Harpette granted access to SIU festival records

By Marty Fung and Win Holden

Daily Egyptian Staff Writers

A motion requesting that SIU produce records concerning the Mississippi River Festival was granted to Harpette, Ltd., promoters of the festival, at the regular May Day meeting in action at the Jackson County Courthouse Tuesday.

Judge Roddy A. Scott, granting the motion by Harpette's attorneys, ruled that Harpette'smotion was based on a previous motion exempting which included duplication of the records, time Duplication of the records, time

SU Legal Counsel Richard Gruny and Harpette attorney W.A. Armstrong argued that similarity between the May Festival and the Mississippi River Festival held last year, Harpette contends that there is a marked difference in the amount of people and type of entertainment presented.

Gruny said "The Mississippi River Festival is not relevant to this case," Gruny concluded. "The complexity of the matter is that no profit motive was present at the festival."

The board usually accepted Holderman's recommendation that the legislature eliminate the practice of tuition waivers for students who might pursue a teaching career.

Holderman said the number of students at Illinois colleges who pay no tuition is uncertain. The board agreed that tuition waivers not based on financial need should be phased out.

The only qualification for tuition waivers in the past has been that a student to be in the upper 50 per cent of his high school class and indicate a desire to teach.

Holderman said about half the students at Western Illinois and Eastern Illinois universities have such waivers.

Chancellor Robert W. MacVicar, contacted in Springfield Tuesday, said Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie's budget recommendations would have to be clarified before it is clear whether program cuts will be necessary to provide faculty salary increases.

He said he was not in a position to comment on possible program reductions, which were discussed by George L. Clements, chairman of the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

Clements said the board would "be unable to determine what programs will be curtailed to provide faculty salary increases." He said he recommended a 4.5 per cent increase, considerably lower than the 7.1 per cent recommended by the Higher Board.

He recommended the recommendation to increase tuition as rapidly as possible. He indicated concern for both out-of-state and in-state students, who would suffer from the hikes.

SIU will be hardest hit among the state's universities in terms of dollars if the tuition increases go into effect.

City grants $1.130

"Serve the People" funded

By Ellen Madson

Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Student Senator's "Serve the People" campaign received $1,130 from the city of Carbondale to help finance a new Carbondale, Peoria's Carbons project in City Council action at Tuesday's formal meeting.

The request was made by the Committee on the Buckley Environmental Fair. The request was made to the Committee of the Buckley Environmental Fair for a parade on April 18 and to the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and promotes of the Carbondale "All American Day" for a parade May 2.

The Council also agreed to a amendment to a city ordinance on Carbondale's responsibility for maintenance and construction of sidewalks within the corporate limits of the city.

The amendment set a sidewalk Review Board of six members who will act as a recommending board to the Council. The Board also will review petitions for financial hardship for persons unable to pay any special tax for sidewalk construction or repair.

Appropriation of $54,000 of motor fuel tax funds for street maintenance purposes was also passed by the Council.

In other Council action, a ban was awarded to Workman's Compensation Insurance.

Traffic tie up

Two receive minor injuries

Two SIU freshmen suffered minor injuries Monday afternoon in a two-car collision at the entrance to Carbondale Mobile Home Park.

John McCaffrey, freshman from Wilmotte, and Betty J. Dietz, freshman from DeSoto, were both treated and released from Doctor's Hospital.

State police said McCaffrey's car had turned left in front of Miss Dietz's auto at the intersection. Major damage to the Dietz vehicle was reported.

Prof. Huus to talk

Helen Huus, professor of education at the University of Illinois, will speak at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign at 3 p.m. Thursday in the Union Ballroom, according to the Daily Egyptian.

VISA members attended a Regional Planning Commission meeting, an elaborate church and a social service center in a poor neighborhood, a Chinese Presbyterian church and an elementary school, where some VISA members spoke.

Sahem said because of the trip's success arrangements are being made for trips during spring and summer breaks.

Eight to appear

PATCO officials ordered to court

CHICAGO (AP) - A federal Judge Tuesday ordered eight officials of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization (PATCO) to show cause why they should not be held in contempt of court for violating a restraining order against the controllers, who have continued to picket.

The eight officials were ordered to appear before Judge James B. Parsons in U.S. District Court Wednesday with doctors' reports attesting to their illness.

Judge Parsons also extended the federal restraining order to include an additional 129 PATCO members at the Air Traffic Control Center at Aurora, and Chicago's O'Hare International Airport.

The controllers have failed to report for work the last 14 days, claiming illness. The eight listed in the order are Carl H. DeJfrous, a member of PATCO's national board of directors; William J. Plaib, president of the Chicago chapter; Wayne P. Carne, Milwaukee PATCO director; Gary J. Rice, a member of Chicago's central PATCO office; Richard J. Shade, PATCO director at the O'Hare tower; John Schnurr, PATCO director at the DePeage tower; Carl Ott, vice president of the Chicago chapter, and Glenn Rivers, secretary of the Chicago chapter.

Construction behind schedule

The new addition to the Communications Building is a month behind schedule.

Lloyd Weilber, who is in charge of the project, said that the work fell behind because of the severe winter. The scheduled date of completion was Aug. 23, 1970. "We will start moving in equipment after we have accepted the contractors' work which will probably be in October," Weber said.

"The new portion will be in full use by the School of Journalism, the Egyptian and the Department of Cinema and Photography during the winter quarter," Weber concluded.

Catalogues

Published in the Department of Journalism Tuesday through Saturday three times a week, the catalogues contain, periodical subscriptions, and illustrations of books, magazines, and newspapers for the library, Carbondale, Illinois, 62921. Second-class postage paid in Carbondale, Illinois.

Patrons of the Daily Egyptian are the receivers of these catalogues and are urged to use them freely. Students can have their catalogues delivered to their offices, houses, or dormitories.

Goodfink uses minority pawns

Ever since his defeat for the Student Senate, honest Marvin Goodfink has kept silent in student politics. His recent announcement to run for student body president prompts this latest interview with him.

ME: Mr. Goodfink, I've heard you're running for president. Is that true?

GOODFINK: That is correct. And I plan to run on my own party, the Minority Party.

ME: After reading a letter in last week's Egyptian by Joe Smith, I decided to found my party. After all, less than 15 percent of the student body votes in those elections. Why should we go out of the way to represent all of the students?

GOODFINK: Why should we? A lot of foreign governments run without a majority behind them. Take Rhodesia for instance, Ian Smith runs that nation without more than 20 percent of the people backing him.

ME: You're a fraud! But how will you further appeal to the student radicals?

GOODFINK: That will be determined by my running-mates. I will run for president. Since there are a lot of feminists in the radical ranks, I'll run Alice B. Smokergas for vice president who will also appeal to the drug crowd. For student activities vice president, I'll have Leroy Token who will appeal to the black militants. And I may get the vote of the Yet's Club if he learns to tape dance by next week.

GOODFINK: But shouldn't you represent the majority?

GOODFINK: Why should it? A lot of foreign governments run without a majority behind them. Take Rhodesia for instance, Ian Smith runs that nation without more than 20 percent of the people backing him.

ME: You're a fraud! But how will you further appeal to the student radicals?

GOODFINK: That will be determined by my running-mates. I will run for president. Since there are a lot of feminists in the radical ranks, I'll run Alice B. Smokergas for vice president who will also appeal to the drug crowd. For student activities vice president, I'll have Leroy Token who will appeal to the black militants. And I may get the vote of the Yet's Club if he learns to tape dance by next week.

ME: Well, you certainly seem confident.

GOODFINK: I sure am. All I have to do is lower myself for a few weeks and student government is all mine! After all, isn't the minority who decide the student governments here anyway, isn't it?

SIU assists students

To the Daily Egyptian:

I'd like to thank the administration, the security services and the students of SIU for being so warm, friendly and helpful to the group of high school students from Pontiac, Michigan. We were in route to the Library in Jackson, Mississippi, and had made arrangements to spend the night here at the university. When our bus broke down, we were stranded for two days, everyone was so sympathetic, helpful and generous to us. We couldn't have picked a better spot to have trouble. We will go home with warm spots in our hearts for SIU.

Thank you again.

Bide-an-Hour Motel proves no refuge to census dodger

By Arthur Hoppe
San Francisco Chronicle

My friend, Empirus Klag, being a good, respectable American, is terribly worried. It's the fault of the U.S. Census Bureau.

As you may know, we held "I Night" last week. Census takers called at every hotel and lodging house in the land in their determined effort to track down and question every living American.

They caught up with Klag at the Bide-an-Hour Motel.

He heard a knock on the door and opened it a crack. There was this young man flash ing his identification, "U.S. Census Bureau," and the young man, all businesslike.

"You got the goods on me," said Klag, shitting slightly. "I'll go quietly."

"We just want to ask you a few hundred questions," said the young man, staking in and pulling out a 20-page form. "How long have you occupied this household?"

"About 15 minutes," said Klag. "And if you go away, we'll be out in half an hour."

"Well?" said the agent suspiciously. "How many person or persons occupy this household?"

"You might as well come out of the closet, Poopole," said Klag resignedly. "They know you're in there."

"Is this other person who occupies your household," the agent, cycling Poopole's negligee approvingly, "your spouse, son, daughter or other?"

"What do you think I am," said Klag indignantly, "some kind of sex nut?"

The young man wrote down, "spouse," and inquired whether Poopole had been born prior to 1954.

"If not," said Klag, counting on his fingers, "I'm in real hot water."

"Speaking of that," said the agent, "do you cook with gas?"

"How-see, does he?" said Poopole, giggling. "(I'm all hour burners.)"

After another several score questions, the agent had determined that the household rental was $3 an hour and that Poopole was a self-employed entertainer in retail trade who earned no daily income and about $50 a night.

It was the question about plumbing that ended the interview. "Does this household have a flush toilet?" asked the agent.

"No," said Klag, after peering into the bathroom to check, "the top's a good two feet off the floor."

"And does this household share the tub or shower with other households?"

"I know it all along," cried Klag, outraged. "You're some kind of sex nut!"

That's when he grabbed his trousers, punched the agent in the nose and fled off into the night.

Now that he's sober, Klag isn't worried about being a fugitive from the census. He isn't even worried that some computer won't believe there are two Mrs. Empirus Klags, one in The Bide-an-Hour Motel and one back home in Muscile, N.J., dirtyly because he instinctively gave the agent a fictitious name.

In fact, that's just what worries him. "I figure that any government which goes around counting people in motels in the middle of the night," he says worriedly, "is going to come up with about ten million people too many."
Dear Hubert,

Well, I've been head of the party for several weeks now, but there is one problem that still perplexes me. How can we raise money to pay our debts from the last election? It seems every time we hold a dinner, few come. I have suggested lowering the price of these dinners, but it just doesn't seem dignified to go to a $95.98 a plate dinner. In the meantime, the Republicans are holding dinners like food was going out of style. And everyone is well attended. I wonder how they can do it. I realize that . . .

3) he handled the Pompidou visit rather well, probably to our nation's advantage. And he showed the world . . .

4) how humble he is, never refusing to admit when he or the nation has made an error (sometimes). I'd say . . .

5) he has handled the burning issues of the day rather well, but we still should be able to attract paying customers to dinners . . .

6) Frankly, I cannot see how they do it!

TV news commentator to speak at convocation

John Scall, ABC news reporter, will speak at convocation at 1 p.m. Thursday in the Arena.

Scall, in award-winning news commentator, has been the only Washington commentator to accompany President Nixon and Secretary of State William P. Rogers on all their overseas travels. Scall also played key roles in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations. He secretly negotiated with Russia's intelligence chief in Washington to help arrange for Soviet withdrawal of its offensive missiles from Cuba during the Cuban Missile Crisis.

Scall has been a reporter for 25 years, during which he has traveled to 53 countries. Scall has been on the "ABC Evening News" with Howard K. Smith and Frank Reynolds and hosts ABC's Sunday afternoon interview program, "Issues and Answers."

Scall accompanied the President on his tour of eight nations, beginning in Manila and winding up in Rome. The President stopped in Vietnam during this trip. This was the third Vietnam visit for the President and Scall's eighth trip to Saigon. His relationship with President Nixon goes back to 1959 when he reported Nixon's kitchen debate with Nikita Kruschev in Moscow.

Scall's reputation as the "newswoman's newswoman" dates back to his 17 years with The Associated Press as its rivaling correspondent.

Scall's favorite speech topic is, "Washington Wonderland--The Peculiar View from the Nation's Capital," in which he discusses how politics, personal ambition, and pride have helped thrust us in a war in Vietnam.

Another topic is "Beyond Vietnam--The New Isolation," in which he looks beyond Vietnam to present the thesis that the United States is inevitably heading for a period of neo-isolationism that will dominate the next decade.

College administrators urge board to pass original budget

WASHINGTON (AP)—The future of Supreme Court nominee G. Harrold Carswell remains uncertain with a shrinking band of undecided senators Tuesday on the eve of the climactic confirmation vote.

"This could go down to the wire," said Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, "it is going to be a real horse race."

Both Mansfield and at least one Republican—Robert J. Dele of Kansas—said Wednesday's vote might be decided by Vice Presi­dent Spiro T. Agnew who could vote to break a tie to put the 50-year-old appeals court judge on the Supreme Court.

Other Republican leaders continued to pro­fess confidence in confirmation although by far less than the 52-44 Monday vote by which they back the effort to return the nomination to the Judiciary Committee.

But privately some of these same republicans conceded they were nervous over the outcome.

Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., announced Tuesday through an aide that he would vote against confirmation—an announcement which had been expected.

It raised to 40 the number of senators committed against confirmation in an Associated Press poll. The poll showed 44 for confirmation and 12 publicly undecided.

Four senators are expected to be absent. Tacticians on both sides mentioned only a few of the uncommitted as being really unknown quantities. Presumably the others have indicated privately what they will do.

The key votes appeared to be those of Democrat J.W. Fulbright of Arkansas and Republicans Marlow W. Cook of Kentucky and Margaret Chase Smith of Maine.

Fulbright deserted Southern ranks to vote for sending the nomination back to committee.

Cook voted against the motion but has indicated that he is troubled by the nomination.

Except for her vote against recom­mendation, Mrs. Smith has given no hint of her stand.

Harpette granted access

Warden J. G. Musser of the Illinois State Penitentiary has recommended that several Illinois students be granted access to the state prison. The recommendation has been made in response to a request from the university administration.

The recommendation will be considered by the university's Board of Trustees. If approved, it will allow students to visit the prison for educational purposes and to conduct research on the prison system.

The recommendation was based on the belief that such access would benefit students by providing them with a unique opportunity to learn about the realities of prison life. It is hoped that this will help them develop a deeper understanding of the societal issues surrounding incarceration.

The university administration has expressed support for the recommendation, recognizing the educational value of such access. They believe it will provide a valuable learning experience for students and contribute to their overall development.

House urges lower marijuana penalty

WASHINGTON (AP) --- Preliminary government findings on marijuana are that it does not necessarily lead to heroin addiction but is a dangerous drug and strong preparations might produce brain damage in some chronic users.

The preliminary findings by the National Institute of Mental Health after three years of study were included in a report released Tuesday by the House Select Committee on Crime.

The committee concluded marijuana traffic is a minimum $430 million-a-year big business that is leading increasing numbers of young Americans into tragic lives---but that present stiff penalties are threatening respect for law in general and should be reduced.

It suggested a maximum one-week jail sentence for first-offense marijuana possession during which the violator would be required to take a drug abuse education course.

"The growing drug culture," said Chairman Claude Pepper, D-Fla., "is rapidly undermining respect for law and doing serious damage to the ability of the criminal justice system to safeguard the lives and property of the American people."

The committee's 130-page report said this is largely because while marijuana helped boost all drug arrests 32 percent from 1960 to 1968---when 167,177 people were arrested including 45,291 under 18---total marijuana users spending at least $30 a week for a total $2.24 million, 2.4 million spending at least $100 during the year for $740 million and three million experimenters spending an insignificant amount.

The preliminary findings on marijuana effects, given by NIMH director Stanley F. Yolles in response to questions from Pepper, included a study showing that one-third to one-half of chronic marijuana users also try barbiturates and peep pills and less than 5 percent try narcotics including heroin.

The paper said the institute hopes to have definitive answers on long-term marijuana effects in two years.

House urges lower marijuana penalty

WASHINGTON (AP) --- Preliminary government findings on marijuana are that it does not necessarily lead to heroin addiction but is a dangerous drug and strong preparations might produce brain damage in some chronic users.

The preliminary findings by the National Institute of Mental Health after three years of study were included in a report released Tuesday by the House Select Committee on Crime.

The committee concluded marijuana traffic is a minimum $430 million-a-year big business that is leading increasing numbers of young Americans into tragic lives---but that present stiff penalties are threatening respect for law in general and should be reduced.

It suggested a maximum one-week jail sentence for first-offense marijuana possession during which the violator would be required to take a drug abuse education course.

"The growing drug culture," said Chairman Claude Pepper, D-Fla., "is rapidly undermining respect for law and doing serious damage to the ability of the criminal justice system to safeguard the lives and property of the American people."

"No parking" sign shortage causes traffic tie-up

Daily traffic tie-ups on South Marion Street have resulted from a lack of "no parking" signs which prevents SIU Security Police from enforcing the ordinance banning parking.

The ordinance prohibits parking on the east side of South Marion Street near the campus, according to Thomas E. Leffler, chief security officer.

"We don't have the necessary signs yet," Leffler said, "We wanted to post them during the break, but they didn't get to us yet.

There originally were "no parking" signs on South Marion, but the workers who tore down the buildings also tore down the signs, Leffler stated.

As it is now, cars are parking on the east side of Marion Street and autos that have to pass them often have to go up on the west side curb to do so.

Meanwhile, over at the corner of Mill Street and Illinois Avenue, another traffic problem presents itself daily to motorists.

Drivers approaching the stop at Mill Street while traveling north on Illinois find that four lanes exist in a two-lane road.

The state highway department recently painted new lines, allowing for a parking lane on the west side of the street, but they apparently failed to remove the old lane markings.

Harold Hill of the City Public Works Department, said the state highway people were supposed to remove the old markings.

After a call from The Daily Egyptian, Hill said he was off to inspect the site and investigate the reported lane confusion.
Move to revive bill

City Council, legislators meet

By Ellen Mahoney
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

An initial plan to revive a previously dropped impoundment bill was set at an informal luncheon meeting between the Carbondale City Council and area state legislators Tuesday.

Assembly members attending the meeting were Sen. John C. Gillis, R-Carbondale; Rep. Gale Williams, D—Murphysboro, and Rep. C. L. McCormick, R—Vienna.

On the advice of the legislators, the city of Carbondale will contact other Illinois cities with adjacent college or universities to determine their position on state aid and support for the issue.

A tentative meeting between the representatives from these cities and the legislators from the respective districts has been set for May 6 in Springfield.

The noon luncheon was suggested by City Councilman Hans Fischer. Fischer responded to the Carbondale Citizens' Advisory Council suggestion that the city of Carbondale and SIU take a joint study to find the cost of services rendered by the city to the University.

Fischer, who opposed the proposal, offered an alternative to the legislators on the broader issue of state aid to impacted cities.

As the meeting, the question of the effectiveness of a study made to show the necessity of such legislation was put to the legislators by Councilman William Eason and Fischer.

Rep. McCormick said he felt such a study would only slow consideration by the legislators. He feared that the likely approach would be to contrive the legislators with the proposal. The other legislators agreed.

The impacted cities proposal, providing a portion of the particular school's budget to the adjacent city, was defeated last year in the Illinois Senate.

Advisory Committee appeals to State Board

Students ask Ogilvie to change proposed budget

SPRINGFIELD — Members of the Ad Hoc Student Advisory Committee to the Illinois Board of Higher Education have written to the board to express their "deep concern" over the higher education budget submitted last week by Governor Richard B. Ogilvie. The students urged the board to be independent enough to carry the fight for more funds to the General Assembly.

In a letter to Board Chairman George L. Clements, the head of the 38-member student committee, Robert Weinberger, a University of Illinois graduate student, said, "We fear the financial savings the board has been told to make will be more than offset by its social cost."

The students said the governor's proposed tuition increase, which would raise tuition rates for resident students an average of 63 percent, would hit middle-income families hardest. "We fear that the result will be that many qualified high school graduates will be unable to afford college education. We are worried that the door of opportunity is being closed in their faces."

In his budget message the governor said provision would be made to increase scholarship funds. Weinberger said he did not believe the increase would adequately offset the full impact of the tuition increase. Of the small increase in faculty salaries, the students pointed out that the Board of Higher Education had recommended a 7.1 percent increase to keep Illinois from slipping below the national average in faculty salaries. The new budget reduces the request to an average of 2.23 percent for the full fiscal year. Weinberger's letter said the "meager increase" was "inadequate if Illinois is to attract and retain the best teachers available."

He said the state would be at a "competitive disadvantage in comparison to other states in efforts to improve and maintain the quality of our academic instruction."

Because the cost of living is increasing at more than 6 percent annually, the letter said, the reduced salary increase in the new budget means that "faculty members will be receiving less pay, in real dollars, than they were last year."

The group noted that the board of Higher Education had itself said the proposed decrease in capital construction projects represented "unmet needs" and that the likely result would be "an important constraint upon the ability of the institutions to maintain current standards." The students expressed their fear that the deferrals would "impair high quality education."

The students agreed with the governor's statement in the governor's message that education must become "less of a sacred cow."

But, they said, "we do not believe the answer is to risk making it an under-nourished one."

The group urged the board to be a "strong and independent advocate of the needs of higher education" rather than "acquiescing in the decisions of the governor.

They asked the board to carry the fight for more money to the General Assembly and not be "dependent upon the views of any one individual."

Weinberger said a letter to the editor, "laxness like tuition increases, faculty salaries and building programs may lack the drama of a demonstration to many students, but ultimately they are no less important to the future of higher education in Illinois."

Students Operating Against Pollution (SOAP) will meet at 7:30 p.m. tonight in Brown Auditorium to discuss the hiring of workers for the planned May Day Fest.

According to Robert Soeby, president of SOAP, students interested in working for the festival must attend the meeting. He said 500 people are needed.

Soeby said a discussion of the festival, of jobs available and what a job will be discussed prior to a short speech by Douglas S. Prenerman, assistant to the dean of the School of Technology, who will talk on water pollution.

Course explores family living

Management problems of the low income family are the subject of a new course being taught this quarter by the Department of Family Economics and Management at SIU. The course, entitled "Basic of Family Living," deals with various aspects of family living and operation relating specifically to the low income family and the disadvantaged.

Problems of food buying, comparison shopping, nutritional factors, household equipment, furnishings and fraudulent sales are some of the areas which will be explored in the course, said Karen Craig, assistant professor of home economics.

Professors to speak at conference

"The Spanish in the Mississippi Valley, 1763-1804" is the title of a conference to be held at the Edwardsville, and "The Spanish Pavilion in the Tour," April 9-11. The first day's sessions will be held at the Edwardsville Pavilion, and the latter two days at the University Center Rooms of the University Center. Sessions on April 10 and 11 will be in the Toledo Room of the Spanish Pavilion.

During the three-day conference there will be a dinner in 7:30 p.m. in the Grand Ballroom of the Pavilion, at which place winners from contests in high school sections 21, 22, 23, 24 and 25 in two speaking categories on topics related to agriculture. One category is extemporaneous public speaking; the other, prepared speeches. District winners and runners-up will advance to the state contest later in the spring. SRI agriculture faculty members will serve as judges. A minimum of 20 students can compete in each category.

State officials present arguments

By John R. Ziebold

Student Writer

Whether to elect or appoint election officials at county levels has been a controversial issue at the Convention.

Officials who have come under fire are the superintendent of public instruction, state treasurer, auditor of public accounts, secretary of state, some judergut and some county officials.

Previous candidates have been given to the Con-Con for both election by the people and appointment by the governor. Most of those seeking that these officials remain elected justifi-their position by saying that the officeholders must continue being responsible to the people.

Secretary of State Paul Powell, testifying before the entire convention in late January, stated, "I am still old-dated enough to believe that the citizens of Illinois should have the right to vote for and against state officials, and to re-elect or defeat those they feel have not properly represented them."

Powell said the governor and lieutenant governor should be allowed to run together as a team, but the supreme court and appellate courts should appoint their own clerks. He said this would leave six state officials on the ballot. Powell said:

"That excludes governor and lieutenant governor, secretary of state, treasurer, sup-intendent of public instruction, state treasurer, and superintendent of public instruction."

Jackson County Superintendent of Schools Monroe Dening also said public officials should be elected.

"I have enough confidence in the American people that if they were ever able to select their representatives they ought to be more qualified and better able to do so today," he said.

"There is nothing more political than an appointive position by an elected official," Dening said.

The SIU women’s varsity volleyball team defeated Eastern Illinois in the first match, but were unable to overcome Eastern Illinois’ winning streak in the second and third matches as they were defeated 15-12 and 15-12.

The second team lost the first game against Eastern Illinois 15-12, but captured the remaining matches 15-2, 15-3 resulting in a win and a loss meet.

“I think we played well at times and at times we played poorly,” said Kay Brachlebauer, assistant volleyball coach. “It was team all the way through. No particular person carried the team. Someone would do poorly and then someone else would pick up the slack.”

The first teams will host the volleyball sectional at 9 a.m. Saturday in the Women’s Gym. Members will be from SIU, Eastern Illinois, Illinois State and University of Illinois, Principia College.

SIU will have three teams competing. The varsity team will play the University of Illinois at 11 a.m., and at 2 p.m. the Salukis will take on Western.

The events are held without charge.

Baseball comedy of errors:
SIU over Moorhead, 11-1

By Mike Klein
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

With all due respect to coach Bill Thomas, his Moorhead State Dragon baseball team doesn't belong on the same field with the Salukis.

They've already proved that twice and will face the Salukis again at 3 p.m. today on the SIU diamond.

After absorbing a losing 25-3 defeat Monday, the Dragons were held to only one hit Tuesday and succumbed 11-1.

John Daigle recorded his third victory of the campaign against one loss. Sophomore reliever Chuck Richards finished the last three innings. Tuesday's contest was a comedy of errors on the part of Moorhead. Three throwing errors in the second and third innings paved the way for a 3-0 Saluki lead.

SIU was held scoreless in the first frame. Monday, the Salukis helped Moorhead inagurate their new season by collecting 10 runs and eight hits in the first.

Aided by two Moorhead errors in the fifth, coach Richard "Irky" Jones' Salukis scored five runs on six hits in their biggest uprising of the game.

Bob Blakely and Mark Newman opened with back to back singles to put men on first and third. Dan Radison's single scored Blakely and pushed Newman to second. Jim Diasmore then piled pitched Radison and Newman to second and third with Bob Sedak at bat. Sedak popped a texas league fly ball which fell between the shortstop and left fielder.

Both base runners had to hold until the ball dropped. Newman then scored on a poor throw from the left fielder but Radison was caught between second and third. Darryl Ojala tagged him out as he attempted to get back to second.

Gene Rinaldi kept the rally going with a single to left, Sedak moving to third. Moments later, Diasmore tried to pick Rinaldi off first but Rinaldi stole second. First base man Steve Nelson attempted to catch Sedak off third but threw the ball into left field, enabling Sedak to score the third run of the inning.

An error by Ojala on Ray Nygard's grounder scored Rinaldi and left Nygard on first. He scored two batters later when Lee Soodo rapped a double to the wall in left center.

Two consecutive figures to get tougher after today's game with Moorhead.

This weekend the Salukis will fly fifth ranked Tulsa twice and such ranked Mississippi Monday. All contests will be road games.

SALUKI SHORTS: Ray Nygard has battled his way out of a two for 11 slump with five hits in his last six at bats. In the process, he has knocked in four runs and scored four.

SIU hitting, pitching statistics prove early winning ability

Prior to Tuesday's game against Moorhead State, the Saluki baseball team had a team batting average of .337, while opponents had hit .245 against SIU pitching through 13 games.

Saluki pitching had been equally as impressive, with a club earned run average of 2.16.

Brewers are dumped 12-0 by Angels

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Andy Messersmith allowed only four hits and the California Angels wreaked Milwaukee's American League debut Tuesday, dumping the Brewers 12-0.

A crowd of 34,257 watched Milwaukee's return to the majors.

The Angels' long ball attack started in the second inning when Jay Johnstone opened with a triple and scored on Jim Spencer's sacrifice fly. The Angels scored three more in the third, all with two outs.

Sandy Alomar beat out an infield hit starting the rally.

Jim Fregosi walked, then Bill Voss tripled for two runs and scored on a wild pitch, that finished Brewer starter Lew Krause and the Angels completed the assault in the fourth, punching five hits for four more runs. Consecutive doubles by Roger Repoz and Joe Azcue were the key hits in the rally.

In the seventh, California scored three more. Repoz drove in one with a triple and scored another, Fregosi doubled and came around on an error and a wild pitch for California's final run in the eighth.

Gene Rinaldi, Saluki shortstop, scores SIU's seventh of 11 runs in Tuesday's victory over the Moorhead State Dragons. Rinaldi, on a bases-loaded, one-out single in the fifth inning, will conclude the series and their nine-game homestand today at 3 p.m. (Photo by John Lopinot)

Electives: (Select 6)

- IA 102: Introduction to Programming Concepts (3)
- IA 112: Programming Languages (3)
- IA 202: Data Structures and Algorithms (3)
- IA 212: Computer Systems Architecture (3)
- IA 302: Advanced Database Systems (3)
- IA 312: Advanced Computer Networks (3)
- IA 402: Advanced Operating Systems (3)
- IA 412: Advanced Computer Systems Design (3)
- IA 502: Research Concepts (3)
- IA 512: Advanced Computer Systems (3)
