Dr. Anna Carol Pults will How To Succeed In Latin American Business - Just Try

American businessmen can succeed in Latin America if they really try, area businessmen, educators and government officials were told this week.

The method--have local stockholders, native managers, stay out of politics, use few non-Latino personnel and make sure all employees there speak Spanish.

That system apparently pays off, W. R. Grace & Co. didn’t lose a business by overproduction in 106 years of activity in Latin America.

"Castro broke our record two years ago in Cuba," John D. J. Moore, the firm’s executive vice president, said. "We have continued to push our products and keep on selling in Latin America.”

Dog Doesn’t Dig Determined Duo

A dog may be man’s best friend but the feeling is probably not mutual, as one campus dog is concerned.

Two students walking through Thompson Point Woods recently saw the tail and legs of a dog protruding from a trash receptacle. They thought it was the dog until they pulled him out. The dog didn’t seem to appreciate it.

The students wondered why they were looking into the trash can and uncovered a frightened squirrel in the bottom.

SIU - One-horse School? No! - Twenty

In SIU a cow college or a horse college? Will the days of horses and buggies return to southern Illinois? Will Bountiful beans take the place of parking lots?

University records failed to show any students with cows on campus, but at least 20 students are known to have horses in the Carbondale area. The problems of parking stickers and gasoline prices are outdated for horse lovers. Nowadays a major concern is the room and board for their equine friends.

Three university coeds who board horses in the area agree that horses are becoming a popular pastime.

"Southern Illinois is a good conditioning place," Salley Dimicelli, an animal industry major and Quarter horse owner from Elgin, said. "It gives the horses an opportunity to stretch and grow." Two education majors, Ann Schultz, of Columbia, and Judy Kehl, of Deerfield, share the "horsy duties," which can be a full-time job. Judy serves breakfast consisting of alfalfa hay and grain mixture while Ann puts on the evening feed and cleans the stalls. Ann says that it costs $150 a school year to feed and shelter Bountiful, her Arabian horse.

University students have a three equestrian pasts as well. Todd Justice, a senior English major, is the major concern is the room and board for their equine friends.

Pleasure riding in western gear is a popular pastime, but until recently, it was too expensive. Today, riding in western gear is almost a daily occurrence for Judy and Ann. Trail rides through the tourist spots of southern Illinois, such as Devil's Kitchen and Giant City, attract many horse enthusiasts.

Groups Plan Holy Week Functions

Campus religious foundations and organizations have announced special Easter season activities.

The Student Christian Foundation will sponsor a silent retreat at Camp Carey, Little Grass Lake, from 3 p.m. Saturday April 21 through 8 a.m. Sunday April 22. The silent retreat will be followed by an Easter Sunrise Service at Glencoe City State Park. Interested students may make their reservations ($10) to Friday, April 19th at the Student Christian Foundation. The Foundation will also feature a series of morning services from 7:15 through 7:45 during the week of April 16 - 21.

On Sunday, April 15, Canterbury House, the Episcopal Foundation, will sponsor a Lenten Quiet Evening beginning at 5:30 p.m. at the St. Andrews Episcopal Church. The evening will include meditation, supper, and a Canterbury meeting.

Kappa Phi, the Methodist girls service organization of the Wesley Foundation will sponsor a re-enactment of the Graduation School Extends Deadline

Deadline for Graduate School tuition award applications and foreign student award applications has been extended to April 29, according to Dean Willis G. Swartz of the Graduate School.

Separate forms are needed for the summer term and the 1962-63 school year. He added, "The foreign student office in the Graduate School will be open each Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoon during the absence of Mrs. Mary Wakeland April 15-30. An assistant will be available for information regarding tuition awards, immigration forms and summer work permits. Help for foreign students is available at the Graduate Office at all times.

Grades Only First Step Toward Those Sheepskins

One of the first "tests" an SIU education is put to, it appears, is going through the book of being graduated.

Initially, an application for graduation must be filed at the Registrar's office. Though the deadline for one application is May 23, the university recommends that it be submitted early in the student's final quarter. There are enough other things that must be done around May 23.

A $17 graduation fee must be turned in with the application—in most cases. Under some scholarships and educational laws, students do not need to pay the fee. The Registrar's office can supply additional information about this.

While undergraduates fill out one application, graduate students and individuals working for associate degrees must fill out two forms. One is submitted to the Registrar's office, and the other to either the Graduate School or Vocational Technical Institute.

Graduating seniors should fill out their names as they wish them to appear on their diploma on the IBM card sent to them by the Registrar Office. Extra cards are available at the Registrar Office.

The next step after submitting the applications is measurement for cap and gown. For this, the student must go to the University book store. If the student is not in residence the quarter before graduation, the cap and gown may be ordered by mail.

Information and instructions for graduation exercises will be mailed to each graduating senior by the Registrar's Office.

Approximately two weeks before graduation, the prospecitive graduate may obtain five copies of the graduation invitation. These, also, may be obtained by the student's book store and can be ordered by mail if the student is not in Carbondale.

The week before graduation, the student must complete and return a financial clearance slip to the Registrar's office. No diploma will be issued if a student has any financial obligation to the University.

To get a financial clearance slip, a student should be sure his record is clear with the library, textbook service, Placement service, Bussar's office and office of the director of Auxiliary Enterprises.

And, finally, there is commencement itself, which is compulsory.

What Conservative Trend?

LAST OF A SERIES

At Stanford University, Ron Rapoport, editor of the Stanford Daily, reports the "conservative element is making quite a bit of noise these days, but a great conservative 'movement' is hardly evident." "The same five or six names keep appearing on letters to the Daily and in conservative demonstrations to such an extent that we often wonder where the rest of them are. Stanford, as you may know, is a pretty wealthy campus in terms of the median income of the parents of its student body, so one could expect great waves of conservatives to drown the liberal element in the sheer weight of numbers. Such is absolutely not the case."

"In fact, a recent scandal within the Stanford Young Republican organization has uncovered that the 'great move toward conservatism' is a carefully cultivated myth."

As was pointed out at the outset of this brief look back a trend on our time," Regardless of whether it is a wave or a ripple, conservatism has scored many gains on the campus but just what is this political philosophy (supposedly) stornming our Universities?

The Editor of the Egyptian in his editorial on March 6 wonders, "just what is this new Conservatism?". Hapsburg in an article in National Review presents one of the finest descriptions of the conservative philosophy. "Conservatism reflects an attitude of mind that gives allegiance to enduring principles...it is founded on the recognition of God, and a belief in the natural laws of human liberty and...inalienable rights of man...": coupled with the views of the state only as it conduces to the preservation of the rights and collectivities within the state.

As it sounds, how does this apply to the everyday political life of the individual. Let us start on that note; that you are an individual and you have certain rights that cannot be transgressed or limited in a free society, among the most important rights is freedom of the economy. The government in the economy should be limited to the issuance of regulatory policies and of stamps. Banking and the market economy should be untouched in its work, so that efficient allocation of goods and resources can take place.

The most important right that we have is that of political freedom. The Conservative believes that this freedom can exist only through the separation of powers in the republican form of government. When one branch of our government gains a preponderance of power, it is inherent that there will be subsequent concentration and abuse of that power, closely coupled with the right of political freedom is correct form of our foreign policy.

Not only is it a rational assumption but it is also an established fact that the foreign policy of 103 nations of the world serve the national interests of each of those states. So it must be with the United States. No policy can be justified unless it serves the national interests. Might I add that it is now in the national interest to eradicate the Marxist-Leninist doctrine and to the non-party nation - not necessarily to the non-party nation."

The Conservative believes in the absolute freedom of man.

In summation, the Conservative believes in an organic society of individuals governed through the tempered historic traditions of the past. The New Conservative is not to be mistaken as a party, but a set of beliefs and the concepts of the great men of the past, among them Burke, Disraeli, the apostles of the New Conservatives are the heirs and the apostles of the great men of the past, among them Burke, Disraeli, the apostles of the New Conservatism in the 60's is to overcome the Birchites and to become the Burkeites. Comments On Behavior

Editor: I am writing this letter in relation to the event that transpired at the Women's Senate Hall on the evening of April 3. As you may know the film Operation Abolition was shown by State Senator Paul W. Croydon on that evening. I would like to take this opportunity to comment on the discussions that transpired after the end of the film.

While I think that on the whole the students were polite in their questions, that is not the case with the Senator. While one does not have to agree with what a person is saying, he should at least be able to control his temper and not have to be called down in a sarcastic way such as the Senator was forced to do.

I also think that the calls from the audience were uncalled for when the Senator was answering the questions.

Formosan Government, University Host SIU President Morris, Family

TAIPEI, Taiwan.—SIU President Delyte W. Morris and his family visited here for several days with Chinese government and university officials before continuing their round-the-world trip.

While on the island, Dr. Morris, his wife, Dorothy, and their son, Michael, were entertained at dinner parties, visited the American embassy, toured one of Formosa's major newspaper plants and visited with numerous Chinese who had been students or visiting professors at SIU.

Upon arrival, the Morrises were greeted by Gen. and Mrs. Chen Chia-hsian who gave a dinner party in their honor that night.

Dr. Morris and his family were honored at a luncheon the following day given by Mr. Chi Hung Liu, president of Chung-Chi University in Taipei's internationally-known Liberty House.

Among the guests at the luncheon were Charles Clayton, professor of journalism at SIU who is teaching at Chung-Chi this year, and Mrs. Clayton.

Milton J. T. Shieh, former visiting professor at SIU and publisher of the Shin Sheng Pao Daily News, accompanied the tour through the downtown area.

Following a visit to the American Embassy, Dr. Morris and Michael visited Shieh's newspaper plant where they examined the Chinese composing system and plane-making process. In the evening, the Morrises were invited to a dinner by the Fulbright Foundation.

Before departing for Viet Nam, where he will visit SIU teaching missions, Dr. Morris and his family were guests at a luncheon party following a trip to the Ulai Resort where they viewed an aboriginal dance.

While on Formosa, the Morrises stayed at the Grand Hotel, an old Shinto temple converted into a hotel and decorated in the classical Chinese style with red and gold tones predominating. Travel experts have labeled it one of the plushiest hotels in the Far East.

The Morris family will spend two weeks in Saigon, Viet Nam with Southern's teaching and study groups there before moving on to Cambodia and Angkor. They also will visit Thailand, Burma, Iran, and Iraq, Lebanon, India and Greece.

After leaving Greece, the Morrises will drive along the French Riviera to Nice and then to Cannes, France, where they will board the S.S. America for a round trip to the United States.

Dr. and Mrs. Morris will be back in time for the June 13 commencement, Michael is expected to stay in Europe and begin study on a master's degree.

A plan to wish SIU President, Dr. Delyte W. Morris, a happy 50th birthday by telephone, fell through Tuesday, as technical difficulties caused an hour's wait.

Aides of President Morris, who is visiting an SIU project in Saigon, Viet Nam, gathered for the personal call Tuesday evening, but after the hour's wait, decided on sending a cable instead.

'Bernarda Alba' Opens Tonight

"The House of Bernarda Alba," a Garcia Lorca drama, will open tonight at the Southern Playhouse under the direction of Mordecai Gorelik, research professor in the Theatre Department.

The production will feature a foreground thrusting into the audience to produce a more intimate atmosphere. The foreground was built by the Southern Players' backstage crew, under direction of Charles Zoeckler.

"Bernarda Alba" is a sympathetic study of female subservience in Latin countries. It deals with five daughters of a tyrannical mother in a provincial Spanish town, who are surprised from normal association with men by their mother.

Gorelik was a New York stage designer before coming to SIU in 1960. His credits include "Harvest of Rain" and other leading Broadway productions.
