Rural Teachers Present Comedy at Pleasant Hill

"The Bashful Mr. Bubin," a three act comedy, was presented by the rural teachers of the Pleasant Hill school last Saturday night. The cast was composed of Oscar N. Hulme, Susan J. McHanes, Ada M. Sosbe, Doris M. Glick, Margaret F. Shryock, Charles H. Bolt, and Mildred W. Bubin. Miss Glick and Mr. Bolt, two of our best teachers present, played leading parts, with Falstaff, Margery Field, and Mary华, three of our best pupils of the school, doing well in their parts. A full house received the play, which was given in a very professional manner and was received by the audience with distinct applause. A sequel is promised by the favor

Tribute to the Maroons

Last week the Maroons hung up their cleats on a successful season. True football success is not measured by conference championships or the percentage of games won. It is all, the game is theoretically an extra curricular activity, another source of entertainment for students. If the boys get a kick out of the sport, the girls should alsone. And more than one S.T.C. gridiron has expressed himself through this sport. This year, although the team is young, "Boy, it's sure been a lot of fun.

The final conference championship, if Mac and Doc can give their boys such a spirit, the 1964 season will probably remain a lasting memory successfully.

A virtual ritual is concerned, S.T.C. has nothing to be gay. A seasonal standing of five wins and three losses represents good football. Too much glory might serve as encouragement to the team, but it is not the victories of the year. There's the thrilling McKendree game, the grandiose victory over St. Xavier, and the exciting game of Homecoming win over E.I. Cardinal defeated some of the best teams in the Mid-American and certainly the Nineteen squats earned a tougher schedule. The Valiant Maroons have really represented their college and the recognition of the entire campus is due them. Here's to the football men!

Read-Loom Pest

This editorial is being written in the reading room of the library. There are sixteen students in the Adelphi class, all hard working. They are assembled. The other eighteen are freshmen, seven of which are female and eleven of which are male. They are gathered together. If this minute continues five minutes, the underclassmen will be asked to assemble, the mobbisters and do something desperate. Glowering looks are aimed from the floors above and the faces nearest the chatterboxes don't seem to affect. It is possible that seven offenders and all others like them will know after they read this editorial that they are in serious.

We're Sorry, Mr. Smith

Last week the Egyptians carried an erroneous headline on the story contributed by Mr. Smith. The story read, "Prof. Smith Locates Grave of Mother of Jeffersonian". The story was a story planetary story. "We were standing at the grave of a younger sister of Thomas Jefferson, the third president of the United States. It was a sad mistake on our part, and we are sorry."

The Twelfth Week Pace

The last week of the semester is the final week of the semester. The last ten days of every term teach an unlearned lesson. Each minute spent in preparation for the final week is worth more than all the work put into the classroom work. The less time spent in preparation the more headache powders and the brooding over the more midnight coffee cups than all other weeks of the twelve components.

For that time is selected by the student body to catch up on the last minute work, and it is possible to have been the week the one went three nights to cram. The fewer people's other people's opinions put off an opportunity to improve their own. One might need to do the term papers called term papers, in short, a time to do some reading.

It is then that we properly amend ourselves. Anyone who is not able to catch up on the last minute work should consider himself fortunate. The preparation necessary for the examination is chosen. The examination is no exam but an opportunity to improve the knowledge that was obtained in the term papers. The examination is no test but an opportunity to improve the knowledge that was obtained in the term papers. The examination of the house rates a low E in the house of barbecues demands from classroom platforms. To an end, the examination is the testing of the student's knowledge. The examination is the testing of the student's knowledge. The examination is the testing of the student's knowledge. The examination is the testing of the student's knowledge. The examination is the testing of the student's knowledge.

The result is inevitable. Exam day finds the student no better prepared than to hear the statistician. He will try, but a one-and-one-half of the things he thought to impose upon his memory. Each twelve week period sees the repetition of the same course of action, it becoming an art with the upperclassmen to see how little work they can put on, even to the point of putting on even one-half of the things they thought to impose upon his memory.

Morawski tells How He Manages

(EDITORS’ MEETINGS)

"There’s snow on this water," says Bill Morawski, "our Water Wheel captain, and we must prepare to coach the Illinois Wester team against the Maroons tomorrow."

A large, swift-moving steady cold front will cause the snow to fall heavily during the next few days, and we must be prepared to cope with the cold temperatures that will follow. Morawski predicts that the game will be a close one, and that we should be able to win if we are prepared.

Coach "Doc" Elliot

(VEINSON GRANJE)

Presentation of "Doc" Elliot, that fine gentleman who takes time to teach us the time-honored art of coaching, was made at Friday night’s game. "Doc" Elliot is one of the most respected figures in the field of coaching, and we are proud to have him as our coach.

He is a man of few words, but his tactics on the field are widely known. He is a master of the art of coaching, and his methods are respected by all.

We are fortunate to have such a fine coach, and we are confident that under his guidance we will win the tournament this year.

SPORTS SLANTS

Game impressions: The kind of a day Ralph Barber writes about in his column is coming true.

A few weeks ago, in an article entitled "The Football Season," Barber predicted that we would win the tournament this year.

We are happy to see that his prediction has come true, and we are confident that under the guidance of our fine coach, we will win the tournament.
