Senior Exempt from Final Exams

Senior exemption from final examinations during their senior year has been a question of debate among students, faculty, and administration for some time. Many students believe that senior exemption from final exams is unnecessary, while others argue that it allows students to focus on their graduation projects and other important tasks.

The administration believes that granting senior exemption from final exams would undermine the academic rigor and preparation necessary for graduation. However, students who argue for exemption may point to the reduced workload and increased focus on research and personal projects.

Senior exemption from final exams is a complex issue that involves balancing academic rigor with student well-being. Ultimately, the decision on whether to grant senior exemption from final exams will depend on careful consideration of the benefits and drawbacks of such a policy.

"America’s Worst Enemy Is Ignorance, Not Russians; Secrecy In Government To Blame"

By Gary S. Clark

"America’s worst enemy is ignorance, not Russians," said Pope. "Secrecy in government should be regarded as a threat.

The United States has a long history of secrecy in government, from the Philadelphia Convention to the present day. The government has been accused of covering up information that is important for the public to know.

The government should be transparent and accountable. Only then can we trust the government to act in the public good.

"How can you describe something like that?" Marie Halifield, reviewing Birmingham, exclaimed when asked about the beauty of a girl who was gifted to the town by the Society. There was excitement and thrill in every Marie's voice as she described the dress. Words just don't do justice to the occasion, according to the Queen. Marie, a sobber, white, girl with slender dark hair, is a picture of loveliness in the long, evening dress of pure silk taffeta. The close-fitting bodice opens the waist where it begins to flounce out and ends in a wide, full skirt, which is fashioned in even, full, flared chiffon.
