Lowell O'Daniell Is Voted 'Ugliest Man'

Lowell O'Daniell, junior from Chicago, was voted the 1951-52 campus 'Ugliest Man' today. Maybe not by nature, Lowell asserts, but at least voting in the Red Cross ugliest man contest gave that result. O'Daniell received 1,923 votes to receive the first place mug in a special assembly held Thursday morning.

O'Daniell received 413 votes more than his closest competitor, fraternity brother Sam Eubanks. Other men in the top five were Jim Walker with 720, Lou Waters with 534, and Angie Schwartz with 436.

Pat Randle acted as master of ceremonies in the assembly. Nu Epsilon Alpha presented their version of a spring show to open the assembly. Other variety acts featured were Jo Ann Schrodt-Jim Trigg with record performances, Lila Leonard, Chuck White, and dance routine featuring Cecil Franklin, Libby Mars and Helen Leonard.

The entire proceedings of the Ugliest Man contest went to the Red Cross, as did proceeds taken in at the assembly.

The World Student Service Fund will benefit from all aspects of the Spring Festival this year. The Festival steering committee previously voted to donate half the proceeds of the 1951 affair to the association. The World Student Service Fund is a globe-wide organization, for the benefit of students all over the world.

With such a purposeful organization receiving proceeds, our receipts this year from the Vaudeville Show will possibly exceed those of last year," said Jim Trigg, co-chairman of the vaudeville show committee.

NINE ACTS have already been approved by the committee for the Spring Festival this year. Clean Cups, Please

SIU's Canteen performs a real service to students and faculty, in that it serves meals at economical prices, and provides a handy place to stop for a coke before, between and sometimes during classes.

We realize that with the constant turnover of customers, it is impossible to keep close check on every little detail, but we do think that a greater effort could be made to see that coffee cups are washed thoroughly after they are used, and that they are presented to customers free of lipstick stains or any other evidences of hasty washing.

We have heard several students comment about this situation, and have noted the same thing ourselves. It isn't very appetizing, or sanitary, to be confronted with someone else's "pink peril" any other evidences of hasty washing.

New Feature

Next Friday's issue of The Egyptian will feature a new series of caricatures of Southern faculty members and well-known students by artist Bill Plater. No identification of the person will be made in the Friday issue, and the answer will be given in the following Tuesday's Egyptian.

We won't say that any resemblance of the sketch to any person living or dead, is entirely coincidental, but rather that the opinion of the cartoonist does not necessarily reflect that of the editor.

Dedication

By Bob Cooper

Luck may be good, or may be bad, Or may be in-between; But be wary of the mixture Of Friday and Thirteen.

"Ah, there goes a man," the men would say, "No luckier man can be seen. Ah, I envy the very footsteps Of Quincy Cadwallader Bean!"

But little did the populace know Of the terrible jinx so mean That tormented the life so mercilessly Of Quincy Cadwallader Bean.

It all began on a dark, dreary day On January, Friday Thirteen, When a careless stork accidentally dropped Quincy Cadwallader Bean.

Except for that faithful Friday 13th Life was extremely serene And fortune and fame were poured upon Quincy Cadwallader Bean.

But whenever that ominous day rolled around Namely, Friday Thirteen, Then life became unbearable for Quincy Cadwallader Bean.

As a baby he swallowed his teething ring, Which had a profound effect upon his spleen, This happened, of course, on Friday 13th To Quincy Cadwallader Bean.

Once he fell down and lost all his teeth, And once he created a scene By falling into an open manhole . . . Ahhh! Poor Quincy Cadwallader Bean.

He walked into an open elevator shaft (This, too, on Friday Thirteen) And once down 13 flights of stairs Fell Quincy Cadwallader Bean.

Though the rest of his life was quite pleasant, On every Friday Thirteen Terrible misfortune would befall Quincy Cadwallader Bean.

But today his worst blunder he made, On Friday, April Thirteen. Ahhh, sad indeed was the blow today to Quincy Cadwallader Bean.

For today Quincy struck a match in his car To see if he had any gasoline . . . This obituary is mournfully dedicated To Quincy Cadwallader . . . HAS-Bean.

Observation Window Is New Feature Of SIU Training School

Southern’s new training school will offer education majors something new in the art of observing classes.

Instead of sitting in the same room and staring openly at the professor, students will peer through a observation window into an adjoining room and without the pupils’ knowledge, will follow their actions in the classroom.

THIS IS accomplished by using a one-way glass which makes up a large portion of the wall separating the two rooms.

The observers can see and hear everything in the classroom but the students come face to face with their own image when their eyes try to penetrate the glass.

This glass will also be an advantage for the education teacher. Supervised observations in the classroom will be possible as a result of this modern equipment.

Southern Plans Outdoor Education Program Camp This Summer: Freeburg

Between 400 and 500 Southern Illinois University student workers are expected to attend the Southern Illinois University Outdoor Education program this summer which will be held at Little Grassy lake from June 11 to August 3.

Camp Director Dr. William R. Rodgers announced that in addition to wildlife management, field exploration, and survival training the camp program would include boating, swimming, camp craft, nature lore, archery, and other outdoor education exploration, work experience in the care and use of tools, and campfire programs.

The purpose of the camp is to train youth, it is to be conducted by members of the SIU staff. The camp will be open to all university students and will offer an opportunity for field training in such activities as biology, botany, wildlife, and fish culture. There are also thousands of acres of natural habitat available to be explored. All staff members are trained, experienced, and certified in their fields.

The Southern Illinois University museum now has collections totaling more than 12,500 items in the field of natural sciences. In the social sciences there are approximately 4,500 cultural objects and 2,000 bound volumes.

20 FROSH TAKE OVER TOP SLOTS IN TENNIS

By JIM TURPIN

Veteran tennis players are beginning to perk up and take notice of the 1951 tennis aspirants at Southern. Years have passed and nothing spectacular has happened with good players coming and going and causing great consternation, especially in their freshman year.

But this year a pair of twosomes will fly in the face of the form and write a new record of victories with many years of experience as their wingman. The boys, number one and two singles spot, are taking charge of co-captains Bob Barnhart and Jack Normia.

Stu Cooper and Omar Winter, both Carbondale freshmen, may not fare well in college competition at first, but with their hands agree that before they are Southerns, they will be tops.

Many watched as Cooper dropped Winter for the number one crown in the first set Monday afternoon. "Just luck," Stan said, "I'll probably beat me next time." And if past performances mean anything, he probably will. The duo has exchanged victories so many times that they have lost count.

Fam marveled at the graceful sport, known only to boys, plumbed elastics across the net. Winter being the aggressive with a high rating and Cooper being the defender with expertly placed shots to any spot on the court.

They may not win this year and they may not end up playing the number one and two spots, but before their four years are over people will say, "Watch those two kids. Cooper and Winter, they're the best."

The tennis team will travel to St. Louis Saturday, where they will face the St. Louis University in their initial match of the season. The team was originally scheduled to face Michigan this Eastern this week, but both matches were postponed.

Extension Course Totals Announced

More than 2,800 registrations have been made in SIU off-campus courses this year in a system which allows students part of their college education without so much as setting foot on campus.

They are taking some 84 graduate and undergraduate courses at 37 different centers in such towns as Ewing, Murphysboro, Centralia, Fairlaid, and Alton. Through this system, organized by Extension Service directors, students may complete as much as one-third of the hours necessary for either the bachelor's or master's degree.

CREDIT COURSES are just a part of the wide program of tuition directed by Dr. H. B. Day. In addition, there are some 53 courses offered under the directorship of the Vocational-Technical Institution.

According to Dr. Day, the number of off-campus credit courses has almost doubled during the past two years. Such courses are of great convenience to working students who wishes to work on a job and a degree at the same time.

INTRAMURALS

Softball and volleyball will take the intramural spotlight soon, according to Mr. E. J. Mann, intramural director John Corin.

It was announced that any team wishing to enter the volleyball tournament must send a representative to a manager's meeting in room 201 in the Men's Gym, Tuesday, April 17, at 4:30 p.m.

For those interested in softball, there will be a meeting the following day, April 18, at the same time and place. A few places will be filled prior to the respective tournaments, which will be run as double elimination contests.

The winning teams will be awarded either trophies or individual medals, according to Mr. Mann.

MAROON MANOR, winning team in the recent basketball tournney, was presented with first place medals.

The Southern Illinois Normal University was established in 1869. In 1947, it became a university and given its present name, Southern Illinois University.
