank Bauer named Dave McVay, a 33-year-old left-hander with a 1-0 record, to open for the American League champions who had almost two weeks to prepare for the big test before clinching the AL pennant.

Kansas City Beats Saluki Harriers

Oscar Moore set a new course record, but the Salukis still fell before powerful Kansas State 23-24 in a dual cross-country meet at Kansas State University.

Moore's time for the three-mile run was 14:12.

Coach L. W. Harrington was well pleased with his Salukis, even in defeat.

"All the boys ran extremely well against the defending Big Eight champions who have earned back from last season," said Harrington.

The Salukis also set the new record 4:44.2 for each mile.

College Master Policyholder of the Week

Shrine Game Rescheduled

Time for Saturday's Shrine Game has been changed to 2:30 p.m. from the originally scheduled 7:30 p.m. kickoff. A paramilitary band and military bands will be in attendance.

Time changes were necessitated by failure of the Stadium lights' facilities, which cannot be repaired before the game.

Minutes ago, the Saluki's opponent will be Youngstown. The Penguins will be looking for their first win this year. They are giving an 0-2 record into the contest, which is the second meeting between the two teams. Youngstown won last year's battle, 9-7.

This year the Penguins have tied in Michigan and lost to Morehead State, 21-12, and Lincoln, 12-7.

From the game two special scholarships will be given to SIU. Almost $12,000 has been raised for this purpose since the start of the annual game.
