Let's Ignore Your Mind

By Fred Equity

A few hours ago we trudged over to the office to pick up a graduation picture taken of us a couple weeks ago. It was a bit of a shock because we never expected to see a photograph of ourselves in such a formal setting.

Driving back home, we realized that we were still a bit out of sync from the graduation ceremony. We had taken a few photos in the past, but never really thought about the significance of them. As we drove home, we tried to imagine what our lives would be like in the future.

The graduation was a bit of a letdown compared to the excitement of the ceremony. However, we are grateful for the opportunity to celebrate our accomplishments.

Holds $2,000,000 During One Year

The municipal court of St. Paul in May, 1948, had a small but important case on its docket. It involved the question of whether or not a person could hold $2,000,000 in one year.

The case was brought by the city against a man named John Smith, who was accused of holding $2,000,000 in one year. The city claimed that John Smith had violated the city's regulations by holding more than $2,000 in cash at any one time.

The court ruled in favor of John Smith, finding that he was not in violation of the city's regulations. The court's decision was based on the fact that John Smith had only held the money for a short period of time, and that the money was held for a legitimate purpose.
