Saluki Nine Opens Home Season Today

"Batter Up"

St. Louis University Here
For Double-Header

"Batter Up," the clarion call of spring, will ring out across Chautauqua field at 1 p.m. today as the Saluki baseball team opens the 1963 home season with a double header against St. Louis University.

Doug Edwards, 20-year old sophomore from Dupo, will pitch the first game of the scheduled twin-bill.

Glen Martin, SIU baseball coach, has become accustomed to winning in his 17 years as head baseball coach—he has not had a losing season since 1954—but may be headed for rough sledding this spring.

"Pitching is our big problem," Martin said, "and right now it certainly would have to be considered questionable."

Martin has named five lettermen to open the home season. Mike Pratte will be the starting catcher, Jim Long will start at first base, Captain Dave Leonard will be at shortstop, Terry Qualls will man third base and John Siebel will be in centerfield for the first game.

Last year’s leading hitter, Glenn Bischoff, is not in the starting lineup.

Roy Lee, who officiates college basketball games in the winter, is the veteran St. Louis coach and will be trying to improve on this year’s 1-0 record. The Billikens were scheduled to play a double-header yesterday afternoon.

St. Louis is a member of the Missouri Valley Conference and is in one of three MVC schools which the Salukis will face this season. Tulsa and Cincinnati are also on the SIU schedule.

Dave Leonard, last year’s second leading hitter, will be expected to carry the load in hitting today with Bischoff sidelined.

Dick Burda and Gene Vincent rounds out the first game starting lineup. Burda will be in left field and Vincent in right. Burda lettered as a sophomore two years ago but didn’t play last season.

Latin Songs, Dances To Open Pan Am Festival

The 10th annual Pan American Festival at SIU will open Monday with songs and dances from Mexico, Brazil, Panama and Argentina featured in 2 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. programs in Morris Library Auditorium.

The four-day observance, April 8-11, will celebrate Pan American Week and the Festival will be devoted to "Pre-Hispanic Agriculture and Present Day Problems."

A.W. Bork, director of the Latin American Institute at SIU, said the purpose of the Pan American Festival is "to create some interest in Latin America and make this a kind of scholarly Latin American gathering."

The four-day period will be filled with a myriad of lectures, discussions, exhihbits, songs, dances and various other functions centered around Latin America. Participants in the Latin American dances and songs to be presented Monday are members of the University High School Spanish Club, the SIU Latin American Organization and students from Latin American countries.

On Tuesday a round-table discussion will be held at 3 p.m. in the Seminar Room of the Agriculture Building, and an evening illustrated lecture will be given in Muckelroy Auditorium.

Another lecture on Latin American agriculture will be given Wednesday evening in the Family Living Lounge of the Home Economics Building.

The Pan American Festival winds up Thursday with a round-table discussion on the meaning of Pan-Americanism, and an evening illustrated lecture by Bork.

During the four-day Pan American Festival at SIU, various exhibits depicting the contributions of the Pre-Hispanic Indian to Agriculture are also on display at the University Library.

Does a man really take unfair advantage of women when he uses Mennen Skin Bracer?

All depends on why he uses it. Most men simply think Mennen's skin balsam is the best after-shave lotion around. Because it cools rather than burns. Because it helps heal shaving nicks and scrapes. Because it helps prevent blemishes.

So who can blame them if Bracer's crisp, long-lasting aroma just happens to affect women so remarkably?

Of course, some men may use Mennen Skin Bracer because of this effect. How intelligent!

Rusk Says Aid Cut Will Help Communism

WASHINGTON

Secretary of State Dean Rusk yesterday blasted administra tion foes who would cut the foreign aid program, and called them defeatists willing to let Communists "begin to take over" the world.

In testimony before the House Foreign Affairs Committee, Rusk said, "Why any American would want to co operate with that global Communist strategy is beyond my understanding. But that is what sharp cuts in our foreign aid program would mean."

The statement opened the battle in Congress for the administration's foreign aid budget of $4.5 billion.

Chairman Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., said he anticipated Congress would wind up cutting foreign aid to slightly below last year's level of $3.9 million.

RICHARD AMBERG

Amberg To Speak At J-Day, April 18

Old Newsboys Day, a promotion to raise money for construction of a campus chapel, will be tied in this year with the annual observance of J-Day at SIU on Thursday, April 18.

Richard Amberg, publisher of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, will give the annual Elijah P. Lovejoy memorial lecture on J-Day, an event sponsored by the Department of Journalism.

The Egyptian's Old Newsboys Day is patterned after the St. Louis Globe-Democrat's Old Newsboy Day promotion.

Money collected for a special edition of the Daily Egyptian will be placed in the campus chapel fund.

Church Activities:

Methodist Women Plan 'Last Supper' Meal

Kappa Phi, an organization for Methodist women on campus, is sponsoring "A Meal in the Upper Room," Sunday, 5:30 p.m., at the Wesley Foundation.

Tickets costing 40¢ may be purchased in advance from members of Kappa Phi or at the Wesley Foundation.

The menu is patterned after that of Christ's Last Supper.

It will include lamb, spinach, dates, figs, olives, cheeses, unleavened bread, nuts, and grape juice.

The meal will be eaten in silence. Kappa Phi members will read words of Christ during his last week on earth including those spoken during his Last Supper.

Special music will be presented between readings.

Pat Eaton, president of Kappa Phi, is in charge of the program. Kappa Phi women will serve the meal.

The Sunday Supper Club at the Student Christian Foundation will observe International Student Night at its meeting Sunday at 5:30 p.m.

A Korean style supper will be served. The meal will be prepared by Sun K. Shin, Chang Hae Jang, and Tae Won Han.

Jung Shik Rho, a graduate student in physics, will speak following the meal.

Rusnak Levy, lecturer in philosophy, will speak at 7 p.m. Sunday at the Unitarian Meeting House. Levy's topic will be "Divine Command, Morality, and Justice."

A dinner at 6 p.m. will precede the talk.

The Jewish Student Association, with the congregation of Heth Jacob in the observance of Passover, Monday at 7:30 p.m.

The Seder Passover ritual commemorates the Israelites' departure from Egypt as related in the Book of Exodus. Jewish Women for Peace is sponsoring the Seder.

A program will be conducted by Eugene Sboenfeld at 7:30 p.m. the evening of the Seder.

Smoking and Driving

The Carbondale Friends Worship Group (Quaker) expressed that meetings for worship are currently being held on Sunday evening at the Student Christian Foundation.

The unprogrammed worship of Friends is based on silence and is open to all who would like to participate.

Reverend Coggins To Lecture Here

The Rev. Rose Coggins of the Southern Baptist Christian Life Commission will deliver the first W. P. Throgmorton Lectures next week at the Baptist Foundation.

The theme, "To Change the World," is taken from Karl Marx but expresses a Christian determination. The lectures will be given at 7:30 each evening, starting Monday and continuing through Friday.

The subjects covered by the lectures will be "Contemporary Moral Breakdown," "War and Peace in the Nuclear Age," "Communism; To Change the World," "Racism Relations," and "Chadron in Population Explosion, Poverty of Nations, Colonialism and Revolution."

The Rev. Mr. Coggins received the Bachelor of Arts degree from Baylor University.

America Will Be A Different Country In Year 2000

In the year 2000, what will life in America be like? That's the subject of a detailed 1,000-page report just released, by a team of 22 major economists. Visualize a nation where...

The average American worker earns $15,500 a year.
Half the electricity used in the United States is produced by a coal-burning plant.
There are 224 million autos on the highways—nearly three cars for every two Americans.
Americans are building 4.2 million homes a year, most of them made entirely of plastic.

The federal government's annual budget is half a trillion dollars and rising. And there's a federal surplue.

Fantastic! The day may be here sooner than you think. In fact, according to these 22 economically expert economists, that day is only about 40 years away.

The economists, working for five years as a non-partisan, private group financed by Ford Foundation grants, tried to envision the United States at the dawn of the 21st century—the year 2000.

They see a bountiful, dynamic nation blessed with huge increases in worldly goods and 331 million people to enjoy them—IF. Their IF—a big IF—is wise planning by today's Americans to make sure the nation still has enough land, water and minerals to carry out the promise.

The 1,000-page report released this week was the result of a research foundation known as Resources for the Future, Inc. It is believed the most complete assessment of our natural resources ever made.

The study was directed by RFF President Joseph L. Fishbeyn, Hans H. Lansberg, director of the RFF resource appraisal program, and Leonard L. Fishbeyn, a Washington consulting engineer.

"Neither a long view of the past, nor consideration of our chief forms of insurance, estimates of future possibilities suggest any general running out of resources during the remainder of the century... or for a long time thereafter," the experts said.

But they stressed that the United States can't afford to sit back and wait for this prosperity to come.

We will have to use resources wisely. This requires a continuing program of research and technological achievement needed to mold nature's raw materials into the tools of our future.

The forecast is built on the assumption the cold war will continue at about the present tempo for the next 40 years, and there will be no business depression severe enough to scar the economy severely. The study includes these forecasts:

The report suggests that a trend toward a freer world market will help the United States realize this thriving new society predicted for the year 2000.

Our nation already depends heavily on foreign sources for many goods and services. The report does not consider the effects of a future world market, but it does consider the effects of a continued cold war.

The report does not consider the effects of a future world market, but it does consider the effects of a continued cold war.

CONAN SMITH
Baseball Star, Track Coach
On SIU Coaching Clinic

Conan Smith, a native of West Frankfort who has compiled an outstanding high school coaching record in track, will share speaking honors at SIU's 15th annual spring coaching clinic Thursday with ex-major league baseball star Emil (Dutch) Leonard.

Smith, now head track coach at Morton West High School in Berwyn, has compiled an overall 99-22 record while directing teams at Equality, Lefland, Arkansas State and Hilldale High at San Marcos, Calif.

Leonard, a member of the Illinois Youth Commission who spent more than 20 years with the Brooklyn Dodgers, Washington Senators, Philadelphia Athletics and Chicago Cubs will discuss all phases of baseball.

Leonard was selected on five all-star teams and was the winning pitcher in the 1943 contest. Leonard is regarded as a capable speaker.

36 DAYS THAT CHANGED THE PERFORMANCE PICTURE IN AMERICA

In 36 days, starting with the Monte Carlo Rally in January of this year, our products have posted a series of competition wins that have made performance history. Here's what has happened:

Three V-8 Falcon Sprints were entered in the Monte Carlo Rallye. This is not a race. It is a trial of a car's total capabilities. We did it (nervously) for the experience and with practically no sense of expectation, because we had not entered an event like this before. One Sprint ended the experiment in a snowbank. But the others finished 1-2 in their class with such authority that they moved the good, grey London Times to say: "The Falcons against South America are a power and performance plan that will shake up motoring in every country in the world."

That was Number One.

Number Two was a double win in the Pure Oil Performance Trials. Ford entered Class 1 and Class 2 (for high performance and large V-8's). Both of these trials were for over-all points rolled up in economy, acceleration and braking tests.

Then, at Riverside in California, in America's only long-distance stock car event that is run on a road course (as opposed to closed circuit, banked tracks such as the track at Daytona), Dan Gurney pushed a Ford to first place.

The latest news comes north from Daytona. There in the open test that tears cars apart—the Daytona 500—Ford durability conquered the field. Fords swept the first 5 places...something no one else had equaled in the history of the event. In a competition—_which anyone can enter—designed to prove how well a car hangs together, 9 Fords finished out of 12 entered...a truly remarkable record considering that over 50% of all cars entered failed to finish.

Why do we keep such an interested eye on competitions such as these? Is speed important to us? Frankly, no. The speed capabilities of the leading American cars are now grouped so closely together that the differences have no real meaning. To us, who are building cars, success in this kind of competition means just one thing: the car is strong. This kind of performance capability means that the car is well built that it can stand up to normal driving—the kind of day-in, day-out demands you put your own car through for thousands of miles longer than less capable cars.

In tests like the Daytona 500 and Riverside, we find out in an afternoon what might take us 100,000 test-mile miles to discover. We learn how to build superior strength into suspension systems, steering systems, drive train, body, tires. Anyone can build a fast car. What we're interested in is the concept of "total" performance.

We believe in this kind of total performance because the search for performance made the automobile the wonderfully efficient and pleasurable instrument it is today—and will make it better tomorrow.
