Classes To Be Dismissed On Time

University to the instruction staff, there will be no delay in giving the students the day off.

The instruction staff has been designated in the appropriate sections, the following times: of which there are existing different difficulties in giving the classes on time.

Southern Marches On!

Southern, rising in recognition to new heights in the past ten years, ranked forty-fifth in the nation in total enrollment during fall quarter, 1968. With this rise in status of its students, Southern has had to expand its facilities.

The University has advanced in its academic program through hiring of new faculty and expanding the scope of its course offerings. The school of law in particular has been a leader in low-semester hours and year-round sessions. A host of short courses and study-abroad opportunities have been offered for the students who want to travel and learn.

Nor has the growth of the university been limited to its students. The number of faculty members has increased, and the number of general education courses available to students has also grown.

No Hours for Senior Girls

Why are senior girls regulated in this manner?

At some other colleges and universities, senior girls are permitted to keep their books after they have completed their courses, but at Southern this is not the case. It is a practice that has been followed for years and is likely to continue.

Boys are not subject to this restriction, and the reason given is that it would be unfair to allow boys to keep their books. This is a false argument, as it is not unfair to allow boys to keep their books if senior girls are allowed to do so.

Social Security Agent Discusses Jobs Today

Career counselors in the federal government for college students will be discussing today at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. in the Placement Office.

Of particular interest to seniors who are planning careers in medicine, dentistry and law, are the latest job openings in these fields. There are many new positions in these fields, and the counselors are on hand to discuss the opportunities.

Noon at the University, the Southern Progress, idealistic and plain-talking, is insisting on considering the possibility of building a new campus sooner rather than sooner. There has been much concern on the subject of relocation in the University, it is hoped to find that a least some time in the near future.

The SIU Student Council recently met with the President's Office, and all meetings are open.

The Man Who Thinks for Himself Knows - The "HOLE"

Commonly known to Southern students as "the hole", this wooden structure of mass destruction has been the most active site on campus for the last month. Workmen have felled trees and ripped up a big section of Thompson Avenue in preparation for the laying of the University Center foundation. South Thompson Avenue has been turned into a dusty pit as the Simmons Co. of Decatur works to proceed toward the future dreams of Southern. Soon the crowded conditions of the present and highly inadequate Student Union will be surrounded by new halls and sections that will house the expected 5,000 students on campus comfortably. Constructing season will return for Homecoming 1961 to view with awe the magnificent structure which the students will be creating. "The hole" is only the beginning of a future dream.

THE FUTURE LOOK

The artist's drawing of a map shows where University Center will be located when it is completed in 1961. The campus is divided into sections with Old Main Watchtower on the left. The Student Union is shown as a new building on the right. The Communications Building, Recreation Building, Physical Education and AFR OTC Building, a $150,000 18-hole golf course, and a lamp post standing from Mill Street in the Thompson Point area.

OLD MAIN WATCHES

The tower of Old Main watches as the largest of the new buildings built on South Thompson Avenue. Old Main was at one time the only building on campus, and all classes were held in the historic structure. Founded in 1867, when SIU was known as Southern Illinois Normal University, the ancient building has withstood the millions of footsteps that have trod upon its steps, and probably holds millions of secrets that have been shared in its confines. The University Center, a building that will cost almost $4 million, appears as the successor to the once adequate Student Union. The growth of the University can only be realized when a comparison is made—knowing that at one time Old Main took care of all classes. Now another of her children is being born.

COMPLETED PRODUCT

This is an artist's impression of what the University Center will look like in two years. Scheduled to be completed in fall 1961, the building will consist of four major decks with a small basement and penthouse. A bowling alley, lounge, conference rooms, balconies and mea-

THE BEGINNING

SIU President Delbert W. Martin joins in with other University officials and students at the ground-breaking ceremony for the new University Center March 15. The site on South Thompson Avenue is now under construc-meals and kitchens will be located on the main deck. The center is another milestone in the peaking appearance of the campus, and a forward step toward recognition. The Music Library, Life Science Building, Agriculture Building, and Woody Hall show the marked progress that Southern has made in the past.

STUDY BREAK

Students take a break between classes as they concentrate on meal games at the Student Union. The crowded conditions are evident at this time, with lunch hour approaching. The University Center, a building that will cost almost $4 million, appears as the successor to the once adequate Student Union. The growth of the University can only be realized when a comparison is made—knowing that at one time Old Main took care of all classes. Now another of her children is being born.

S O O N H I S T O RY

Yes, soon this remarkable building will be replaced by a more modern structure, but the memories will remain. It will seem strange to those who return to view with dismay the removal of the Student Union; however, the feeling of pride will be intact when the University Center is visited, another mark in the progress of Southern. The Student Union now houses the Office of Student Affairs, a television lounge, the Oasis, a room and recreation room plus offices of the Ombud and the Student Government Office. Although the building has only two years left, mere memories will remain with those who have smoked coffee and arranged dates there.

"IN" VS "OUT"

The Oasis, the main pep-up spot of students during the day, will become a haven of the out when the $4 million University Center is completed in 1961. Housing a lounge bar and lounge, the Oasis is visited by, among others, the majority of the campus students 10 am to 12 noon. Most students take advantage of the quiet at the Oasis to study and work. The sand-covered area is a favorite hangout for the Greeks and independents alike.
