RAM Meets Morris, Cancels Forum

Students and SIU President To Hold 3rd Session Today

President Delyte W. Morris and representatives of the Rational Action Movement were scheduled to begin a third conference at 8 a.m. today.

They held two sessions Thursday, the first from 8 until shortly after 9 a.m. and the second from 2:30 p.m. until almost 5 p.m.

President Morris said, after the afternooon session that there would be no official movement made about progress of the sessions because the discussions were to continue.

The meetings Thursday came after an exchange of letters between RAM and President Morris. The group, protesting what it called a lack of student rights at SIU, submitted two letters to the President, one Tuesday night, another Wednesday morning. They stated that he and the four vice presidents take part in a public forum on Friday, which was to give an indication of student opinion.

The resolution declared that whereas rights are necessary, and whereas there is no assurance of the existence of rights at SIU, and whereas student opinion hasn't been allowed to define the rights, and whereas RAM has shown an effective voice in obtaining rights, the Council will support RAM.

In other Council action, the fee study report was accepted, allocating $491,000 for activities for next year.

When the Council meeting convened earlier, Pat Micken, student body president and Donald Grant, presiding officer of the Council, announced their formal resignations from the Ad Hoc Committee. They had not attended the committee meeting last Saturday.

At press time for the Daily Egyptian, the Council was out on a two-minute recess following a long, heated argument concerning the acceptance of the latest Ad Hoc Committee report.

The report, printed in the Daily Egyptian Tuesday, called for the election of 24 students from Carbondale and 16 from Edwardsville to the University Student Council.

Diplomat Will Lecture Tonight

On Foreign Policy of France

Jean-Louis Mandereau, counselor of France in Chicago, will discuss French policies in world affairs at 7:30 p.m. today in Morris Library Auditorium. The International Relations Club is sponsoring the lecture.

FINE PERFORMANCE—Kathy Holland does a dynamic acting job as Cassandra in the musical "Mame" which is playing at the Southern Playhouse nightly, through Sunday.

"Rising Campus Spirit..."

Morris Terms Spring Festival "Activity, for the Joy of It"

"Spring Festival is in activity for the joy of it, an indication of rising campus spirits in the spring," said President Delyte W. Morris.

Morrison was featured speaker at the Spring Festival Assembly held Thursday morning in the Arena. In addition to Morris's speech, candidates for Miss SIU were introduced by Terry Cook, cochairman of the contest; the Men's Glee Club, under the direction of Robert W. Kingsbury, assistant professor of music, sang; and Bob Quail, chairman of Spring Festival introduced the Festival's Steering Committee.

Other Spring Festival activities for the weekend include "Weather or Not," a water show by the Aqualettes at 8 p.m. today in the University Pool. The Midway, with concessions stand, rides and student sponsored shows, will open for the first time at 6 p.m. tonight. It is located southwest of the arena.

Miss Southern talent competition will be held at 7:30 tonight in Shryock Auditorium. Saturday's activities will begin with preliminaries for the tug-of-war from 10 a.m. until noon at Lake-in-the-Campus. The Midway will re-open at noon Saturday and stay open until 6 p.m.

Miss Southern swimsuit and formal-gown competition will begin at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Roman Room of the University Center.

The Aquaettes will present their water show again at 4 p.m. in the University Pool. The Spring Festival Dance, featuring the Triadons, will begin at 9 p.m. Saturday in the Student Union Center.

During World War II Mandereau was captured twice by the Germans and escaped both times. After he worked in the underground in Tunisia from 1941 to 1943, Mandereau entered the French diplomatic service in 1944 and worked in Algeria before returning to France where he supervised the importation of supplies.

After 1948, Mandereau directed all Marshall Plan operations for France in America. He served in the U.N. Secretariat from 1951 to 1954 as director of the Division of Technical Assistance Administration.

Mandereau was awarded the '40 Medal of Freedom and the King's Medal by the British government. He holds a doctor's degree in law from the Law School of Paris and a master's degree in economics from Birmingham Southern College of Ala.

RAM, Rights and Censorship

The Rational Action Movement represents a departure from the bitching and griping that often typifies the apathetic student. We have summarized the ground work for his efforts to bring about a new consciousness in university life.

A student right must be so explicit that its denial is not only improper, but also unconstitutional. A right that may be airborne at any time, as it happens, and therefore is not right. And as a student editor, re-reading your remarks, I wholeheartedly disagree that increased "freedom" granted by the Administration, when it leaves the whole framework of self-government, will provide the student with what has been called, in the long run, to the current problems of our society. A policy of continually improvising and not creating wonderfully efficient solutions to questions raised by or pertaining to students, is diametrically opposed to the goals of RAM, since it leaves the basics of absolute Administrative discretion un-affected. And if, in a sense, we are talking with your problems taken care of at the discretion of the Administration in the selected cases where they arise, you have to come up with solutions.

RAM has delineated areas of student rights and responsibilities which cannot be overridden by any legislative body that sees its need for responsible and autonomous students. Therefore, we urge that these policies should have a voice in the decision-making process, in brief, those asking for the rights and responsibilities of citizenship.

As you know, a new student movement has emerged here on the SIU campus. It is called the Rational Action Movement (RAM) and was formed by undergraduates to give structure and meaning to the widespread dissatisfaction with the meaninglessness of which administrative decisions are being imposed upon the academic community.

RAM endorses the view that there should be formal policies that should have a voice in the decision-making process, in brief, those asking for the rights and responsibilities of citizenship.

The resolution is hereby passed unanimously.

Sincerely,

Walter L. Kober
President
Rational Action Movement

I Have a House, S.G.H. 116

Too Much Individualism

Civil War Poorly Fought Before 1864, Nevins Says

Allan Nevins, who probably knows more about the Civil War than anyone since Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, told an SIU audience that Americans were pretty lousy fighters between 1861 and 1865. But it wasn't because they lacked courage or valor—in fact, they could challenge any fighters in the world in valor, the distinguished American historian said.

And to prove the point, he cited one battle in which Grant lost more than 5,000 men in a little more than an hour and another when more than 6,000 Confederate troops were lost in a similar length of time.

Nevins blamed it all on the nature of the time and the type of nation America was during that period. There was excessive individualism which led to lack of discipline and a tendency for showy, spectacular tactics on the part of leaders and men on both sides tended to improvise rather than organize, he said.

Lack of discipline, in the early years, seemed to be one of the worst problems. At one point, he said, McClellan's army had 45,000 men missing—either as stragglers or deserters. And at Antietam some 20,000 of Lee's men were missing.

"No American army up to 1864 was capable of making a forced march," Nevins said, "without having a large number of stragglers and deserters."

But by 1864 all that had changed, Nevins said. The showy, theatrical officers had been replaced by the quieter types, such as Grant; the foot soldiers learned discipline; and the tendency to improvise was replaced by careful organization.

Some of the accomplishments during the last year of the war included the use of balloons, a type of submarine, the development of signal flags for communications, the development of the magazine loading rifle, and improved naval warfare.

Nevins, a gray-haired scholar with a raspy voice that sounds something like Carl Sandburg's, came to SIU as a guest of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences after taking part in a ceremony in Springfield marking the 100th anniversary of Lincoln's funeral.

He was introduced as a "citizen of the world," probably because he is Harnsworth Professor of American History at Oxford University in England this year. And he replied: "I don't aspire to be a citizen of the world—it is enough to be a citizen of Illinois."

Shelby Will Deliver Honors Day Address; Scholars to Be Praised for Achievement

Lois R. Shelby, assistant professor of history, will deliver the annual Honors Day address at 7:30 p.m. May 13 in Shryock Auditorium. Nearly 400 students will be cited for scholastic achievement at the program.

A reception from 8:30 to 9:45 will follow in the Roman Room of University Center. A preliminary list shows 384 students will be honored for their high grades at Southern. More may be added before the time of the program, the Convocations Committee reported.

In addition, an estimated 200 students will be honored with scholarships and other special awards.

Shelby, a native of Dallas, Tex., who teaches medieval history at Southern, came here in 1941. He has a bachelor's degree from Baylor University, a master's from Vanderbilt University, and was awarded his Ph.D. in 1962 from the University of North Carolina.

He is a councillor of the Midwest Medieval Conference and has had articles published in Speculum, journal of the Medieval Academy of America, and in Technology and Culture, journal of the Society of History of Technology.

City Council OKs Garbage Pickup

The Carbondale City Council has voted to establish a new garbage-refuse collection system.

The system was outlined in a report given by Frank A. K., commissioner of streets. Both garbage and refuse will be collected once a week by two "compactor trucks" to be purchased by the city.

Kirk said that if the number of weekly pickups exceeds 16,000 an additional truck would be added to the system. The system will be financed by charging the individual householders $1 per month, and firms $1 per month per family.

(next door to Martinizing)
WASHINGTON (AP) — Propped by the top leaders in both parties, President Johnson's $700-million Viet Nam war fund bill crashed through the Senate on Thursday amid cries of blackjack tactics.

The Senate passed the bill by a roll-call vote of 88-3 after a fixed five-call vote period of furious debate.

Senator after senator served notice that his vote for the money bill was not to be construed as blank check endorsement for policies that might bog this country down in large-scale land warfare in Asia.

Morse, who led the opposition, said the bill gives Johnson far more than a $700-million appropriation. Morse contended it gives the President authority to wage undeclared war, and he predicted it will be followed by the sending of thousands more troops to Viet Nam.

"The President is using this bill," Morse said, "as a vehicle for getting a vote of confidence for his policies in Viet Nam out of Congress."

The blackjack cry was raised by Gruening, who said he approved of Johnson's policies in the Dominican Republic uprising but said the President's message asking for the Viet Nam fund "sought to give the clear impression that a vote against this appropriation is a vote in aid of communism."

The bill was passed in the Senate with the votes of 57 Democrats and 31 Republicans. There were 8 Democratic and 1 Republican absences.

Wrong Turn Blamed

Marine Killed, 2 Hurt
In Dominican Incident

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — U.S. Marines fought a hot skirmish Thursday with Dominican insurgents in the heart of rebel territory. At least one Marine was killed and the toll may be three.

The rebels charged there was a violation of cease-fire terms. The U.S. command said the fighting erupted after a Marine patrol took a wrong turn.

The rebels brought the body of one slain Marine to the steps of the Embajador Hotel, Marine headquarters on the outskirts of Santo Domingo, in a Red Cross ambulance. Two wounded Marines were taken to a hospital near the hotel.

U.S. military sources reported one dead, two wounded and four missing, one of whom was believed killed. Two of the missing were captured.

The rebel command announced one Marine was dead, two captured and two wounded.

American newsmen in the rebel zone reported seeing the bodies of two Marines.

Fingerprint Gap in Liuzzo Case Comes Out in Juror's Question

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. (AP) — Both sides rested Thursday in the murder trial of Ku Klux Klansman Collie Leroy Wilkins Jr., after a juror had pointed out a fingerprint gap in the state's case.

Wilkins, 21, was brought to trial for the March 28 slaying of Viola Gregg Liuzzo, 39.

Before the defense opened a brief presentation of testimony from six witnesses, jury Clifford McMurphee asked in court whether there were fingerprints on the .38-caliber revolver identified in FBI testimony as the murder weapon.

Gary Thomas Rowe, FBI former technician, had testified that the gun belonged to Eugene Thomas, 42, also under indictment in the case, from whom it was recovered after the slaying.

Rowe had testified that he had a pistol in his hand that night, sitting beside Wilkins in the back seat of the car, when the slaying occurred.

Showboat Sails 'Piecefully'
From Greek Row to Midway

A showboat has been constructed in the area behind the buildings at Small Group Housing. The shipbuilders are members of Sigma Sigma Sigma social sorority and Phi Sigma Kappa social fraternity. They are teamed up for a Spring Festival Midway show titled the "Southern Queen Showboat.

The theme of this year's festival is "Great Moments in Music."

Since the Midway for the Spring Festival is on the southwest corner of the SIU Arena, the builders were faced with the problem of transporting the showboat there. To solve it, they tore the structure apart after completing it behind the fraternity house and carted it in pre-fabricated sections to the Midway by wagon.

Several other interesting problems and sidelights occurred during the construction and rehearsal of the Tri-Sigma Phi-Sig show. Terrance J. McKeon, junior from Chicago, found that he would have to diet so that his rented costume would fit him. A windy day made paint-splattered girls of Carol R. Polcyn, sophomore from Mount Prospect, and Donna M. Kotarek, sophomore from Skokie. What paint they did get on the structure was somewhat ruined by Timothy W. Ayers, sophomore from Lake May, Mo., when he put white paint over the freshly-applied black that the girls had just done on the hull. When Raymond N. Fuller, sophomore from Evanston, was asked to play the villain in the show's melodrama, he decided to add authenticity to the part by growing sideburns.

Fuller says he does mind the extra whiskers a little but the hisses and boos he hears when he acts out his part make up for the inconvenience.

Charles W. Zoeckler, associate professor of theater, is faculty adviser for the groups' show. The Midway will open at 6 p.m. on Friday and stay open until midnight. On Saturday afternoon, it will be open from 12 to 6 p.m.

Faculty Members Recall Where They Were at End of WW II

By Jesus S. Carlos

On the morning of Monday, May 7, 1945, breathless newscasters broke into the radio broadcasts across the nation with the newsflash: Germany had surrendered unconditionally.

By noon on the same day, almost every man, woman and child in the U.S. and service men overseas had heard the news.

V-E Day found many of SIU's faculty members in many different positions, situations and places. Today, exactly 20 years older, they look back through the years with misty recollections of that day.

Some were still in the States and never were sent overseas to fight. Ralph E. McCoy, director of libraries, was writing "field and technical manuals" as a faculty member of the Quartermaster School at Fort Lee, Ca. Joseph Vavra, professor of plant industries, then a 24-year-old lieutenant stationed at Fort Benning, Ga., was probably teaching officers candidates that morning.

En route to Pratt, Kan., in a car with three men was the director of flight training for all combat crews in the U.S. Air Corps, then Lt. James F. Van Ausdal. The slim, 5-foot-6 commandant of AFROTC at SIU, recalled that he just completely overjovied it was finally over.

Oliver P. Kolotace, chairman of the Department of Special Education, was back from the war in Europe and training crews in high altitude bombing near Big Springs, Tex.

Joseph E. Burnside Jr., professor of animal industry, doesn't remember exactly where he was or what he was doing on May 7, 1945. "We were probably somewhere on patrol duty in the Pacific," he thought. He was 21, crew chief of an ordnance section in the Marine Air Corps.

William O'Brien, assistant professor of recreation and Plan A Program, was then a lieutenant in the Marines waiting at Oahu, Hawaii, for reassignment. "I was in a tent when someone came down the street and made the announcement heard over the radio," he said.

One man who had every reason to be jubilant was Nicholas Vergette. "First thing I did was to hitchhike to London to join the celebration," missed the ex-warrant officer pilot in a heavy bomber group of the R.A.F. The curly haired artist and associate professor of art summed up his feelings as relief more than anything else.

Harriett Harrwig, professor of foreign language, was in Paris as a captain in the U.S. Army Transport Corps. He was working in a fancy headquarter on the Rue de la Paix, he recalls, when the news of the German surrender came. Harrwig, who is of German descent, reacted with mixed emotions. His mother was in Germany and so were his relatives, two of whom were involved in the anti-Hitler Putsch. Finally he could understand what had happened to them.

Not everybody was under pleasant circumstances on that day. A German language instructor vaguely remembers flying as a child from somewhere near Berlin and the oncoming Russians.

The Allied victory in Europe brought out feelings of relief in most people, but the realization and concern that the war wasn't over yet spread. Next was the long hard road to Japan.

Howard French, associate professor of German, probably best summarizes the reaction of the men in the services when he greeted the news "with mixed emotions because it didn't mean the end of the conflict for us." He was an aircraft crew chief testing the engines of a P-38 when the news reached him in Finchhaven, New Guinea.

O'Brien, Burnside and French all faced the grim prospects of Kamikaze attacks, Baka-bombs and Banzai charges even while outwardly they were pleased about the victory in Europe.

Speeches, Hymns Celebrated V-E Day
At Southern's Chapel Program in 1945

By Joe Cook

Twenty years ago today the world was celebrating V-E Day—Europe had been saved from the Nazis. SIU, which was then Southern Illinois Normal University, celebrated the occasion too, but not in the same boisterous way most of the nation did.

A special chapel program was held in Shryock Auditorium.

The program included several speeches, a hymn sung by the chorus and a prayer by Robert Vance, chaplain elect, according to the Egyptian of May 11, 1945.

Chester Lay, who three days later was to be installed as Southern's seventh president, introduced the speakers, the first being John Allen, curator of the SIU Museum. Allen, a member of the 6th Marines in the First World War recalled for the audience the reaction of the men at the front when they heard the news of Armistice Day in 1918. "The quietness of the moments when the men were gathered around their fires, held a more sacred atmosphere than any church I have ever been in," said Allen.

Following Allen to the podium were five students who presented the ideas and views of the "Big Five." The words of Winston Churchill were given by Robert Brooks, a student at University High School. J.R. Hart, a veteran of the African campaign, discussed Russia. Richard Avis spoke of the works of General Charles De Gaulle. Helen Mataya discussed Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and China's place in the world. James Pleasant, the last of the five speakers spoke of the ideals and goals of the late president Franklin Roosevelt.

After the speeches, the chorus sang "Now Thank We All Our God" and Chaplain Vance gave the benediction. President-elect Lay then ended the celebration by dismissing classes for the rest of the day.

Tiger-Saluki Track Meet on Saturday

Powerful Lincoln University invades McAndrew Stadium Saturday night and, before an expected 5,000, it may make its mark in the stadium's record books.

The Tigers challenge Lew Hartzog's Saluki trackmen in dual meet. Field events will begin at 7 p.m., with the running contests to start at 7:30 p.m.

Stadium records in eight events appear in jeopardy with the main assault expected to come from the speedy Tigers from Jefferson City, Mo. Probably the standard most likely to fall is the triple jump where the challenge will come from a Saluki freshman.

John Vernon from Notting-ham, Eng., appears almost a cinch to break the district record set by Gary Carr's legs are just beginning to get into the groove. If you think this hat would become you? Gracious Hostess, Diplomat, Psychologist, Public Relations Expert, Organizer
