8-5-1967

The Daily Egyptian, August 05, 1967

The Daily Egyptian Staff

Follow this and additional works at: http://opensiuc.lib.siu.edu/de_August1967
Volume 48, Issue 194

Recommended Citation

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Daily Egyptian 1967 at OpenSIUC. It has been accepted for inclusion in August 1967 by an authorized administrator of OpenSIUC. For more information, please contact opensiuc@lib.siu.edu.
The faculty had endorsed O'Reilly prior to the decision by President Delyte W. Morris. The president's failure to release his reasons for not endorsing the appointment, Lenz said.

The School of Education and Administration's proposal for new undergraduate motor vehicle regulations.

The Board passed the proposal as presented.

Lenzi took issue with the fact that an Information Service news release announcing the proposal's passage was handed out before the Board meeting.

"They were most polite in receiving our requests but most unresponsive in acting upon them," Lenz said.

Passage of the administrative proposal put motor vehicle regulations in the hands of Wilbur Moulton, dean of the College of Education and Administration.

"Our future position will be to deal and deal effectively with Dean Moulton," Lenz said.

The Senate also discussed the possibility of sponsoring a campus great debate and great speaker.

The Senate will wait for faculty comment concerning O'Reilly Appointment Deal.

The Senate indicated it would support whatever the faculty decided on the matter, since the faculty had endorsed O'Reilly prior to the decision by President Delyte W. Morris. The president's failure to release his reasons for not endorsing the appointment.

Lenzi also told the Senate of the Board of Trustees' failure to accept alternatives to several points in the administration's proposal for new undergraduate motor vehicle regulations.

SIU to Open Carbondale Job Center

Mayor David H. Keene said Friday that SIU will establish a new job center Monday in his present office at City Hall to coordinate on-the-job training in Carbondale.

Keene said he will move from his downtown office and the paid staff of graduate assistants from the Bureau of Business Research at SIU will take it over.

The graduate students, working under the supervision of the bureau director, Arthur E. Prewitt will coordinate on-the-job training in almost all of the business establishments in Carbondale.

The mayor said "I was pleasantly surprised and pleased at how many businesses in the city that have come through on this."

With this new office, the mayor said, many people who do not have the skills in various jobs will be able to learn an occupation while they are working and earning a living.

The Board passed the proposal as presented.

Lenzi took issue with the fact that an Information Service news release announcing the proposal's passage was handed out before the Board meeting.

"They were most polite in receiving our requests but most unresponsive in acting upon them," Lenz said.

Passage of the administrative proposal put motor vehicle regulations in the hands of Wilbur Moulton, dean of the College of Education and Administration.

"Our future position will be to deal and deal effectively with Dean Moulton," Lenz said.

The Senate also discussed the possibility of sponsoring a campus great debate and great speaker.

Retirement Law

Put Into Effect

A number of University employees not previously covered by state retirement came under the law for the first time with the August 1 pay date, the University payroll office has reported.

Starting July 1 all full-time employees went under compulsory retirement amounting to seven per cent of their gross pay, the office stated. Previously, withholding for retirement was optional with the employee.

Those who transfer employment from SIU to another state university will continue to be covered under the retirement act.
Assignments Approved

Faculty Changes Announced

Both SIU campuses were affected Thursday by changes in faculty and staff assignments approved by the Board of Trustees.

Thomas Kinsella, Irish poet who has been a visiting artist on the Carbondale campus, was given a continuing appointment as professor of English.

John E. Merres, former professor at the University of Oklahoma, has been named visiting professor of marketing during winter and spring quarters at Carbondale.

No changes on the Carbondale campus were the appointments of Ping-chia Kuo and Patricia Adams of the Department of History and the resignation of Leslie Chamberlin as assistant director of admissions.

Kuo replaces George W. Adams, who is returning to a teaching and research position, Chamberlain is going to Bowling Green University in Ohio.

Earl S. Beard, former dean at the University of Wisconsin and named dean and professor of the Social Sciences Division at the Edwardsville campus, Beard, a native of St. Louis, will replace Robert B. Campbell, former education dean returning to full time teaching.

The board approved the hiring of A. R. Howard, Jr., Two Staff Members Lead Conference

Two SIU staff members will lead conferences as the Christian career conference Aug. 11 for Young people attending First Lutheran Church in DuQuoin. A.B. Milten, coordinator of University Graphics, will conduct a conference on art as a career. Tom Purcell, director of data processing for the Division of Computing, will lead the conference on science-related careers.

Former director of university relations at Michigan Technological University, a assistant director of the Edwardsville Information Service, Howard's duties will begin Sept. 1.

He replaces Edmund C. Haase who will devote full time as assistant professor in the Humanities Division.

Dale Wantling was named acting dean of the Educational Division at Edwardsville. Former dean Howard Dee Southwood is returning to a teaching position.

Howard Schultz, formerly of the University of New Hampshire, will serve as professor of English during the 1967-68 academic year at Edwardsville. He holds a Ph.D. from Harvard University and is author of the book "Milton and Forbidden Knowledge," and "Technical Report Writing."

Two appointment to fill vacancies in the forestry department "were approved. Carl A. Bultskey, a graduate research associate at the University of Arizona, and Paul L. Roth, an instructor at the Colorado forestry. Kansas State University, will join the staff this fall.

Theater Department to Offer One-Act Mental Health Play

A "live" performance of a one-act mental health play is offered free of charge to area organizations during the 1967-68 season by the Department of Theater, according to Archibald McLeod, chairman.

The coming season is the eighth consecutive year the department, in cooperation with the State Department of Mental Health, has presented a free program for clubs, church groups and other organizations of southern Illinois, McLeod said.

The forthcoming play is "Return to Thine Own House," by Nora Stirling, a drama concerned with the difficulties which Joe McKenzie meets when he tries to return to normal life after a year spent in a mental hospital. He has difficulty finding employment and in convincing former friends that he is completely recovered and capable of taking his rightful place in society.

The 40-minute play will be available beginning Oct. 15 and may be scheduled as late as May 26.

Student Held Without Bond

On Charge of Stealing Cycles

An SIU student has been charged with stealing motor cycles and is being held without bond in Chicago pending action by a grand jury.

Boys Court Judge Saul A. Epstein ordered William J. Sevicik, 18, a sophomore from Chicago, held for a grand jury hearing.

Authorities said Sevicik visited people who advertised motor cycles for sale, asked to take the vehicles out for test rides and then allegedly did not return.

The SIU Registrar's office said Sevicik was apparently not enrolled for the summer term.

from the studio of

DAVID SCHWAB

HARRIS

A SALE of small artworks priced from $100 and up

Saturday & Sunday

August 5th and 6th

from 2:00 to 5:30 P.M.

805 South Marion St.
On-Going Orientation
Scheduled Summer Musical Ticket Sales will be held in Room B of the University Center Monday from 1 to 5 p.m. Student Time Cards will be distributed from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in the Mississippi Room.

"On-Going" Orientation will be held in Ballroom B at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Two New Staffers Named in Museum Two new staff members have been appointed in the Southern Illinois University Museum, John Charles Kelley, museum director, announced.

Basil C. Hedrick, Latin-American language specialist, has been named assistant director. He formerly served as assistant director of SIU's Latin-American Institute and in the summer of 1963 as acting director of the Museum.

Phil C. Wiegand, who expects to complete the doctoral degree in anthropology at SIU in the fall, has been appointed curator of North American archaeology.

Hedrick, a graduate of Augustana College, Rock Island, completed the Ph. D. degree at the Interamerican University in Mexico last year. He has written extensively on Latin American subjects for encyclopedias and scholarly journals.

Fall Advisement To End Aug. 25
Summer students planning to continue at SIU in the fall who have not completed pre-registration procedures should do so within the next three weeks, according to H. W. Wohlwend, assistant registrar.

Fall advisement will cease on Aug. 25.

The deadline date for fee payment for students who pre-registered for the fall quarter is Aug. 30.

There will be no special date set aside for night registration for off-campus and rehabilitation students as past response has not been adequate enough to repeat this service, Wohlwend said.
Soul Brothers

Letter to the Editor

Guns Tools

The editorial reprinted from the Christian Science Monitor on August 2 that underscores an urgent need for gun sale control reveals an disturbingly one-sided view of the entire situation. What really underlines our need for gun control? Should guns be controlled or should bullets be controlled?

Perhaps all guns should be sold with no firing pins? In fact, does it matter what amount of restriction is placed on gun sale? Guns are only tools. It is not the gun which first itself. It is the person's mental motivation that results in pre-mediated killing.

Gun control is a superficial issue. The alleviation of social stress andCriterion which breeds violence will retard public concern over gun control. The socio-cultural maladjustments and mental strain engendered by present institutions must be changed to accommodate healthier attitudes of non-violence.

Is there still a problem of violence very evident in the nation? One day of television viewing should clarify the extent to which latent violence exists in the American culture.

David Millman

Surtex Shows LBJ's Fiscal Failure

The President's tax message yesterday is a confession of failure past and a promise of failure to come.

The proposed increase—a whopping 10 per cent on in dividuals and corporations, instead of the 6 per cent talked of earlier—testifies to the Administration's idea to get Federal finances under control. Vietnam is offered as the main excuse, but in fact spending on all kinds of domestic programs has been rapidly rising as well; the Administration has adamantly refused to set the spending priorities obviously required by war.

In the process it has generated fresh inflation, itself a vicious form of taxation. It is producing prospective budget deficits of unacceptable proportions. Now, unwilling to restrain its own extravagance, it wants to grab still more of the people's hard-earned money.

Assuming Congress goes along (and it may not go all the way), will the tax work—that is, contain the def-cits and curb the inflation?

There is no pretense at all that it will erase the red ink. Mr. Johnson himself callulates that this fiscal year's deficit would still be $15 billion to $18 billion. Such an enormous sum coupled with the Government's easy-money policy, means that the prospect of inflation are good, even if business activity declines as a result of the tax increase.

Moreover, as these columns have previously observed, the Federal planners would almost certainly view higher taxes as a mandate for even higher spending. What they urgently need is discipline, what they would be getting is a license for a new binge. The recommended "star-charges" are supposed to expire not two years hence, unless the Administration says it still needs the revenue. Unhappily, that is a likely up-

SHOT.

For just one consideration, but a big one, it seems most probable that defense spending will go up in the years ahead, even if Vietnam outlays decrease. Already the talk is of

Letter to the Editor

Tighter Airport Regulations Might Curb Air Collisions

Congestion in the skies is getting worse. The public has cause to look for explanations. The concerns are shared by federal and local aviation officials. The Senate aviation subcommittee whose members have scheduled another inquiry into the subject. The need is to make air travel safer.

A major part of the problem is the fantastic growth of flying since 1957 when the airlines became the nation's primary means of transportation. What was once a revolutionary way of travel has become commonplace. Air safety accurately can be said to affect the entire population. The problem is getting worse.

One type of accident that is caused by this congestion is the collision of aircraft in the sky. The urgency of this specific problem is underscored by two mid-air collisions that occurred last year—losing a loss of 108 lives. In both mishaps an airliner and a light plane collided.

Further restrictions on the use of the same airways by the two types of aircraft are already being proposed. The pilots and the Federal government are the only ones who can solve the problem.
The Negro's Challenge

Mr. Fanon's name is already well known for his previous book, The Wretched of the Earth. He was born in French West Africa, received medical training in France, and specialized in psychiatry. This book applies his psychiatric training to an analysis of the Negro who has been warped by the psychological effects of white superiority to the extent of denying his own blackness. "White civilization and European culture have the prestige of the读 Brit is h P oe try here) bas lately become the leading poets of America. But he is cited by Professor Rosenthal of New York University (a recent speaker here) as having the most distinctive new quality in all the poets. Among some Negroes this attitude has developed - an unwillingness to associate with or marry persons of darker skin than themselves.

Fanon's theme is that the Negro must face the reality of his blackness and this can be done only by restoring a pride in his own history and culture. He should no longer be confronted by the dilemma, either white or nigger. While Fanon argues that the Negro must assert himself as a Black Man, a solid sense of race or black superiority, but denounces all types of racism as revealing the bankruptcy of mankind. He analyzes white hatred of the Negro as demonstrating the larger fact that violence for its own sake, especially from the myth of the greater superior potential of the Negro. His conclusion that "the Negrophobic woman is in fact nothing more than the Whiteman, the Negrophobic man is a repressed homosexual" will undoubtedly continue to be a source of conflict and fear among many readers. In the chapter fanfare, based on sex, he makes an interesting contrast between anti-Negro attitudes based on a biological or racial theory and those based on an intellectual threat.

Since more American readers read poetry than the poetry itself, the New Poets have a considerably more lively sale than the books of poetry it describes. Professor P. F. F. Best of New York University (a recent speaker here) has lately become the leading academic commentator on new poetry in English. His new book, with the prestige of the Oxford University imprint, will certainly strengthen his position.

The New Poets gives readers a clear and systematic account of necessity somewhat superficial, of the significant new poets and what they are up to. It is of local interest that one of the them is our own Thomas Kinsella, poet-in-residence here since 1965. Kinsella is discussed at length in Best's Irish poems, but he is cited as a notable example of a writer in need of more publicity and groups who still embodies important tendencies. In fact, he seems to have sacrificed his voice of his generation in Ireland, yet he shares with his elders and savage disdain against the present state of Ireland and the world, with all that is implied for the subjective life in this "disogenic" crisis. Kinsella quotes John Donne's magnificent foreword to his recent volume of poems: "If we drink the bitterness of the present and continue, we rumse in caduceal and doubt the only individual joy the restored necessity to learn." "The New Poets" is a helpful, though not searchingly, discussion of "modernity" or "postmodernity" in the poetry it is treating. This it finds inadequate to the "sage of unease and disorder," with the individualist treated as victim rather than hero; a new language with "a certain clarity of cover nakedness," and a new emphasis on the private life of the poet himself, "under the strain of psychological crisis and often as a symbolic embodiment of national and cultural crisis."

Robert Lowell is given the top place among the poets discussed, his work and the manner by which he is increasingly identified with, "confessional poetry," are given a 40-page discussion. Lowell's Life Studies, 1959, seems to Rosenthal, and increasingly to others, to be the book in which others discovered a "way" appropriate to their own needs. Lowell seems to have had somewhat more to contribute than most sexual guilt, alcoholism, religious delusion, confinement in mental hospital, or other such themes. The most important of them, says Professor Leyns, seem always only given their due. On the whole, incomprehensive, and controversial though it must be, The New Poets is a valuable guide through the maze of contemporary poetic writing.

A Guide Through the Maze

The Contemporary Poets

Since more American readers read poetry than the poetry itself, the New Poets have a considerably more lively sale than the books of poetry it describes. Professor P. F. F. Best of New York University (a recent speaker here) has lately become the leading academic commentator on new poetry in English. His new book, with the prestige of the Oxford University imprint, will certainly strengthen his position.

The New Poets gives readers a clear and systematic account of necessity somewhat superficial, of the significant new poets and what they are up to. It is of local interest that one of the them is our own Thomas Kinsella, poet-in-residence here since 1965. Kinsella is discussed at length in Best's Irish poems, but he is cited as a notable example of a writer in need of more publicity and groups who still embodies important tendencies. In fact, he seems to have sacrificed his voice of his generation in Ireland, yet he shares with his elders and savage disdain against the present state of Ireland and the world, with all that is implied for the subjective life in this "disogenic" crisis. Kinsella quotes John Donne's magnificent foreword to his recent volume of poems: "If we drink the bitterness of the present and continue, we rumse in caduceal and doubt the only individual joy the restored necessity to learn." "The New Poets" is a helpful, though not searchingly, discussion of "modernity" or "postmodernity" in the poetry it is treating. This it finds inadequate to the "sage of unease and disorder," with the individualist treated as victim rather than hero; a new language with "a certain clarity of cover nakedness," and a new emphasis on the private life of the poet himself, "under the strain of psychological crisis and often as a symbolic embodiment of national and cultural crisis."

Robert Lowell is given the top place among the poets discussed, his work and the manner by which he is increasingly identified with, "confessional poetry," are given a 40-page discussion. Lowell's Life Studies, 1959, seems to Rosenthal, and increasingly to others, to be the book in which others discovered a "way" appropriate to their own needs. Lowell seems to have had somewhat more to contribute than most sexual guilt, alcoholism, religious delusion, confinement in mental hospital, or other such themes. The most important of them, says Professor Leyns, seem always only given their due. On the whole, incomprehensive, and controversial though it must be, The New Poets is a valuable guide through the maze of contemporary poetic writing.

Our Reviewers

Betty Fladeland is a member of the faculty of the Department of History.

Robert D. Paner is chairman of the faculty of the Department of English.

Looking up at his shell of unread books and magazines, some eyes wandered. Readible public may mutter to himself: "I'll wait until they make it into a movie." Such a reaction to the announcement of yet another historical novel would certainly be understandable. Hist orical novels have been sedate and ponderous, even when they come from the pen of established writers like Tolstoi and Dickens.

But there is no tediousness in the manner of Manuela. The writer who can lay hands on the book and make it into a movie will suddenly discover whirlwind romance in the dramatic life of the South American liberator, Simon Bolivar. The story begins on June 16, 1822, the day that Bolivar arrived in Quito and told the Congress there that he was ready to be a native of Quito, had returned from Lima, where for some years she had been the relict wife of an English diplomat. Her husband was usually seen in Quito, and Manuela had written him during these years as a partisan in the Peruvian War of Independence. Because of her fine looks and. beauty she had gained and received a military decoration.

In spite of the claims of convention and the horror of Quito's most respectable families, Manuela and Bolivar celebrated their discovery of each other with twelve nghts of passion. Manuela fell in love with Bolivar sooner than nine years, Manuela kept correspondine with him in his successful campaign against Spanish armies and in his creation of a united nation out of the liberated provinces. The reader is told enough about them to enjoy a counter-marches to get a sense of Bolivar's and Bolivar's de-} may proceed from humiliating to despair that becomes pathological. He has to make a constant effort to run away from his own individuality and

Dr. A. C. R. Read

Since more American readers read poetry than the poetry itself, the New Poets have a considerably more lively sale than the books of poetry it describes. Professor P. F. F. Best of New York University (a recent speaker here) has lately become the leading academic commentator on new poetry in English. His new book, with the prestige of the Oxford University imprint, will certainly strengthen his position.

The New Poets gives readers a clear and systematic account of necessity somewhat superficial, of the significant new poets and what they are up to. It is of local interest that one of them is our own Thomas Kinsella, poet-in-residence here since 1965. Kinsella is discussed at length in Best's Irish poems, but he is cited as a notable example of a writer in need of more publicity and groups who still embodies important tendencies. In fact, he seems to have sacrificed his voice of his generation in Ireland, yet he shares with his elders and savage disdain against the present state of Ireland and the world, with all that is implied for the subjective life in this "disogenic" crisis. Kinsella quotes John Donne's magnificent foreword to his recent volume of poems: "If we drink the bitterness of the present and continue, we rumse in caduceal and doubt the only individual joy—the restored necessity to learn." "The New Poets" is a helpful, though not searchingly, discussion of "modernity" or "postmodernity" in the poetry it is treating. This it finds inadequate to the "sage of unease and disorder," with the individualist treated as victim rather than hero; a new language with "a certain clarity of cover nakedness," and a new emphasis on the private life of the poet himself, "under the strain of psychological crisis and often as a symbolic embodiment of national and cultural crisis."

Robert Lowell is given the top place among the poets discussed, his work and the manner by which he is increasingly identified with, "confessional poetry," are given a 40-page discussion. Lowell's Life Studies, 1959, seems to Rosenthal, and increasingly to others, to be the book in which others discovered a "way" appropriate to their own needs. Lowell seems to have had somewhat more to contribute than most sexual guilt, alcoholism, religious delusion, confinement in mental hospital, or other such themes. The most important of them, says Professor Leyns, seem always only given their due. On the whole, incomprehensive, and controversial though it must be, The New Poets is a valuable guide through the maze of contemporary poetic writing.

Our Reviewers

Betty Fladeland is a member of the faculty of the Department of History.

Robert D. Paner is chairman of the faculty of the Department of English.
Weather

According to the National Weather Service, the temperature in Philadelphia is currently 72°F with a high of 80°F and a low of 68°F. The forecast indicates that there will be no significant changes in weather conditions throughout the week.

Local News

The Philadelphia Police Department and the Philadelphia Department of Public Works are working together to ensure the safety of pedestrians in the area. The department has launched a campaign to raise awareness about the dangers of distracted walking and encourage drivers to be more cautious.

Community

The local community center is hosting a free event this weekend for families, offering various activities for children. The event will feature games, arts and crafts, and storytelling sessions. Parents are encouraged to bring their children and enjoy a fun-filled day together.

Sports

The local high school football team is playing their annual homecoming game this Friday night. The team is currently ranked number two in the state and will be facing a tough opponent. Fans are expected to turn out in droves to support their team and cheer them on to victory.

Business

A new business will be opening in the city center next month. The business specializes in organic tea and will offer a wide variety of loose leaf teas and teaware. The owner is looking forward to bringing a healthy and refreshing option to the community.
American League Votes for East-West Division

CHICAGO (AP) — American League owners voted unanimously Thursday night for eastern versus western divisional breakdowns in baseball, but National League owners asked for more time to study the proposal.

Club owners met with baseball Commissioner William Eckert for more than two hours in a joint meeting of the two leagues after each had conducted separate meetings.

The project of two divisions within a league has been under consideration as the two-day meeting closed.

Joe Cronin, president of the American League, said, "We have a great, long discussion and covered many facets of the plan."

"American League owners all voted for no divisional plan," said Cronin, who added the plan would call for the winners of each of the Five-against-five divisions to meet in a best 3-of-5 play-off for the right to represent the American League in the World Series.

"Eckert, the National League did not want to move to this fast," Cronin said. "Their proposal was not to come to a vote and, therefore, I took no action. We will continue to want to study this plan." Shu Chien, president of the National League, said the main objection to the plan was it would not present time to give the National League time to study it.

"I don't think baseball should be put in a position where it is possible for a league to have two places in a World Series." What Giles meant was if the American League did go into divisions, one divisional team with a poor record might defeat the other divisional team and represent the league in the World Series.

In other action, Charles O. Finley, owner of the Kansas City Athletics, issued a statement commenting on rumors of the possibility of moving his team to another city. He said he has talked to representatives of a number of cities, including Oakland, Calif., and Seattle, but that no specific proposals were made. Houston was voted the All-Star game for next year and the owners voted against changing the player limit on opening day from 25 to 27 men on team rosters.

Odd Bodkins

FOR SALE
14' Jon boat with 0.9 Horse, motor & trailer, $85. 210 Benji. Box 61, E. Walnut. 7-7059.

Eckert was named chairman of the American League's committee to study the divisional setup.

The American League will meet in Chicago Thursday night for its annual convention. The board is expected to hear reports from the divisional meetings and to take action on the league's proposal for a World Series.

10x35 trailer. Call 881-475. BBI473

1965 Embassy Mobile Home. Front parlor, kitchen, 2 bedrooms, 2 bathrooms, air conditioning, fireplace, $22,000, 549-4007.

FOR RENT
1964 Hillcrest trailer, Excellent condition, $10. 5. Phone 549-1757.

1963 Elmont mobile home, 2, 50 bed. 4228. Phone 7-6947.

1965 VW good condition, $1.000. 457-0872.

1964 Mansion home, 1 1/2, 5 bed. 555-1157. A.C. 467-4288 after 4.

WILSON HALL for men

1201 S.W. 11th St.

FOR SALE
1960 Jaguar, 14,000 miles. $5500. BBI470

1956 Cadillac, 25,000 miles. $4000. 549-4007.

1964 Hillcrest trailer, Excellent condition, 10 x 5. Phone 549-1757.

1964 Mansion home, 1 1/2, 5 bed. A.C. 467-4288 after 4.

Wilton's with Wilson Hall? It's for announcements. First edition is set for summer and fall terms. Located close, at the corner of Park & Wall. Contact Don Clark. 549-2255.

Reduced rates for summer. Check on air-conditioned mobile homes. Check our prices before you sign your contract. Phone 5-3374, Chuck's Rentals.

Coral dormitory. 400 S. Gramercy, 750,000, furnished, two minutes to campus.

Catholic Monastery.

FOR SALE
1956 Cadillac, 25,000 miles. $4000. 549-4007.

1964 Mansion home, 1 1/2, 5 bed. A.C. 467-4288 after 4.

1390 S.W. 12th St., 210 Benji. Box 61, E. Walnut. 7-7059.

1965 Jeepster, 19,000 miles. $2900. BBI470

1964 Mansion home, 1 1/2, 5 bed. A.C. 467-4288 after 4.

210 Benji. Box 61, E. Walnut. 7-7059.

1961 Mansion home, 1 1/2, 5 bed. 4228. Phone 7-6947.

1963 Elmont mobile home, 2, 50 bed. 4228. Phone 7-6947.

1964 Mansion home, 1 1/2, 5 bed. 549-4007.

1965 Mansion home, 1 1/2, 5 bed. 555-1157. A.C. 467-4288 after 4.

1964 Mansion home, 1 1/2, 5 bed. 555-1157. A.C. 467-4288 after 4.

1964 Mansion home, 1 1/2, 5 bed. 555-1157. A.C. 467-4288 after 4.

1964 Mansion home, 1 1/2, 5 bed. 555-1157. A.C. 467-4288 after 4.

1964 Mansion home, 1 1/2, 5 bed. 555-1157. A.C. 467-4288 after 4.

1964 Mansion home, 1 1/2, 5 bed. 555-1157. A.C. 467-4288 after 4.

1964 Mansion home, 1 1/2, 5 bed. 555-1157. A.C. 467-4288 after 4.

1964 Mansion home, 1 1/2, 5 bed. 555-1157. A.C. 467-4288 after 4.

1964 Mansion home, 1 1/2, 5 bed. 555-1157. A.C. 467-4288 after 4.

1964 Mansion home, 1 1/2, 5 bed. 555-1157. A.C. 467-4288 after 4.

1964 Mansion home, 1 1/2, 5 bed. 555-1157. A.C. 467-4288 after 4.

1964 Mansion home, 1 1/2, 5 bed. 555-1157. A.C. 467-4288 after 4.

1964 Mansion home, 1 1/2, 5 bed. 555-1157. A.C. 467-4288 after 4.

1964 Mansion home, 1 1/2, 5 bed. 555-1157. A.C. 467-4288 after 4.

1964 Mansion home, 1 1/2, 5 bed. 555-1157. A.C. 467-4288 after 4.

1964 Mansion home, 1 1/2, 5 bed. 555-1157. A.C. 467-4288 after 4.

1964 Mansion home, 1 1/2, 5 bed. 555-1157. A.C. 467-4288 after 4.
Colavito, Boyer Could Give White Sox Pennant

Paul Corcoran
Copley News Service

Eddie Stanky has a good memory and not all he recalls of the hated New York Yankees is bad.

The Yankees used to win, one way or another.

One way Casey Stengel discovered he could bolster his team for the pennant fight was to deal for merited players not quite over, the hill, but no longer indispensable to the teams that owned them.

It seems reasonable that Stanky, now manager of the Chicago White Sox, was looking for the same kind of success Stengel achieved when he picked up two long-time eran sluggers to help his hitless wonders.

Ken Boyer long was a hitting and defensive star at St. Louis, where he was a big factor in the Cardinals' 1964 World Series championship.

Rocky Colavito, once the pride of Cleveland, has been bouncing around the American League like a yo-yo-partly because of high salary and partly because of his reputation as a "clubhouse lawyer." He always had something to say to or about the management.

Boyer, in his first week, contributed to three White Sox victories. His $60,000 salary already may prove to be cheap at the price for one of the game's great right-hand sluggers.

At 36, Boyer is nearing the 400 home run mark, and although he's not a match for brother Glete at third, he's a pro enough to get the job done.

Three days after the deal for Colavito was announced, Rocky personally disposed of his old Indian buddies with a two-run homer in the 10th. In the same game, Boyer had forced a 2-2 tie in the ninth with a pinch-hit run-scoring single.

It might hurt, but Stanky could begin smiling if that sort of thing continues.

Stanky was second baseman for the Giant team that lost to the Yankees in the 1951 Series.

Those were the days when no one was quite sure whether Stengel was a genius or a maniac, as he platooned big-name Yankees and put more stress on relief pitching. But he usually won. When he coaxed such old-timers as Johnny Mize, Johnny Hoppe and Johnny Sain from National League teams, a few critics began shaking their heads.

But Mize was a big World Series hero for the Yankees 17 years ago and that deal alone justified bringing the easygoing left-handed home run slasher over from the rival league.

The Yankees, through some avarice maneuvering, continued the pattern in their glory years. They could afford, with a strong basic team, to hire expensive part-time employees who never would play 154, let alone 162 games again.

At the Fourth of July mark, the consensus was that the White Sox couldn't last as American League leaders because of their puny hitting. It was a good argument, considering you have such stalwarts as Ken Berry "belting" the ball at about .250.

But by adding a couple of men who can be used on a spot basis, Chicago and Stanky may be ready to show their heads to everyone--although a runaway is hardly likely.

Stanky not only has a memory but he learned a few things by watching Mr. Stengel from a distance.

Menke, Torre Help Braves Defeat Cubs

CHICAGO (AP)-- Dennis Menke rapped out four hits and Joe Torre collected three singles and drove in four runs while leading the Atlanta Braves to a 6-3 victory over the second-place Chicago Cubs.

The loss the Cubs' sixth in their last seven games.

Torre's second single with the bases filled in the fifth inning capped a three-run rally that enabled the Braves to take a 5-1 lead. The Cubs moved ahead 1-0 in the third on singles by Don Kessinger and Glenn Beckert plus Billy Williams' sacrifice fly.

Atlanta, however, rallied for two runs in a fourth inning rally ignited by Menke's double. Aaron followed with a single, tying the score. An error, Torre's infield single and Williams' ground out brought home the lead runs.

Yankees, Giants Lead Pennants

Records show that the New York Yankees are the leaders in pennants won since 1901. They have captured 29 pennants and have won 20 world championships.

The San Francisco Giants, including their stay in New York, have won 16 pennants to lead the National League. The Giants have been winners in the World Series.