WAR NEWS ON CAMPUS—The news of outbreak of war may be expected by United States early Monday, and this group of Arab students gathered around a short-wave radio to tune in on direct reports from their homelands. Clockwise, from Abdul Nasser in the polka-dot shirt, are Moises Abassu, Mohamed Hantash, Rashin Robeinstein, Michael Khoury, Wajih Kanji, and John W. Atallah. Some of the deep emotional feeling between the factions has been evident in letters and statements on campus and the crisis started in its escalation toward war.

Big Powers Role
Held Vital Factor
In Mideast Strife

By Ed Bomberger

"We have been caught with our diplomas down," said a student. This was the comment of Sanford H. Elwitt, assistant professor of political science, after the pot boiler over in the Middle East crisis this morning. He felt that the Big Four—Britain, France, Russia and the United States. Elwitt said the situation was a forceable one, and the Arabs should be treated.

"U.N. action will have no effect at all. It does not have the power to do anything. We should give it to give it," Elwitt said.

If the big powers act together, possibly the fighting can be stopped before it gets out of hand. The situation remains uncertain. Then the issue can be taken to the U.N., he added.

Frank L. Klingberg, professor of political science, said that agreement between the administration and the KA Advisory Board was a clear-cut position. He expressed the opinion that Egypt was not seeking to pass fighting in any direct way.

Policy Disagreement

KA Can't Publish,
Stopped by Morris

KA, the independent student publication appearing in the Wednesday issues of the Daily Egyptian, has been temporarily suspended according to Thomas A. Dawes, content editor of KA.

Dawes said that a disagreement arose over the question of anonymity. He said that members of the KA Advisory Board and President Delyte W. Morris could reach no agreement as to whether KA had the right to remain anonymous.

Textbook Service

Anounces Hours

Textbook Service will be open from 7:50 a.m. to 8:30 p.m., today through Thursday and part of Friday and Saturday for the return of spring term books, Henry Stroman, Textbook Service manager, announced.

"All books must be returned by the deadline, noon, June 12," Stroman said. A $1 fine will be charged for each book returned after the Monday deadline, he added.

The textbook return area will be open from 7:50 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., on Friday and from 7:50 to 11:30, Saturday.

Books will be available for the week of June 19 for summer term, Stroman said. Hours will be announced later, he said.

Caps, Gowns

Expected for Friday Pickup

Graduation garbage—the caps and gowns denoting wisdom to be worn by more than 2,000 SIU degree candidates Saturday should arrive Friday, spokesman for the University Bookstore said Monday.

"We never know," the representative said in regard to the arrival of the commencement apparel. "We usually try to get them in at least one day before graduation," he added.

At the bookstore, where the caps and gowns should be picked up by a friend, providing the person obtaining the caps and gowns signs for them.

Following Commencement, Saturday evening, the caps and gowns should be returned at the concession stand located in the Coliseum. The bookstore representative noted that this was the only location where the articles may be returned.

All caps and gowns must be signed for, the bookstore announced. Students may have to the articles picked up by a friend, providing the person obtaining the caps and gowns signs for them.

Students Will Receive

Paychecks Thursday

Student paychecks normally issued Monday, June 12, will be available in advance on Thursday, the Bursar's Office announced. The checks will be issued at the Bursar's Annex, located near the Sectioning Center in the University Center.

Summer Tuition

Due Wednesday

The deadline for payment of tuition and fees for summer quarter is 4 p.m. Wednesday, according to H.W. Wohlwend, assistant registrar.

Students who do not complete payment of their fees by Wednesday will be required to register on June 19, Wohlwend said.

A complete victory for either side was not desirable," "Because of the UN charters," said Klingberg, "we are pledged to the defense of all states, including Israel, any way we could not show the world we stood for the defense of Egypt." Klingberg expressed concern that Russia might force the U.S. to side with the United States.

Russia does not appear ready to cooperate. It is pressing the conflict and negotiations, he said. I remain somewhat optimistic. This may be a call to all leaders of big nations, that if they have any goodwill at all, they must do something with their peoples, too.

"After 50 years of war, the Arab-Israeli conflict would be, if not impossible, a "must," Elwitt said.

If Russia was not in favor of the fighting in any direct way, the conflict would be "as a bad as the situation itself," said the former vice-president John E. Grinnell, and members of the student government outlining the operation of KA. The agreement was later formalized by Grinnell.

McChes says that in his opinion no one was dealing in bad faith but that there was a honest disagreement on the matter. H.A. Long, fiscal officer of the Daily Egyptian, said it was his understanding that "there seems to be a disagreement between the administration and the KA Advisory Board as to policies concerning editorial procedures and I am advised that until this disagreement is resolved KA will not appear in the Daily Egyptian.

The suspension does not apply to Wednesday, June 19, and a new issue of the newspaper, which was planned for fina week, KA has not been published in previous summer quarters.

Judicial Board OKs
Lenzi-Karr Election

The Campus Judicial Board Saturday declared valid the election of Ray Lenzi and Richard Karr as the SIU body presidency and vice-presidency for 1967-68.

It also ruled invalid a Campus vote to recognize the Arab-Israeli conflict in the disputed presidential and senatorial races.

The Senate "acted unconstitutionally" when it voted to validate the Bylaws of the disputed May 18 campus election, according to the report of the Judicial Board proceedings.

Members of the board declared unanimously that "it alone has the power to interpret the constitution and its by-laws on matters concerning their constitutionality or on matters concerning violation of the constitution."

The board ruled the commuter senatorial election invalid because the name of a qualified candidate was omitted from the ballot.

Section 323, Part A of the Codified Election Procedures states that "all candidates who meet the requirements of office shall be placed on the ballot."

The board members ruled the Weingarten dormitory senate ballot invalid because one of the candidates whose name was on the ballot was a qualified candidate.

The board argued a revision and clarification of the Codified Election Procedures "in accordance with the constitution and the above rulings.

Statewide Survey

SIU Ranks Lowest
In Faculty Salaries

By Holim Kim

Despite steady increases in faculty salaries, SIU is still the lowest-paying among state universities in Illinois, according to a national survey made by the AAUP (American Association of University Professors). During the 1965-66 academic year, all the state universities in Illinois except SIU received higher than a C rating in both average and minimum compensation on national scales, the report said.

The University of Illinois received a B in average scale and a C in the minimum category. Illinois State, Eastern, Northern and Western Illinois Universities received identical C ratings in both categories. SIU was missing from the survey.

Southern received a C rating in the average compensation scale but an E in the minimum category. The minimum usually refers to the starting salary paid in each academic rank.

The ratings used a six-point scale, classifying schools in ranges from A (best) to F (lowest). The AAUP survey, annually conducted nationally with information supplied by schools, covered more than 900 colleges and universities in 1965-66.

At SIU, based on the local AAUP report, a slight improvement was noted in the current academic year from 1965-66. The picture still lags behind the national survey.

The following compares the differences in ratings in each rank category between 1965-66 and 1966-67 in average and minimum salaries.

Professor: 1965-66: C (average; D in minimum), 1966-67: B in average, C in minimum.

Associate professor: C versus B, D versus C.

Assistant professor: B versus C, C versus C.

Larry Rodabaugh
Wounded in Action

Lt. Larry Rodabaugh, a former SIU student who majored in marketing, was wounded May 18 in South Vietnam, according to a radiogram which reached his former roommates, David Garrett and Dennis Nierenm. All three men are from Indiana.

Rodabaugh, 26, is recovering in Japan and plans to return to SIU full term.

After SIU What?

gues as we all know, it's SIU's finals week again, and everyone is going around with the traditional finals week "rown on his face. I am one of the "frowner" too, but this finals week is special to me ... I have only one quarter left, and then I graduate. Frankly, I'm scared. I'm scared to death to think what life holds in store for me ... I crawl out of the college womb. I'm a girl, so I'm not worried about the draft; I'm just afraid to jump off the end. Well, today, instead of going "T.G.I.F.ing" with my girlfriend, I decided to sit down and talk to myself, and try to decide what I think really is, what life is all about. I sat at my desk and I thought and thought, but an answer seemed nearly impossible. But while I was sitting there, my mind wandered, and I happened to look up to my bulletin board and I noticed a poem tacked up on it. It was a poem written by Bob Dylan, I guess that it's his opinion of what life is all about. I read the poem, then I read it again and again. It reads as follows:

Ah, get born, keep warm
Short pants, romance, learn to dance
Get bleared, get dressed
Try to be a success
Please her, please him
Buy gifts
Don't steal, don't lift
Twenty years of schooling
And they put you on the day shift.

I read Dylan's poem for about the fourth time, I wrote an answer to him:

Ah, but lie, don't try to exist, in the midst Wander here, wander.

there,
That soul of yours ain't going nowhere.
Don't please, don't squeeze
Don't give your sorry soul
Seventy years of nothin','
Seventy years of nothin', no give in,
And you die without ever livin'.
I think that perhaps I answered my own question.
Thank you, Bob Dylan,
Marianne Ackerman

Faulty Economics

To the Editor:
The editorial (by Jenkins Lloyd Jones) in the June 2 Daily Egyptian ("Competitive Economy Vanishing; Government to Set Wages, Prices") contains two factual errors and a number of undocumented and questionable conclusions. The 1932 Norris-LaGuardia Act did not outlaw strike injunctions but rather limited them to situations where "substantial and irremediable injury" to the property of the complainant would result. The 1955 Wagner Act did not override labor union "common effect" from the antitrust laws. This is accomplished in the Norris-LaGuardia Act as subsequently interpreted.

While the National Labor Relations Board has been "dominated by the unions" prior to the appointment of Harry Miller and William Leuchten in 1941 (well known and respected economists) such a bald statement for subsequent periods needs documentation.

Meaningless emotional phrases like "utterly corrupt," "pistol-to-the-head bargaining," "bleat about the tendency of labor to pander to Communists," "servants of the state," "backing over the precipice," "overcharged goods of union labor monopoly," etc. irritate educated readers and discredit the less sophisticated.

Your columnist is invited to take a labor economics course at SIU. Upon completion we would hope for more intelligent questions and for fewer sweeping, unsupported generalizations peaking as answers.

You are alienating your white friends.

There was no "Peace on Earth" at the Pacem in Terris conference in Geneva. There was, instead, a verbal war against the Americans, who had few defenders and many critics.

The emphasis was on Vietnam. Insofar as there is popular as well as intellectual suspicion and criticism of the United States' role in this war, the Geneva conference was to that extent a reflection of world opinion. However, over the strident tone of the denunciations and the unwillingness to listen to the American arguments before attacking them, created an atmosphere that was neither academic nor judicial.

SInterior McCarthy, a New Zealand judge, put the situation well when he argued that although the unilateralists might be wrong in their Vietnam policy, he did not accept that it was "evil" in the sense of a deliberate intention to be tricked and to do something harmful. The results of the Vietnam policy are open to attack along with the errors of the Johnson and previous administrations, but emphasis in Geneva was too exclusively on moral grounds and was confined to United States failings.

The conference showed the extent to which the United States is being judged by its image of a nation which is now the greatest power on earth, with manifold interests and responsibilities and policies that are right as well as wrong.

The United States is going through a phase of history that resembles the experience of Great Britain, especially in the nineteenth century, when the sun never set on her empire. Dozens of countries and uncounted millions of people in Africa, Asia, the Middle East and the South Pacific owe much to-whom? To Great Britain. But gratitude was never asked, and it certainly was rarely given.

The United States is doing a many great things in the contemporary world, some good and some bad, but its image is not seen clearly or in balance—because of Vietnam.

Pope John XXIII, who gave the Center for the Democratic Institutions the title for its conferences, wrote in his encyclical 'Truth further demands that the various media of social communications make available by modern progress, which enable the nations to know each other better, be used with serious objectivity.'

What happened to "serene objectivity" at the conference in Geneva—the New York Times.

Weather Worries

People, including criminals, are inclined to stay indoors when it rains, Police Supt. Wilson observed the other day. Conversely, they come outdoors when it doesn't rain, and that, said Wilson, is one reason Chicago had a 11.1 per cent increase in the number of serious crimes in the 28 days ended May 24. That was a time Chicago received only 2.1 inches of rain, a little less than a third of the precipitation for the comparable period a year ago when the crime rate wasn't as high.

Undoubtedly weather is a factor in crime. But what is weather, and what does it mean to crime? This type of crime is most often committed in July and August. Rather than placing their bets on an exceptionally wet summer, citizens will prefer to support Supt. Wilson's appeal for legislation to strengthen law enforcement. One way this can be done would be for the legislature to enact Supt. Wilson's bills to require gun owners to register with the state department of public safety. More than half of the murders in Chicago involve firearms.

The legislature should also pass the "stop and ask" bill to allow police the right to stop pedestrians whom they have reason to believe may be in possession of weapons. Better law enforcement is a necessary way to support crime and keep us safe. - Chicago Tribune
University Support Lagging in Missouri

(St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

Missouri has reached a point where it must decide which state universi'y is to be a school of excellence, or continue to be something less than that. The question was underscored by Robert K. Sanford's revealing series of articles in this newspaper.

Excellence may be hard to define, but it is not a term often applied to the University of Missouri. A kind of opinion poll among 4000 students for "Great for!" did not mention the university's graduate departments in any of its top ten respondents; same enn University had, for example, rated much higher.

Moreover, of course, part of the trouble, Kansas, Wisconsin and Indiana--all states with fewer resources--have supported superior state universities. When Elmer Ellis was president of the University of Missouri, he observed that the school was caught between "Northern aspirations and Southern methods of taxation."

In recent years the Legislature has provided more and more money, within the limits of the state budget. Still the university ranks tenth among 14 competing Midwest schools in the pan of full professors. What has happened is that the additional money has had to be spread out for thousands of additional students and for four campuses instead of two.

University President John C. Weaver puts it simply when he says, "We have lagged seriously behind other large state universities in years past and we in Missouri, as a result, need to do more than keep up. We need to catch up."

Once upon a time, a Great Big Bull led his herd into a beautiful green pasture and the herd was reassured. The Great Big Bull is clearly doing the right thing by thrashing. But softly, for we do not want the sky to fall down."

"Don't worry," he said confidently, "I did it on purpose. I have calculated that if we all trod together very carefully, we can stomp out this muck and create a beautiful green pasture where everyone can have peace. Together. Now, but gently. For if we stomp too hard the sky will fall down."

So the herd, without much thinking, did what the Great Big Bull said. And pretty soon they were all in the muck together."

"It is obvious," said the Great Big Bull with a frown, "that we must gradually increase the pressure to make the muck into mud all together, ncar. A bit harder."

And gradually the herd was up to its knees."

"Thrash around!" cried the Great Big Bull. "But not too hard. We don't want the sky to fall down."

And pretty soon the herd was in up to its worst.

At this point there was a lot of grumbling. And a minority of the herd got together in one corner of the mire and threatened: "We must support our leader in this hour of crisis," said a big white-maned bull named Everett, who was gentle to a fault and a soft, lowing voice. "For politics stops at the mire's edge, doesn't it?" asked a minority leader."

"I say we should thrash around harder, conquer this mire and get the hell out!" said a crusty old bull scarred from many a battle.

"Hush," said Everett nervously. "You will frighten the cows."

"I say," said a handsome young bull, "that we should very gingerly and delicately extricate ourselves from this mire and withdraw to safer grounds."

"What?" said Everett, "and publicly abandon all hope of creating a beautiful green pasture? Why, we have risked the lives of all out of the herd as cowards and depressists."

"But the Great Big Bull made a terrible mistake leading us into this mire," protested one cow.

"Trust everyone," said sagely. "And the Great Big Bull is clearly doing the wrong thing by thrashing around," said another."

"That's right," everyone said, nodding sagely."

"But let's not sound disloyal," said Everett. "It is our duty to stand up for our country."

"You can't deny that," everyone said, nodding sagely."

So after a great deal of thinking, the minority group finally composed a policy statement, which was put to the entire herd."

"The Great Big Bull, after making a series of terrible mistakes, is following a course that is in danger of leading us out of the herd as cowards and depressists."

"The Great Big Bull, after making a series of terrible mistakes, is following a course that is in danger of leading us out of the herd as cowards and depressists."

The herd broke into applause at this grand display of both wisdom and loyalty, two cherished virtues. The herd was reassured. The Great Big Bull was clearly doing the right thing by thrashing. And none was happier than Everett.

"We have won the full support of the herd for our course," said Everett after the applause died down. "And the minority and loyalty," he said, holding his head high. "And surely our leaders are wrong."

He probably would have had more to say, as he was a great talker, but unfortunately he couldn't hold his head high any longer and along with the rest of the herd, disappeared under the muck.

Moral: Wisdom and loyalty are both admirable virtues. It's too bad you usually have to make a choice.
Israel and its Arab neighbors plunged into war Monday and then the fighting spread all the way from Syria in the north to Egypt's Sinai Desert in the south.

Israel claimed the first victory, saying it ousted Khan Yunis at the southern end of the Egyptian-administered Gaza Strip. A field of rescue crack tanks and troops seized the town.

Cairo attacked the claim was repulsed at this scene of territorial fighting in the 1956 Suez War.

Sky battles swirled over Israel, and the Arab tanks in his army came to the Middle East for the third time. It is believed that Israel's Israel's Port of Haifa and airports at the Arab capitals of Cairo, Amman and Damascus were struck by air raids. Heavy fighting was reported from the Sinai Desert and along Jordan's 350-mile border with Israel. Artillery duels shook Jerusalem, the Holy City also was damaged.

As both sides claimed the other started a war that may drag the big powers into its vortex, Arab radio called for a battle to the end to wipe out the Jewish nation.

Egypt, older and larger than the neighboring Arab states, reported it was pouring troops into Jordan for the fourth time in two years and pulled others from other Arab lands.

"Egypt has forced a military campaign upon us, and all of us, the entire nation, said Prime Minister Levi Eshkol of Israel declared in a broadcast, "We shall repel the enemy and defend our borders!"

Gen. Moshe Dayan, Israel's new defense minister who led the army to victory in the 1956 Sinai war with Egypt, said his men were not setting out for conquest. Our only aim is to frustrate the attempt of the Arab forces to capture our country."

Dayan said the army's task was to "sever and crush the ring of blockades and aggressions which have been created around us."

Cairo radio called on Egypt's armies to "attack, destroy and liberate Palestine." Damascas radio said the Arab forces will not resist "until the Zionists are completely obliterated from our Arab land."

U.N. Secretary-General U Thant reported that three countries were not ready to agree to a U.N. Emergency Force in 1956, and into the Gazad Strip to the north, scene of bitter fighting in the Israeli-Arab war of 1948, 5,000 troops were involved in the Sinai War.

The Egyptian command said the Israelis struck along a road leading from the frontier to Imsa'a, about 180 miles west of the border and a midway point on the Suez Canal.

U.N. Resolution Faces Delay

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) -- A U.N. cease-fire appeal to Israel and the Arab countries ran into a delay today when members of the Security Council argued privately over an Indian proposal that both sides withdraw their troops to positions they held Sunday.

All members of the 15-nation council were reported to be agreed that a cease-fire resolution should be adopted, but some felt that no mention of troop withdrawals was necessary. Some said that the provisional U.N. resolution favored the Arabs.

The Soviet Union said it would be backing the Indian proposal.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg was understood to have taken the position that the question of troop withdrawals should be avoided, but that if it is included it should call for a return to positions occupied before the Egyptians moved into the vicinity of the Gulf of Aqaba last month.

This was a battle of tanks and troops.

In the Egyptian-administered Gaza Strip, on the Mediterranean Sea, the Israelis pounded into Khan Yunis. "The enemy has struck at positions in these locations and has been repulsed," a military spokesman said in Cairo.

Amman radio said heavy fighting had broken out all along the border between Jordan and Israel, but gave no details. Dispatches from Tel Aviv indicated that most of this fighting was confined to artillery duels, although Israeli tanks were moving up.

The Israelis said the Arab artillery fired northward to villages east of Tel Aviv and southward to areas between Beersheba and Ramleh.

Heavy fighting in Jerusalem wrecked the city in smoke, including Mt. Zion where King David's tomb stands. Heavy Jordanian gunfire also was directed on the road leading westward from Jerusalem to Amman.

Jordanian troops laid siege to the U.N. Truce Supervisors but in Jerusalem, bringing a strong protest from Thant.

U.S. Planes Bag 3rd MIG

SARGON (AP) — U.S. fighter-bombers attacked a Communist MIG airfield in North Vietnam Monday and shot down one of three interceptors that scrambled to challenge the American planes.

It was the third MIG shot down in three days, U.S. planes bagged two Saturday. The Americans made no mention of plane losses, but Hanoi claimed two were shot down Monday.

Ground action, sharp over the weekend in some sectors, lapsed into a lull.

"There were no significant contacts reported in the 16 announced ground operations in the republic," a communiqué from U.S. headquarters said.

The downing of the MIG brought to 75 by Air Force count — the number of confirmed Communist interceptors downed over North Vietnam, compared to 20 U.S. planes lost to MIGs.

The MIG was downed by a 20mm Gatling gun mounted on an F-4C Phantom fighter flying protective cover for F105 Thunderchiefs which were attacking the airfield.

There was no immediate report on damage at the airfield.

In a delayed report, the U.S. Command announced that 86 Communists were killed Sunday in coastal Quang Nga Province, 325 miles northeast of Saigon, with artillery accounts for 41 of the dead.

While there was little fighting reported Monday, troops of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division uncovered 92 Communist bunkers and a large ammunition mine in the Moc Long River delta, south of Saigon. The bunker and the mine were destroyed.

Speck Receives Death Penalty For Murdering Student Nurses

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Richard Speck stood silent Monday while he heard himself sentenced to die in the electric chair Sept. 1 for the massacre of eight nurses.

Judge Herbert C. Paschen accepted the punishment recommended by a jury which convicted Speck April 15 in Peoria of strangling and stabbing the eight young women July 14, 1966, in their townhouse dormitory in Chicago.

Judge Paschen noted that the sentence could be stayed by the Illinois Supreme Court. An appeal is automatic in capital punishment cases.

Gerald W. Getty, Cook County (Chicago) public defender who was appointed to continue to represent Speck, had stated a death penalty "would go through all the courts in the land and God knows how long that would take."

Great Teacher Award

Goes to Van Lente

Kenneth A. Van Lente, professor of chemistry, was named winner of the 1967 Great Teacher Award of the SIU Alumni Association at its annual Alumni Day banquet Saturday night.

The award, consisting of a plaque and a check for $1,000, has been presented each year since 1960, to a faculty member, either active or retired, selected by members of the Alumni Association in tribute to his or her exceptional teaching ability. Talents other than actual classroom performance are not considered.

Van Lente came to SIU in 1931 immediately upon receiving his Ph.D. from the University of Michigan. He also received his master's degree from that institution after completing his undergraduate work at Hope College, Holland, Michigan.

From 1931 to 1945, Van Lente and three colleagues comprised the entire chemistry faculty at SIU and the group was affectionately dubbed the "four horsemen." 4,000 Yearbooks Ready Wednesday

About 4,000 copies of the 1967 Obelisks will be available at the yearbook's office noon Monday in the Administration Building, Wednesday at 8 a.m.

The remainder of the books will be shipped from Texas and will be available for distribution at the open house of the week, according to W. Manion Rice, yearbook advisor.

The Obelisk Office will remain open until 5 p.m. Saturday to returning graduating seniors may pick up their yearbooks, he said.

Restoring of Midcast Peace Discussed

"If the U.S.S.R. can take advantage of it, will,"

"I agree with Sen. Symington when he said we belong in the Middle East more so than in Vietnam," Elliott added.

Elliott suggested that President Johnson, if he's smart about it, has a good chance to make some political hay.

"This offers a nice way of saving some face in Vietnam. LIL could inject the Middle East and Russia into domestic politics, in the sense that the wars represent a grave threat to world peace. Then he could ask the Russians what their price would be. Vietnam, probably.

"If he could take this and act on it, making it appear like America was increasing the hopes for world peace, he could go on making concessions in Vietnam.

"This would be a brilliant move, LIL would be unbeatable in '68," Elliott concluded.

Klingberg suggested a solution to the Middle East crisis might settle global conflicts elsewhere. We don't mean to give up South Viet Nam but we may get some sort of settlement from Ho Chi Minh."

Israelis, Arab Students Worry

About Relatives in Middle East

The news of the war in the Middle East reached two SIU students—from countries on opposite shooting ends—in the peaceful morning hours of Carbondale Monday.

An Israeli psychology student, who spent seven more hours to complete after this week before graduation, is thinking of returning home if he is needed.

Joseph Irlak was studying in his trailer for an exam when he turned on the radio to hear the 6:55 news.

"I don't think they really need us," Irlak said. "But we have a moral obligation."

He said he and his compatriots had been talking about the possibility of returning just this week.

His parents are in Chicago for the duration of Irlak's study here. But he has study assistants, uncles and cousins about whom he is worried.

One cousin lives in Nahrain, just north of Tel Aviv, and the news of bombing there worries him.

Marwan Qazzaz, a graduate student in government, heard the news at 7 a.m. in his apartment where he lives with his wife.

His parents, a brother and four sisters are in the Jordan side of Jerusalem. He heard on the radio of the bombardment of Jerusalem.

Because the stories being so conflicting and unconfirmed, he is hoping for the better. He will have to wait at least a week before he will hear from his family.

Qazzaz and Liftik both had been listening to the radio all day. At noon Qazzaz and other Arab students were in the University Center patio with a large transistor radio about noon.

The Jewish Student Center at 903 S. Waisher growt St., where Liftik stopped by to watch television was receiving all day from persons who wanted to donate money or blood.

Marching Salukis Seek New Talent With Member Drive

The Marching Salukis, SIU's unique marching band, has opened its spring membership drive. Melvin Siener, director of bands, said membership is open without audition to all male students who play brass, wind, or percussion instruments.

Students do not have to be music majors to belong to the band, Siener said. Each year, well over 50 per cent of the membership is made up of non-music majors.

The band meets only during the fall quarter on Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday from 3 to 5 p.m., and on Monday from 7 to 9 p.m. Members may receive one or two hours of academic credit for participation.

The band's tentative activities for the coming season include the regular preschool band camp, participation in all home football games, a trip to one of SIU's away football games, and an appearance at a St. Louis Cardinal football game.

Interested students should come to the band office, (T-37), and see Mike Hanes, assistant director of bands. Past members of the band who wish to enroll for the coming season also should report to the band office at their earliest convenience.

Memorial services were conducted here Monday for Richard Kudo, visiting professor of zoology who died Saturday at Barnes Hospital, St. Louis. He was 81 years old.

He specialized in protozoan parasites and discovered so many that an entire genus—Kudus—was named after him.

Kudo earned the doctor of science degree at Tokyo University in 1924. He leaves his wife, the former Esther Swanson, and two daughters, Mrs. Elin Emch of Sturgis, Mich., and Mrs. Jean Pearce, Norton, Mass.

Although the academic regalia worn at commencement ceremonies came to American colleges and universities by 1895, they were worn by students of other countries long before Columbus landed in America. There was a statute in 1321 that "Doctoris, Licentiates, and Bachelors" of the University of Coimbra wear gowns. In England in the 14th century long gowns were worn by students at graduation ceremonies. They may have provided warmth for medieval scholars who also wore hoods that covered the head until this time.

was replaced by the skull cap. The cap and gown, synonymous with American universities' graduation ceremonies, first came into being when this standard attire was chosen by representatives of American universities meeting at Columbia University in 1895.

This Intercollegiate Code has been revised twice, once in 1932 and again in 1959. All American colleges and universities have adopted the style of graduation regalia except for a few schools which tend to follow the schools of England, where black cotton or poplin gowns were worn by candidates for the bachelor's or doctor's degrees are more ornate than those worn by undergraduates. The candidates for doctor's degrees wear black velvet trimmed robes that have two black strips of velvet, on the billowy, waist-length gown. The hoods have two tall-like tassels of the color assigned to the respective college or division from which the student is graduating. Those holding the doctor's degree wear gold tassels. The tassels are fastened on the top of the cap and dangle to the left rim.

Robes worn at SIU commencement are rented through a Chicago company and are fitted by Earl Trobaugh, manager of the University Center Bookstore. The gowns for master's candidates rent for $6.50 while the gowns for doctorates cost $7.50.

Hoods are worn around the neck and drape below the waist in back for master's and doctor's degrees. For the master's candidates, hoods are 3 feet 6 inches long and are lined with the school's colors. For SIU, it is maroon and white. A 3-inch velvet trim around the hood indicates in which college or division the student is obtaining his degree.

The black velvet trimmed robe of the doctorate candidate is made of either rayon or silk. The hoods have two tall-like tassels of the color assigned at the end of their 4-foot long hood, while the master's has one. These hoods are lined with the school's colors from which the student obtained his degrees and are trimmed with a 4-inch velvet edge representing their major or division's colors. A faculty member can wear more than one hood. Each hood represents a degree.

Completing the regalia is the cap or mortarboard. These are always black at SIU with tassels of the color assigned to the respective college or division from which the student is being graduated. Those holding the doctor's degree wear gold tassels. The tassels are fastened on the top of the cap and dangle to the left rim.

Design Department Preparing For Total Isolation, Unification

The 9.5-foot wooden beam screen being constructed on Campus Drive across from the Communications Building is an attempt by the Department of Design to unify its barracks complex, according to Davis Pratt, department co-chairman.

The money for the screen, which will eventually encompass the Department of Design barracks and the department's geodesic dome, was a special allocation from the University to buy the materials. Design students and two professional architects are working on the construction work.

"The project was started this quarter," Pratt said.

Women Trampolinitos to Defend World Titles

By Tom Wood

Judy Willis and Nancy Smith are on their way to London again to defend their world titles in trampoline.

They will compete in the women's trampoline championships June 14-17.

The SIU girls won the right to represent the United States by finishing 1-2 in the National All trials last month.

Miss Willis is the reigning world champion, a title she won for the third time last year. She has also teamed with Miss Smith, the individual runner-up last year, for two synchronized world titles.

Vicki Bollinger of Springfield, a 17-year-old high school student, is making the trip as an alternate. The men's team will be represented by Wayne Miller and Dave Jacobs, both from the University of Michigan.

Miller is also a defending world champ. His team is New Loken, coach of the Wolverine gymnastics team.

In 1966, Misses Willis and Smith outscored the victorious team from Ohio State, while gaining the team title for the U.S.

They will perform compulsory trampoline routines in the preliminaries and the top teams will perform one more optional for the championship.

Double competition will consist of two optional routines.

Tom Ulrich Wins

Handball Tourney

Tom Ulrich of the University Park team won the intramural handball championship last weekend by defeating Joe Polozanno of the Sigma Pi team.

Terry Neubauer of Phi Sigma Kappa won the tennis championship, defeating George Toler of Sigma Pi in the final round.

Pleacher Flies Back Following Walkout

When Barber walked away from the plane and into the airport terminal building, a Baltimore Sun reporter asked him why he was walking away.

"I just didn't want to go with them," Barber said.

But at his parents' home here Monday, Patricia Barber said, "He didn't quit. I know he has a better than a 50-50 chance of coming back."

Barber was a no-decision winner in the 1966 World Series and his name was prominently mentioned in the free-agent sweepstakes prior to the season.

The Orioles have traded left-hander Gary Bell to the Chicago Cubs for outfielder Ken Hubbs.

"He didn't want to go on a long trip," Barber said. "He's a workhorse."

'67 NCAA Tennis Meet To Start Here Monday

Southern will play host to the 1967 NCAA University Division tennis championships beginning Monday and lasting through Saturday, June 17.

The event will bring the top collegiate performers in the country to the SIU courts.

Forty teams will compete in the championships. Southern California and UCLA will be the teams to beat in the tournament.

The two California schools have won 16 of the 21 collegiate titles. The Trojans are defending champions and will rely heavily on veterans Stan Smith and Joaquin Loyo Mayo, and Bob Lutz and Jim Hobsom.

The Northwesterns have been successful in recent years, having won the big title in 1964.

Other top teams, given a chance to dethrone the men's world champion, include t he West Virginia University, Oklahoma State, California, Rutgers, New Jersey State, Seattle, Texas, Air Force Academy, and Wisconsin.

 Singles competition will begin Monday morning, a. 9. Tickets may be purchased at the Arena ticket office or at the courts east of the Arena.

Track Team Ties for Fifth in Central Collegiate

By Tom Wood

Track Coach Lew Hartzog and the Salukis are not too happy about their fifth place finish last weekend in the Central Collegiate Championships, but they’re not wasting their time looking back.

The Salukis are already making preparations for this MEET—the NCAA Championships in Provo, Utah, June 15-18.

Horse Breaks Leg, Operation Succeeds

NEW YORK (AP) — Coo- Rree, the 3-year-old colt who fractured his leg and finished second to Damascus in last Saturday's Belmont Stakes at Aqueduct, is recovering from surgery after a two-hour operation Monday night. Dr. William Reed, a veterinarian, said Tuesday morning that the horse will remain in Dr. Reed's hospital near Belmont for about two weeks while the bone heals. He then is expected to be sent back to a Utah training farm. His racing days are over.

Cool Reception apparently suffered the fracture in the last one-sixteenth mile of the 1 1/2-mile race.

Baseball League Scheduled For Men at Summer School

Although the Midwest College Sun mer League will not be held this summer, SIU Coach Joe L. az hopes many of the Saluki baseball players will remain active in the sport during the summer.

The Midwest League folded out this spring after two years of success. Parsons College and St. Louis University, the other teams in the three team league, dropped out of the loop, Parsons dropped out because of accreditation problems and St. Louis because of lack of interest.

Benson ran a 47.2 quarter mile to take third place and qualify for the NCAA meet.

Delta Chi, Swat Sox

Take Softball Titles

Delta Chi and the SWAT Sox won the intramural softball championships Saturday. Delta Chi took the 12-inch crown by knocking off Playboy Ball, the CIT champs.

Sweat defeated the Kick-Offs for their title.

The members of the 12-inch all-star team are: Dave Boom, Bill Benson, and Bill Healey, Missfins; Jay Callisto, Moeller's Marauders; Duane Borking, Coors; Mike Yates, Delta Chi; Ed Hoffman, Sigma Pi; Mike Frisch, Sigma Pi; and Bob Mills, Phi Kappa Tau.

The 16-inch team was made up of Rich Defini and Tony Harman, Plaza Grill; Sam Derkach, Aces; Bob Gardner, Bud-Dula and Paul Dule, Inspiration; Nick Molchik, Ray's Grath and Bob Johnson, Sweat Sox; Frank Pasarella, Cheeks and Clint Swanson, Draft Dodgers.

Sweat Sox dropped out of the race in the last inning, but the SWAT Sox remained as leader and didn't lose the game.

Mike Mondon of Iowa took the event with a 4:46.4 clocking. Hartzog thought he ran on Ross McKenzie were capable of bringing SIU a second and third in this event, but McKenzie finished well back in the field.

Jeff Duxbury dropped too far behind to be able to catch the field with his final kick in the mile. He took seventh place. Bobby Jackson was a surprise in the long jump. The little basketball guard leaped 23 feet for a fifth place finish.
