Ambulance service on county agenda

Plans for a county-wide ambulance service provided by SIU Health Service will be discussed at the Jackson County Board meeting Wednesday in the courthouse.

The regular meeting begins at 10 a.m., but the ambulance contract is slated for the afternoon session, according to the board's agenda.

In another matter, the county board of supervisors, Hazel LeFevre, health and safety committee chairwoman, said she has been discussing possibly using SIU's Health Service for emergency ambulance service on a county-wide basis. SIU currently provides ambulance service for the eastern part of the county and for the city of Carbondale.

Western Jackson County has been without controlled ambulance service since the former contract with Robert's Funeral home of Murphysboro expired in May. Roberts had also provided service for Murphysboro which members of the county fire and police departments now provide.

Samuel McVay, Health Service director, said, "The county board has been under pressure to get a service in place. They want it on a county-wide basis. SIU currently provides service for the eastern part of the county and the city of Carbondale."

This is the first of two articles dealing with prospects for liberal arts graduates. Today, a study by the SIU College of Liberal Arts shows its name. The idea that you can't get a job if you majored in philosophy, psychology or history is one commonly heard and commonly accepted, he says. In answer to all of this, a study was conducted at SIU last year by the College of Liberal Arts to determine just how liberal arts graduates were making it in the working world. Walsh said the study was done partly to show that liberal arts graduates are not only getting jobs, they're getting good jobs; and to reveal the career alternatives for graduates in this "underprivileged" field.

Ron L. Shelby, dean of the College of Liberal Arts, said he had begun to worry that the idea of liberal arts graduates being unable to find work. In order to find out if the a true picture was really that bad.

Walsh said he had done a couple of smaller studies but never anything of this scope.

The motion passed as originally voted by a vote of 14 to 4 with one abstention.

In other action, the Faculty Senate endorsed a recommendation from their Undergraduate Education Policy Committee to support the elimination of the SIU Textbook Rental Program, which is scheduled for consideration by the Board Thursday.

The emergency session will continue working on the problem of insuring the "students' interests are served in purchase and resale of books.

Members of the committee had voiced concern that frequent change over in textbooks, or instructors requiring several books in one course, could cause increased financial problems for students if the Textbook Rental Program is discontinued.

The Faculty Senate has sent a letter to SIU President Warren Brandt requesting further information on the position of vice president for fiscal affairs before they nominate members to the search committee being formed to fill that vacancy.

At the end of the letter, the senate's letter states that in the absence of information on the specifications of the position and the makeup of the search committee, they could not act responsibly in naming representatives to the committee.

News Roundup
Ford officially announces candidacy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford, pledging never to neglect his official duties and promising "an open and aboveboard campaign," officially announced his candidacy Tuesday for the presidency in 1976.

The only remaining barrier to his move into the White House without winning a national election, Ford said he acted "with the strong support of my family and my friends."

This statement seemed designed to dispel once and for all speculation his resolve to make the race might hinge on the health of his wife, Betty, who underwent breast cancer surgery last fall. Mrs. Ford is reported to have made an excellent recovery.

Mrs. Ford listened to the announcement over a telephone circuit in the White House family quarters and was quoted by an aide as saying, "I was not at all surprised. I'm happy that the time has come and the air is clear as to intentions."

Soviet deal report boosts grain sale

(AP) — Frenzied trading of grain futures was touched off Tuesday by reports of new Soviet-American deals involving a third more of the wheat; corn and other grains sold to the Russians in a controversial transaction exactly three years ago.

The reports, first published in two London newspapers, came as the government prepared to issue a new review on U.S. farm exports.

On the Chicago Board of Trade where dealers buy and sell contracts for future delivery, often providing an indication of trends in coming months, prices rose as much as they could, then dropped as traders cashed in for quick profits.

It was not known how much of any particular type of grain was involved in the alleged sales, but the total would represent a third more of the wheat, corn and other grains sold in 1975's controversial transaction.

Richard E. Bell, a deputy assistant secretary of agriculture, said he was aware of the reports by the Times of London and the Daily Telegraph involving grain sales but could not confirm them. He noted that U.S. exporters are only required to report sales of 100,000 tons or more within 24 hours after a deal is completed.

Arson suspect arrested in Portland

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Police arrested a 61-year-old skid row resident Tuesday on murder and arson charges in the wake of a fire that ripped through a rundown hotel, leaving 8 persons dead and 25 injured.

Eight of the injured were listed in critical condition. Many of the bodies were found in the dimly lit hallways where occupants fell trying to reach a window or stairway and escape the three-story, brick Pomona Hotel.

Hotel residents said most of some 100 cubicle-like rooms in the building were occupied when the fire broke out about 11 p.m. Monday. Most of the victims succumbed to smoke inhalation and the heat, which fire officials said reached 1,000 degrees on the upper floor.

Guest speakers to talk at next meeting of GSC

SIU President Warren W. Brandt, Dean of Student Affairs Bruce Shriver and Trustee Representative Rusty Lightle will be guest speakers at the Student Council (GSC) meeting Wednesday, Sept. 21, at 6:30 p.m. in the Illinois Room of the Student Center.

Brandt is scheduled to speak on the current status of the SIU budget and efforts a may have student tuition, said Alan Hantz, GSC public relations representative. The GSC is also scheduled to vote on the possible appropriation of the Student Bill of Rights and Recreation Funds (SWARP) for a pollution research project for Campus Lake, which Shriver will be speaking on.

The role of the student representative to the Board of Trustees will be discussed by Lightle.

Pay raises demanded by Senate

Last April, the Faculty Senate passed a set of guidelines regarding faculty involvement on committees. Donow said one of his first mistakes as president was not following those guidelines in appointing several search committee members shortly after his election. He said he "caught that mistake when second time around."

Donow told the Faculty Senate he has received no response from Brandt regarding the letter.

Brandt said Monday, "The Faculty Senate has chosen not to nominate anyone to the search committee."

Donow said the letter "clearly stated" the Faculty Senate was pleased to be asked to participate in the search and could not be considered a refusal unless Brandt decided not to furnish the information requested.

Brandt was unavailable for comment Tuesday.

Lesson to U.S. in India affair

Recent political developments in India should cause Americans to re-evaluate our own foreign policy.

Since its independence, India has served as a prototype of neutrality and anti-communism in a part of the world where ideologies are polarized and alliances strong. It has repeatedly refused the traditional military pact offered by the Soviet Union and United States, preferring food and economic aid.

The Indian government has operated in the mold fashioned by English colonialists, maintaining one of the most democratic forms of government existing on the planet.

The recent refusal of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi to sign subsequent orders to temporarily rescind major constitutional rights has caused an even larger effect on the image of the United States than the recent fall of Indochina.

In the recent years, a number of Indians have been adopting a Soviet ideology through their understanding of socialism, their common fear of the Chinese, and their mistrust in an economic system that has failed to provide them with the self-sufficiency to tackle the perennial problems of drought, famine, and a failing economic base.

Anand Singh, a professor of economics and leader in the Republican Congress, Punjab, India, characterized what he said were the impressions left by the two leading powers on the Indian people.

When America, they make sure everybody knows where it comes from. They give you whole tractor and all the finest products.

"But the Soviet Union sends down advisors who help our people build factories so we can build our own. The difference is obvious. When we need a tractor fixed, we would have to keep coming back to the Americans for parts and somebody to repair it. That's not helping us be self-sufficient," he said.

Obviously, Singh's explanation is a simplistic generalization. But it is also obvious that America has put a lower emphasis on its responsibility to help its neighbors than it has on policing them.

Many economic problems now facing India are the same as those of pre-revolutionary China. What is the United States going to do about it?

Remember rights of non-smokers

Non-smokers have tolerated cigarette smokers for years. But today, things are different.

Non-smokers no longer tolerate public facilities. The smoker is learning his right to imbibe tar and nicotine, and a bunch of trees. You can tell about all much about a country as you can by looking at motion pictures."

Governor Wallace in a lengthy interview on foreign affairs.

Q. Governor, what about the present state of Europe today?

A. Not worth a hill of beans. Pack-jammed with moist's but spies, murderers, jollies and lowdown preverts.

Q. - Prevents?

A. You seen "Last Tahoe in Paris" boy.

Q. - Do you consider the Russians a threat, sir?

A. Not much. They're mighty mean, no-good stunks. But they're none too bright. You take that Copenhagen 20s. He don't never win the race from us good Americans in the end.

Q. - Would you recognize China, Governor?

A. Sure would. It's that place where all those poor stinking folks is eatin' mud and grass. Seen "The Good Earth" when I was only in knee-boat big. This 1000000000.

Q. - And what about Vietnam, sir?

A. I'm not worried none. John Wayne proved he can lick a hundred of them Commies with one hand tied about his back.

Q. - But the Communists won in Vietnam, sir.

A. They did! How we never should of pulled of John out of there. He had'em licked.

Q. - Turning to Africa, Governor.

A. Now, it must be您 know, but a bunch of natives dance' around with spears and evil witch doctors cause'm trouble. I say we ought to send more American Tars over there to restore law and order.

Q. - I think Tarzan was British, sir.

A. - That so? Shows how you'se fought on their side in World War II. Then we'd've lick'd them Russians and they wouldn't have sent their tanks rollin' into Holland.

Q. - You mean Czechoslovakia, Governor.

A. Czechoslovakia, you say? Just shows how you can't trust them Commies. They're everywhere.

Q. - Current tensions in the Middle East.

A. - I'm an expert on that. Seen "Beau Geste," "Calabancana" and "Lawrence of Arabia." And you just can't trust them Arabs, neither.

Q. - Then you should support Israel?

A. - I would, but I missed seeing "Exodus." "Lastly, what are your views on Latin America?"

A. - A lot of right fine-looking ladies with bananas on their heads sign 'Chico-Chico.' But their lazy men folks don't even shave, just ride around shootin' our fine 'American' cowboys in the back. But my new Secretary of State'll fix 'em good—if of 'John' take the job.

Q. - Despite your vast knowledge of foreign affairs, would you, if elected President, be willing to make an around-the-world-good-will tour?

A. - What! And likely fall off the edge?

Letter

Beware the budget

To the Daily Egyptian:

We learn that faculty, staff, and civil service, and presumably student, salary and wage increases are being "indeftinitely suspended." (DE, 7-11) This is in spite of the fact that the General Assembly passed the University's appropriation bill without reduction.

Any proposed reduction in the budget is simply an attempt to avoid the inevitable budget increases. There is no reason for the University administration not to go ahead with pay increases determined and announced last week.

By putting pay increases in effect on July 1, as scheduled, several good and worthwhile things can be accomplished: Much needed dollars will soon flow into pockets left bare by inflation, salary cuts, and wage bases will be elevated to more acceptable though still inadequate levels. Such increases will thus be part of each individual's pay base for next year and all the years after), and maximum political pressure will be put on the Governor to do least damage to the University's appropriation.

"But," the cautious administrator will ask, "What if the money will not last through the year?" Simple enough; let every pay increase contingent upon adequate funding and susceptible to suspension and if the money runs out, it is far better to have a 9 per cent pay increase for 9 months than a 6 per cent increase for 12, particularly because the rate then becomes part of the base for the following year and thereafter.

"It cannot be done," the cautious administrator (who has been buffeted much less by economic ill winds than have most of us) will probably say. Of course it can be done. All that is needed is a bit of courage and imagination on the part of Board and President.

The alternative is a timid administration to roll over and play dead when it need not do so. Unfortunately that appears to be the course it has chosen.

Faulty door seal causes additional oven recalls

An additional 12,500 General Electric (GE) microwave ovens have been added to the 5,300 ovens already being inspected for radiation leakage, reported the Federal Drug Administration (FDA).

A faulty wire mesh seal around the oven door is involved in radiation leakage which exceed federal limits by as much as 10 times.

Ovens involved are GE and GE-Hotpoint microwave-thermal oven-range combination units called "Cooking Centers" and "Ver- satile." (FDA’s Bureau of Radiological Health recommends that owners discontinue microwave cooking until the ovens can be examined by manufacturer.

GE reportedly has asked its dealers to compile names and addresses of owners of the additional 12,500 units, as the company expects that it may be mid-September before parts can be obtained to begin repairs on this group.

Council approves art center funding grant

By Kathleen Takemoto
Daily Egyptian / John Faye

The city council has approved a $24,000 block grant contingency fund for an arts and crafts center.

The council approved the funding Monday night on a recommendation from the Citizens Community Development Steering Committee. The Community Development staff previously had recommended the council approve funding of the project at a former meeting on June 24. The staff had recommended that the Northeast Community Development Council vote to deny funding to the program.

The council also supported the project's recommendation to create a Community Development Loan and Grant Review Board. The board, which consists of people with business and financial backgrounds, will review all requests for Community Development Block, Grant loans or grants, according to the ordinance. The board will make advisory recommendations to the director of Community Development. The city manager.

The council also approved a resolution adopting the Affective Action Program for Carbondale. According to the resolution, the program would aid in the eradication of discrimination within the city's residential and commercial areas.

The program was prepared by Cleveland Matthews, Affective Action Office for the city.

City Manager Carroll J. Fry will negotiate with the Affective Action Policy project. The council will vote to approve funding for the arts and crafts project.

Stone Age living taught

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—When Prof. Jerry O'Neal announced he was going to teach "Stone Age Survival," the reaction from other instructors was: "You're going to teach a course in building stones together?"

"I was pretty well equipped to talk to my students in an academic sense about hand axes and points," said O'Neal about his graduate studies at the University of Montana. "But then it occurred to me that I really didn't know what they were."

The result, says O'Neal, 32, is a five-credit course at Spokane Falls Community College. It allows students to construct a shelter, make reproductions of stone tools and prepare animal skins.

Stones’ Memphis concert excites audience

By Douglas Graham
Student Writer

There was little doubt in the 50,000 persons leaving Memphis Memorial Stadium that the rock group they had just witnessed was truly a legend in its own time. Surviving the 90-degree heat, the intense sunlight and the previous seven hours of viewing three bands, the Independence Day audience exploded as the legend took to the stage. It had been three years since their last American tour and the Rolling Stones were going to make it up for lost time.

After Richards’ singing debut of “Happy,” Jagger slowed down and the to the crowd and that the audience exploded as the legend took to the stage. It had been three years since their last American tour and the Rolling Stones were going to make it up for lost time. In the beginning of a taped Oriental ballad, the Stones prepared to lead into their musical satire. Dressed in an orange jumpsuit and holding a Chinese umbrella, Mick Jagger, lead singer and stage actor, immediately assailed the audience as lead guitarist Keith Richards banged the drums for “Honky Tonk Woman.”

A Review

The audience, which came from all over the country, immediately left in admiration at the door, along with the heat, as the group once billed, “the greatest rock and roll group in the world,” stunned with hard hitting rock and roll.

Guitarist Nick Taylor quit the Stones just before the tour, but the group was able to get Ron Wood, of Faces, to step in just for the tour. Along with Jagger and Richard were bassist Bill Wyman and drummer Charlie Watts, both original Stone members. Also joining the Stones were Billy Preston on keyboards and Ole Brown on percussion.

After “Honky Tonk Woman,” the Stones continued pouring out their classics. “Street Fighting Man,” “You Can’t Always Get What You Want.” “Get Off My Cloud,” and “Gimme Shelter” brought the rager crowd to its knees. Jagger jumped, danced and rolled on the stage. One could feel the highly intense energy falling from the Stones and the constant sexual assaults by Jagger. Thrusting his lower torso. Jagger walked out “ Ain’t Too Proud To Beg.” “If You Can’t Rock Me,” and the Ode song from the album, “It’s Only Rock and Roll.”

Gasoline prices up, operators unhappy

By Ken Tremblin

Gasoline prices are on the rise again, and service station operators are not pleased with the situation.

A check with local service stations shows a price increase of between 1.5 and 1.6 cents per gallon on July 1, with a majority of service stations responding with an increase of three cents.

The latest price hike has prompted one station owner to reconsider his future in the business.

"For the first time in quite a number of years, I am seriously considering getting out of the business," said an owner who wished to remain unnamed. "I've been out of business for quite some time. It's costing me too much money to continue to stay in the business," he said.

One other cents of a cent sales tax account for the three cent rise in the price of gasoline. "That tax," he said, "is not going to pass on to my customers. I'm absorbing it." Another station owner who has raised his prices only 1.4 cents says he is absorbing the losses from the sales tax in the hope that sales will be better without the boost. "I hope we can make up the loss in the tax," he said, "as we don't work out in two weeks I'll add the tax."".

A news release from the Federal Energy Administration (F.E.A.), the federal energy regulatory agency in St. Louis, Chicago and Kansas City, was unavailable for comment on the price increase Tuesday afternoon. Representatives of two of the major oil companies did comment.

Dave Ebshear, a spokesman for Standard of Indiana, said that the reason for the price increase is a fall into three major categories.

Ebshear did comment on the increase in crude oil production, import of foreign oil, and the price of the three cent per gallon increase.

Entitlement programs as explained by Ebshear are subsidies paid to fellow oil companies as reimbursement for less profitable oil production.

Ebshear said that the rate of oil production at any specific well as of today, then extended by the federal government as "old" oil. Any operations reserves of that oil, as stated by the oil companies involved in the strike.

Many jobs available for liberal arts grads

"We expected an incredible unemployment rate," Nelson said. "Instead we saw that everyone was working.

A pamphlet prepared by Walsh needed the input of the long and overall unemployment rate for the graduates was 7.6 per cent. It ranged from 12.5 per cent for unmaried males to 2 per cent for married males..

During the period of the survey, the national unemployment rate was down from 7.1 per cent in December, 1974, to over 8 per cent in early 1975.

The national rate for men aged 20 to 24 (the group into which most graduates fall) was just over 11 per cent in December, 1974. The national rate for females in the same age group was even lower, at 6.9 per cent.

For their age group, Walsh reported liberal arts graduates showed a satisfactory rate of employment. Almost 86 per cent of the graduates were in the labor force. Accorded, according to the report, graduates had an encouraging variety of part-time jobs when titles was compiled in the course of the study, discovering the myth that a job has to be related to a student's major.

Third, the study showed that liberal arts had a high level of employment. More than half were earning over $10,000 a year, and about three-quarters listed their jobs as having potential.

These liberal arts students were majorly facing liberal arts majors in the long and often frustrating process of finding satisfactory employment, not the kind of employment.

According to the study, there were 736 liberal arts graduates in 1972. Among them, 375, or 51 per cent, were employed.

There were 375 respondents, 246 of whom were not related to majors. More than three-fourths of the graduates who said they were satisfied with their jobs and almost half said they had definite career goals.

The most surprising feature of the study was Walsh said, was the fact that a variety of job that liberal arts graduates held. As Walsh stated in his pamphlet, the assumption that a liberal arts major is only suitable for a narrow range of occupations is not substantiated. The range of occupations which liberal arts majors can enter is virtually limitless.

For example, the report stated a range of 250,000 different careers that liberal arts students should consider.

Almost equally important was a list of suggestions of what liberal arts graduates could do (44,9 per cent) and "more marketable skills" (42,0 per cent).

Although the suggestions, three-fourths of the graduates thought that some sort of emphasis on career preparation would be helpful to liberal arts students to leave college adequately prepared for the working world.

Another interesting part of the survey was the different opportunities and rewards for men and women graduates. Although the number of women than men were studying for advanced degrees is increasing, more men enrolled in graduate school and only 15 per cent of women were enrolled in professional school (law, medical, business, engineering, or theology), but no women.

Second, as the wage bracket increased, the percentage of women in professional school increased, from 3.3 to 19.1 per cent.

The $6,000-$9,999 yearly wage bracket, 31.9 per cent of graduates were in.

In the $10,000-$14,999 bracket, 1 of the graduates were females and 57.6 per cent were men. In the $15,000-$19,999 bracket, 1 of the graduates were females and 57.6 per cent were men. In the $20,000-$24,999 bracket, 1 of the graduates were females and 57.6 per cent were men.

For those who make $25,000 or more, 1 of the graduates were females and 57.6 per cent were men.

For those who make $25,000 or more, 1 of the graduates were females and 57.6 per cent were men.

"It's a problem that needs attention," Walsh said, "but I think advice that makes them more aware of opportunities. More awareness on the part of the graduate is our long-range goal. You can't tell them what they have to do, but you can say 'You don't have to major in a certain field.'"

Police report damage to bar

A local bar was damaged early Monday evening when a patron threw a beer bottle through the window, police said.

John John and John A. Hamilton, 30, of Carbondale was arrested and charged with damage to property, a misdemeanor.

S. Illinois Avenue, filed a complaint with the police department about the damage that was caused through the bar's window. A $100 fine was held in the city jail pending bond.

Hrabosky sees benefits in not getting All-Star nod

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Al Hrabosky, baseball's Mad Hungarian on the diamond, has taken a bitter-sweet attitude off it toward National League All-Star pitching selections.
The 25-year-old Hrabosky, the St. Louis Cardinals' ace who leads National League relievers in saves, said Tuesday he even sees hidden benefits in his omission from F staff named by Los Angeles Dodgers Manager Walter Alston.
"Look at it this way. This will give us one more reason to beat L.A.,” Hrabosky suggested after the Dodgers' Mike Marshall and Philadelphia left- handler Tug McGraw were chosen ahead of him for the National League All-Star team.
"But I guess you can't fault Alston because Marshall was the Cy Young Award winner last year,” Hrabosky muses. "And it's no disgrace to have McGraw picked ahead of you.”

Comments from other Cardinals reacting from a "ludicrous" label attached to the omission by catcher Ted Simmons, resignation of the part of NL Rican phone home Bob Kennedy.

"It's a joke leaving him off the team,” Kennedy, the Cards' director of player personnel, said. "I think Hrabosky's qualifications for All-Star consideration are better than any of their six men.

"Well, anyway,” Kennedy added. "at least Al will have had three days of rest before we resume our schedule.”

The 6-foot-11 Hrabosky, Cardinals believe, is ranked as the NL's premier reliever since busting into prominence at midseason last year with his self-psyching mound rituals and blazing fast ball.

"They're going to let the greens get hard and we're certain to get some wind in play for the opening Inter-City game,” Kennedy said.

The bookmakers made Nicklaus a 7-2 (8-10) favorite to win the British Open's second choice at 8-10 followed by defending champion Gary Player of South Africa at 1 1-1, Tom Weiskopf at 12-1 and Hale Irwin at 14-1.

Nicklaus, who won this prestigious tournament in 1966 and 1970, has found the dry course to his liking and has been in great form. "I have held every part I have looked at,” he said.

All-state lineman named nineteenth

Saluki recruit

The SIU football team has signed its nineteenth high school or junior college recruit of the season. He is Bob Brady, a special mention all-state lineman from Chatham.

Brady, who is 6-2 and weighs 205, played defensive end and offensive tackle at Chatham Glenwood. The Salukis are presently planning to use Brady at either defensive end, linebacker or offensive guard.

While at Glenwood, Brady was coached by former Saluki graduate assistant Charlie Cottle and former Saluki quarterback Dennis O'Boyle.

Rain expected on first day of British Open

CARNoustie, Scotland (AP) - The world's top golf stars had their last practice for the British Open Golf Championship on the sun-scorched, ultra-dry Carnoustie course Tuesday - and weather experts predicted the honeymoon is over.

Thunderstorms were forecast for Wednesday, when the $150,000 four-day tournament is scheduled to start. The stars will be shooting for a first prize of $18,500.

The ball has been bouncing and running like crazy on the long, slate-hard fairways of the 7,065-yard, par 36-36-72 links these last few days. Big-hitting Jack Nicklaus, rated a strong favorite with Britain's legal bookmakers, played four practice rounds in almost windless conditions and had an incredible 264 total-24 under par.

Other leading players have forecast a winning score of 280 or less.
