Students Vote Today For Council Posts

Voting will be conducted all day today for a fraternity senator and a senior class president to fill unexpired terms on the Student Council. Ballots will be available in all residence halls and at the Student Center.

Candidates on the ballot for fraternity senator are John G. Burnett and Leonard R. Thiel.

Bruno Klaus is the only candidate for senior class president. However, Bob Griesbaum is conducting write-in campaigns for the position.

On Tuesday, election commission, said any student wishing to vote for a write-in candidate should write the candidate’s name in blank on the form for that purpose and mark an “X” or check mark in the box in front of the name written in.

The two persons elected in today’s election will serve on the Student Council through the coming quarter. They will replace Dennis Gerz, fraternity senator who resigned recently to go to Alaska, and Jack Fuller, senior class president who resigned after missing too many meetings.

Wind Ensemble On Convocation

The University Wind Ensemble, under the direction of Donald Canedy, will present a musical program in concert today at 12:10 and 1 p.m. in Shryock Auditorium.

Selections to be included are “Lament Symphony” by Robert Devorak, “Doodletown Fillers” by Wilford Roberts from the Sauter-Finegan arrangement, “Concertino” by Clifton Williams, featuring the percussion section of the band, and Clifton Williams’ “Dramatic Essay” with trumpet soloist Fred Berry.

No Reason Given:
Fenwick Says He Will Veto Activity Fee Study Amendment

Student President Bill Fenwick said today he will veto Senate Bob Gray’s amendment to the Student Activity Fee Study at tonight’s Student Council meeting.

The amendment was passed last week after lengthy discussion and arguments when the Council voted nine to six to change the form of the fee study.

Fenwick declined to state his reasons for vetoing the bill at this time. However, he said he was preparing a statement for presentation to the Council tonight.

The purpose of the fee study is to make an evaluation of all accounts which receive funds from activity fees. After the Council will make its recommendations, the fee study will be examined by the SIU Board of Trustees, which will make final decisions on allocation of the funds.

Council Chairman Ted Hutton said that in spite of arguments over the study’s form, it would definitely be the most complete evaluation ever undertaken.

Hutton said that this year’s fee study would provide next year’s Council a basis for conducting their own. He said he expected last year’s study helped this year’s Council very little.

The four-week dispute over the study centers around the plan that would require a proposed activity fee to be assessed by the student and be placed in a trust fund. Only one-tenth of one percent would be used in general university affairs, and the remaining 99 percent would be deposited in a fund to be spent for student activities.

Fenwick said that the amendment would provide a veto by the president of the Senate and be separate from the general fee policy. In addition, he said he expected the provision would stop the fund from being used by the university.

Student controllers are pleased with the decision, and Fenwick said he would make it more realistic.

Maremont Defends IPAC Stand On Public Aid Funds

Arnold Maremont, chairman of the Illinois Public Aid Commission, told an audience here that as long as he is chairman of the commission, “there’s going to be more controversy.”

“We’re going to make people think through this problem,” he told a meeting of public aid officials and workers at the University Center.

Maremont, a member of the SIU Board of Trustees, has been under fire from the Commission’s handling of public aid funds including a controversial plan to provide birth control information to persons receiving support from the Commission.

He made only an indirect mention of his previous threat to quit his IPAC post if the Board of Trustees would implement individual relief payments.

In passing, he labeled “shame demogouphy” legislative attempts to place ceilings on aid payments and he criticized treatment of the capital budgets of SIU and the other state universities.

His comments about the controversy with the legislature were injected into a speech in which he said job training such as that provided by SIU’s Vocational-Tecbnical Institute appears to be the best hope for alleviating the Illinois Public Aid crisis.

Vocational-Techmcal Instit­ute job-training programs were cited by the IPAC chairman as an example of what is needed to keep Illinoisans off relief roles.

“They’re offering the kind of non-high school training needed to provide these people with some kind of skills they can take and be self-supporting,” he declared.

Areas where training programs would be most profitable today include practical nursing, auto mechanics, typing and stenography, bookkeeping, punch operation, nursing aides and home economics, Harold Bank, IPAC executive secretary, said.

Maremont also criticized recent cuts in the capital budgets of SIU and the other state universities.

“I don’t think enough of use in the state realize the magnitude of the problem,” he commented. “As an SIU trustee I know what will happen to our educational system in the future.”

Harry T. Moore Returning To SIU English Faculty

John S. Rendleman, Southern Illinois University executive director of business affairs, yesterday was appointed special assistant to the president and general counsel to the University.

The appointment was made by the Board of Trustees meeting in Edwardsville.

Rendleman, 35 years old and a native of Anna, joined the University staff in 1951 after receiving his Ph.D. degree from the University of Illinois. He began as an assistant professor of government and has served as acting legal counsel, acting director of personnel, and acting vice president for business operations.

He served as special counsel to the Illinois Budgetary Commission in its investigation of the state auditor’s office in 1956 and in 1957 was commissioned by the American Bar Association to draft legislation for traffic court administration, which was adopted by the Conference of Governors.

The University board said Rendleman’s change of duties will take place at the convenience of President Doley W. Morris, when organizations and activities will permit.

In another action yesterday, the Board of Trustees appointed David F. Williams as an associate professor of philosophy.

Returning to the position he resigned last spring to accept a faculty position at the University of Colorado, Professor Williams will be in charge of the SIU philosophy department. A graduate of Washington University, St. Louis, Hahn also will be in charge of the SIU philosophy department’s expanding graduate study program.

Hahn has been at Washington University the past five years. He is the author of several books and articles and is an examiner of the University of Chicago’s Theory of Perception, and is editor of the “Annual Proceedings and Address of the American Philosophical Association,” an organization of which he is national secretary.

Hahn will be working on two books soon to be published: a study of value theory and an examination of philosophical ideas in literature.

The board also ratified a purchase of $355,000 and gave it 1.7 acres of land on West Mill Street near Forest and Lake Streets, University Press To Issue 11 New Books

Eleven new publications will be released by the University Press during the next two months, according to Vernon Sternberg, director.

Four paperback editions will be released on March 25, "The Mourning Dove in Illinois" by Donald Hamann and Charles W. Kossack and "The Countryside Rabbit in Illinois" by Robert Rendleman Lord, Jr., which will be published on March 28.

"History of the Reign of Frederick III, Isabella the Catholic" by William Prescott and edited by C. Harvey Gottlieb will be released April 8.

That Will Curl Your Hair

By Jere Lawless

"All beauty, hair rollers be thy maiden name!"

Down through the ages, womankind has plucked her nose and ears, put plucks in her lower lip, bound her feet, put bones through her nose, and stuffed her body into odd restraining and enlarging devices—all for beauty's sake.

The latest revised technique, designed to glamorize the feminine gender and hide the rest of manhood, is the use of far hair rollers.

Although the fake could have staged its come-back as logically in a jungle clearing as in campus America, it did not. Here are some contemporary, local comments on the road block by SIU coeds: Michelle Herrick: "Now days you just don't wear your hair close to your head. Rollers make your hair looser, less curly, puffier, more natural and carefree."

Bronn Woodring: "They make your hair hasher. Also, if you're in a bad mood,since haar hair isn't the same, you don't have to worry about it."

Cheryl Vance: "I used to use bobby pins, then I used rollers. My hair grew now I use bigger rollers."

"Where's it all going to end?"

I'll be bald by the time I'm 21," she said, noting that rollers had caused a few hairs to disappear from her scalp.

Mary Brown: "It used to be hard to go to sleep with them; but now that I'm used to them, it's not too bad to go to bed without them. Sometimes they dig, though; you have to pick out a comfortable spot in the pillow. The most comfortable is the one on which you never put your head."

"They're terrible and uncomfortable," said Mabelle Horton. "If I have to try to sleep in rollers, I'll put a pick in each one to hold it in place. The picks stick into you bad and you can't have any idea the pains girls go through to be beautiful."

And what do the men think of them?

"They are the worst looking things," said Joe Schift. "One, girl-watcher replied. "Makes them look like they've just wired themselves to be shot into orbit with Scott Carpenter."

Maremont Defends IPAC

five to seven years, this Legislature hasn't provided the funds for the education of all the young people of this state who'll want it. When we get around to providing the funds, the Southern Illinois Associated Press Managing Editors Association and everyone else will say, "More education, we want more."

The IPAC's $700 million budget request for the next two years—which faces apparent further cuts in the Legislature—had already been pared $71 billion billion before submission to the Budgetary Commission, Maremont said. Projections of current trends in population growth and rising costs of clothing, rent and utilities showed a $771 million welfare expenditure for the Illinois poor compared with about $620 million for the current one. 1969-

71. Projections show an estimated $1 billion IPAC cost.

Further cuts in the $700 million budget would drop aid payments below a "minimum cost of health and decency," he said.

"If we don't maintain the present welfare system, we'll endanger the welfare of the poor of the community," he told his audience.

"We're going to support the people who don't need assistance; they'll endanger the welfare of the rest of the community," he told his audience.

"If we don't maintain the present welfare system, we'll endanger the welfare of the rest of the community," he told his audience.

Commenting on a question afterwards, he said the IPAC hopes to block the aid-payment cut in the Legislature, but "low welfare workers will have to go into work."

Maremont said, "They are the worst looking things," said Joe Schift. "One, girl-watcher replied. "Makes them look like they've just wired themselves to be shot into orbit with Scott Carpenter."

Both Maremont and Swank quoted batteries of statistics showing the scope of the welfare problem in Illinois and the nation as a whole.

The idea that the U.S. is becoming a "welfare nation" is true, Maremont said. In terms of 1959 dollars the U.S. spent slightly over $3 billion dollars on labor, health, education, and welfare last year. In 1939, with $5 billion fewer people, the U.S. spent nearly $4 billion, he said.

Du Quoin Slayer Is Apprehended

BELLEVILLE, III. — Ronald Willett Metzger, 20, yesterday admitted the slaying of a Du Quoin service station attendant on Feb. 25 and the robbery of the Hub Cafe in Carbondale on the same day. Metzger was arrested at his home by Belleville police. Chief of Police Reese Dobson did not say how Metzger was arrested.

Dobson said Metzger led officials to a spot north of Belleville where he had burned some of the loot. In his apartment police found about $3, located in a trunk in Metzger’s home.

Metzger, a house-to-house salesman, said he was an electronics student at SIU in Carbondale one year. He was registered in the fall and winter quarters in 1960.

He told the police he conducted the robberies and burglaries alone, but Belleville police suspect he had an accomplice in some of the burglaries. Metzger had been a patient at Alton State Hospital at one time. He was placed on 24 months probation for auto theft in 1958.

WASHINGTON

President Kennedy yesterday said at a news conference that he is not satisfied with the rate of withdrawal of Soviet troops from Cuba. He rejected any application of a blockade saying this would be an act of war, and added, "At this time, we do not believe war in the Caribbean is to the national advantage."

Kennedy left open a question of whether the four American fliers killed in the 1960 Senate of Pigs invasion were employed by the Central Intelligence Agency. He said, "the men were serving their country" but declined to go further.

Regarding taxes, Kennedy said he is of the judgment that Congress will put through a bill which will lower taxes and provide the important elements of his tax-law revisions.

SPRINGFIELD, III.

A series of new economy measures were introduced in the Illinois legislature yesterday including abolishing the state’s $3 1/2-million-a-year high school driver education program and another to eliminate scholarships by legislators to state universities.

WASHINGTON

The Kennedy Administration threw its weight behind a "Truth-in-pack-aging" bill today, but the measure ran into powerful Republican opposition that clouded its prospects.

Family Fun and You!!!

Now is the chance to get in on the ground floor of a new benefit to Carbondale. It is the family fun spot, The Surf Club. This Club is designed for families that are looking for summer fun in the sun with people like you to be around.

The Surf Club will offer many services: tennis, swimming instruction, shuffle board, and a complete snack bar. It was decided to extend the 25 meter pool to a 50 meter Olympic size pool, after helpful consultation with Dr. Edward Shea and Swimming coach Ralph Casey. This will accommodate the whole family from the tots on up.

The Surf Club will be a community asset. Throughout the summer aquatic events of interest to everyone will be held in this pool. It will give to the people of Carbondale the type recreation center they have wanted and needed.

With your help the Surf Club will open June 1st. To find out more about this Carbondale asset, write the SURF CLUB, 702 E. Main St., or call 7-4064. Be sure you're on the list at the SURF CLUB.

We invite and appreciate your inquiry.

Very truly yours,

More Time For Finals

The drive for good grades presents a number of problems to the student; one of them is the shortage of time before final examinations.

The demand on student's time is tremendous, both within and outside of the university. In order to improve capacity to spend in a university is to follow a course of study toward understanding and wisdom. Within this framework alone, students' time is short, and any help that might get that would serve to better study conditions is worthwhile.

One way in which the student might be helped would be to allow the student one day in the last day of classes and the first day of final examination week. Final exams in each quarter of the 1962-63 school year have or will begin the following day following of scheduled classes.

Student Council recently approved a bill requesting at least one day between the last day of classes and final exam week.

Bill Fenwick, student body president, is by mandate to convey this request to the university administration.

Viewed from the administration's position, an authorization to alter the scheduling system might not be possible or advisable. It is unlikely we would be able in the future to facilitate the handling of printed materials and the make-up of class schedules.

If one day were to be sandwiched in between classes and finals, a total of three days would have to be taken from some other period. Whether the students would be willing to give up one day of term break or put themselves in the position of having to go to school three days longer in June is debatable.

However, the advantage the student would gain in preparing for finals, especially the student who must spend the final week of classes preparing a term paper, would be worth the added effort needed to change SUU's class program.

Letter To The Editor: Student Believes University Policy Should Encourage Freedom Of Choice

I agree with your comments in favor of trailers and apartments. I have sampled dormitory life and found it to be lacking in that quality of privacy and quiet that I find most satisfying. The possibility of losing this privacy is very disturbing. And I wonder who has asked the university to take on the responsibility of setting and maintaining any set of standards on off-campus housing.

By what authority does this university seek to meddle in student affairs more than the classroom and the lecture hall? I'm sure that there are many students who would join me in informing the university that its paternal and tell care is not always needed or wanted. I will gladly handle my own affairs, seeing to it myself that I have proper conditions of election, health, safety, and study (I wonder what standards the university's supervision of study conditions, mandatory morning call-ins to ensure personal physical fitness?). Perhaps I am misled in believing that a university is essentially a place where one comes to learn and not one's interests in a free and mature atmosphere? I might be idealistic in assuming that most students entering a university enter into their study habits of the academic interests of their student body. If such is the case, it seems to me that the university already possesses adequate means with which to chastise offending students. What better machinery is there for instruction of a student of the university's disaffection with him than the grading system? Of course, there is no way that the university can give a D or an E in morality, but what right does the university have to judge the individual moral-ty of its students? Its proper role in this area is one of education rather than imposition.

It is needless to say that there is a certain proportion of the student body whose interests are more socially than academically oriented. Although this element is not especially constructive or productive in regard to the academic function of the university, it is not necessarily destructive of it. Such a social faction on campus could be a minor irritation in society, and so the campus can't expect anything of this faction is probably constructive in preparing a certain kind of student for a certain kind of life. If the university is to be sure that its basic educational goals are to be achieved within this faction, it may be necessary to provide a greater amount of direct university supervision.

I would suggest that the social faction-arbitration system on campus be enlarged to bring more of the socially inclined elements under more direct university supervision. I recommend maintaining the maintenance of the current 3.5 minimum grade point average for fraternity-arbitration membership, and I further suggest that a 3.8 minimum for the 3.2 minimum necessary grade point average for fraternity-arbitration membership, and I further suggest that a 3.8 minimum for the 3.0 minimum necessary grade point average for all members of the campus student body. The raised off-campus housing. The raised off-campus housing would encourage the balanced and less academically oriented students from living in off-campus housing, and would provide a guarantee to the university that those living in such housing had provided themselves with property consistent with their economic status. I would sincerely attempt to avoid greater direct university intervention in student affairs where such intervention would be unnecessary and perhaps actually detrimental to the maintenance of a mature campus atmosphere.

One friend who plans to write for newspapers until she can support herself with creative writing is both a product and a cause of this movement. It’s a product of the time because for some time she’s been subject to, if not criticism, then at least some pressure from the English faculty of the college she attends. But she is not at all alone in her protest. Many of the nation’s sports editors in the country. He explains further that he resolved to become a full-time "creative" writer.

I have several journalist friends who plan to do the same. Now I’m not about to criticize their plans or tell them what to do, but reading the Gallico book and talking to my friends has crystallized the gripe I’ve had for some time. That gripe is the way journalists are viewed as second-rate writers and journalists majorly viewed as people who couldn’t make the grade in English.

Recently I bought a copy of Paul Gallico's book, Further Madness of a Story Writer. In the introduction, he lists some biographical facts, one of which is that at one time he was one of the highest paid sports editors in the country. He explains further that he resolved to become a full-time "creative" writer.

A Vote Of Confidence For Journalists And Journalism

For many famous "creative" writers, including Mark Twain and Stephen Crane, may have used newspapers as a stepping stone to their careers, but I still believe in the integrity and usefulness of newspapers and journalists for their own sake, despite what Richard Nixon says.

SIU's Varsity And Freshmen Take On Indiana Wrestlers

Both SIU's varsity and freshman wrestling teams will compete tonight against Indiana State in Terre Haute. "Indiana State is tougher than the devil in the light weight," Jim Wilkinson, SIU wrestling coach, said. "But SIU boys will give all right in the heavier weights."

Izzy Ramos will return to action tonight at 115 pounds for the varsity after a knee operation sidelined him for one month. "He responded quickly to the operation and was back on the mat in three weeks," Wilkinson said.

Terry Pein will wrestle at 123 pounds. Bob Morris, who won the Ozark All-130-pound match, will compete at 130 pounds if he can make weight. If he can't, Dan Devine will take his place.

Dan Divito will wrestle at 137 pounds, Eric Felbeck at 147, Tony Jackson 157 and Don Millard 167. Jackson is competing for the first time this season after an elbow injury sidetracked him.

Ken Houston, one of Southern's two All-Americans, will wrestle at 177 pounds, Roger Plagg will go at 191 and Larry Kristoff will wrestle the heavyweight position.

It will be the last appearance for Houston who Wilkinson calls the best wrestler in SIU's history. "It will be hard to lose a man the caliber of Houston and he will be sorely missed next season," Wilkinson added.

Houston placed third in the last two years in the NCAA Championships and has been an All-American for two years.

SIU's freshman team is fresh from a 27-7 win over Joliet Junior College and is anxious for more action. Eleven boys will compete for the Salukis, freshmen.

Larry Lain will be at 115, Bill How at 125, Don Schiel- der at 130 and Bud Felchlin at 137. Greg Berletich 147, Warren Stahlup or Robert Cruse at 157, Gene Kristoff at 167, Bob Herkert at 177, Dennis McBabe at 191 and Chuck Koresmel at heavyweight.

SIU has a 1-2 dual meet record this season. Its lone victory came against Miami of Ohio, Bloomington (Pa.), State Teachers College, one of the top small college teams, beat the Salukis and Iowa State's fine team edged Southern 16-13.

SIU's scheduled matches with Findlay College and Oklahoma State were cancelled but with nice weather predicted for today the Salukis grapplers should be able to compete tonight at Indiana State.

Plant Industries Meeting

Plant Industries Club will meet at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Agriculture Seminar Room.

Junior, Sophomore Gymnasts Lose Intra-Squad Meet

Competing without the services of four top performers, Southern's Junior and sophomore gymnasts were beaten by a more experienced senior squad, 82-31 Tuesday night in an intra-squad meet in Men's Gym.

The feat got the best of Rusty Mitchell, Dennis Wolf and Chuck Erdlich, leaving the junior-sophomore team stranded. Chuck Woerk, who reinjured a knee for the second time this year, could only work the free exercise event. Woerk turned in a fine performance despite the injured knee, and finished a strong second in that event.

The purpose of Tuesday night's attraction was to pick the ten-man squad which will make the trip to Pittsburgh, Pa., for the NCAA championships on March 29 and 30. Coach Bill Meade has his squad and hopes to better the performances of the last two years in the nationals, when the Salukis had to settle for the runner-up spot.

The ten man squad includes all-around performers Fred Orlofsky, Bruno Klaus and Rusty Mitchell. Mitchell will be defending his tumbling title.

The remainder of the squad includes ring specialists Dennis Wolf, Chuck Erdlich and Tom Geocars, Geocars took the runner-up spot in the still ring competition in last year's championships.

Also making the trip east, will be side horse ace Steve Pasternak, John Rush, Bill Hladik and Chuck Woerz. Woerz' knee will have to improve if he's to make the nationals.

Bill Simms and Hugh Blane will be the runner-up spot.

In the open mile and Brian Turner, Jack Brown, Dennis Wolf (center dark shirt) sits out meet.

Saluki Track Team To Compete In Daily News Relays Friday

SIU will compete Friday night in the Chicago Daily News invitational indoor track meet and then move to Milwaukee, Wis., for a Saturday night indoor meet.

Jerry Fendrich, Bill Lindsay, Bob Wheelwright and Gary Carr will represent SIU as members of the Saluki Track Club in the open mile relay. The team bettered the 3:23.8 mile relay record set by Western Michigan with a 3:21.5 effort.

"If determination has much to do with success, and we all know that it does, these four boys are going to have a lot of fun before they graduate," Harzez said.

They will be accompanying Southern's three All-Americans Jim Dupree, Bill Cornell and Brian Turner, Jack Peters, Jim Stewart and George Woods will also appear in Chicago.
