Rest of Music Festival Will Not Be Presented

Floyd Wakenk, director of the Southern Illinois Music Festival, "Music Under the Stars" which was the remainder of the Festival season, was not presented last Saturday night due to rain, which was given at a later date as was previously announced.

"Since more than half of the program was presented Saturday night, we feel that it would be an anti-climax to continue with the rest of the program at a later date," said Wakenk.
To be eligible for the program, students are required to have a minimum of 4.25 grades and have been selected by a panel of judges. Students who have demonstrated a strong desire to do well in their studies will be given priority. According to Robert Stahlberg, the cartoonist, the number of brawling and non-existent items are of little importance, but rather the items that were mentioned in the story of Silverware and November Block from campus and others.

Dear Editor:

In my opinion, the editorial on the Miss Southern contest was not written because "a few disgruntled students were not pleased with the results."

I believe that editorsials in the school paper should be written for the opinion of the students and not for a few disgruntled students not pleased with the results.

George McKenzie

Editor's Mailbag

In my opinion, the editorial on the Miss Southern contest was not written because "a few disgruntled students were not pleased with the results" as if they were in any way connected with the presentation.

Hoping to see all four Miss Southern contests, it is by far the best that has ever been presented. I believe that editorials in the school paper should be written for the opinions of the students and not for a few disgruntled students not pleased with the results.

Mr. McKenzie:

I do not believe that the editorial was not written because "a few disgruntled students were not pleased with the results." It is not written because of the requests that the editorial was finally written. And now, since it has been printed, I have had many favorable comments about it.

We highly respect your opinion and your right to disagree, but we should like for you to re-express our right to express our opinions and those of other students.

Southern Illinois Varsity Baseball Squad ('Eastern Illinois')

The varsity baseball team will be on the spot here today when it faces Northern Illinois, defending IAAC champion.

Coach Glenn "Ace" Martin's Salukis are in first place in the Interstate Intercollegiate Athletic Conference with a 5-1 record, but they may have to win their remaining four games to be assured of the title.

Michigan Normal is second with four wins and two losses, both to SIU, and has six league games left. The Huronites have a chance to win the crown by winning all of them, if Southern loses one of its games.

NORTHERN IS tied for fifth with Illinois Normal with a 3-5 record. Normal handed the Salukis their first conference loss last Saturday, May 5, at the Redbirds scored two in the ninth to win 4-3. Southern won the first game of the doubleheader 7-6.

Martin plans to send his ace, Wayne Grandcolas of Belleville, against Northern in one of Friday's games. The sophomore left-hander pitched a two-hit shutout against Normal in his sixth victory of the season against no losses. Ray Ripplemeyer, 6-1 Valmeyer freshman, may get the nod in the other game.

The Salukis, who have a season's record of 12-4, play the rest of their games at home. After Northern they entertain Eastern Illinois May 20 and Bradley May 30 and 31.
