Worker Freed From Campus Cavein

Arie Waldron, 32, of Herrin, a laborer with the Pool Remedial Equipment Co., was buried up to his shoulders in a sewer excavation Tuesday on Campus Drive near Grand Avenue. As soon as the call for help was heard the bucket of the mechanical shovel used to dig the 12-foot deep ditch was lowered down beside the trapped man to prevent further damage from covering him completely, said M.L. Reichert, a University Police patrolman on the scene. If that had not been done, "he might have smothered," Reichert added.

Waldron was taken to the Doctors Hospital by the Fire Department emergency truck where he was treated and released. It was his first day on the job. Arthur Blakely of Murphysboro, foreman of the project, said the caved in happened about 11:15 a.m. and it took about 15 minutes to dig him out. The combination of clay and sand fell on Waldron in one big mass from the side of the ditch, Black related.

Waldron had been working around a large clay pipe which intersected the ditch about six feet below the surface. Braces were in place but not at that particular spot. Andrew Lee, of 417 N. Marion St., Carbondale, said he was the one who actually pulled Waldron out. He said he straddled the four-foot-wide ditch and "got his shoulder between my legs and pulled him up." Lee said a similar mishap occurred at the Murdale Shopping Center about six years ago.

CLOSE CALL--University policeman M.L. Reichert and Arthur Black, foreman of the sewer project, discuss what could have happened if Arie Waldron, who was buried to the shoulders, had not been given the help he received. The large dark area (lower right) was part of the ditch wall which fell in on Waldron Tuesday morning.

KA Writers Involved AAUP Chapter Opposes Administration On Temporary Suspension of Students

The Carbondale Chapter of the American Association of University Professors issued a resolution today strongly disapproving the administration's "holding" the registration of three students associated with KA early this quarter.

The students, L.E. Johnson, Steve Wilson and Michael Harris, were all staff members of KA, an independent student opinion weekly published in the Daily Egyptian. The "hold" on their registration was dropped by President Delyte W. Morris after one week.

The AAUP resolution stated that regardless of the reasons for this action, there was a failure to observe ordinary standards of due process on the part of the administration.

Today's Egyptian Last for Spring

Today's edition of the Daily Egyptian will be the final issue of the spring quarter. Publication will be resumed with the edition of Tuesday, June 20.

University Facilities
To Remain Operating

Students planning to remain on campus during the break between spring and summer terms will find university facilities open but operating on a limited scale.

Lake-on-the-Campus will remain open for swimming on weekdays from 1 p.m. to 7 p.m. and on Saturdays and Sundays from noon to 7 p.m.

The boat dock will be open daily break week from noon to 7 p.m. and on the weekend from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Recreational use of the docks will be available at the boat dock opening daily at 9 a.m.

University Center facilities will operate on a limited basis during the June 11 through 18 period.

The June 11 schedule is: University Center building

Summer Term
Students May Number 9,000

Registration figures for summer quarter now show that summer enrollment might exceed 9,000, according to Lorne D. Lohr, special assistant supervisor of the Registrar’s Office.

This figure represents a slight increase over last summer’s actual enrollment of 8,655.

“We can’t say that we will actually reach this enrollment figure this summer,” Young said, “but our preregistration figures right now are larger than the preregistration figures at this same time last year.

According to last year’s figures, more graduate students will be attending summer quarter than senior students. Next in total numbers will be freshmen, then sophomores, juniors and seniors, comprising the least amount.

NoSpecial Trains
Scheduled by IC

Extra cars will be pressed into service for the home- ward trek of the SIU students this week but no special trains are scheduled, according to J. S. Springer, passenger traffic manager for the Illinois Central District with offices at Carbondale.

The reason for not having the “Saluki Specials” this Spring is that so many of the students work, with or without the university facilities in their homes. In the future summer term, Springer explained.

The extended trains with from 100 to 400 extra seats will be operating the morning Carbondale run at 12:50 a.m., 11:50 a.m. and 6:45 p.m. daily through Saturday.

CANDLES, BAGS CAUSE WEIRD LIGHTS IN SKY

Plastic cleansing bags with lighted candles inside seem to be the best possible explanation for those lighted flying objects seen by some SIU students on the campus during the weekend.

Students reported sightings of moving lighted objects in the sky over Carbondale early Saturday morning and late Sunday night.

About 12 students in the vicinity of University Park reported sighting an object about 2 a.m. Sunday. It was moving from west to east across campus, dropped two smaller lighted objects and then disappeared.

Capt. Robert Domini Di Stasio, a 20-year-old sophomore, said he went to the security Police office after the sighting.

The article deals mostly with the growth of Southern Illinois from a small teacher's college, “Delele” (pronounced del-lay), Mile. The article ends with the instance of a born promoter, who has pushed SIU into the main stream of academic influence.

A blanket Fuller is called “option of faculty freedom today,” referring to his work schedule of about 60 days per year on the campus.

The article also notes the recent crack down on housing and courses. It states that for the SIU student the “fun is over.”

A Southern school's system of distinguished professors from other institutions was noted as one of the reasons that it is weak in the academic limelight.

The article closes that “one year SIU gathered the heads of 10 philosophy departments.”

No Flying Saucers

Steady growth was described in the number of students taking courses in the school, and the editorials stated this year's enrollment would be greater than last year's.

Students and faculty will have the opportunity to view the film "Lightning Camera" as an aerial view of sailboats in the Lake in the Caribbean Championship, held at Port Aransas.

Brown was in Canada on an assignment for the National Geographic Magazine last summer when he heard about the sailboat regatta. Brown said he was interested in photography 'mouse tagging' and flew to the northern shore of Lake Superior when he heard about the race. He got a job and started shooting. By the end of the week he had a case of seasickness, and a case of seasickness, and a case of seasickness of the session.

Brown also was assigned to photograph an official arrangement of Lucy Johnson's wedding.

The story is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G.E. Brown of Carbondale.

Jim Brown, 22, senior from Carbondale who is majoring in photography, was given a special recognition in the "Pictures of the Year" exhibit sponsored by the National Press Photographer Association, University of Chicago Department of Journalism and the World Book Encyclopedia Science Service.

Brown’s winning photograph was selected from over 6,000 entries from 615 professional photographers. The picture entitled "Lightning Camera" is an aerial view of sailboats in the Lake in the Caribbean Championship, held at Port Aransas.

Sorority Announces

Sigmas Kappa social sorority has announced 11 new members.

Recent initiates are Brenda Boren, Pat Collett, Peggy Howell, Connie Jensen, Mariele Koenig, Janet Merz, Margie Moon, Charlotte Owens, Mim Sandifer, Carol Schlenmer and Laurie Sproat.

The sorority also announced the following pinnings: Mary Jack Gilbreath to Ed Zastrow, Phi Sigma Kappa and Tamara Powell to Bruce Herring, Theta XI.

Lavalier was Judy Moeller to Dave Weilman, Tau Kappa Epsilon. Engaged are Brenda Boren to Bob Buckles, LEAC.

Study of 'LSD Trip' Slated for TV Tonight

A study of the mind-expanding experience of the "LSD Trip" will be presented on "Regional Reports: Psychodelic Drugs." at 8:30 o'clock tonight on WSUI-channel 8.

Four freshman pledges have been initiated into Sigma Pi fraternity.

They were Gregory M. Beringer, Obey, majoring in marketing; William C. Boughter, Taylorville; Brian D. Dorrer, LaGrange, also majoring in marketing, and Mark Edubks, Wheaton.

New pledge class elections also were held last week. Jefrey A. Newmark, from Lincolnwood was elected president, Stephen C. Lounsbury, majoring in design was vice president and social chairman; and David J. Schuler, is now secretary-treasurer.

Other members of the pledge class include Ronald E. Asche, Gregory Bach, Tim Borcher, Raymond R. Nolden, and Nick Syrreglas. They will be activated in November.

Biochemist Granted $59,734 for Study

The U.S. Public Health Service has granted SIU biochemist Paul Anderson $59,734 for a three-year study of carbamyl phosphate synthetase.

Carbamyl is a chemical that plays a key intermediate step in such biochemical processes as protein synthesis.

Anderson is currently at work on another research project involving synthesis of carbamyl phosphate in two microorganisms. He also has been awarded an $11,200 matching-fund grant from the National Science Foundation to buy equipment for a junior-senior level course in modern biochemistry at SIU.

Anderson joined the Department of Chemistry last fall. Before that he was a postdoctoral research fellow at the Tufts Medical School in Boston.

Compulsory Arbitration Gains Favor When Tieups Threaten

The nation has lived with the threat of a national railway strike for a number of months. The far reaching effects of such a strike have been well publicized. Not so well were the not only the intransigence of the shop stewards, but the contrariety of the industry under collective bargaining processes.

The record clearly shows that the railway men have never made a travesty of the fundamental give and take principle of collective bargaining. They have also repeatedly shown an unwillingness to accept the recommendations of governmental arbitration bodies.

Now legislation now proposed by the national transportation commission would make a travesty of the fundamental give and take principle of collective bargaining.

By subjecting the railway men to the decision of arbitration panels, the legislation would be supersedes by any voluntary attempt at labor-management cooperation. The decision of whether or not the strike would be called is an important one. The citizens as a whole will have to be party to any decision to strike. If the railway men are not willing to accept the recommendations of the arbitration body, the nation will have to accept the decision of the railway men. This decision will be an important one.

Arab World's Unity Not Strongly Forged

Despite the surprise of the defense pact signed by King Hussein of Jordan and President Nasser of Egypt, the possibility of unification of the Arab nations is by no means impossible.

The unity of the Arab world has been sought for many years. The United Nations has called for an Arab League, but the efforts of the United Nations have been unsuccessful. The United States has also tried to bring about an Arab League, but the efforts of the United States have also been unsuccessful.

The Arabian Peninsula is a large area, and the people of the Arab world are very diverse. They speak different languages, and they have different cultures. It is very difficult to bring about an Arab League.

The Arabian Peninsula is a very important area, and it is important for the United States to have good relations with the Arab nations. The United States has tried to bring about an Arab League, but it has not been successful. The United States has also tried to bring about an Arab League by force, but the efforts of the United States have been unsuccessful.

Senator's Constitutional Right Defended

By Sen. Paul Simon

Between now and the end of the session the two issues which will dominate the headlines from Springfield are the fights over open housing legislation and money-how much the tax increase should be and the method of increasing taxes.

The money issue brings some mail about economy, and those of us who have tried to see that tax dollars are spent wisely have learned a surprising lesson: it is often not popular to save money.

People are generally for saving money-unless it hits their pocketbook. The result is that pressure groups are there with hands out, while frequently those who need assistance the most are untreated by any effective pressure group in the state capitol.

Occasionally someone points out a practical area where money can be saved. For example, John A. Shelby, publisher of a newspaper in Pinckneyville, for two months saved his mail from state agencies and found he had received 243 pieces of mail, most of it useless, He sent a letter to the Governor's office and one to the area where money can be saved. For example, frequently those who need assistance the most are neglected, while other areas sometimes have not received the careful scrutiny they deserve.

But generally it remains unpopular to try to save money.

Let me give you a practical example.

Some of us have suggested from time to time under both Republican and Democratic administrations that the State Fair perhaps should be making money instead of losing money; at least this ought to be studied. The fair costs us in excess of a million dollars each year. In the neighboring states of Wisconsin, Michigan, Iowa and Minnesota the state fairs make money each year.

I want to make clear I am for a good, agricultural state fair each year-but I have serious questions about its financial structure and about the shows and hoopla which go with ours. I'd like to know whether this costs the taxpayers of Illinois additional dollars.

The fair managers always say (perhaps correctly) that you cannot compare the Illinois State Fair with those in other states. As for the loss of money, they say (perhaps correctly) that the figures do not reflect the bookkeeping system. They also claim-with little logic-that the fair is responsible for much of the income from the race tracks.

I felt that the least we could do was to ask the State Fair to find every month to keep a check on things and to report annually to the legislature, I introduced a bill to do that. The fair manager thought this was a very bad idea, so he lobbied against it and killed it.

Most of us who do any looking into the matter at all are convinced that money can be saved, or at least that we ought to check into that possibility more thoroughly.

But as soon as such suggestions publicly we are accused of being anti-State Fair or anti-agricultural, neither of which is true.

Fortunately, Mr. Hebert's recent demand for a review of the situation by an existing state agency.

But those of us who bring about a review will receive little thanks-and some abuse.

The taxpayers of Illinois have many real needs which are neglected, while other areas sometimes have not received the careful scrutiny they deserve.

Mr. Herbert's stand in favor of prolonging the First Amendment is protected under the First Amendment of our Constitution. And that's what we're fighting for.

With this in mind, it's a little more difficult to defend Mr. Herbert's recent demand that we 'forget the First Amendment' and prosecute those who are against prolonging the war.

Naturally, Mr. Herbert's suggestion that we forget what President Lincoln called 'the rights of the ages' and try to overthrow the Constitution and others arguing no, he should be prosecuted for perjury. But let us remember that Mr. Herbert definitely did not advocate overthrowing the entire Constitution, he merely said that he felt they should not be punishable as a violation of any unamendable part of the Constitution. It is a strange thing to demand of American citizens.

Whatever it is, it certainly isn't a common cause, treason, sedition, sedition, or disloyalty to the enemies of our Constitution at home and abroad. And this could appear to make it seem like treason. But let us remember that no formal declaration of war exists and the legal definition of treason depends on this technicality.

Neither does an attack on the Constitution make a man a Communist. To call Mr. Herbert a Communist is to confuse him with a madling. After all, many other groups want to overthrow our Constitution and Mr. Herbert could equally well be a neo-Nazi, For, for that matter, an overly-militant Black Muslim.

So even though our beloved country is in grave peril, let us not forget the principles that made our nation great.

In a spirit of fair play, let us grant Mr. Herbert and the many like him who would promote democracy with us patriotic Doves, give aid and comfort to Red China by prolonging this costly war, and challenge our state Constitution to suppress tastes of free speech.

Democracy depends on debate, as General Westmoreland has pointed out, and everybody has the right to dissent—even from logic, reason and fair play. Whatever their motives may be, the right to dissent, if Mr. Herbert and many like him in Washington, I will now stipulate.

Some may criticize this defense as unusually inadequate and half-hatched. But that just shows that you haven't been reading the defense of democracy that have been coming out of Washington lately.

Illinois Legislature's Civil Rights Record Attacked as Unfair

(St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

In the fields of civil rights and civil liberties, the Illinois Legislature seems to be trying to establish a miserable record in this session.

Only the latest example is House passage, by a minimum number of votes, of a bill intended to restrict rights demonstrated to those permitted by authorities, to sites stipulated in the permits, and to only 500 persons. The bill contains so many curbs on the right of assembly, prior to any evidence of abuse of that right, that it likely would not stand for long in the courts.

Earlier, a Senate committee killed measures that would replace the negative Broyles oath with a positive oath of allegiance similar to that taken by the President. For Illinois officials and employers, however, the legislators still seem to think it essential to require an affirmation of non-affiliation with subversive groups. As Representative Choute of Anna said, the existing law is not a loyalty oath at all "but a denial of guilt." That is a strange thing to demand of American citizens.

Moreover, the Senate has also written off a group of fa. housing bills, leaving only House measures vaguely standing. If nothing is done, Illinois could lose a vast federal nuclear energy project and much of the respect demanded for the "Lincoln State" on its license plates. Yet it is today's claimants to Lincoln's party who sponsored the anti-demonstration bill, defended the indefensible oath and erased the housing measures. Are they proud of their record?

Departing Senior's View

College Influences Attitudes, Personal Identity

By Tina Nelson

"College" means many things to many people: raccoon coats, football games, campus queens, beer blasts, bull sessions, demonstrations, and so on. The list is infinite and each point of view depends upon the particular association one has with a school or university.

To voice an opinion on any subject, I believe, one must be familiar with the topic. This familiarity can only be achieved through experience with it. All hereay, stereotypy and prejudice must be thrown out. "Learn by doing,"

Some say that today's younger generation is preoccupied with doing. What better way is there of knowing?

I believe a college education is one long string of parties, dating, coffee drinking, etc. Or maybe continuing schooling is more attractive than employment or the draft. A few even enter college to acquire knowledge.

I was like any typical entering freshman just five years ago. Probably my reasons for coming to school were a melange of those listed above, but on the application for admission, I stated that my reason for entering school was "to learn more about myself and the world around me."

No college student can help but learn more about his world. That part's easy. (Although applying that knowledge might not be so easy at times.) But "know thyself"—that's another story. Many new situations will arise and a student's reactions to and methods of coping with them will surprise no one more than himself.

For example, we're all aware of the civil rights situation in the United States today. How would you react if you were charged an extra fee at a lunch counter just because you were a college student and admitted it? I was speechless at the time, but am now more aware of everyday discrimination and unreasoned hate. The only way to conquer the inner feelings of the underdog is to be in his shoes.

And there's always the question of morality. Again, new situations with no end.

ONE Communist Mortar Shell Kills 2, Wounds 34 in Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — A single Communist mortar shell set off explosions and flames that killed 2 Americans, wounded 34 and wrought heavy damage Tuesday at an English Field, a forward supply base of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division. U.S. officials in Qui Nhon estimated the loss in ammunition stores alone at $2.5 million. Several helicopters were reported damaged, and 440,000 gallons of oil went up in smoke at the field, in coastal Binh Dinh Province—about 300 miles northwest of Saigon.

Witnesses said the enemy shell, lobbed in about 4 a.m., hit a fuel depot. The fire raged 7 1/2 hours. Bulldozers helped to bring it under control. Demolition teams were to comb the area Wednesday to deal with unexploded shells.

One officer said, however, the loss was "just an inconvenience" that would not hamper military activity in the area.

Enemy forces just south of the demilitarized zone made light probing attacks on U.S. Marine posts.

One target was a base at Khe Sanh, near the Laotian border. U.S. Command spokesmen said 20 rounds of mortar fire had hit the base, killing two Marines and wounding 11.

Viet Cong efforts to construct a base camp about 40 miles northeast of Saigon drew the attention of a spotter plane pilot Monday. He called in artillery and helicopter gunships. Ground troops who swept the area later said they had found 30 enemy dead.

If the major powers have learned any lesson from years of endless crisis in the Middle East, there is only one way out of today's situation. Today's Middle East war is a contest of wills, a test of the will to endure, of the will to prevail. The attack date was set for late October. The plan was for Britain and France to plan an invasion in association with Israel. The United States had said it would not support the attack.

At the same time, 80,000 British troops remained in the canal zone. Nasser ordered them out, Britain and France began to plan an invasion, with Egypt and Syria. The United States had said it would not support the attack.

By mid-September, 80,000 troops from Britain and France had assembled in Malta, Italy, and the United States. A high-level meeting was held in Athens to discuss the situation with Israel. The United States had said it would not support the attack.

The plan was for the drive to the canal, Britain and France would then issue an ultimatum to both sides to cease-fire, The Egyptian and Syrian forces would be in position to block the canal. The United States had said it would not support the attack.

On their northern front, the Israelis attacked the Jordanian section of the Suez Canal after a fierce battle, The Israeli air force, which had been bombing the Suez Canal, dropped bombs on the canal. The United States had said it would not support the attack.

Cairo Breaks U.S. Relations, Closes Canal

Israel struck hard at Egypt Tuesday, threatening the Suez Canal along a 30-mile front. The Arabs, claiming minor gains in the field, struck back in commerce and diplomacy. They closed the Suez Canal, cut off oil shipments to Western Europe, and announced a wholesale breaking of relations with the United States and Britain.

On their northern front, the Israelis attacked the Jordanian section of the Suez Canal after a fierce battle, The Israeli air force, which had been bombing the Suez Canal, dropped bombs on the canal. The United States had said it would not support the attack.

Cairo announced it was closing the Suez Canal, 90 miles east of where the Suez rail link began. Egypt declared Israeli planes had dropped bombs on the canal and block the vital waterway. To justify its diplomatic break with Washington, Egypt charged the U.S. intervention in Israel's behalf had resulted in "a decision to fight on Egyptian territory."

Meanwhile, the United States had said it would not support the attack. The United States had said it would not support the attack.
In Shaw Chorale

Choir Head Back From Spring Tour

By Dennis Sullivan

Robert W. Kingsbury, director of choirs at SIU, recently returned from a two-month tour with the Robert Shaw Chorale.

Kingsbury left campus on March 15 and spent two weeks rehearsing with the Chorale before the tour, which lasted from April 13 to May 15. The Chorale, directed by composer Robert Shaw, consists of 40 free-lance singers. Most of the singers regard performing with the group as a "stepping stone" to greater heights in their careers. Four of the members, including Kingsbury, are college or high school music instructors.

Always singing before sell-out audiences, the Robert Shaw Chorale appeared in all but five states east of the Mississippi River. The group traveled by bus between shows on their tour of one-night performances.

Kingsbury said the numbers sung this year, which for the first time in 14 years were unaccompanied, were the most difficult that Shaw ever conducted. It took much longer than usual for the performance to be perfected, Kingsbury said.

Kingsbury said that singing with the group was a very rewarding experience, especially his association with Shaw. The acme of the tour was "to observe a master conductor," Kingsbury said.

This summer Kingsbury will conduct the Robert Shaw Chorale in New York City for a recording session.

Scholarship Given To CHS Senior

The scholarship is awarded on the basis of academic record, activities and need. Burgess, a member of the CHS basketball team, was awarded the scholarship at the high school honors assembly.

tives of various city organizations attended the first meeting Friday.

Purpose of the drive will be to reduce the city of litter, garbage and trash and cut un sightly weeds.

Centanni said that about 300 volunteers are being sought for the combined cleanup and beautification project. Tools and equipment for the cleanup operation will be provided.

A noon lunch will be served free of charge to the volunteer workers followed by an end-of-the-day supper planned for the entire group.

Individuals and groups wishing to assist in the Saturday program are urged to contact Bill Volk, chairman of the volunteer committee, at 449-2094 or George Jessop at 453-3305.

Arthur Aikman Named to Head Vietnam Project

Arthur Aikman of the College of Education will depart this month for Saigon to become chief of party in SIU's expanding educational program in Viet Nam.

Dean Elmer J. Clark of the College of Education said the program, which deals chiefly with the training of elementary school teachers, is moving from seven team members toward 15. The seven include two who are working with the Faculty of Pedagogy of the University of Saigon to set up a program to train professors who will in turn teach native learning to become teachers of elementary education.

Aikman will succeed Harold DeWeese as chief of party. DeWeese will remain with Aikman for a month or six weeks before he returns to the College of Education at SIU.

The program has been in operation since 1961 under contracts with the federal Agency for International Development.

Clark said the program to train elementary school teachers is centered at Saigon.

The cleanup program was originated by City Councilman Randall Nelson, professor of government at SIU. Assisting Nelson is Clark Vineyard, acting manager of the Mosquito Abatement District.

Help has been pledged by various civic organizations, including the Carbondale Federated Women's Club, Park District, Lions Club and others. About 30 representa-

Youngest Don Slated to Tutor SIU Students

The youngest of the English dons at Oxford University, Francis Warner, will act as the tutor to 25 SIU students who will be at Oxford this summer.

Warner visited Southern several months ago while on a speaking tour of the United States.

He is considered one of the most promising of the young poets in England today. In addition, Warner is an expert on music and the theater. When he was 18-years-old he produced "Paisius" in the West End of London.

Robert Griffin, co-director of the SJU program, said that Warner will be teaching a course in modern English literature to 25 of the 40 students on the tour. All of the 40 students are enrolled for the English government credit the course provides.

The study program includes a tour of Great Britain, the month of July at Oxford and then a tour of the Continent.

Griffin said that the course is now closed but that students may still sign up on a standby basis in case of cancellations.

Isis magazine, of Oxford University, recently said Warner "The energy and the intellectual passion of Francis Warner is the backbone of the growth - point of English studies in this University. In his two years at Oxford, he has founded a literary society and the Table of Writers; he elected to a Professor of Poetry; discovered some unknown letters of the artist Samuel Palmer and participated in the discovery of a Jack Yeats play.

SIU Irish Expert Seeks to Prevent Hero's Relocation

Eoin O'Mahony, visiting professor at SJU and expert on Irish subjects, is presently engaged in a campaign to prevent the removal of the body of an Irish Nationalist from Belgium.

The Irish patriot is William Redmond, a strong nationalist member of Parliament from East Clare in Ireland. At the outbreak of World War I, however, he joined the British army to fight Germany.

But now relatives are planning to remove the body from a religious hospice to a British military cemetery.

It is O'Mahony's opinion that this would obscure the fact that Redmond has become a symbol of the Independent Irishmen who fought with the British against the common German enemy.

Ex-Paris Model Learns Sewing at Southern

"High Style Sense" Praised

According to an article that appeared in the May 24 edition of the National Observer, the Yale University graduate school of architecture has spent the spring semester working on a project conceived by Robert Swanson, a SJU graduate.

Swanson is presently a student at Yale.

Graduate Plans

Project at Yale

According to the article, the project is the construction of a community center in the farm community of New Zion, Ky. The article said Swanson became aware of New Zion's need for a community center while doing summer work for a social-action group there.

The article said first-year architecture students at Yale customarily design and oversee a project in New Haven, Conn.

A former Paris model and secretary, Elodie Brooke, has just completed her second course in clothing construction at SIU.

The tall slender brunette, 24, will spend the summer with her mother, Mme. Maxime Baquet, in Arcueil, a Paris suburb, while her husband George completes the thesis for his master's degree at Yale.

Brooke is a graduate-teaching assistant in the Department of Foreign Languages, Elodie, baffled by the language barrier, enrolled last fall in the University's center for teacher training in a second or foreign language, and during the winter signed up for an evening class in clothing construction offered through the Division of Technical and Adult Education.

This spring she has taken the intermediate course, winning high praise from her instructor, Thelma Berry, associate professor of clothing and textiles.

"She has high style sense," Miss Berry said, and gave the stamp of approval to a print short evening dress Elodie completed as her last class project.

Elodie was injured in an automobile accident during the early fall, shortly after her arrival at SIU, but did not miss class despite a broken jaw and the loss of two teeth.

The Brookes met while he was a student at the Sorbonne in Paris after study at the University of Illinois and completion of the bachelor's degree at SIU. They were married last August in the State of Washington.

second straight year participated in the District 4 playoffs of the NCAA. This season the Salukis hosted the District playoffs.

Barry O'Sullivan, Paul Paveashen and Dwight Clark spearheaded Coach Joe Lutz's offensive attack, while the pitching of Don Kirkland, Skip Ptillock, Bob Ash and Howard Nickerson kept the opposing productivity to a minimum.

The Saluki team was made up of mostly sophomores and juniors with such stars as Kirkland, O'Sullivan, Ptillock, Clark and Rich Hacker all returning next spring for the Salukis.

Lifeguards Needed

For Summer Term

The lake-on-the-Campus beach needs additional students to serve as lifeguards for the summer quarter.

Unless more lifeguards can be found, the beach may have to be altered.

A student wishing to be a lifeguard for the summer quarter must have a valid Red Cross senior lifeguard certificate and must take a water test and written examination administered by campus lake officials.

There are also openings for students who are not qualified for lifeguards positions.

Students interested in any of these positions should contact Thomas Buckman or Thomas Hallock at the campus beach as soon as possible.

Busy Schedule Ahead Awaits

Tennis, Track, Golf Team

Several thousand students are preparing to put away the books for the summer and return to work or play until the leaves begin to turn and the dormitories close again in September.

But for numerous SIU athletes, the end of final exams is not the beginning of a life of leisure. It marks the beginning of a period of a few weeks, during which their semesters reach a pinnacle.

Monday more than 120 of the country's best tennis players move into Carbondale for the 1967 NCAA Championships on the SIU courts. The Salukis will host this event for the first time and they have hopes of remaining in contention for the crown right up to the last wally.

The matches begin at 9 a.m. Monday and continue through Saturday. The SIU track will be in Prow, with the day the tennis championships are decided.

The Salukis will be helping decide who reigns as king of the collegiate track world.

The NCAA meet will be held at Brigham Young University June 15-17 and several Salukis have good chances of making the headlines that weekend.

The work doesn't end here for the Saluki tracksters. They will compete in the National AAU Meet June 23-24 for the right to represent the United States in the 1967 Pan American Games in Cuba.

Southern's varsity golfers will be in Paducah throughout the month of June, preparing for their season next week, making a bid for honors in the NCAA championships.

Team and individual winners will be decided June 17 also.

Then, who knows, these athletes may take a couple days off before beginning preparations for next year's competition.

SU's track team met most of the top competitors in the country in last week's competition and records fell everywhere.

The Salukis will host the country's best trackmen into the NCAA meet next week in Oscar Moore, John Vernon and Chuck Benson.

Coach Lew Hartzog is looking forward to a high finish. He has most of his team back in 1967 and spring recruiting has been tremendously fruitful for Hartzog.

Intrepid's Navigational Error

Profit Despite Weather

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Warthen Kneebank told Churchill Downs stockholders Tuesday the track made money during the spring meeting despite "the worst weather I've in nine years here."

The track president estimated that the profit was roughly $6 or $6 per cent higher than it was in the 1966 spring meeting, which had been the Downs most successful up to that time.

Southern's tennis team came within one victory of an undefeated season, dropping the 15th and final match to Indiana.

Like the track team, the Saluki cornets will close out their season next week by playing host to the NCAA tourney.

SU's golfers will go to Paducah Monday to put the finishing touches to the most successful golf season in four.

Mosbacher's mistake came on the second leg of the 11-mile course on Long Island Sound when Intrepid rounded a government marker in the finishing turn and had to return and round correctly.

American Eagle won by 1:02. In the other match, Constellation, with Bob McCullough at the helm, edged Bridge Cunningham's Weatherly by 48 seconds.

NEW YORK (AP) — The return bout between middleweight champions Nino Benvenuti of Italy and Emile Griffith of New York will be held late in September at either Madison Square Garden or outdoor Shea Stadium, Harry Markson said Tuesday.

The Garden's boxing director said, "We are investigating the possibility of using Shea Stadium, but we definitely have not closed for the Garden.

Rival Passenger Car Inspection Bills Pass Illinois House

SPRINGFIELD, ILL. (AP) — Two rival bills seeking to make Illinois a leader in mandatory safety inspection of passenger cars once a year cleared the Illinois House Tuesday.

A debate over whether Secretary of State Paul Powell’s office or state police should handle the inspections was left for the Senate to decide.

The House also a.m. to the state’s new sisal dog traction. Illinois passed the bill giving the governor the power to enforce the provisions.

Both Lucas and Spencer on behalf of Powell, bill said that the legislation savings for not conforming to the federal highway safety standards.

On the question of reinforce­discrepancies in the Powell office to tie it’s license­plates, state police would have to set up road blocks and screen vehicles for safety inspections.

The state’s vehicle inspection bill also contains an exemption for certain employees.

Salukis Close Most Successful Year in History

By Tom Wood and Bill Kindt

The most successful year in history for SIU athletics has nearly come to an end with the curtain dropping on spring quarter 1967.

Southern's athletic program can boast legitimately of being one of the most successful in the United States during the 1966-67 school year.

The basketball Salukis' National Invitation Tournament championship brought unprecedented publicity to SIU. The gymnastics team has replaced Penn State as the kingpin in this collegiate sport.

The Saluki gymnasts gained their third NCAA title in four years and second in a row. The women gymnasts gained their fourth Collegiate crown in six years and went on to take fourth AAU championships.

That's three national championships in a single year. Not many other schools have ever enjoyed such success.

Ellis Rainsberger got his new football program off the ground last fall by leading the Salukis to a 4-3-1 record, after Southern had suffered through back-to-back grid campaigns with 2-8 records.

Rainsberger has departed and one of his assistants, Dick Towers, succeeds him. Towers will face the toughest schedule in school history next fall but has indicated that he and his staff are confident a winning season can be a reality in 1967.

Paced by Oscar Mooroo SIU's cruciate ligament, the Salukis fell with a 2-2-1 record and went on to take fourth place in the Central Collegiate Championships and seventh in the NCAA meet.

The highlight of the season was when Mooroo defeated Kansas' Jim Ryan by eight minutes in a home meet.

The winter was brightened considerably by success in every sport. The basketball Salukis won 24 games and lost twice. They defeated second-ranked Louisville, defending national champ Texas Western, St. Louis, Wichita State and averaged their loss to Kentucky Wesleyan in the 1966 College not be clearly evident until next season, when the rest of the nation refuses to recognize Southern as small college anymore.

The Salukis will carry a nine-game winning streak into the 1967-68 season, with 11 major college opponents scheduled in addition to games in the title as he captured the longest unbeaten streak in Illinois history.

This also marked the third time in the past four years the Salukis have won the NCAA title. Southern won the championship in 1964, 1966 and 1967.

Captain Rick Tucker will be the constant loss for the Salukis but the caliber of the returning lettermen will ensure another successful season for the Salukis. Paul Mayer, Fred Dennis, Ron Harstad, Al Alexander, Pete Hemmerling and Dale Hardt will all return next season.

Herb Vogel directed his women gymnasts to another collegiate crown, bringing his career record to 102-2. The women gymnasts have never been debated in any type of competition since Vogel started the team four years ago.

They rule U.S. women's gymnastics on both a collegiate and open level. As always, Vogel predicts a tougher year next season, but he has most of his squad back to take up where they left off in 1966.

The Saluki swimming team was under a new head coach this past season. Ray Essick took over after Ralph Casey retired.

Essick finished his first year with a 4-3 record and a winning streak of three in a row. The Salukis won their first meet and followed this with three straight losses, but rebounded to defeat Evansville, Nebraska and Indiana State to finish the season above .500.

From this squad Essick will lose Alma Miles, Jerry Pearson, Don Shaffer and Reinhard Westenreider. But, the Saluki coach will have a fine nucleus to build around next winter headed by Eric Jones, Mike Miles, Scott Conkel, Ron Coghill and coach Ed mossotti.

Coach Jim Wilkinson's wrestling team finished the season with a won-lose mark of 13-3 against some of the roughest competition in the United States. After a series of crippling injuries, the most notable of which was the loss of Larry Buren for the season on a broken hand, Southern's team began to jell.

Joe Domko and Buck Deadrich headed the Saluki team. Deadrich finished the season with a record of 12-0-1 and Domko was 18-1-1. Domko was also chosen to wrestle for the Eastern team in the first East-West college wrestling meet.

Wilkinson will have Sinclair Brown, Tony Turok, Al Bulow, Aaron Bulow, Bob Roop, Terry Magoon and Eli Carr back next year to provide a veteran starting point.

The Saluki baseball team finished the season with a record of 29-8-1 and for the
