Agreement reached on fee allocations

By Ray Urchel
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A 3¾-hour meeting between Student Affairs officials and representatives from the Student Senate and the Graduate Student Council (GSC) Friday produced several agreements regarding the future allocation of unused Student Activity fees.

Bruce Swinburne, vice president for student affairs; Harvey Welch, dean of student life and acting fiscal officer for student Government; and Nancy Harris, coordinator of student activities, conferred with Student President Doug Diggle; John Hardt, executive assistant to Diggle and Ellen Schanze-Haskins, GSC president.

Swinburne, who served as spokesman for the group, said their determinations were:

—Students should have the major say on how their student activity fees are spent.
—All collected activity fees should be budgeted.
—There will be a contingency allocation of approximately $5,000, supervised by the vice president for student affairs.
—Swinburne said he expects to confer soon with SIU Legal Council John Huff man to determine whether the agreement needs to be approved by the Board of Trustees.
—He said that he favored sending the document, when completed, to the board because it is a "more precise" clarification of how unused activity fees will be allocated.
—If board action is required, Swinburne said he hoped the agreement could be presented at the November meeting.
—Swinburne said that it is his responsibility to see that the allocated activity fee money is spent, adding that he anticipates requests to be forthcoming from the Student Senate and GSC about how those monies will be allocated.
—Unused student activity fees presently are being placed in the vice president for student affairs fund. Swinburne said he expects to confer soon with SIU Legal Council to develop a "new formula" for student affairs contingency fund. The account is now approximately $10,000 in debt, because of unaided loans made to student groups.

Diggie and Swinburne said they will try to get the three organizations, Black Affairs Council, Student Government Activities Council and student radio station WIDB, to repay $7,600 in loans made from the account as soon as possible.
—Each spring, the SIU Accounting Office estimates the amount of money to be generated through student activity fees, based on enrollment projections for the following fall semester. If there is an enrollment increase, the student surplus fund is placed in the board of Trustees.
—According to the agreement, a portion of excess revenue, maybe as much as 20 percent, will be placed in the contingency account, while the remainder will proportionately divided by the student constituencies.

CCHS photo bid raises legal issue

By Laura Coleman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Carbondale Community High School Board of Education Thursday night approved hiring a photographer to take pictures for the school yearbook, even though the board members are not sure the action was legal.

The board approved the hiring of Images, Ltd. of Carbondale which has already taken some of the student pictures. The firm was allowed to do the job before the board took action.

According to legislation enacted by the Illinois Community High School Board Assembly in 1973, bids must be solicited by the board for items such as yearbook pictures, class rings, graduation announcements and other such items that are bought by the individual students.

Board member Charles Hindersman said the purpose of the legislation is to avoid possible kickbacks from companies selling the items to the school officials.

County Superintendent of Schools Monroe Deming said Friday he issued an opinion in 1973 interpreting the statute to mean the board should solicit bids periodically rather than every year. He added that a copy of the opinion "should have been on file" at CHS.

Hindersman said he does not recall the board ever officially soliciting bids for the photos, but he has an understanding with school officials that more than one firm has been unofficially contacted about doing the job.

CCHS-Central Principal Arthur Black told the board Thursday he was under the impression that items bought by the school district are not subject to the bidding requirement.

How the firm was chosen was not known to the board Thursday.

When questioned by the board, Black said he received no recommendation to hire Images, Ltd. from the yearbook sponsor, Norman Boehtlicher.

Boehtlicher said Friday that the two student editors of the yearbook told him they received informal approval from Black last summer for images, Ltd. to take senior portraits. Black could not be reached Friday for comment.

CCHS Supt. Melvin Spence told the board he met with a representative of Images, Ltd. in September, but that he had not given an approval for the firm to perform the job.

That representative was Henry Nicolaides, Spence said Friday that Nicolaides "never received any official information that I know of. I met him, and he explained the service to me. That was it."

Attorney general bidder would reform welfare

By Pat Carecasan
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Criticizing governmental bureaucracy for its wasted expenditure, attorney general candidate Patrick Murphy, D-Chicago, said Friday, if elected, he would work to reform the state welfare system.

Murphy, the only announced Democratic candidate for the attorney general's position, spoke to the Illinois Welfare Association District 10 meeting in the Student Center about the problems in the current Illinois welfare system.

A former attorney of the Chicago Legal Aid office and former member of the Illinois Welfare Association, Murphy said he is familiar with the "bureaucratic bungling" which the poor and disadvantaged must contend with.

Murphy said he is campaigning on reformatting the state institutions which meddle in the lives of citizens.

Speaking to the nearly 50 persons attending the meeting, Murphy recounted the scenes he had seen in mental hospitals and juvenile homes throughout the state.

"People have been mentally retarded away in homes so they will not have to see what they are doing to them," Murphy declared.

Mental hospitals are understaffed and patient neglect is common, Murphy said. While most mental health committees have doctors and lawyers who look at the problem from their own point of view, Murphy said few look at mental institutions from the patients' point of view.

As the state's chief legal officer, Murphy said he would make the state institutions obey the law.

"The first priority for the institutions is to provide humane treatment for their patients. If they can't do that, they will have to cut back on other functions," Murphy said.

Talking about his candidacy later in an interview, Murphy said he expected other Democrats to declare these candidacies for the attorney general's office.

The only announced candidate currently is present Attorney General William Scott, a Republican.

"I plan to seek the support of both Mayor Daley and Gov. Walker in the general election," Murphy said.

Even though he may not be "slated by the regular Democratic Party, Murphy said he thinks his campaign will be successful because he has "got out early and campaigned hard."

Mr. Murphy said the governor's recent statements about being out to beat Daley in his election are as much to the citizens of Chicago and the voters in the rest of the state."

In his speech, Murphy criticized the present administration for its "political handlings of problems in the mental health area.

Sixteen injured in grain elevator explosion

NORTH VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) - At least 16 persons were injured Friday in a huge explosion at a grain elevator here, North Vancouver Harbour Police said.

First reports from Canadian Press had said at least nine persons were killed in the blast that sent debris shooting 20 feet into the air at Burrard Terminals Ltd. on the north shore of Burrard Inlet.

Inspector Tom Shortridge said there have been no reports of fatalities at the moment, but the biggest problem now is to determine just how many people were on the facility when the explosion occurred. It will be hours before we can dig through the rubble."But we can't get near the rubble now because it is still burning," he said.

A witness to the blast was quoted as saying the whole side of the elevator blew out. A number of smaller explosions followed in the main explosion. The dannet

IRS takes $1.5 million from Powell estate

VIENNA (AP) - Federal taxmen have settled their claims on the estate of Paul Powell and his wife for nearly $1.58 million less than they said was due.

The Federal Steel Court in Vienna, where the former Illinois secretary of state lived and is buried, showed the Internal Revenue Service took $1.5 million from the estates of Powell and his wife though they sought $24 million.

Powell's holdings, according to the most recent federal income documents available, totaled nearly $2 million, much of which was in investments with fluctuating values.

An attorney for the estates, Joseph Lowery of East St. Louis, said the IRS sought $707,503 from Powell's estate but took $111,541.65.

The government wanted 496,000 unemployed, 6,000 more than in the previous month.

In addition, there are an unknown number of persons who want to work but have given up looking and are not included in the unemployment figures.

The federal government said the national unemployment rate declined to 8.3 percent in September from 8.5 percent before.

The Illinois's September figure of 9.8 percent was up from 9.0 percent in August. There was no significant impact put on the labor markets in the state, said Donald A. Johnson, Illinois labor director.

Harris intends participation in her defense

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Symbionese Liberation Army member Emily Harris said Friday she intends to defend herself in a court trial.

The trial figures, released Friday by the Illinois Department of Labor, showed a deepening of the unemployment gloom in the state at a time when the national picture brightened slightly.

The state Labor Department said the 9.8 percent unemployment rate was the highest monthly level since the government began keeping jobless figures after World War II. This rate translates to 496,000 unemployed, 6,000 more than in the previous month.

In addition, there are an unknown number of persons who want to work but have given up looking and are not included in the unemployment figures.

Dutchman kidnapped for IRA ransom

LIMERICK, Ireland (AP) - Terrorists kidnapped a 52-year-old Dutch businessman on Friday and threatened to kill him in 48 hours unless Ireland freed three top Irish Republican Army prisoners. The government refused to meet the demand.

Among the three prisoners the terrorists want released is Rose Dugdale, a secretly-groomed economus-turning-revolutionary.

The kidnapped man, Tiede Herrema, father of four, is managing director of the Perexka Co. in Limerick, which employs 1,300 people and manufactures steel cord for tires.

He was seized from his car shortly after he left home for his office. The car, with the keys still in the ignition, was found a few hundred yards from his home in Castle Troy, near Limerick. Police appealed for information about a dark green Ford Cortina seen parked with four persons inside near Herrema's home.

Walker unfaithful to poor, pastor says

By Debbie Absher
Student Editor-in-Chief

Gov. Daniel Walker has not kept his commitment to the poor people of Southern Illinois, charged the Rev. Charles E. Kohn, president of the United Fronts in Cairo.

Walker’s recent veto of two economic relief bills has prompted the United Fronts to sponsor a move in the state based on the “economic justice bill of rights.” Kohn said Friday in a press conference at the Euitra-C. Hayes Center.

House Bill 1196 would make an approriation of $1.9 million for development of an industrial park in East St. Louis. Supporters claim that the park would create between 3,000 and 5,000 permanent jobs.

The second bill Walker vetoed, House Bill 236, would create a state authority that would be responsible for long-term economic growth plans for economically depressed areas in the state.

“Our concern is that the two bills need to be passed, and we’re starting in Carbondale and going around the state to gain support,” Kohn said.

“Right after Walker was elected in 1972, the United Front met with him and he said at that time he would move to change the economic situation for people around the state,” he said. “But he has not kept his commitment to poor people of the state.”

Rep. Wylett, Younger, D-East St. Louis, introduced the bills, said Walker has been "peny-wise and pound foolish" in vetoing them. She is seeking support of the bills to override the governor’s veto.

“I think that one of the most important issues in the area is economic growth and development in Southern Illinois,” Younger said. “One of the most pressing things for us to do is to implement programs to bring about that economic growth in the stone, abet depression at the same time.”

“I am seeking to implement legislation which focuses on development of Southern Illinois,” she added.

Walker’s approach is one that treats the symptoms instead of the disease of unemployment, she said.

“I'm convinced that we put three times the money into an unemployed person than for an employed person. If people have jobs they will not need welfare,” she said. “So when you’re taking $1, and the $1 is multiplied so much that it will put so many persons to work, you’re talking about a small amount of money for a great investment.”

Younger contends that in addition to creating jobs, the construction of the industrial park will save the state $44 million by reducing social aid.

In vetoing the bills, Walker said the money was not available in the budget to cover the projects, and that he sought to do so without taxing the people of Illinois.

House Bill 296 would provide “the mechanism to bring economic opportunity to the citizens of the state’s three most depressed areas,” said Walker. Of East St. Louis, the counties of Alexander, Putaski and Pope and Chicago’s "inner city." Walker said.

A nine-member advisory board and advisory committee being studied would comprise the superagency responsible for long-term economic development in these "marginal" areas.

“We must plan with people who have the problems in order to come up with a plan,” Younger said. “A citizen’s participation mechanism is necessary for any government operation.”

Walker’s veto of the two matters "has to be aggressively pursued from one end of the state to the other," Younger added.

IBHE to discuss tuition hike

By Lenor Sobota
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE) is scheduled to discuss at its meeting Tuesday, the Master Plan Phase IV which includes a recommendation to increase undergraduate tuition to one-third of instructional costs.

The report from the board’s Study Committee on Tuition and Other Student Costs recommends that tuition for resident, undergraduate students should be brought up to a level of one-third of instructional costs by fiscal year 1980.

First SIU dean of women, Lucy Woody, dies at 93

Lucy K. Woody, 93, first dean of women at Southern Illinois (Normal) University, died Friday morning of natural causes in the New Haven Center in Carbondale.

The University’s second women’s dorm, Woody Hall, which now houses administrative and business offices, was named after her in 1953. She served on the SIU faculty for 38 years. Miss Woody, a native of Mount Vernon, Ind., came to SIU as an assistant to the dean of the Home Economics Program in 1911 and was appointed dean of women in 1926. She held this position until 1940.

She was named head of household arts in 1930 and became chairman of the Home Economics Department. Miss Woody retired from the faculty in 1949.

The IBHE Student Advisory Committee is scheduled to speak in opposition to the study committee’s recommendation because adoption of the recommendation would result in a permanent annual increase in tuition.

Figures are unavailable regarding the percentage of instructional costs currently paid by SIU students through tuition.

Mary Ellen Mouton, IBHE staff associate for governmental relations, said the board is not expected to vote on the document at this meeting.

“We're anticipating they won't vote. It's a possibility, but I don't feel everything can be discussed. They want to send out the document as a whole for public hearings,” Mouton said.

“The board is going to try to cover as many areas as they can. There's a lot to cover. How far they'll get is anybody's guess.”

The Master Plan Phase IV discussion document prepared by the IBHE staff is 82 pages long and covers ten separate areas.

There is another meeting scheduled for 9 a.m.

at Eastern Illinois University.

Other recommendations scheduled to be acted on at the meeting include a staff proposal to provide funding to SIU to construct broadcast facilities near that campus to serve the disadvantaged in the St. Louis Metro-East area.

Legal question arises in CCHS

photography bid

Nicolados, however, said Friday that he and Bortchert met with Spence Sept. 3 after he submitted a bid to the school. Nicolados said Spence told him to take the pictures, and that the bid would approve it later.

Nicolados, who recently merged with Roland's Studio for Art & Design, had said his firm has been taking the school's pictures for the past four years.

"In the past years it was generally left up to the schools to put out bids (as to which photographer to employ)," Nicolados said. "But we just did what we were asked to do."

Hindersman said he "doubts seriously" Younger calls any active solicitation for bids in any school district "unethical." He added: "I don't think there's much illegality if any involved here."

Hindersman described the statute as "one of those that's not being policed," and added that "the amount of money involved is "not that large."

He estimated the cost of the program, which adds the $2,500 for which the bids are required under the Illinois purchasing statute.

6a.m. bar closing could relieve street crowds

By Joey Hellensy Student Writer

Up to now, no solution has been found for the crowds of students on South Illinois Avenue. In fact, not nearly as much has been tried. But now, Carbondale City Council has been presented with a plan that could solve the problem.

SIU students, after a hard week of classes, migrate to the South Illinois bars on weekends. The influx to the bars is gradual, with many patrons arriving at the bars late in the evening. The exit from those bars is rather abrupt, however, when drinkers are ushered out at Carbondale's mandate 2 a.m. closing time.

With every bar kicking out patron at exactly the same time, it's obvious that there's going to be a crowd of people on the street. Many of these people are drunk. A ruckus in the streets sometimes follows.

Carbondale Police Chief George Kennedy has proposed bar hours be extended to 6 a.m. on weekends in hope the trek out of the bars will be less abrupt and more orderly. Kennedy took his plan to the city council Sept 29 it was received with mixed reactions.

Councilman Hans Fischer expressed negative thoughts about the plan, saying that the addition of four drinking hours is not the kind of thing the city would want to put on its All-American plaque. But the current problem has been blamed on the news media to tarnish Carbondale's image, so an attempt to solve the problem could do nothing but help.

Councilman Joe Dukin also opposed the plan. He felt drinkers for one hour, or two - he didn't care - might migrate to Carbondale after bars in the other citizen's town. This might create a larger crowd, and put more drunks on the highways. The problem with drunk drivers already exists, however, so many Carbondale drinkers might go to the latest closing county bars after Illinois Avenue bars close.

SIU Sociology Department members Kenneth Kollman and Edward McGlynn provide data that supports the theory of the plan. Both men specialize in crowd behavior theory. They cited studies that indicate drunk individuals would take off after 2 a.m. and actually leave the bars less drunk and less dangerous.

The plan did receive support from three council members, including Mayor Neal Eckert. This support would be enough to approve the plan when it comes up formally Monday night.

The plan is a positive approach to a viable plan that deserves a chance considering the confrontations that occur.

The only doubt about the plan comes from Councilman Fischer and Dukin who feel it is not the answer. They feel there are other ways. Since many Carbondale drunks might go to the latest closing county bars after Illinois Avenue bars close.

Pollution control

By Paul Salack Student Writer

SIU's central steam plant emits an estimated average of 100 pounds of particulate pollution an hour. The pollution control coordinator for SIU said the emissions fluctuate a great deal, varying between 25 and 1000 pounds an hour. This exceeds the Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA) standards, set by a flexible requirement based on BTU's produced, by 300-500 percent.

The EPA's current standards went into effect June 30 of this year. These standards were passed into law four years ago. The time lag was to give potential polluters a sufficient time to comply with the law. SIU has included the estimated $7 million necessary to meet these standards in its 1978 budget request to the University's budget request since 1972. The budget request has been denied every year by either the Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE) or the state legislature.

Next Tuesday at 9 a.m. in the Student Center, the Illinois Pollution Control Board will decide in a hearing whether to shut down the steam plant which provides heat for all University buildings, fine the University or grant SIU a variance exempting the steam plant from the law.

It is a commonly accepted unwritten rule that one government agency does not shut down another. The Illinois Pollution Control Board filing a state school for, in effect, the failure of the IBHE and the state legislature to grant the University funds to meet another state organization's regulations would be a precedent, especially since the fine would also come from the taxpayers' pocket.

SIU will probably be granted a variance at Tuesday's hearing, however, due to the number of the needed pollution control devices started temporarily. It could take until 1979 to get the complete job done.

If concerned local citizens and students show up in sufficient numbers at Tuesday's hearing, the state bureaucracy might be pushed into finally taking some positive action.

One hundred pound an hour times 24 hours a day times 365 days a year times four years anytime for the delay seemingly equal a big dust pile where Carbondale once stood. That's a dirty joke.

No new truth from the 60's after all

To the Daily Egyptian:

Reading the editorial by Arthur Hoppe about his disappointment in America (Daily Egyptian, Sept. 26) seems to bring memories, like a bad acid flash-back, of the late 60's.

For all the pain and new-truths that the 60's seemed to bring to us, we were all burnt by the 70's. After a decade of Timothy Leary, revolution and social change, we sought we finally were on top of the truths, only to find that we had blown it badly. After witnessing Ohio State, the new-generation placed Nixon back in office, the man that Bobby Kennedy ultimately characterized in a speech at Vanderbilt University in the spring of 1968. "Richard Nixon," he said, "represents the dark side of the American spirit."

Is it any wonder that that one election hurt us more as a people, and hurt McGovern more than it might have hurt other men, since his main reason for being a candidate was inspired not so much by power, but by a conviction that the country wanted fresh vision about its ideas and a new national integrity. It was demonstrated that the country did not agree with him, not even the country's young people.

So, I too am trying to figure out what the hell happened.

The last thing I remember after going out and voting for McGovern is watching the election returns, sitting out on my porch with a beer... What is it '76 already?

Softball thanks

To The Daily Egyptian:

I would like to express my appreciation and sincere "thanks" to the Carbondale Park softball facilities, scheduled during the past week for final round games of the SIU-C Men's Intramural Athletic 12-inch softball tournament play-offs.

Through the cooperation of the Carbondale Park District staff, the final seven games of the softball single-elimination tournament were held "under the lights" on one of the finest softball fields in this area. Special "thanks" to George Whitehead, Dan Crunk, and Jim Burke for their direct involvement and assistance.

I'm sure the many SIU-C students who were members of the Men's Intramural Athletic 12-inch softball tournament "Elite Eight" enjoyed the opportunity of playing their final games at Evergreen Park and join in this message of appreciation.

Professor savs ballads show family changes

By Gary Wassenaar

Student Writer

Changes in family relationships are caused almost entirely by the industrial revolution, believes Lewellyn Hendrix, professor of sociology.

To support that idea, he is tracing a history of family relationships in ballads for a monograph he plans to write next year.

Hendrix said his study shows that family relationships began changing before the industrial revolution. Ballads show how the rural people or the lower class were thinking, he said, whereas most written material represents feelings of the upper class and the educated.

A ballad is a song that tells a story or has a plot, Hendrix explained, and as the ballad gets older, it becomes more lyrical or just expressive feelings, although this takes several centuries.

Hendrix said ballads in America are divided into three main groups—those which have developed in this country since the 1800's, those from England from the 1600's through the 1700's and those from England dated before the 18th century.

Dating a ballad is difficult unless it mentions a battle or some other known historical event, he noted.

Hendrix said that there are 110 to 120 of the pre-18th century ballads in this country. In Britain there were originally about 100. These dealt mostly with courtship, battles and the supernatural, he said, but most of the supernatural elements drop out of ballads in this country.

One common theme of the oldest ballads was a young couple in love with their plans thwarted by one or both sets of parents, Hendrix said. The result is generally suicide, murder, dying of love or some combination of these. In the more recent ballads, results are more likely to be the young couple overcoming the opposition, he said.

In the older ballads, he said, geographic mobility seems to be caused by some sort of family problem or other conflict. In the more recent ballads, the characters' geographic mobility is the cause of the problems.

This theme of loneliness started in the 1800's to 1600's ballads, and extends into today's music, especially the country and western music, Hendrix said.

Survey to seek area stores with lowest food prices

Six Carbondale grocery stores are being surveyed by Illinois Public Interest Research Group (IPRG) to determine which stores have the lowest prices on some 30 basic food items.

The price check will be based on a U.S. Department of Agriculture survey which asks shoppers to purchase seven to ten products in each of seven food groups such as dairy products, beverages, fruits and meats.

The stores surveyed will be Kroger, Central City, J.C. Penney, Mark's Big Star and both the Lewis Park and West Main Bosoms IGAs, said Jim Gamble, head of the committee conducting the survey.

The survey consists of "what people can buy," Gamble said.

The survey will be conducted only during the weekdays and is expected to be completed by Monday, he said. The final results will be published during the latter part of October.

Park district offers residents variety of parks, programs

By Mike Springston

The Carbondale Park District offers towship residents a number of parks and programs that provide recreation at a relatively small cost.

The park district offers classes in areas ranging from the Park District Community Center, 206 E. Elm St, yoga, baton twirling, children's ballet, tap dancing, guitar, belly dancing, oil and acrylic painting, bridge and square dancing are some of the courses offered.

The district operates apart from the city government. Formed in 1929, the Carbondale Park District is funded by park taxes. Its annual operating budget is $400,000.

"Since we are tax based, the citizens are already paying for the services we offer," said Dan Crunk, who has been director since 1972. Crunk said the park district will duplicate existing recreational programs if they can offer them at a lower cost.

"We'll try to cooperate with any other agency providing a recreational service," he said.

Evergreen Park, located on Pleasant Hill Road next to Evergreen Terrace, is Carbondale's best equipped, Crunk said. The park district has put far development of the 57 acres in the park's boundaries. Two diamond fields for softball and the other for baseball, are equipped with lights. Evergreen Park also has three playgrounds and six shelters of various sizes.

Evergreen Lake is adjacent to the park, but its gas-powered engines or swimming are permitted in the lake because the lake is Carbondale's primary water supply.

Parish Park, situated next to the Carbondale YMCA, has basketball courts, three football fields, a baseball diamond and a playground on its 22 acres. Crunk said the park could not be used to its full potential because part of it is located in the flood plains of the Crab Orchard Creek and is not usable after heavy rains.

"I don't know what we can do to correct it," Crunk said. "The whole area has the same problem." Crunk described Attucks Park as a "neighbourhood park" because it provides recreational activities for the northwest section of the community.

Located on North Wall Street, the park contains two baseball diamonds, basketball courts, a playground, a medium and small-sized shelters and a bandstand that Crunk said was "in dire need of repair." Crunk said the park district would put a tennis court into the park in the spring.

Southeast Park currently has tennis courts. Located next to Lewis School on East Grand Avenue, Southeast Park also has four baseball diamonds. Two of the diamonds are lighted, but they are located to the Carbondale Junior Sports, Inc. and can only used for sports programs sponsored by the corporation.

Oakland Park, 904 N. Oakland Ave., is used mainly for small group activities. The 4.5 acre park has a playground and house for Carbondale Senior Citizens' Headquarters. Visitors to the park can use the kitchen facilities in the senior citizen's building by notifying the park district in advance.

In the summer, the park district controls activities at Oaklant Field. Oakland Field has facilities for both tennis and softball.

We have a good relationship with both school districts," Crunk said. "We couldn't offer volleyball or basketball if we didn't have the relationship we do with the high schools.

The park district is also planning to lease land on Old Main Street, across from the senior citizen's high rise complex. The proposed Leman Turley Park will house another community center if the Carbondale City Council approves the park district's acquisition of the land.

People interested in using park district facilities may reserve them at the park district office, 206 E. Elm St.

Rape Go-Out team assists victims

By Mary L. Heeres
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Rape Go-Out Team, sponsored by the Carbondale Women's Center, provides emotional support, reassurance and help for women who are rape or attempted rape victims.

"We want to support the woman in what she wants to do, we are helping the healing to start immediately," said Carolyn Zimmerman, a Community Development graduate student and member of the team.

"We don't insist they go to the police. We try to do what they want to do, to help them regain control of their lives.

The team goes into operation when a woman calls the center at 628 W. Freeman, after she has been raped, or when the police call to report a rape victim at a hospital or police station, Zimmerman said.

The police must ask the victim before calling the team, she added.

The Women's Center, open 24 hours, notifies a rape team member who goes to the victim. Zimmerman said no one except the police and team member know anything about the rape.

"Everything is confidential," she said.

Zimmerman explained the team members do not ask questions about

Club to sponsor fall bazaar

Bicentennial sunflowers, bread, centerpieces, dried flowers, oil paintings, patchwork, plants, stamps and Halloween costumes are only a sample of the hundreds of items that will be sold at the Bazaar of Bazaar, Oct. 4, at the fifth annual fall bazaar organized by the Red Gravel Women's Club. The bazaar will be held at Lincoln Hall from 2 to 5 p.m.

Bazaar chairman Karen Craig and assistant JoAnn Reilly are serving as chairlady. A large variety of useful and decorative items baked goods, jams, jellies and herbs, and a large selection of plants and flowers will be available.

A new feature this year, "Antique Treasure," will feature small furniture and glass antiques, and a special holiday section will offer Halloween costumes, ceramics, Christmas ornaments and stationery.

Raffle tickets will be sold with prizes consisting of a microwave oven, a hardwood quilt, and a hairpin lace afghan. Members of the Knights of Columbus will be in charge of the food service and special games.

Carbondale Police and Security set up a training program for team members to explain rape laws, legal aspects and what questions the police would ask following a rape. The session was taped for new members, she said.

Although team members are not professional medical people, "we know a lot about crisis intervention—we're more like para-professionals trying to help the person. Any other woman could do what we are doing."
‘A Brief Vacation’ outstanding in portraying effects of poverty

By Jim Crocker

“A Brief Vacation,” playing at the New Deal Theatre this week in a small germ and the final offerings of the bereavement, shows its dead lid year at the age of 72.

The film explores the debilitating effect of poverty, hunger, and deprivation on the human spirit and the struggle of the poor to maintain dignity and respect in a society that seems to have no interest in them. It is a film that perfectly captures the spirit of the times and the challenges faced by those living in poverty.

Commission receives one bid for sidewalk

By Mary E. Gardner

Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Only one bid for sidewalk work to provide an access for the handicapped into Woodlawn Cemetery was received by the Carbondale Republican Commission (CRC), and that bid was too high, John Wright, commission member, said at the meeting Thursday night.

The CRC had agreed Sept. 2 to have the front steps to the cemetery removed and to improve the slope of the connecting ramp.

Requests for more bids have gone out, Wright said. The closing date for new bids is Oct. 15, and the city council is expected to make a decision at its meeting Oct. 20.

Because of the delay caused by the bidding, “there’s a chance of having anything done before winter are remote,” said Wright. He said the delay in the sidewalk work would also delay the landscaping to be done by the Garden Council.

Variety of activities set for Inter-Greek Week

By Mary Tallman

Minors fire damages American Tap

By Tim Hastings
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A minor fire Thursday night at the American Tap, 515 S. Illinois Ave., filled the bar with smoke but did little damage to the three-story building. There were no injuries. Approximately 80 patrons and employees evacuated the building at 8:30 p.m. and stood on the front lawn and sidewalk for about an hour while firemen put out the fire. The bar did not reopen Thursday night.

The fire apparently started when a cigarette, dropped into a beer bottle, ignited a seat cushion on the first floor, ignited drapes and in the bar, said Everett Rushing, fire captain on duty Thursday night.

Firemen ripped open a portion of the basement ceiling to extinguish the fire. Estimated damage to the building is $500. There was no damage to the contents of the building.

This will help business at the other bars tonight," said Tom owner John Huber, standing outside the bar while the smoke was still clearing inside.

New, unsuspecting customers arrived every minute but Baubick turned them away. "Sorry, there was a fire in there. We're closed tonight. We'll be open tomorrow."

Most of the Tap crew left the yard within an hour after the fire began. After the firemen left, Budrick let patrons return to the bar to pick up their coats or claim refunds on their tickets.

Nick Peterson, returning from the smoke-filled club, said, "I got back the $1 deposit for the pitcher, but not the $8 for the beer."

Everyday garbage haul is being thrown away in Jackson County more than once per person. This throw-away is costing a lot of money to replace materials, says Bill Mitchell. Mitchell, a member of the environmental advocates of solid waste recycling, is doing almost everything in his power to find a better way to dispose of garbage.

In a recent address, the city of Carbondale and the Citizens Steer Committee of Jackson County have allocated funds from the Community Development office to plan and advertise a proposed recycling plant. The project has been a long time coming, allowing granting money.

Mitchell used figures taken from a study of the Greater Egypt region by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency. Those figures indicate that 80,000 tons of garbage are thrown away in Jackson County annually, and 32 per cent of that could be recycled. The recyclable waste is worth $30,000, Mitchell says, and more than $90,000 is being spent to throw it away.

Examining the value down by the type of recyclable material, Mitchell said $20 is being paid per ton of recyclable paper, $25 per ton of steel, $22 per ton of glass and $200 per ton of aluminum. Aluminum, however, makes up only one per cent of Jackson County's recyclable waste.

No provisions are presently being made in the Carbondale area for complete recycling of glass, paper, steel and aluminum. That's why Mitchell is stressing the urgency of having a recycling plant for Jackson County.

Mitchell called the proposed recycling plant a low pollution industry and said efforts would be made to hire handicapped persons to work in it. A previous effort at recycling newspapers by the Jackson County Community Workshop was halted in July because of state budget cutbacks, Mitchell said.

The equipment, however, is there at the workshop in Murphy's Hole, and although it's owned by the state, the city could be made responsible for the equipment to start a recycling program in Jackson County.

Mitchell and his co-borough comprise the citizen executive committee of Resource Reclamation, Inc., a non-profit group formerly known as the Jackson County Citizens Task Force on Recycling. The organization has 125 members and pays annual dues of $5 per person. Mitchell, a 1974 SIU graduate in political science, insists he is merely the spokesman for all area persons advocating a permanent and adequate recycling program. He has refused any credit for the steps that have been taken to make the project a reality.

Recycling is inevitable, Mitchell says, and if it's not done on the local level, industry will take over and the cost will be considerably higher.

Mitchell said he came to the realization three years ago that persons literally threw away most of what they spend for the packaging of various food products. They're losing money because they only take a small part of the packaging one time, he says.

Instead of simply recycling the milk cartons and aluminum cans and glass bottles, the citizen should apply the containers according to glass, paper, steel and aluminum. The only outcome of what he pays for packaging, Mitchell contends, is he pays to somebody else.

He plans to talk to local government officials and anybody who'll listen. "The University has so much potential. It could do so much for the program and that's one of the reasons it should be done," he explained.

Although Mitchell's plan is not approved after that of any particular community, he cited cities in Massachusetts and Michigan that have successful voluntary recycling programs.

If all goes right for Mitchell, the plan he said the project would be self-sufficient in three years. And that's with only 10 per cent of the county population participating, he says.

One part of the program starts making money, the funds will be used to buy those "collections" of those who participate, that is, those who pay the $6 membership fee for Resource Reclamation, Inc.

Mitchell says there's an urgent need for the government to make a move before the economic situation becomes such that the low-energy using recycling plant would become necessary.

The key to making the project successful is local citizen involvement, "one of the things the University and government and other people can do is donate recycled material."

Drug which deformed babies now helps victims of leprosy

NEW YORK (AP) — Thalidomide, the drug which deformed thousands of babies, has become a Jekyll-Hyde drug. It's dangerous. But now it is helping victims of leprosy.

When pregnant women began taking the drug some 15 years ago, many of their babies were born with misshapen or missing limbs or other defects. That's the "Jekyll" side.

Thalidomide now is proving highly effective in controlling a peculiar reaction that strikes many lepers, bringing intense pain, high fever, damage to nerves, disfiguring outbreaks of skin sores, and sometimes blindness and even death. This is the new "Dr. Jekyll" side.

Contrary to general opinion, leprosy is not a sure death or horror sentence. It can be controlled or cured with dapsone or other drugs. And leprosy is not highly contagious.

But many patients are hit with severe attacks or reactions that put them in hospitals, at high daily expense, with serious threats to health and life.

Given thalidomide, within 12 to 34 days "many patients tell how wonderful they feel. It often works like a charm," in controlling the reaction, says Dr. Carl D. Enea. Enea is director of clinical medicine and the department of surgery at the U.S. Public Health Service Hospital in Carville, La. The hospital is well known as, the National Leprosarium.

Before thalidomide the main weapons against the leprosy reaction were cortisone-like drugs, but these had many side effects, Dr. Enea said.

The first clue about "Dr. Jekyll" came in 1966, when Dr. Joseph Shesil of Hadassah Hospital in Jerusalem gave thalidomide as a sleeping pill to leprosy patients. He noticed the improvement against the leprosy reaction.

Beginning in 1966, free supplies of the drug were given to Carville, the U.S. Public Health Service Hospital in San Francisco and University of Southern California Medical School in Los Angeles, by Merrell-National Laboratories, a division of Richard son-Merrell, Inc., in Cincinnati.

That supply has now been taken over by Chemie Grunenthal in West Germany, which licensed the U.S. firm to distribute the drug, a Richardson-Merrell official said.

"Thalidomide has drastically reduced the morbidity illness and mortality associated with the most frequent and most serious complication of lepromatous leprosy, erythema nodosum leprosum. It has dramatically improved the management of hundreds of patients at Carville alone, and thousand of leprosy sufferers throughout the world," Dr. John J. Trautman Robert R. Jackson and Robert C. Hasting of Carville wrote in a letter to the U.S. firm.

Thalidomide was introduced before careful attention began to be paid to testing drugs in pregnant animals. The tragedy of human birth defects was first noticed in 1961-62.

Nudists lose second try to sponsor Viet refugees

GLENN RIGGS, N.J. (AP) — Earl and Lucile Chappell have been rebuffed in their efforts to sponsor more refugees because they ran a nudist colony.

The Chappells, operators of the Wonderland nudist colony in Lower Township near Wildwood, a Delaware county day last June and I saw an appeal from William Thompson, a representative of refugees at Indiantown Gap in the Poconos area. The Chappells, they went through the normal process of being approved by the Catholic Conference and last July received letters from Marilyn Van Tran, 25, and Roaing Van Nguyen, both veterans of the South Vietnamese army.

"I called for an application and filed it," Mrs. Chappell reports as place of residence, I had had nothing to hide. Mrs. Chappell said. Earl and I decided last month to sponsor two families because we believed in the application the same way and it was approved. The Wonderland nudist colony, which the菀

Park district sets Friday deadline for canoe trip

The deadline for signing up for the Carbondale Park District’s canoe trip with Ted Benelli, program coordinator, is Oct. 7.

The trip will leave Oct. 17, 18 and 19. Canoeing will be to the Eleven Point River in Greer, Mo., 40 miles west of Poplar Bluff, Mo.

A fee of $18 to $20 will be charged to cover the cost of transportation and food. Benelli said that the exact cost will be determined.

Persons under 18 years of age will not be eligible for this trip, he said.

Participants must provide their own transportation into the area, eating utensils and change of clothes. Benelli suggested that canoes bring a light, other than a paddle, because of its versatility. He also suggested that they wear old, comfortable clothes and bring tennis shoes.

Buzzbe slayed as starter for tank marathon

State Senator Kenneth Buzzbe is slated to fire the starter's gun Saturday, May 14, for the first 24-hour marathon swim at the Jackson County YMCA Saturday and Sunday.

Proceeds from the fifth annual swim marathon will be used to purchase equipment for the Carbondale YMCA pool and to support the program of the camp team.

Swim team members have been selecting support for the marathon by trying to get businesses and individuals to pledge approximately one cent per lap.

Last year the team swam about 3,000 laps.

Cyclists set tours

The SIU Cycling Club has two weekends of activities planned for cyclists.

The weekly slow-paced tour will leave at 10 a.m. Saturday from Shryack Auditorium. A 30-mile ride will take the group to Rock, Ill., at 10 a.m. Sunday with the expectation that both fast-paced and slow-paced riders will participate.

Oct. 11 and 12, the cycling club plans a 100 mile Cave-In-Rock bicycle tour.

Soccer Club faces SIU-E

For the SIU Soccer Club, Saturday's game with the SIU-Edwardsville Cougars will be much more than school rivalry.

For the players and fans, the club is hoping for varsity status in the near future. With the most prestigious SIU-E soccer team, might just be one of the needed stepping-stones for that effort.

SIU-E has been a perennial powerhouse in collegiate soccer, and while he feels a victory over the junior varsity would be prestigious, he believes the Cougars will go far in their own league.
Defensive improvement key to SIU win

By Dave Wiececzek
Daily Egyptian Sports Editor

If you can't score on them, you can always stop them.

For many sports teams, scoring is a mystery of many coaches, and it is a good one. A good defense can carry its team to a mediocre season or win an outright league championship during the course of a year.

The Salukis defense has had its share of improvements this season. The unit has been planning on being better than so-so when it received possession of the ball Saturday against the Long Beach State defense.

The Salukis defense, which had three of its first five games, even last week when they gift wrapped 41 points and sent them special delivery by air and carrier to East Carolina.

"The big thing in playing the type of defense we're playing--going right, left, slanting--is the guys have to be coordinating," Matan explained. "As a team they are starting to do that. It sounds easy, but we played better last week, but got beat where the score is concerned.

"The Saluki defense has had three games now to familiarize themselves with each other. But Matan and Weaver have seen it necessary to make some minor changes to improve chances of stopping the other 'giants' on the offensive line."

"We've made some adjustments," Matan said. "We offset some guys on the line and we are bringing the strong safety to the line so we have six guys there instead of five.

"When you're losing you tend to want to make changes. Let's do this or let's do that" when you should be doing is going back to the basic things. Getting off the blocks and tackling guys.

"We have to get our assignments down," pointed out defensive end John Plumb. "I think it was the Bears last Saturday. I couldn't follow through with their assignments last week. I was just as guilty as anyone else."

"We work harder every week in practice," Flowers continued. "We want this win and I think we are starting to put things together.

"Flowers said the defense will have to rely on its quickness, against Long Beach. "This is probably the biggest team we have faced this year," he said. "When they're that big, they can't be as fast as us.

Tackle Steve Weatherby offered another reason for SIU's sluggish defense.

"A lot of people are new and we are not used to working with new people," Weatherby commented. "It's a matter of getting some confidence in each other."

Inconsistency has also been slowing the defense. "Some series we look real good and some series we are bad," Weatherby conceded. "We're just waiting for that first break. A win would get the whole ball rolling."

Long Beach is going for No. 4 in a row, with only one loss. SIU's 0-3 record is self-explanatory.

"We can't let our guys down. There's a lot of the season to go yet," he said earnestly. "The thing is that our guys still think they can turn the season around. Our guys want to win."

All the Saluki home and away games can be heard on WSIU FM, Springfield. WCIL 102 FM and AM will also broadcast the remaining SIU home games. Charlie Sturt will do the play-by-play along with Kevin J. Potts. Air time for WCIL is 1:15 p.m.

Collegiate footgear fits freshman runner snugly

By Mark Kadrowski
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Mike Sawyer has stepped out of high school tracks, shoes into college cross country footgear with amazing speed and success.

The freshman SUU blender has compiled a second, a fourth and two sixth places in the four meets in which the Salukis have participated.

Sawyer said the adjustment from running three-mile races in high school cross country to five-mile races in college has not been difficult for him.

"I've always been able to run long distances," the Alton native said. "I've competed in the state high school cross country and mile championships during my junior and senior season.

"I showed steady improvement in finishing fourth in the mile his senior year after not even making the finals as a junior. In cross country, Sawyer finished 48th as a junior and 10th as a senior."

The 5-foot-8 Sawyer has finished among the top three SUU runners in each of his four meets this year. In the triple dual with Wichita State, Illinois State and Southeast Missouri State, he finished in the sixth spot behind senior Jack St. John and freshman Kurt Leslie.

He finished behind St. John on two other occasions, and was the top Saluki once.

"He's a great distance runner," Sawyer said of team captain St. John. "I use him to my advantage. He's been teaching me."

Sawyer said he has learned a great deal about distance running in working out with St. John since the beginning of fall practice.

Sawyer said modestly he did not expect to do as well as he has been doing. "I was expecting to run about fifth-man," he said.

"I think he's doing as well as any freshman that you can bring in," Coach Lew Hartong said. "He's going to make us a good track man. He works hard and is serious about his work."

The bearded freshman says he has an advantage over some of the other freshman runners because he ran as a freshman for the University of Missouri-Illinois at Carbondale. Sawyer described the Midland Hills course as a physical course, but being able to do well on it is "all in my head."

He said he felt running the Missouri Valley Conference cross country championships at Midland Hills would be an advantage for SUU.

Hartong has indicated the team will be doing a lot more work on the hills in preparation for the meet.

"Coach really wants us to be said of Hartong's feeling about the conference meet."

Prove on their tackling against Long Beach State.

"A lot of people are new and we are not used to working with new people," Weatherby commented. "It's a matter of getting some confidence in each other."

Inconsistency has also been slowing the defense. "Some series we look real good and some series we are bad," Weatherby conceded. "We're just waiting for that first break. A win would get the whole ball rolling."

Volleyballers set for full Saturday

A reconstructed Saluki attack will greet three women's volleyball teams Saturday at Davies Gym, beginning at noon.

Opponents Saturday will be Murray State University of Missouri-St. Louis and University of Louisville. SIU lost to St. Louis earlier in the season, 4-15, 15-13 and 15-13.

Coach Debbie Hunter will be using a free-flowing substitution offense. Players will be alternated on the front and back lines, according to their abilities.

The only two players tabbed by Hunter to play front and back lines are Kathy Lies and Marty Ferry. Hunter said Mary Shirk, Sue Visconcig, Mary Kesley and Marjie Nighswonger will see front-line action during the two SIU contests.

Alternating on the back line will be Sue Schaffner, Pearl Kissick andanmarie Rist and Colleen Logan.

During the first few contests this season, Hunter used the same set of six girls all the time. However, in a tournament played at SUU last Saturday, the shorter Salukis were constantly out-matched.

"We've been trying to polish our play up this week, making the players more accustomed to what they're going to play from here on out."

Hunter said she isn't sure about Murray State's team, but its coach, Connie Urban, played on a national tournament team last year, so it should be good.

The first SUU match is at noon against Murray State. Other Saluki matches are against University of Louisville at 1:15 p.m. and St. Louis at 3:30 p.m.
