Period of Adjustment Opens
Tonight for Five-Night Run

Honeymoon Misadventures
Explored in Williams' Play

"Period of Adjustment," Tennessee Williams' uninhibited comedy, opens at 8 tonight in the air-conditioned Southern Playhouse for a five-night run. The first production of Southern Player's summer season, "Period of Adjustment" is a serious comedy dealing with the trials of a newlywed couple and the misadventures they encounter on the night of their honeymoon.

The action of the play takes place in the living room of a house in a suburb of Cape Girardeau, Mo., on Christmas Eve. Sheriff W. F. Abrams, associate theater director, is director of this production, which is Tennessee Williams' first and only comedy.

The part of Ralph Bates is played by Gil Lazier, graduate student in the Department of Theater. Lazier has appeared in many Southern Players' productions and is currently completing work on his doctoral degree.

Sandy Lazier portrays the young bride, Isabel Haver­ spike. Mrs. Lazier has appeared as an actress with the Pittsburgh Playhouse and is the wife of Gil Lazier.

Charles Harris plays the part of the young bridegroom, Harris, a teaching assistant in the Department of English, recently directed "Christ in the Concrete City" and "The Raging Shed" for the Baptist Foundation on campus. Other cast members include:

-Patricia Grace, former actor and director for the Bishop Company of Burbank, Calif., as McGillicuddy; John Go­ dard, director for the Southern Players.

-Patricia Grace, a theater major, in the role of Mrs. Lazier. McGillicuddy, former actor and director for the Bishop Company of Burbank, Calif., as McGillicuddy; John Go­ dard, director for the Southern Players.

Four-Man Committee to Study
Rerouting of Student Buses

A committee has been ap­ pointed by John Paul Davis, vice president of the Car­ bondale student body, to study the rerouting of student bus services on campus.

Chairman of the committee is James B. Standard, Liberal Arts and Sciences senior Committee member, ap­ pointed by Davis from the stu­ dent body are Thomas E. Bar­ rinckas, Charles Beachman and Thomas M. Voight.

The student bus service, an in-city bus service to bring students to campus, is under contract to the ANA Transit Co. in Chicago. The present route was set up in 1960.

This route begins at the cor­ ner of South Wall Street and East Main Street and goes northeast, then comes down University Avenue and goes to the University Center. From the University Center it goes to Thompson Point and then to Small Group Housing and returns to the University Center on the same route.

The reason for choosing the bus route is a shift in off-campus residence and the extensive building on the east side of town.

Williams' Brother Here to See Play

Dakin Williams, brother of playwright Tennessee Wil­ liams, will be on campus tonight for the opening of "Period of Adjustment."

Williams, assistant U.S. At­ torney for the Eastern District of Illinois, wrote the Southern Players that "Period of Ad­ justment" is one of his favor­ ite plays and that he would like to come for the opening. Tickets were made available to him.

\[\text{Students on Pro' Will Meet Today} \]

A meeting of students who went on academic probation at the end of spring term is scheduled for 10 a.m. today in Morris Library Auditorium.

The meeting is planned so that probation students may learn what requirements they must meet in order to stay in school for the fall term. Chief among these is that the student earn a 3.0 (C) average in at least nine hours of classes during the summer term, according to Dorothy J. Ramey, counselor assistant. Mrs. Ramp said that in ad­ dition to the required meeting, students are urged to come to her office in T65 to get personal counseling. The of­ fice is open from 8:15 a.m. to 11:45 a.m. and from 1:30 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. No appointment is necessary.

Personable Professors Who Inspire Rate Students’ A

Rating college professors is something like the weather—everybody talks about it, but hardly anyone does anything about it.

One of the few exceptions is Yale University where each year an undergraduate publication in which the professors are rated by the students is almost as eagerly awaited as the announcement of the new salary scale.

At SIU a few brave profs have been known to ask students to rate them at the end of the term, but this usually happens before the final grades are posted and some students naturally are reluctant to jeopardize that solid "C" they have going into the final.

Nevertheless, a few students pulled recently agreed to say for public print how they rate profs in general. Here are their answers:

The most important criterion in judging professors, according to students interviewed, is the ability to get the subject matter across. A professor in business management who believes he is "fairly developed and mature" said that a good professor is "the ability to get material across to students, to reach the students on their own level and hold their interest."

Theodore R. Wieman, a graduate student from Poughkeepsie, N.Y., ranks professors in terms of "Positive impact." They have on him or what he has learned from them.

A junior majoring in history thinks he can judge how good or not professors are "by the amount of material they get across to me."

Mary Simpkins, a sophomore from Zeigler, is concerned about "whether the instructor can explain or discuss the material so that the students can understand it." She added, "Some instructors can't get down to material to the students for.

Another and the second most important criterion has deep socio-psychological implications. It is, as a senior from Chicago put it, "the ability to inspire must process the student." Lockhart C. Hines, a senior from Jamaica, N.Y., thinks he has the basis of my judgment is him (the teacher) ability to stimulate the student to greater heights. The teacher must create a level of interest that stimulates the student, he can be properly judged on his ability to create this atmosphere of learning in the classroom so the student can associate knowledge with reality. A conscientious student is, as a senior from Chicago put it, "the ability to inspire must process the student."

Command of the subject matter, how he runs the class and the subject presented," are very important to Norman L. Blackwell, a graduate student from Metropolis.

Sara L. O’Neill, a topnotch senior from DuQuoin, rates her profs in terms of the work he puts into the course, the teaching he does, and "just how much he knows."

Miss O’Neill, as well as Karen Menehan, a sophomore majoring in journalism, like to be brought in information and comment from outside the textbook. Ideally, learning goes beyond absorbing the contents of books.

The man or woman who stands in front of the class to impart his or her knowledge, and wisdom, is perceived as living, breathing personality. A freshman from Vincennes, oddly enough, judges her professors by some of their negative personal traits. One whom she isn’t happy with was described as "brisk and impatient and unpleasant." She commented that personality is part of teaching.

Shirley J. Gilmore, a sophomore majoring in elementary education, and one of the two who showed any sign of personal whim in her views, said the "only way I would be able to rate them is on their personality." Applications Ready for Saluquarama

Applications for the Saluquarama committee are now available at the information desk in the center. Students picked to serve on the committee will plan the annual Saluquarama, which is a recreation day featuring games, contests and entertainment. It will be held Aug. 14 at the Lake-on-the-Campus.

College is Great – But Not too Great

Public attitude toward college diploma is somewhat confused. We hear that children of the children of the college generation,ragged, unaccumulate the college grant, and that the college grant is equitable. This is a statement of facts, but it is not a statement of values. The problem is, what do we want from the college? Whether we want it, or how we want it, is another question.

A diploma is regarded as a worthless piece of paper, because, in the absence of evidence of outstanding attainment in the arts, the public insists that job applicants be

Allied Troops Force Viet Cong Withdrawal

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—A 2,500-man allied task force blew up Viet Cong tunnels and abandoned them in one segment of the D-Zone jungle Tuesday, virtually unopposed, the soldiers found little life except hostile dogs. They shot every dog that barked.

Free from human footprints in the paddyfields and dozens of empty thatched houses showed a wholesale withdrawal before the combined operation of Americans, Vietnamese and Australians, their second of the war. This time they concentrate on an area some 50 miles northeast of Saigon.

More than 1,000 paratroopers of the U.S. Army's 173rd Airborne Brigade made up the biggest national contingent of the task force, as was the case in the first combined operation last week. Ali were lifted in by heli-copters with orders to search out every Viet Cong and his homes, supplies and installations.

This followed up a bombardment of the jungle Monday with 500 tons of bombs by about 25 Guam-based B52 jets of the U.S. Strategic Air Command. The eight-engine monsters had staged their first large-scale operation in the area the previous Tuesday.

Johnson Voting Bill Threatened in House

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Southern Democrat leader urged support Tuesday for an amendment to a voting rights bill sponsored by the House Republican leadership.

Representative Howard W. Smith, D-Va., speaking to his Southern colleagues as he was joined in the House, said the GOP-backed measure "locks the door to registration that flows from every sentence" of the Johnson administration's bill. Since the battle began to last two days, with another two days of voting on amendments before the bill comes up for final action.

A fundamental split in the House over a voting bill means that a major vote between the administration's position and Smith probably it quickly.

The Johnson administration bill is in direct, flagrant contradiction to the bill sponsored by Smith while the GOP bill "would do the things that legitimately tend to be done to assure everyone the right to vote. The difference between the two bills is in the way they would become effective. Johnson's bill would take effect immediately and automatically in seven states of low literacy tests, where less than 70 percent of the adult population was registered or voted last November.

Holiday Traffic Toll Hits Record 552

By the Associated Press

The lethal combination of heavier travel and inferior safety performance of the part by drivers sent freight deaths during the Fourth of July weekend soaring to a record 552 for a three-day observance of the holiday.

The final figure exceeded by a wide margin last year's previous record toll of 504 for a three-day Independence Day holiday. It came close to the record for a four-day Independence Day observance, 537, established in 1953.

A council spokesman said preliminary estimates indicate the number of fatalities in the 1,000 million vehicles traveled during this year's Independence Day observance was close to 41.
