Board may abolish Textbook Rental

By Lenore Sebba
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A resolution calling for the abolishment of the textbook rental system at SIU was submitted to the Board of Trustees at their July meeting, Bruce Swinburne, vice president for student affairs, said.

"The present operation would lose approximately $47,000 next year. This year it lost about $47,000," Swinburne said.

Swinburne added that he is not aware of anyone "overwhelmingly in favor of keeping the textbook rental system." Student Government asked that the administration take into consideration the savings which would be created by abolishing the textbook rental service, when deciding on the amount of the increase in student fees.

The anticipated textbook rental service would be abolished when we asked for the $5 Student Center Fee increase. With the textbook rental we would need a $7 or $8 increase to operate the Student Center," said Swinburne.

If the rental service is discontinued, textbooks will be available at the Central Book Store. At the request of Student Government, faculty, students who either cannot afford or choose not to purchase books.

The switch from quarter to semester system caused a major loss of revenue for the Textbook Rental Service. With the switch textbooks would be rented for only three times a year instead of four.

"I was disappointed because it didn't allow them to build up their own libraries by purchasing books," said Swinburne.

The Textbook Rental Service was started at SIU in 1967 to ease the financial burden of students during the Depression.

"In 1964 the University stopped rental of textbooks for graduate students at the suggestion of the North Central Association of College and Secondary Schools, the principal accrediting agency in the region," said Swinburne.

North Central felt the rental service did not benefit students educationally because it didn't encourage them to build up their own libraries by purchasing books.

In November 1972 the Board of Trustees approved changes in the Textbook Rental Service which essentially limited the service to general studies books.

Students returning in force

With suitcases in hand, bag and backpacks, students returned to Carbondale over the weekend to sample what semesters are like in an accelerated eight-week summer session.

Though admissions and records is announcing to police that they released enrollment figures until the second week. We have not released the official summer enrollment figures to 10,000 and 11,000 students. The sources say that the high number of students this summer is because of the poor market in summer jobs.

"I tried finding a job but nothing was available, so I came back last weekend and registered for summer," said Steve Stewart, junior in physics.

Jerry West, supervisor at the Amtrak depot in Carbondale, estimated some 600 students returned by train between Thursday and Sunday evening. He said students have been trickling back steadily over the past two to three weeks.

"We had 819 persons come through the depot over the weekend and for a similar weekend around the first of June, we had 104 persons," West said.

Estimating some 20 percent of the passengers for this weekend were non-students. West said the student traffic increased as the start of school drew nearer.

A spokesman at the Gulf Transport bus depot said more students appeared to be coming in on buses but no definite numbers could be given.

The influx of students was easily noted by the increased weekend crowds along Illinois Avenue in downtown Carbondale. Bars along the student frequented "strip" showed an increase in activity following the full between semesters.

The Inter-Greek council has plans an open house for new students Tuesday night. Between 7 and 11:30, the rock and roll band "Highway" will provide dance music on the Student Center patio. Also scheduled are "Laurel and Hardy," "Three Stooges" and "Abbott and Costello" films to be shown in the Student Center.

Lake claims SIU student

An SIU student, Marshall Lake Smith, drowned Sunday morning in Marion Lake when the boat he and three friends were riding, capsized during a sudden thunderstorm.

Williamson County Sheriff's office, Smith, 19, of 1231 Midway Court in Marion and three friends, Richard Lunsford of the same address and Gary Mac and Debra Gearhart, both of Route 5, were riding across the lake at 2 a.m., when a sudden rain filled the boat with water causing it to tip over.

Lunsford, Mac and Gearhart swam to shore and began to walk around the lake looking for Smith. By 5:30 a.m., they called authorities. Dover rescued the lake around 9 a.m. and Smith's body was found.

Smith from Kankakee, Ill., was a junior in electronic technology at the Southern Illinois University. As a sophomore he was living and working in Marion for the summer.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dick E. Smith of 1063 W. Van Meter-St., Kankakee. He was been retained by Kankakee for services and burial at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, at the Clancy Funeral Home, 1131 E. Court St.

Hood takes sheriff's contempt case

By Pat Corcoran
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Sheriff Don White disclosed Monday the Jackson County State's Attorney will represent him during his contempt hearing on June 25.

White said he contacted the state's attorney's office and was told that because Hood, the state's attorney, and Gary R. Dillinger, assistant state's attorney, will be working in his behalf.

"The county's attorney, Charlie Hood, is the assistant state's attorney charged with advising county officials on any legal matters," said Hood.

"I am my intention at this time to enter the case in behalf of Sheriff White, but I'm not sure if we will continue in the court," said Hood, who declined further comment on the nature of his defense.

As his attorney, Hood said he is chief legal advisor for all county officials, including the sheriff.

White was ordered Thursday by Chief Circuit Court Judge Peyton Kunce to show cause why he should not be held in contempt of court for releasing a prisoner, Norwell Haynes, from jail 30 days early for good behavior.

Kunce contends White defied a court order stipulating that Haynes serve a full six-month sentence for assault.

What said he released the prisoner early since Illinois law allows a prisoner to accumulate up to four days "good time" for each month served.

"Kunce has called on the Illinois Attorney General's office to represent the state in all further court actions. According to the court order White received. "The court is informed and believes that the said Sheriff of Jackson County may have consulted with the office of the Jackson County State's Attorney concerning the early release." "Haynes was found guilty of assault and destruction of city property in 1973 for striking a person and kicking apart an air conditioner in the Model Cities office with a hatchet. He was sentenced to serving weekends and weekends at the county jail.

Haynes faces charges of assault on a county jailer while serving his sentence. He has been ordered to appear at the June 25 hearing.
Ombudsman's request denied

By Lowry Sofaer

DAILY ILLESBAS STAFF WRITER

SU President Warren Brandt has turned down a request from the office of the University Ombudsman to report that she has the Office of Student Life under her jurisdiction.

In a letter to the campus ombbudsman, a memo to Brandt and a memo to President May 22, the President said that the Ombudsman's office must be independent of Student Life as well as other administrative offices on campus, including the Office of Student Life.

The Ombudsman's office was created in 1969 to help all students through the resolution of issues with the university. It is an independent office that is not part of any department.

U.S. industry output continues decline

WASHINGTON (AP) - The nation's industrial output declined for the first time in eight months in May, the government said Monday.

The decline was announced in a survey in which 29 percent of the nation's industries, including steel, textiles and automobiles, reported a decrease. The survey was conducted by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

A preliminary index of industrial production for May, which was released by the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, showed a 2.5 percent decline from April.

The survey, which covers about 30 percent of the nation's industrial output, showed that production in the automotive industry declined 5.7 percent, while production in the steel industry declined 4.3 percent.

The survey also showed that production in the textiles industry declined 2.7 percent, while production in the chemical industry declined 1.8 percent.

Supreme court ends legal fee schedule

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supreme Court ruled Monday that minimum fee schedules established by state or local bar associations violate federal antitrust law when the fees bind all attorneys in an interstate commerce.

Speaking through Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, the court ruled the fee schedules 'are a classic restraint of trade.'

Minimum legal-fee schedules have been maintained by some states and associations for some years, although some states have abandoned them in the wake of legal challenges.

The explosion was also felt in a neighboring building.

Telephone calls were made following the explosion to the Associated Press and the New York Post, by a woman who said she spoke for the Weather Underground.

Amending may kill bill to split SIU

State Rep. Vincent Birchler, D-Chicago, said he expected that the bill to give SIU-E an autonomous board of trustees will die in the House.

"It's going to be difficult to beat," Birchler said. "Our only hope is to amend it to death."

Birchler said a number of representatives have agreed to add amendments that will make the bill too unwieldy and undesirable to pass a final vote.

Birchler represents the 50th district, which includes Carbondale.

The bill, which has passed in the Senate and House Executive Committee, must survive an amended process and final vote before it is sent for consideration to Gov. Dan Walker. Walker has not announced a stand on the bill.

The bill, if passed, will grant SIU-E its own seven-member board of trustees, and would take effect July 1, 1976.

The bill has been opposed by SIU Board of Trustees members and various legislators who say the bill will open the door for further splits that will reduce the lobbying power of multi-campus universities.

Proponents of the bill say they are working to remove the雕刻 of SIU-E, as expressed by SIU-E President John Rendelman, as "step-child of Carbondale." The bill would give SIU-E budgetary and administrative autonomy from SIU-C.

We need more husbands
By Arthur Hoppe

Our Middle East policy is in ruins. The Russians are now ascend in the area. Another war is imminent. Mr. Kissinger is crushed.

Actually, it’s all President Ford’s fault. He shouldn’t have sent Mr. Kissinger on a delicate diplomatic mission like that. He hasn’t been married long enough.

After all, America has bred the greatest diplomats the world has ever seen—the average middle-aged, middle-class, long-married American husband.

For example, I take the way Morton Throck, who recently celebrated 25 years of more or less happy marriage, would have handled Mr. Anwar Sadat.

“Anwar,” by George, you certainly do look great this evening.

“How can you say that Morton? After what I’ve been through today? The phone’s never stopped ringing, the whole country’s a mess, the fighting, the squabbling... I’ll bet I’ve lost 10 pounds and I think I’m coming down with the flu.”

“Well, Anwar, it just shows how great you look no matter what. Did you get your hair done a new way? I really like it.”

“Who’s got time to go to the barber shop? And look at this thing I’ve got on.”

“It’s my bathrobe. I haven’t had time to change yet. I was thinking of wearing this blue pin-stripped suit.”

By golly, where did you get it? You’ll knock ’em dead in that.

“I’ve worn it the last four times we’ve been out to dinner, Morton. Don’t you ever notice anything? Maybe I should wear this gray flannel instead.”

“You bet, Anwar. You’d really look great in that gray flannel.”

“I knew it! You never liked my blue pin-stripe. Why didn’t you say something?” But, no, you don’t care how I look. What’s it to you if your fancy Israeli friends are sneering behind my back?”

Honestly, Anwar, you’d look absolutely tremendous in anything.

“See? You don’t care what I wear!”

“Of course I care!”

“All right, then tonight you decide. Should I wear this gray flannel or this brown herringbone? Yes or no?”

Right here, from long experience, Morton knows he’s trapped again. If he says the flannel, he hates the herringbone. If he says the herringbone, he hates the flannel. If he says, “Either,” it means he doesn’t care. So he says, “Yes,” hunches his shoulders and goes to pick himself another martini.

So we see President Ford’s mistake. If he’d sent Morton Throck, he wouldn’t have a crushed diplomat on his hands.

It’s not that any middle-aged, middle-class, long-married husband would have done better than Mr. Kissinger. It’s just that they’re more inured to insoluble problems.

“Keep dogs under control”

To the Daily Egyptian:

There have been several good articles in the Daily Egyptian this year about the leash laws, and yet there appear to be just as many dogs running loose as ever. I argue that many dog-owners feel that such an ordinance is unfair to dogs.

I believe some good reasons for the leash laws. If dog-owners would listen, maybe they would be more careful about obeying them.

One evening last summer, I was called by the social work department of Doctors’ Hospital and asked to spend the night with two elderly people in my neighborhood. I discovered two feeble people, both in their 90s—one senile and the other in a wheelchair—living in a small, immaculately kept house.

The third person, a retired nurse in her 80s who had cared for the other two, had been knocked down by a big dog while she was watering her garden in the early evening. Her hip was broken, and she was confined to the hospital for several weeks and to a wheelchair ever longer. Thus the lives of three people were most seriously affected. The dog was one which was constantly loose in her neighborhood and had been a source of legitimate worry to her.

There are many such groups of very elderly people in Carbondale, able to just barely manage, but much happier (and less of a burden on society) than they would be were they confined to nursing homes. Large dogs represent a very real danger to them. Let’s keep our dogs under control, and help these people in one very small way.

Priorities in budget cut unsettled by committee

No priorities were made during meetings Friday between SIU President Walker and the budgetary advisory committee for handling possible SIU budget cuts. Brandt met with the committee and his staff to discuss what action the University will take if SIU's appropriations request is cut by six percent as requested by Governor Daniel Walker.

"We went through a lot of things but priorities were not set," Brandt said Monday. Although the promised pay increases for SIU faculty and staff are in limbo at the present time, Brandt said there will be no jobs in danger.

Brandt is scheduled to testify before the House Appropriations Committee Wednesday. No further meetings with the President's Budgetary Advisory Committee are scheduled after then.

"I don't know of anything more to tell us until we talk to Springfield. They've been brought up to date," Brandt said.

Two students slightly injured in chemistry lab explosion

Two chemistry research students accidently caused an explosion while doing an experiment Friday afternoon in a lab at the Northern Illinois University

Marlyn J. Lange and Marek Maroniski were heat a chemical in a flask over a bunsen burner when the chemical produced a gas that exploded, according to SIU police.

Security police said that after washing the chemicals from their eyes, the students were taken to Doctors Memorial Hospital for treatment of minor lacerations of the forehead and neck and both were released that same afternoon. No damage was done to the lab.

According to Richard Arnold, chairman of the Chemistry and Biochemistry Department, both students were doing the experiment as part of a research course for credit. He said that it was all right for the students to have been in the lab and they weren't working on their own.

Personnel in the department wouldn't say what the chemical was and the two students were unavailable for comment.

Housing authority to take loss in residents' rent money theft

Residents living in the high rise housing office of the Jackson County Housing Authority at 300 S. Marion St. do not have to worry about paying back any money taken in Thursday's theft of the building's rent collection from a housing employee.

According to Reid Troutman of the housing authority in Murphysboro, the department will not accept the loss of the money.

"The residents were given receipts for their payment and they will not have to pay anymore," Troutman said. "The Housing Project will have to take the loss out of their own pocket."

According to the Carbondale police, $2,065.95 was stolen. Troutman said the amount was in cash and non-negotiable checks marked for deposit only.

LeVonne Hutter, a clerk cashier, told the police that as she was preparing to leave and make a bank deposit, a man came into the office, grabbed the deposit bag and fled on foot.

Small, lively crowd sees Reed-Fargo show

A small but enthusiastic group of country and western music fans turned out Saturday night to listen to Donna Fargo and Jerry Reed at the SIU Arena. The concert was scheduled as a part of the Carbondale Friendship Festival.

As they left the arena, one student exclaimed, "That was the best concert I've ever seen!"

Fountain freaks get a scoop, new ice cream store to open in SIU district

By Diana Cannon

Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Student demands don't always go unanswered. A long awaited disappearance, popular request is being granted. American institution which never grace every doorstep on Main Street, that symbol of simpler times—the ice cream parlor.

Beginning at 11:30 a.m. Monday, soda fountain freaks again may visit the bar and spiggots in the Student Center Oasis Room. Establishment of this new ice cream heaven is under the direction of Robert Underwood, Student Center food service manager.

America is in the midst of an ice cream revival. Not only is ice cream production on the rise, but demand is increasing. The number of frozen product devoted to "premium products" has been climbing steadily since 1970. On a per capita basis, the average American now downs almost 23 quarts of ice cream, ice milk and iced coffee a year. The rest of the world lags so far behind it would take three Frenchmen, two Germans, an Italian and a Swede to equal the annual ice cream consumption of one American.

Some people think ice cream is popular because it provides a placebo, unless sort of pleasure in an era of decadent entertainment. Many people who prefer "fancy cigarettes" see it as the food of preference when the munchies attack.

Whatever the underlying causes for this phenomenon, the Student Center's decision to stock the quality of 1969 renovation, is back and Underwood is "relaxed."

The menu selection will feature new Era Dairy ice cream by the dip on an at-all-time. Underwood said. Prices run 3 cents for a chocolate or strawberry cone, 25 cents for a double-header and 50 cents for a lollipop triple-decker.

A special weekly flavor will offer for true ice cream connoisseurs, along with milk shakes, a new premium with a name complete with all the poop. And, if you're willing to forget about calories, carbohydrates and reason, the ambersal banana split is yours for 90 cents.

The future holds further delights, Underwood said, with plans for the installation of hot fudge sundae equipment.

Devotees of the double scoop will recognize this new harber of refuge by its candy-striped awnings and gleaming chrome. Student workers will be dressed in appropriate soda-jerk garb and trained with an attitude, Underwood said.

The menu will include quarts of presidents, movie stars and kings will be available to all ice cream addicts during the same operating hours as the Oasis Room.

Area teachers to attend law institute

Seven area high school teachers will attend the 12th Annual American Institute of the Law in American Society Foundation from July 9-10 in Chicago. Underwood, who is director of the Department of Secondary Education.

The purpose of the institute is to introduce high school teachers to higher education and to the programs available in the Department of Secondary Education.

Carbondale's newest addition in department stores, K-Mart, is scheduled to open by middle or late August, according to Steve Chock of the K-Mart advertising department.

Occupational education clinics offered for summer semester

A series of summer workshops aimed at occupational education teachers has been scheduled by the SIU Department of Vocational Education Studies.

Included in the series are four two-week workshops on home economics education. They'll focus on teaching subjects such as consumer baking, home economics for elementary teachers, gardens and simulations and careers exploration. The workshops started Monday. Graduate credit is available.

"We hope that they will incorporate the teaching of law-related materials into their classes," said Duff.

The institute will be held in the Everett McKinley Dirksen Federal Building.

Teenagers earn top honors in national gymnastics' action

By Ken Johnson

Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

A pair of Illinois gymnastics stars took top honors Friday night in final competition of the United States Gymnastics Federation Elite National Championships and the Pan American Games Trials.

In the women's competition, Tammy Manville, the winner of the all-around competition, placed in three of the four events to headline the meet from Aurora.

The men's all-around champion, Gary Proctor of Morton Grove, Ill., placed in four out of six of the finals if individual events held in the SIU.

Manville, who entered the women's division finals as the all-around winner of the Elite National Championships, recorded scores of 74.360 points at the end of Thursday's competition, placed second in vaulting, matching Denise Chesyre of Los Angeles, Calif., with 9.325 points.

The 15-year-old Manville, participating for the Arizona Twisters Club of Tempe, took second place in the balance beam competition with 9.425 points, and took third in floor exercise with 9.375 points.

Proctor entered men's finals competition after winning the Pan American Games Trials by 56 of a point over University of California junior Tom Weeden's all-around score of 10.190, and after tying University of California's Tom Johnson in the USGF National Championship with a score of 10.880, and second in the SIU's all-around finals.

The top gymnast, who will be a senior at Niles West High School in the fall, took third place in balance beam with a score of 17.150 points, placed on the parallel bars with 17.325 points, second on bars with 17.240 points, and sixth in the still rings with 18.060 points.

The top gymnasts from the SIU competition will compete for team positions for the Pan American Games Trials in early October. Manville will travel to Miami with the Illinois team to participate in the trials in early October, and Proctor will travel to Colorado for Pan American Games camp during the second week of October.

Nineteen men and 36 women participated in the three day event held at SIU. The competition was sponsored by the Carbondale Chamber of Commerce, the SIU Department of Men's and Women's Intercollegiate Athletics and the SIU Men's Department of Intercollegiate Athletics.

SIU gymnast Glenn Tidwell took fourth place at the pommel horse with 18.775 points, finishing for the final event with 17.175 points after Thursday's competition.

Tidwell qualified for further Pan American Games competition at the Air Force Academy in October with SIU gymnasts Jon Halberg and Jim Ivrick. Ivrick did not compete in last week's contests because he recorded 74.360 points at the competition, qualified for the Pan American Games camp with his season's scores of more than 104 points. Halberg, however, did not qualify for Friday's gymnastics finals.

Tidwell and Halberg finished 10th and 12th in the Pan American Trials with 102.25 and 99.4 points respectively. They finished the 112th National in 11th and 15th place, respectively, with 92.95 and 97.25 points.

Friendship Festival takes many shapes

Friendship took many forms in Carbondale last weekend.

For the estimated 25,000 persons who attended the airshow at Southern Illinois Airport Saturday and Sunday, friendship was watching the bright sun gleam off the shiny wings of Blue Angles and Red Devils (the biplanes pictured) as the daring men in their flying machines took to the air, performing aerial acrobatics.

For others, friendship was the thrill of competing in a horse show and the feel of a powerful animal digging deep to round barrels without knocking them over. Jeff Simms of Mt. Vernon races his horse against the clock, Saturday.

The Jackson County Antihorse and Mule Thief Association staged a muzzle-loading firearms demonstration behind the SIU Arena. Ros Little of the Cape Girardeau, Mo, Beaver Bend Rangers, fires his black powder rifle at a target.

Traffic looks a little heavy at home plate as Steve Pate of the Leon Webb Toyota team slides by the Peppermint Lounge catcher in the slow-pitch softball game at Jaycee Field.

Riding in the bumper cars at the carnival attractions on University Mall, Penny Bennett and Scott House of Johnson City enjoy turns at the wheel.

Speaking for the chamber of commerce, Ed Rosen, general Friendship Festival chairman, said the festival was a terrific success.

"All persons involved in the festival were pleased with the results and we are planning on a bigger festival next year," Rosen said.
