Life Science Building Progresses Rapidly

Construction of the $1,500,000 Life Science building is progressing rapidly, and it is hoped that it will be ready for occupancy by the fall term of 1955. In the fall term the building will house the junior and senior sciences department and their subdivisions.

The 94,000 square foot building will contain a large amount of scientific equipment which is now housed in the Old Main and Science Building. The building will accommodate all the sciences department and will assist in the development of the university's science programs.

Faculty Centers Planning

Plans for a Faculty Center are already under way in Men's Residence and University Book Store areas. The center will be the focal point of academic and social activities for faculty and students.

The center will provide a common area for meetings, seminars, and informal gatherings. It will also serve as a social hub for faculty members and their families.

When a football player wears a basketball player's belt, a football player gets a hock knock, they show up.

But what about the footballers, i.e., the guys who play for their teams and every other guy who plays for their team?

What about them? What about their shoes, their socks, their uniforms, their equipment, their field?

They're all just as valuable as the footballers, aren't they?
