Lawyer slams students' attorney plan

By Mary E. Gardner
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The proposed SIU students' attorney program is "probably the worst one around," said a member of the three-man committee appointed by the Jackson County Bar Association to review the program.

That was the committee's finding after reviewing the student attorney program and programs at five other universities, committee member Brocton Lockwood said Thursday.

The committee based its opinion on their belief that the student attorney to represent students in complaints against the university, the size of the board of directors for the program because he is to be held responsible for the student attorney's actions.

President Warren W. Brandt expressed reluctance to support the program because it is not on the agenda for the trustees meeting next Thursday. Brandt said Thursday that he had no plans to take the students' attorney program off the agenda and said that as a board member, he is to be held responsible for the student attorney's actions.

Steering committee members have been making every effort to get the program on the agenda, James A. Lawder Jr., a committee member, said Thursday.

When something is not ready for presentation to the board, it is not put on the agenda, James M. Brown, chief of board staff, said Thursday. Although any member of the board is entitled to bring the subject matter, Brown said he does not anticipate that happening unless something out of the ordinary happens before Thursday.

The students' attorney program is not a matter for system concern, Brown said. It is an SIU-C matter, and the most likely person to bring the matter before the board would be Brandt, he added.

Chairman Ivan Elliott Jr. said he does not know why the students' attorney program is not on the agenda for next week's meeting. "That's up to Dr. Brandt," he said.

Cash found missing from trailer

A police officer found $100 in cash missing from a trailer, he said.

An autopsy performed Thursday indicated Ms. Burns had been raped and sexually assaulted, White said.

The autopsy fixed the time of death as strangulation and also revealed Ms. Burns had been killed in the face by her assailant, White said.

Scrapings taken from under the victim's fingernails are being sent to the medical examiner to see if Ms. Burns scratched her attacker, he said.

White said his office is currently checking leads and following up on information received by the victim's friends and family.

"We are pretty sure the attacker was male," White said.

The sheriff's department is being assisted by detectives from the Carbondale, Illinois State and SIU Security police, White said.

"We are making every possible effort to find the person responsible," White said. "I would appreciate if anyone who was near Green Acres Trailer Court or New Era Road on Wednesday would contact my office. Names will be kept confidential."

The body was discovered by Ms. Burns' boyfriend, Phillip Dilléburg, 23, of the same address, when he returned from his job at the Ramada Inn. Dilléburg told sheriff's deputies he last saw Ms. Burns alive when she drove him to work at 5:25 a.m. Ms. Burns was last seen alive by her roommate, Sally Ellis.

Police suspect burglary as motive for murder

Investigators said they have been looking for evidence of a burglary in a trailer, she said.

The body of Margaret Burns, 24, of 54 Green Acres Mobile Home Park, Carbondale, was found Wednesday afternoon in a trailer. Jackson County Sheriff Don White said she was killed between 9 and 10:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Committee postpones buying golf machines

The purchase of three computerized golf simulators for the co-recreational building has been proposed by the Recreational Facilities Planning Committee (RFCPC). Craig Shanklin, undergraduate student representative to the RFCPC, said purchase of the simulators was delayed to allow time for the committee to discuss the budget implications. The estimated costs in the co-recreational building and set priorities for spending.

The $10.9 million recreation complex, under construction east of the blue barracks, is expected to be completed by fall semester, 1977.

In May 1975, the RFCPC approved plans to purchase three "Golf-Tron" machines, a type of computerized golf simulator which allows a person to play a round of golf in a 50-foot area, said William Bleyer, RFCPC chairman.

Plans to purchase the three machines came under fire from Shanklin and the Student Senate in October.

Shanklin said that the $48,000 price tag for the three machines was too large a percentage of the $460,000 allocated for equipment. On October 15, the Student Senate voted to consider the proposed purchase of the machines on the grounds that it would be wasteful.

Award-winning editor to give lecture at SIU

Kentucky newspaper editor and publisher Tom Gish, of the Whitesburg Mountain Eagle, will receive the Elijah Parish Lovejoy Award for excellence in journalism and deliver a lecture at 8 p.m. Friday in the Riverfront Room.

The award is given on the anniversary of the death of Lovejoy, who died at the hands of a mob in Alton, Illinois, in 1837. Lovejoy had republished the editorials of his newspaper, the Southwestern Standard, despite mob destruction of two of his presses.

Gish, who has published the crusading Eagle for 17 years, has been the target of numerous threats and has had his newspaper office destroyed by probable arson, forcing him to publish from his home.

The Mountain Eagle has previously spoken out against government secrecy, Appalachian coal companies and police brutality.

The lecture and award presentation, cosponsored by the School of Journalism and Mass Communication and the Student Council, are open to the public.

Students' attorney proposal draws lawyer's criticism

The Senate meeting Wednes- day interrupted a floor debate on a pending motion to adopt a resolution recommending that the Student Senate refer the purchase of operating equipment.

Lockwood said the committee would not recommend any solutions to the program's problems at the meeting of the bar association.

The committee will merely report its findings to the bar and the bar members will give the university their opinions.

The committee is expected to report its findings to the Jackson County Bar Association at the bar's next meeting, which will probably be within the next two weeks.

House overrides abortion bill veto

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — The Illinois House override Gov. Daniel Walker's veto of an abortion bill Thursday, setting aside temporarily its preoccupation with the governor's school aid cuts.

The abortion measure, which would require a married woman to obtain the consent of her husband for the operation, now goes to the Senate.

If the Senate refuses to override the governor's veto, it may send the bill to local schools, which was overridden by the House Wednesday night.

A 54-46 split on the abortion cut in special state grant programs for education appeared likely to be upheld, however. With time running out, an override motion remained stalled in the House.

House overrides Walker's education cut veto

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Dealing Gov. Daniel Walker his second defeat in two days, the Illinois House override the governor's $37.5 million cut in special state programs Thursday, sending the measure to the Senate without a vote to spare.

The vote was 80 to 72, the exact number of affirmative votes required for the override.

The House had voted Wednesday to override Walker's cut of $81 million in direct aid to school districts again, with the same majority of 80 votes.

The total $116.7 million package will be voted on in the Senate soon after the General Assembly returns from the Thanksgiving recess.

The vote on the special programs cuts was unexpected. Rep. Thomas Hanahan, D-McHenry, who sponsored the override attempt, had been expected to support the governor's cut of $81 million in school aid.

As late as an hour before the roll call he said he didn't think he had enough votes to override the veto.

Walker pleads to stop school cut override

By Joanne Hollister

Gov. Daniel Walker stopped at Southern Illinois University Thursday as part of a state-wide campaign to convince the Illinois Senate not to override his $81 million cut in education spending.

Walker urged citizens during the conference, "Call your senator. Wire your senator. Tell your senator: no tax increase, no overriding the veto and urge the Senate to do the same.

And the Illinois Senate can still save the day. A grave responsibility rests with those senators. They are the taxpayers' last line of defense," Walker said.

Walker expressed confidence that the Senate would not override the veto. "The Republicans have indicated they are solid, and a number of downstate Democrats will go along," he said.

Walker said the veto issue has become a battle because "Daley chose to support the issue that the Walker administration and the University system are in Chicago is "un-warranted" because Chicago schools received $36 million increase in funding this year.

Democratic floor leader Clyde Croate's proposal that money for Schools be replaced with money from the bond, and termed illegal by the governor.

He said that if the Senate overrides Walker's veto, "I will take it to the Illinois Supreme Court." Such a decision is very unconstitutional. The legislature cannot appropriate any more money.

"I can't tell what this will do to my election chances," Walker said in reference to his veto, but added he was "looking forward to debating whoever Daley chooses. I beat him 72 to 37 and I'll beat him again. People don't want stuff like that."

Walker also said he had no new proposal for the State Board of Elections. He reiterated the stance he took two years ago that the board should be comprised of two Republicans and two Democrats with one independent to serve as a swing vote for protection. He feels the board should be under the control of the People's Party government.

Walker also called his absence at Congressman Paul Simon's $30-a-plate dinner Tuesday "symbolic." He said he was "not a non-supportive gesture towards Sen. Hubert Hum­.

Walker, the main speaker at the dinner."

Director wants Student Center craft shop

By Ray Uribe

Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

C. Thomas Busch, newly appointed acting director of the Student Center, hopes to build a craft shop in the Student Center. He also plans to improve the acoustics in the Big Muddy Room and increase the number of programs offered by the center.

Busch said he would not be a "figurehead" acting director and, despite his inexperience with the position, will attempt to learn as much about the job as he can.

Busch, assistant to Vice President for Student Affairs Bruce Swinburne, was named acting director Friday by Swinburne. He replaces Clarence G. "Doc" Dougherty, Student Center director since 1969, who was named director of campus services by SIU Warren W. Brandt in June.

"Most student centers that I've visited have craft shops," Busch said. "I see that as being a real asset in addition to the Student Center that would be added.

Herbert Donow, president of the Carbondale Federation of University Teachers, has sent a letter to Elliott saying the university senate was not convinced the AAUP committee was formed to study the establishment of collective bargaining guidelines, Elliotson said.

Elliottson said Donow's letter is not on the agenda for next week's meeting but could be. Elliotson said the letter may be placed on the agenda for consideration at the December meeting.

Reject attorney

By Jim Ridings
Editorial Page Editor

The SUU students' attorney proposal, as it is now worded, is a weak and toothless half-measure that is virtually meaningless. The entire document cannot be rejected, however, if the SUU board of trustees when it goes before the board for consideration.

Rather than being a strong document that outlines what the students' attorney cannot do, and that need be just as strong about anything vital to individual student's interests.

The students' attorney cannot represent a student in any matter involving the University's security, the Board of Trustees or the state of Illinois. The attorney cannot draft deeds of trust, real estate mortgages or leases, partnership agreements, wills or the like. The attorney cannot prepare individual tax returns.

The attorney also cannot provide legal assistance in any matter involving income producing activities of a student. The attorney cannot handle criminal cases or matters other that the services of a private attorney or a public defender. The attorney cannot represent or give advice to a student in a matter involving another eligible student. The attorney cannot handle damage suits or libel suits.

Basically, in the words of the proposal, the attorney cannot give any advice or consult. Considering the limitations on the program, there is little the attorney can actually do but advise. There is a half-measure document that does not exist within the document concerning legal referrals. Lists that the student is allowed to consult. The attorney cannot represent a student in any matter involving the University in any grievance, having the University name the student to a state attorney that he is eligible to handle through a referral service sponsored and approved by the Illinois or Jackson County Bar Associations.

Another dubious clause in the students' attorney program concerns the makeup of the program's board of directors. SUU President Warren Brandt is demanding the authority to name board members. This, in effect, would put the hiring and firing of attorneys, as well as the funds collected from student fees, out of the control of the student's and the hands of the administration. Student's counsel may not be able to sue the University in any grievance, having the University name the student to a state attorney that he is eligible to handle through a referral service sponsored and approved by the Illinois or Jackson County Bar Associations.

Other Illinois universities which have students' attorneys programs do not have clauses which restrict the students' attorney from giving legal advice against their particular university. This major defect in the SUU students' attorney program, along with several other lesser faults, should be straughtened out before the program is established. A students' attorney program that is strong and effective should represent the student only the council, and the present proposal does not, the board should unequivocally reject the plan.

The American government is still at war with the Vietnamese people, in heart, if not in arms.

The U.S. Treasury Department denied, on July 18, 1975, an expert license for the shipment of humanitarian reconstruction materials to Vietnam because it violated the "Trading with the Enemy Act." Somebody should tell the U.S. government that the war is over. But it probably would see the logic in that, since the Vietnamese "war" was never officially declared, and therefore, could never be over. Catch 22 has determined that the Vietnamese people will forever be the "unofficial enemies" of the United States.

The license was denied because rice rototillers, agricultural tractors and fishnets are considered by the Ford administration to be economic aid and not humanitarian. Approved for export were high school laboratory equipment, medical supplies, powdered milk and other items, which are economic aid.

"It simply can not be humanitarian to feed people for a short time, and not humanitarian to enable them to eat for a longer time," said Wallace T. Collett, board chairman of the American Friends Service Committee (AFSC), which has applied for the license.

The United States destroyed and rebuilt two nations after World War Two. Today, West Germany and Japan are more prosperous than the economic front. The difference in that war and the Vietnamese conflict, in which $150 billion was spent for destruc- tive and murderous purposes, is that America lost this one.

It's like the kid who plays the little kic on the block plays a better game of marbles. The U.S. has twice vetoed Vietnamese membership in the United Nations, despite nearly total opposition in the General Assembly and the Security Council. It has twice rebuffed offers from the Vietnamese government to normalize diplomatic relations. The denial of the license is complaisant with the Ford administration's consciousness.

The AFSC is going to send the shipment without the license, risking a fine of $10,000 and imprisonment of up to 10 years for its directors. "For us to accept such limitations would be to reject the principles on which we have based so much of our work. We take this decision not only in our name, but in the name of Americans sharing our sense of an immense moral obligation to help rebuild what we have helped destroy," Collett said at a Congressional hearing.

There is legislation in Congress today which would end "sanctions" against Vietnam. It is a bill that would end the sanctions against Vietnam, and to provide for the rebuilding of a viable, non-totalitarian Vietnam. The United Nations will hold a one-hour vigil beginning at noon Monday, in front of Fane building. The Carbondale vigil is only a part of a nationwide effort to show the Ford administration that their policies would like to make reparations to the Vietnamese people, and who do not want to continue the war in arms, hearts or minds anymore.

For all those fed up with the meaningless demands made in the quest for a college degree, an alternative exists.

Ever heard of No Bull-Shit University (NBSU)? The school is just a few miles from Knoxville, Ill., on the land of its founder, president and sole staff member, Bob Beckmeyer. The only building is the Student Union, which Beckmeyer says he spent four hours cleaning out the bullsh--. Beckmeyer says that the school is a "true non-profit." If he's right, the students are state representatives, believe his people are given "free education." The school is "a state tradition.

"The school is a place where everyone wants to help people "attain their goals," through courses, mostly made up of remedial work. Beckmeyer is quoted on "the BLT formula" — beauty, love and truth.

Courses will encourage individuals to "hunt for the BLT" and apply it to their lives. "If you make the BLT, you'll be added, truth, just like bullshit, is undefinable and changes day to day.

Saying energy will be emphasized in the study format, "since a good reading list is all you really need to learn how to survive in a world of bullshit. Only the taxpayers can afford to pay for the bullshit most professors put up with," he said.

History has proven that eating bullshit is bad for you. Beckmeyer explains that "It's like over-fertilizing. A garden smothered in bullshit gets burned and then nothing grows," he said.

Text includes "How to Say What You Mean in Plain English," "The Empowerment of the Self," "Sexual Freedom" and for (against) and (for).

NBSU will differ markedly from Oral Roberts University in that it is the only university in the world in which a faculty could justly be accused of having "half measure" to resourceful in reminding us to get rid of the bullsh--," the president said. "That I be to the NBSU.

The only accreditation NBSU will receive is what its graduates can apply to life, Beckmeyer said. "There'll be no government interference. That immediatey gets involved with too much bullshit. "Why in the hell can't we take control of our own systems?" Beckmeyer wonders. "Fifty per cent of our hospital beds are filled with mental patients and at million Americans are illiterate," he said.

A man could drink J & B scotch instead of Chicago Regal if he thoroughly confused about people instead of material things, Beckmeyer pointed out.

"You can't stop anyone with desire and capability from doing what he wants. Beckmeyer believes, and has ambitious long-range goals for his. "It's a man's world," he said, though no fees have yet been established.

Soon he hopes to expand the required reading list to include "How to Get Rich While You Sleep," "Turn Your Ideas Into Money," "Ten Ways to Make a Million," "How to Figure the Odds," "I need people," he said, "who think exactly like I do."

"I can't see the world as a world that needs to be enhanced."

Persons and used car salesmen will never get a chance to attend NBSU, since Beckmeyer feels "They are the greatest bullshitters of all."

The rest of us, however, have a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to obtain a "No B.S." degree.
Iceland's sea limits breaking 'rules of the road'

To the Daily Egyptian:

Michael Hansen's article in the Oct. 18 edition of the Daily Egyptian totally missed the point of contention concerning Iceland and sea territories. He mentions only in passing "high seas" thus missing the point of freedom of the seas.

Historically sea limits were 3 miles because that was the distance of a cannon shot. Limits beyond that were considered open to all. Modern developments, such as passage and passage of nations follow and abide by the "rules of the road" and other agreements are supposed to result in a peaceful sea. The passage of ships which would result in chaos on the seas. Reduction in historic "high seas" also brings chaos in other ways, legal and nautical.

If all nations were to claim 200 nautical miles the amount of international waters would be reduced by as much as 25 per cent. Many straits and passages would no longer be international. We could emulate Chile and declare a 2,000 nautical mile limit. The failure of Iceland to follow international law shows a certain amount of immaturity on her part. A 200-mile limit is proposed by the U.S. for fishing reasons. However, the U.S. is following legal methods to attain this.

The question of what is a proper sea limit is complex and has no simplistic answer. To simply state that tiny little Iceland is defending a resource is absurd. Iceland has broken many fishing treaties with her unilateral action.

The international conference on the Law of the Sea has been attempting for several years to remove chaos and establish a solid foundation. For example, court cases now have right of way on the seas due to their inability to navigate on short notice. Hansen I heartily recommend that he read the U.S. Naval Institute Proceedings discussions on territorial limits. History does have an unwritten way of repeating itself. We fought Tripoli pirates over the principle of innocent passage and freedom of the seas and more recently the Mayaguez incident.

I wish that in the short discussion I could have offered a quick and easy answer to the territorial sea limit question. It involves not only fishing, but resource utilization (sea mining), innocent passage, salvage rights, historic bodies and rules of the road.

Common courtesy gone

To the Daily Egyptian:

Common courtesy, where has it gone??? After what we witnessed on the night of Oct. 29th, we came to the conclusion that courtesy has become as extinct as the dinosaur. One example was the night the movie "Summer of 42" was shown. People were courtesious. In other words, since we didn't barge, push or shove all we could do was "hang it up" about seeing the movie. It was too much that we missed the movie, but it was the idea that we stood patiently in line for an hour and fifteen minutes to see nothing.

Meanwhile, those who just came in, ran to the head of the line, and pushed their way in. Those of us who had waited a long time, went to the door and slammed it in our faces.

We are sure that the SCAG could devise a method of handing out tickets, possibly one hour in advance with one ticket per person. Those people who had tickets could get in, but those people who wasted their time would never waste their time again.

Remember, those who saw the movie, "Summer of 42", on Oct. 29 might not be as lucky the next time to see a SCAG film.

To the Daily Egyptian:

Common courtesy, where has it gone??? After what we witnessed on the night of Oct. 29th, we came to the conclusion that courtesy has become as extinct as the dinosaur. One example was the night the movie "Summer of 42" was shown. People were courtesious. In other words, since we didn't barge, push or shove all we could do was "hang it up" about seeing the movie. It was too much that we missed the movie, but it was the idea that we stood patiently in line for an hour and fifteen minutes to see nothing.

Meanwhile, those who just came in, ran to the head of the line, and pushed their way in. Those of us who had waited a long time, went to the door and slammed it in our faces.

We are sure that the SCAG could devise a method of handing out tickets, possibly one hour in advance with one ticket per person. Those people who had tickets could get in, but those people who wasted their time would never waste their time again.

Remember, those who saw the movie, "Summer of 42", on Oct. 29 might not be as lucky the next time to see a SCAG film.

Colorful Tibetan dance troupe presents skillful performance

By Cathy Zukowski
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Highlighting an array of lavish costumes and unusual musical accompaniment, the 21 members of the Llama Tibetan dance company skillfully performed religious and ceremonial dances Wednesday at Shryock Auditorium.

The only shortcoming in the Llama Tibetan dance company's performance was the audience's lack of understanding of Tibetan theater and dance.

Many people in the nearly full auditorium left after the company's first act. Although the costuming and musical accompaniment in every dance contributed to an overall overwhelming effect, it became tiresome to try to give each dance the attention it deserved.

The performance began with the dramatic "Black Hat Dance," a dance of the sorcerers, who destroy the powers of evil through their knowledge of the Tantric arts. This ceremonial dance was presented by four members of the company outfitted in ornate headdresses and long robes.

A Review

The audience was exposed to some Tibetan folk opera when three members of the company presented the Dance of the Yaks. There, black dancing yaks appeared onstage and drew audience applause as they executed complex rollovers. This aspect of the opera included a normal woman mimicking the yak and singing a song of offering to the Dalai Lama.

Also included in the performance were several religious dances which represented certain teachings and experiences. One of these dances, the Sacred Mask Dance, featured four members of the company armed with daggers and human skull caps.

Another religious dance, the Dance of the Sacred Stag, displayed the messenger of the Lord of Death who cuts to pieces an effigy of evil and throws the remains in various directions.

The second act was much shorter than the first and was highlighted by "The Dance of the Lord of the Cemeteries." In this dance, four skeleton costume figures enacted the removal of a human corpse from the cemetery.

The company members are part of the Tibetan Dance and Drama Society established to preserve Tibet's artistic history.

Inquest pending in shooting

An inquest is pending in the apparently accidental shootings death of a 10-year-old Carbondale boy Wednesday afternoon. Jackson County Coroner Don Riple said Thursday.

Paul Nielson, 1006 Kent Drive, was killed by a patrol officer, who fired into a car Wednesday afternoon after he was shot in the chest by a 12-caliber rifle, police said. The weapon was pronounced dead at the hospital.

Police said Nielson, who was playing at the home of Donald J. Steenbaker, 2717 Kent Drive, was apparently shooting the rifle to Nielson and another boy when the discharge caused Craig Snowmacker, 12, was apparently shooting the rifle to Nielson and another boy when the discharge caused Craig Snowmacker, 12, to break his wrist.

Young Snowmaker called the police, who took the victim to the hospital. Nielson was a fifth-grader at Parrish School. His family came to Carbondale in July from St. Louis.

Survivors are his father, Melvin, director of the United Mine Workers of America Health and Retirement Fund, and his mother, Barbara, a fifth-grade teacher at St. Andrews School in Murphy, Miss. Other survivors include three sisters, Susan, Beth, Kathy, and a brother, Nicky.

The funeral will be at 10 a.m. Saturday at St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Carbondale. 10. Friends may call from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. Friday at Kremparger Mortuary, South 426 N. Kingshighway Blvd., St. Louis.

Candidate accepts library post

By Lenore Sobota
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Kenneth Peterson, associate librarian at the University of Virginia, has accepted an offer to become the new dean of library affairs, the Office of the Vice President for Academic Affairs announced Thursday.

Peterson, 48, was one of four final candidates for the position. He will begin work in March subject to Board of Trustees approval. No salary figure was released.

Peterson is the second most senior library affairs officer at that institution. He will replace Ralph McCloy, who retired last August after 21 years at the head of Morris Library.

Peterson received his Ph.D. in 1961 and his master of library science degree in 1963 from the University of California at Berkeley. He received his master of divinity degree from Yale University in 1949 and his bachelor of arts degree from Drew University in 1946.
Mail-order system discarded for Jerry Garcia concerts

By Jim Wisniki
Student Writer

Tickets for the Jerry Garcia Band's Nov. 19 concerts at Shryock Auditorium will not be handled by mail-order, according to Helen Ellison, the committee's fiscal officer overseeing the project.

Ellison pointed out that since the activities office lacked the manpower, the ten members of Cultural Affairs could process the ticket orders with Ellison, the committee's fiscal officer, overseeing the project.

Ellison again disagreed: "I don't think students (committee members) have the time to devote to such a project... and I know I don't."

The advisor also expressed her feeling that committee members would seek out ticket requests from their friends from the stacks of mail.

Tickets will go on sale when the last half of the contract with Garcia's band has been signed. The unsold half of the contract deals with union rules and times of performance. Tows expects the contract to be signed within a few days.

To secure a place in the ticket line, a student, with ID card, must go to the Big Muddy Room in the basement of the Student. It will receive a number which will assure him a place in the ticket line, but not a ticket. Approximately 2,400 tickets will be available, so each person will be limited to a four-ticket purchase. Tickets for the second show will be sold first with all seats costing $6.50.

Commission co-founder says U.S. reverting back to colony

By Tom Cheeser Writet

It's about time the American people decide if they should continue and revolutionize, said Robert Howard, co-founder of the People's Bicentennial Commission.

Howard spoke Wednesday night in the Student Center with the A.D. C. man Revolution: A 200 year old problem.

Big business is crushing the average working man and strangling the democratic government throughout its influence in governmental affairs, he said.

Two hundred years after the revolution, this country is being turned back into a colony, he said. "It is becoming a colonial work force shaped by the corporations."

In posing a solution to the corporate control of government, Howard elaborated on the purpose of his talk and the function of the People's Bicentennial Commission.

"The commission believes that the democratic principles that were relevant 200 years ago are still relevant today, he said. "We are hoping to make people aware of demimizing multi national (businesses) in hopes of bringing about a change."

Howard drew parallels between the ransacking of the East India Company's ship that was the night of the Boston Tea Party and the expected ransacking of International Telephone and Telegraph, General Motors and DuPont. He called David Rockefeller a modern day tycoon and suggested that he be ignored like King George in colonial America.

Quoting the Founding Fathers and citing statistics, Howard continued to stress the need to stop exploitation of cheap labor, the trend towards more money in fewer hands and big business methods of incorporating the govt. to further its goals.

Howard, a self-taught historian, suggests that Americans prepare for a peaceful revolution geared towards breaking the American based of corporate monopolies.

He emphasized that the revolution must occur in the democratic process through votes, referendum and ballotting.

"Then we may reach an economic democracy—a democracy where each person is responsible for his own destiny," Howard said.

To set up a People's Bicentennial Commission in Carbondale, Howard said that a brand new deal only agree with the basic ideals cited above. After this, he said, they are left to operate on their own. Howard estimated that there are 50 Commissions in 44 states with a total of about 15,000 members.

Geographers to hold meeting

The 26th annual meeting of the West Lakes Division of the Association of American Geographers (AAG) was held in conjunction with Graduate School meetings at SIU.

Discussions at the meeting will emphasize the need for graduate and undergraduate meetings that will cover maps and maps making, mapping problems, water resources, urban and regional problems, economics, geography, transportation, and environment and resource management.

Other discussion sessions will deal with future trends in geography, recreation, population, human interaction with natural hazards, and urban social geography.

More than 200 geographers are expected for the meeting which was arranged by David E. Christensen, SIU geography department chairmen and division secretary-treasurer. The division includes seven states and two Canadian provinces.

Gerald Karaska, editor of "Economic Geography," will speak at a Friday luncheon. SIU Vice President is hoping to make people aware of the Affair. Frank Horton will welcome the geographers and introduce the luncheon speaker.

Conference field trips planned for Friday afternoon and Saturday morning include the Cedar Lake area southwest of Carbondale, the Palm springs land reclamation research project in southeastern Williamson County, and Raskaskia Island.

SIU geographers and six graduate students are scheduled to present papers at the meeting. Faculty members include Christian: A. Doyle Harling, and David Arey. Graduate students representing the students in addition to are Newcomb, Charles Ryerson, Linda Stauffer, Russell M. Clark and Thomas O. Langston.

SIU geographers David M. Sharpe, D. D. Bauman, and Daniel Irvin, and graduate student Steven Miller will chair group sessions.

Design Department restructured

By David Render Student Writer

The Design Department has restructured itself so that students with a degree in it may become involved in all past graduates.

By narrowing the scope so that students can select a direction, he can reach much higher levels of productivity," said John Loewergan.

Loan union needs volunteers to serve members

The Student Credit Union membership has almost tripled this semester and more volunteers are needed to accommodate the increase, said Jim Langer, treasurer. There are currently 292 members.

The high savings interest rates and economic uncertainties are the reasons behind by Langer for the sudden increase in membership. The savings interest rate has a potential ceiling of seven per cent.

"Because of several people graduating and the increased membership, the Student Credit Union will need several more people to work in various functions," Langer said.

Langer and Jack Eisenberg, who assume Langer's duties next semester, are actively seeking volunteers and applications of an advertising person, a sales representative, and tellers.

Murray Louis Dance troupe to bring modern works to SIU

By Tim Hastings
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Murray Louis Dance Company will bring to SIU Monday a rare look at modern dance works from New York City.

The company will also bring home a long woman who is a native of Carbondale, Anne McLeod, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Archibald McLeod, is one of the company’s eight members.

The Louis company will give a free concert for University Convocations at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Shryock Auditorium. The company will be in Carbondale for a two-and-one-half day residency beginning Monday.

Internationally famous, Murray Louis has been among leaders of the modern dance movement for the past 25 years.

The company will perform three works, all by Louis, on its Tuesday night program, “Geometrics,” a work premiered last December, contains costumes and an electronic score by Louis’ teacher-collaborator Alwin Nikolais. Also on the program are Louis’ solo, “Chimeras” and “Catalogue,” a group piece set to Victor Herbert recordings, circa 1906-1917.

Louis’ choreography has been influenced most by Alwin Nikolais, innovator in total dance theatre. Called a “theater magician,” Nikolais exerted a masterful control over every movement on his dance company in which Louis was principal from 1951 until 1969.

Louis, 49, began his dance training in a small town in Pennsylvania. The two men met at a summer dance at Colorado College in 1948. Louis was invited to work and study at the Henry Street Playhouse, a neighborhood arts center in New York City, where Nikolais headed the dance department.

Put in charge of the children’s dance department at Henry Street, Louis began a long and successful career as a teacher. Louis taught dance technique and composition to children, adolescents and adults at the playhouse. Eventually he became associate director there.

Like Nikolais, Louis’ works are non-literal and abstract. They make use of the same type of electronic music and amazing sets, lights and costumes which characterized the Nikolais Dance Company.

Critics say the difference between the two men is that Louis’ dances are more human in their orientation. His dances focus on people, whereas Nikolais’ work focused on things.

Critics at first said Nikolais’ works looked like something from outer space. But Nikolais believed dance could be devoid of emotion and still be meaningful. These same non-literal dance messages can be seen in the work of his student Murray Louis.

Another characteristic of Louis is his pervasive sense of humor. His dances often explore the comedy of the shape of the human body, and the exotic a project can be in the environments man has created in which his body lives and works.

As part of the Carbondale residency, the company will lead master classes for the public. The first will be a lecture demonstration at 8 p.m. Monday in Purr Auditorium. On Wednesday a class in beginning technique and improvisation will be held in Davies Gym, room 208.

An intermediate and advanced class will be held simultaneously in Purr Auditorium. Both classes will be held from 10 a.m. to noon. An improvisation class will be held from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m. Wednesday in Davies’ Gym, room 208.

Sponsors of the residency are the Department of Theatre, Academic Affairs, Graduate School, Graduate Student Council, Student Government, SIU Foundation, College of Education, Southern Repertory Dance Theater, Illinois Arts Council and the National Endowment for the Arts. The public is invited.

Puppeteer to lecture, perform

Peter D. Arnott, classics author and puppeteer, will present a lecture entitled "The Greek Theatre at Work" at 7:30 p.m. Monday in Davies Auditorium in Wham. At 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Purr Auditorium of Pulliam Hall Arnott will bring to life his Arnott Marionette Theatre in a production of Euripides’ "The Bacchae."

Arnott performs the entire production of his plays from lighting the stage to voices for all the characters and recites his own translation of the Greek drama as well. Admission for both the lecture and marionette theatre performances is free.

Although the Marionette Theatre may be entertaining for children due to the serious nature of the play, children under 12 will not be admitted.

Memberships grow in club for non-smoking singles only

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — "Biorhythms" have been enjoying good times without having smoke blown in their faces, says the founder of what the American Lung Association and other anti-smoking groups call the nation's first singles club for non-smokers. "In three months, the response has been amazing," said Dave Crafts, whose group is called the "No Smoking Club." The club was formed in January with an initial membership of 50. By March, it had grown to 200. Members pay $5 a month for a membership card that allows them to join the club's "smoke-free" gatherings. The club has held several events, including a movie night and a picnic. Members are encouraged to smoke only "non-smoke" cigarettes, which are said to be less harmful to health.

Hollywood, Fla. (AP) — "Biorhythms" are being used to chart the highs, lows and flat spots in people's lives, a new book by a German writer claims. "Biorhythms" is a term coined by Dr. Wissenschaftl, a Viennese psychologist and later by Wilhelm Fliess, a Berlin physician, who used to plot their "life stages" on graphs. The term is now used to describe cycles of varying length, such as physical, emotional and intellectual. Dr. Wissenschaftl used to plot his "life stages" on graphs, which he called "biorhythms." These graphs were used to predict future events based on past patterns.

Producers seeking authenticity hire professional safecracker

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The film industry has hired all kinds of technicians, but this may be a first: an authentic safecracker.

"I talk openly of the profession that led him to spend half his life in prison," he says. "One time, I had a $300-a-day salary," he says. "That was the street value of the drugs. I got it cheaper, because I was also a dealer.

Director Mark Rydell has consulted Waller about the mechanics of the safecracking school, and the expert has also advised the special effects department on the construction of the nitroglycerine. Waller is a stickler for accuracy, he scoffs at safecracking movies of the past.

"All the movies about Jimmy Valentine sandpapering his fingers or someone listening through a stethoscope is pure bunk," he remarked. "There is nothing inside the safe that drops into place. So there's nothing to hear or feel."

Waller is also amused by movie scenes in which safes are blown open by huge explosions.

"That's one way of doing it, but you'll also disinigrate everything you want inside the safe," he said.

Waller's life began in violence. He was kidnapped at 6 by hitmen, he said. Before he was rescued, his father, a doctor who took in drugs because of a severed leg, committed suicide. The boy left home at 12, went to the University of Illinois on a football scholarship and now he could make an easy living selling real estate sharks fleece pocketers.

He joined a shoplifting gang in Florida, then began dealing in stolen cars. That led to his first conviction and sent him to a Georgia chain gang. There he earned his degree in safecracking.

"A man named Peeress Randall, now deceased, taught me the trade," Waller recalled.

"Even though we didn't have equipment to work on, he showed me the diagrams of how to do everything. He had taught at safecracking schools for young men in Birmingham and Houston in what was a kind of Southern Mafia."

Program to consider psychiatry, criminals

By Nancy Landers

Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

About 166 persons have registered for a three-day "Law of Psychiatry and the Mentally Disordered Offender," said Jeanie Birtz, coordinator of the Division of Continuing Education.

The program will be offered Tuesday through Thursday in the Student Center and the Division of Continuing Education.

The Division of Continuing Education, the Illinois Department of Mental Health and Developmental Disabilities, the Chester Mental Health Center and the Menard Correctional Center-Psychiatric Division are sponsoring the program.

There is no registration deadline, but participants are required to pay fees and attend. Fees for students are $10 per day or $30 for half a day. Others must pay $80 for the three days or $20 per day.

A general session will be held in the mornings and workshops will be held Tuesday and Wednesday. No workshops will be held Thursday, although a bus tour to Chester Mental Health Center will be conducted.

"The program will include the presentation of an overview of current data, research and problems in psychology, psychiatry and law," Birtz said.

Subjects of workshops will include the represenative violent offender, the psychopathologist, victim compensation, the uniqueness of psychiatric nursing within a multi-disciplinary team and the problem of patient rights and maximum security — a product of change or fear.

Keynote speaker at the program is Dr. Thomas Sacco, of the State University Hospital of Upstate Medical Center in New York. Birtz said he will speak at 9:15 Tuesday morning on "How Will Psychiatry Dismount the Tiger."

Birtz said participants must register with Continuing Education.

CB radios taken in two thefts

Two auto burglaries, a burglary of a home and a two arrests for fighting were reported Thursday by Carbondale police.

Willard H. Wood, 905 E. Park St., reported Wednesday someone entered his car while it was parked at his trailer near the citizens band radio and speaker. The items are valued at $250.

Roger Dean Ellis, of Carterville, reported Wednesday that someone entered his home and took a color television, a microwave, a stereo and about $30 in cash. The house was in the city parking lot, 100 block of South Illinois Avenue. A citizens band radio and amplifier, a sports coat, keys and a portable calculator were taken. The combined value of the items was $360.

Linda M. Maddox, 3321 Springer St., reported Wednesday that someone entered her house and stole a 19-inch portable color television. Entry was made through the front window.

The item is valued at $250.

William Everett Bailey, 21, 405 S. Logan and Sylvester Moore, 35, both of East Main Street, said police. Moore was released to appear in city court and Bailey was taken to Jackson County Jail.

Carelessness causes thefts, says campus security officer

By Robert Wren
Student Writer

If students residing in campus housing were more careful, 75 percent of thefts from residence halls could be prevented, says Lt. Marvin Brasswell of the SIU Security Police.

"Just about everything from small change to stereo is taken from students' rooms," Brasswell said. Most of the thefts are the result of a student's leaving his door unlocked while out of the room for a few minutes," he said.

The Security Police patrol the Brush Towers, Evergreen Terrace, Southern Hills, Thompson Point and University Park housing areas. They do not, however, patrol inside the residence halls because each has an in-house staff.

"Stolen items such as stereo and camera equipment are usually sold immediately," Brasswell said, and thus have a low recovery rate.

Rifle Tietjen, Coordinator of Residence Life for Brush Towers, could not say exactly how many incident reports regarding theft have been filed this year, but that there were, "more than I cared to see."

"What I don't understand," said Tietjen, "is why 50 residents of a floor can't get together and report someone who didn't belong on the floor."

As an example of how careless students can be in locking their doors, Steve Kirk, coordinator of residence life at University Park, said that one evening he approached a Neely Hall resident's room in which a loud stereo was playing. The door was ajar, but no one was in the room.

Kirk said he shut the door, and walked to the elevator. A resident was walking out of the elevator onto that floor, and Kirk asked her if she resided in the room that he had just shut the door to. She said yes. Kirk noted that not only was she out of her room, leaving the door open, but she was on another floor.

A few weeks ago, a Neely resident reported that some money was taken from her desk. Kirk related. She said she had locked her door. She was then asked if she locked her bathroom door. (Residents in the high rise towers share a connecting bathroom with the room next door.) She answered no, she never does, because she felt that locking the bathroom door would indicate to her suitmates that she didn't trust them.

Veterans' benefits threatened by bill

By Bob Morley
Student Writer

If Congress has its way, Dec. 31, 1976, will mark the end of benefits to veterans.

In a bill passed by the House of Representatives, (HR 4576), anyone enlisting in the military after Dec. 31 will no longer be eligible for veterans' benefits, particularly the GI Bill.

The bill will also have an effect upon veterans already receiving benefits. Veterans will receive five additional points on Civil Service exams.

That bill would also remove restrictions on veterans attending graduate school. Congress passed a bill in December 1974 extending GI Bill education benefits from 36 months to 48 months. But, a stipulation was also passed along with the bill. Only the original 36 months could be used for graduate school. The nine month extension could only be used for undergraduate work. The present bill to end the GI Bill would be an extension.

Buzbee joins fiscal committee

Kenneth V. Buzbee, state Democratic senator from Carbondale, has been appointed to the newly created Committee on Fiscal Accountability, according to Sen. Cecil Partee, President of the Illinois Senate.

The committee, made up of four Democrats and four Republicans, is designed to investigate Illinois' present and future fiscal condition. The committee will hold hearings to determine the state's present economic situation and prepare an analysis of Illinois' fiscal future.

"The funds of this new committee," said Buzbee, "will help Illinois avoid fiscal crises such as the one we find ourselves in now."

City planning board continues hospital parking lot hearings
By Terri Bradford
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer
The Carbondale City Planning Commission voted to continue a public hearing at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 12, concerning a proposed Doctors' Memorial Hospital parking lot. The action came shortly before midnight when commission members had so many questions and discussions between hospital officials and City Hall that they couldn't reach a decision.
Mr. and Mrs. Loren Young, 317 Oak St., Carbondale, have written a letter aiding City Hall that states, "We are not happy with the proposed parking lot. We feel it is simply a matter of having city officials hear our side of the story, at least to the best of our knowledge."
Planning consultant Howard H. Alicki, 302 S. W. Main, said the parking lot represent only three percent of the city's outline of the expansion program. The remaining expansion projects will occur within existing hospital facilities, Alicki remarked.
Another city council meeting was held Thursday night on the special planning commission meeting on Wednesday. In other action, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Alicki received permission to seek final approval from the city council for a residential day care center on Park Lane, near U.S. Highway 51 South.
The city council would cater to a maximum of 20 preschool children. Staff would consist of a minimum of two teachers and a director on duty 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.
John Stoddard of the city planning staff suggested Park Lane be widened with curbs and gutter. It would decrease traffic congestion at the intersection of Park Lane and U.S. Highway 51. Reducing the speed limit from 45 mph to 20 or 25 mph was also advised.
Commissioner Dave Christensen suggested the Alickis' special use request be granted, stipulating that a circular driveway be constructed on the Alickis' property. He also recommended an additional fire hydrant be installed on the west side of Highway 51.
A request by the Central Illinois Public Service Company to install power lines on two segments of land east of Carbondale near the city farm was also granted. The request was made by Bob Devall of the CPS Springfield office.

City government completes moves
By Tom Cheeser
Student Writer
After nearly a year city offices were consolidated into new City Hall at the University City Commons, the move, which resulted from a fire in November that destroyed the old City Hall at 222 E. Main St., was complete.
City Manager Carrol J. Fry said that the move, which included insurance which covered the total costs of the move. Some of the larger costs incurred in moving were contractor labor, materials, furniture and equipment. Demolition of the old building cost $18,500.
The new City Hall, located in the Fairfield building, is only temporary Fry said., "We have to give the west frame building a maximum of 10 years of standing." Fry said that a city hall should be located in the heart of the business district and added that it is up to the softer Fairfield building.
The City Hall holds offices of the mayor, city manager, city attorney and the law library, city planning, industrial development and Model Cities.
The City Hall was designed by the architectural firm of Edward L. Buehler. The building was designed in a modern University City complex. "Since many of the city's departments has been chosen to move here parking has been reduced to 12. Right now there are 362 parking spaces, but there should be about 630 spaces," said Fry.

Wbznu introduces bill aiding downstate schools
A bill that would add elementary and unit school districts in downstate Illinois would be added before the special session of the Illinois General Assembly on Senate Bill 842, according to Democrat Sen. Kenneth V. Buebee (D-Carbondale).
The bill allows school districts to include transportation in the calculations of state and thus increasing aid to local districts by $18 million in a state budget of $5.1 billion for the year July 1, 1985. It also reduces the maximum tax rate for state aid purposes and increases the guaranteed minimum state aid per pupil.
"This effect of this bill is that more state aid will be forthcoming with less local taxing. In the past, elementary and unit school districts have had less access to state aid," Buebee said. These same provisions were passed by the General Assembly this spring in HB 1485, but the bill was vetoed by the governor because of the other high cost provisions of the bill.
Sen. Buebee said, "This new bill will provide a more equitable distribution of state aid to downstate schools without a tax increase. The cost to the State this year will be $18 million. The overall effect of the new bill will be to remove some of the burden of school financing from the local property tax," Buebee said.

Applications available for summer jobs
Applications and information about summer jobs in federal agencies throughout the country are now available at the Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance, on the third floor Woody Hall.
To qualify for the jobs, a two-hour written examination measuring vocabulary, reading comprehension and dictation and chart interpretation skills of the applicant must be passed.
Student's whose applications are received by Dec. 12 will be scheduled to take the examination during January. Students whose applications are received after Dec. 12 and postmarked by Jan. 16 will be scheduled to take the examination during February. Applications postmarked after Jan. 16 will not be considered.

Officials to decide on 'Deep Throat'

By Mike Springer
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Whether or not SIU officials will stop a proposed showing of the pornographic film, "Deep Throat," in the Student Center will be decided in a break- fast meeting at 8:30 a.m. Friday in the Student Center.

The film, if it is shown, will be co-sponsored by the Student Government Activities Council (SGAC) Film Committee and the Expanded Cinema Group.

Brummett, whose vice president for student affairs, feels University officials have an obligation to take community decency standards into consideration because the film has never been shown in the Carbondale area.

"The film has never been shown in the Carbondale area so we don't know where the community stands," Brummett said. "I am obligated to exercise my professional standard where state money is involved. I don't feel this is the proper channel for that money to be used.

Swinburne said that the Student Center has shown X-rated films in the past.

Keith Vye, SGAC chairman, said that University students should be free to decide for themselves whether or not they wanted to view the film.

"It's our conviction, through the WIDB radio and broadcast basketball games

"This is the first time WIDB will be doing its own broadcast," said WIDB Sports Director Jim Van- diver. "As far as we have simply rebroadcast another station's feed.

VanDiver and Tom Gundale will do WIDB's play-by-play of nine of the Salukis' 12 home games. Two games will be broadcast before semester break. They are the University of Illinois, Chicago Car- dinal game on December 1 and the Virginia Commonwealth game on December 9.

Remaining games to be carried are St. Louis vs SIU on January 21, 1975, Tulsa vs. SIU on February 18, Drake University vs. SIU on February 19, the West Texas Univer- sity game scheduled for February 14, Bradley vs. SIU, Louisville vs. SIU, and Eastern Illinois University v. SIU.

"We think listeners will enjoy the games we have chosen to carry," said VanDiver. "Tulsa, of course, finished fifth in the Missouri Valley Conference in 1974-75. Drake was the Commissioners' Tourney Cham- pion and Louisville placed third in the Sun Belt.

WIDB is a current carrier radio station on off-campus dormitories and is also heard in stereo at 104 on the Cable FM system.

First and Fourth amendments to the Constitution, that people should have a choice of what they want to see and don't want to see," said Vye, a senior in cinema and photography. "It is obscene to make a decision of what people can and can't see. We are allowed 'Deep Throat' because we feel students want to see it.

A decision on whether or not to show the film was reached at a Thursday meeting because John Huffman, SIU legal counsel, had to leave that meeting to take care of prior commitments.

Richard Ruggener, University legal counsel, will replace Huffman at Friday's meeting.

Other persons attending the breakfast-meeting will be C. Thomas Buech, acting Student Cen- ter director, Harvey Welch, dean of student life and an unidentified third-year SIU law student.

"We are eager to work out a good solution with the administration," said Vye. "It isn't like we've done such others' threats.

WIDB radio will broadcast Saluki basketball home games in December.

Long-range goals necessary to culturally integrate disabled

By Lucky Lee Ophelder
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

At the National Rehabilitation Association's annual meeting held at Cincinnati, Ohio, October 13-15, Richard Sand of Behavior Modification Institute of Rehabilitation, stressed the importance of the concept of "preseableness" as a goal for the Work Activities Client.

In an interview Monday, Sanders said that Work Activities Clients have always been defined by administration and staff as individuals for whom competitive employment is not considered a viable training objective. Sanders told the Ohio meeting emphasis should be placed on a uniform training goal and not simply caring for and training the clients at the centers. He stated the meeting that progress has been slow in providing services to the Work Activities Clients because of a lack of direction.

"Although there are funds for the clients to participate in various programs and efficient methods for training the clients, the need for an overall goal cannot be overemphasized," Sanders said.

"Sanders also said that he is convinced there are cultural, societal or environmental attitudes blocking the development of goal setting for the clients. "I believe that the source of our difficulty resides in the fact that by far and away the majority of the people are uncomfortable about our clients," Sanders said.

He explained that there is a culturally determined negative attitude associated with clients. "This is represented by the fact that society has developed a cultural norm and societal mechanism for segregating our clients," Sanders said.

Sanders said the outcome of this negative attitude is that parents feel reluctant to bring their children because of the stigma that society has attached to them. He said that until society, at large, drops its negative attitudes towards the clients and other groups of individuals, little real progress can be made.

"I proposed that the best job we can do for our clients is to enhance the decay of the primitive cultural attitude by making society more comfortable with the clients," he said.

Sanders said he had talked on the same topic in May at the Midwest Analysis of Behavior Association in Chicago. "The Chicago talk generated a great interest and a request was made that I should make a presentation at the National Rehabilitation Association in Cincinnati, Ohio," Sanders said.

Committee seeks graduation fee hike

By Jane Ellen Lytle
Student Writer

The University Commonwealth Committee has recommended a $4 increase in undergraduate and a $1 increase in graduate student graduation fees become effective "as soon as possible."

An 8-page document calling for a $3 graduation fee for all students was sent to Vice President of Academic Affairs Frank Horton. Further recommendations include removal of cap and gown rental purchase for announcements from commencement fee and a shortened program.

Study says many in U.S. functionally illiterate

WASHINGTON (AP)—Calling the results "unprecedented," the principal said that one out of every five American adults in the working age group can't read or write. This is the scope of problems that is increasingly difficult to define," he said.

"Unless you have a chairman in there doing what he or she thinks is necessary the Human Relations Commission will fall apart."

Mayor Neal Eckert, acknowledging that the city has received "no blatant racial complaints," expressed concern that the HRC was not a group effort.

"Every year one or two persons are doing all the work," he said, adding that most of the HRC activities have been public relations activities instead of human relations activities.

"I do not see how a group of people are going to identify the problems as lay people when you have to hire a person to tell you what they are," Eckert said.

Human Relations Commission meets to discuss future plans

By Laura Coleman

Only one active member of the city's troubled Human Relations Commission (HRC) showed up for its first meeting in three Fridays Wednesday night.

The purpose of the meeting was to discuss with the city council the commission's future. The only active member of the 15-member commission who attended was Ingrid Gadway. Also attending were three former chairpersons of the commission, Else Speck Ed O'Day and Bruce Buzz Talbot, who resigned from the commission in March.

The group discussed what, if anything, the HRC should be doing to realize its goals and whether a full time person should be hired to take charge of human relations-related activities for the city.

Microfilming card files completed, says dean

Microfilming the 2.5 million cards in Morris Library's undergraduate card catalogue took six weeks to complete. Ingrid Cole, assistant to the Dean of Library Affairs, said. The film project was completed in eighteen regional libraries around the state as part of the University System Library System, Cole said. The information will allow persons in any part of the state to see what is in the card file and to order if they need it. Cole said only three other libraries in the state have their catalogues distributed in such a manner. The four libraries together are know as Research and Reference Libraries. Cole said.

"It was to be expected that library officials would like microfilmed copies of the card catalogue at each floor of Morris Library, but funds for the project are not available, Cole said. However, funds are being requested and should the project be completed during the next fiscal year.

Emotions in competition theme of ‘Young Bucks’

By Judy Vandezande
Daily Vandal Staff Writer

“Winning isn’t everything, it’s only the start,” Vaisey Lombardi’s legendary statement has probably appeared in every locker room in the country. The words hit home for a high school coach of a youth basketball team in the Southern Player’s Production “Young Bucks.” The play will be presented at 8 p.m. Nov. 12 and 13 at the Laboratory Theatre in the Communications Building.

The action opens with the Bangino Bucks, a team that can win because of a new head coach who meets the job. John Kunik is the play’s author.explained. All the team members are involved in their own personal problems. Kunik describes the play as “A big combination of all sorts of pressure.” The added pressure of tournament competition produces constant conflict.

A whole lot of ego’s are jammed together in a little locker room” where all the action takes place. Kunik said. Personal problems explode under the mounting pressure.

There is some comic relief in the “realistic drama” but the overall mood is one of tension. Kunik said. “Young Bucks” is SIU’s entry in the American College Theatre Festival competition. A panel of out-of-town judges will view the play to decide if it will advance to the Midwest Region competition in Milwaukee. If the play is rated one of the best productions then it will be presented at the John F. Kennedy Center in Washington D.C.

Tickets are available at the Theatre Box Office in the Communications Building or may be purchased at the door. On “Student Nights,” Nov. 12 and Nov. 13 admission is 35 cents for SIU students. General admission is $1.50.

Extra funds approved to ‘resurrect’ cemetery

By Terri Bradford
Daily Vandal Staff Writer

The Carbondale City Council Monday approved $2,771 additional funds for restoration of Woodlawn Cemetery. The council had previously approved $4,300 to a $2,000 grand awarded in January, 1974, by the Illinois Bicentennial Commission for the project.

Woodlawn Cemetery was the site of the first community observance of Memorial Day on April 20, 1866. Coordinated locally by the cemetery committee of the Carbondale Bicentennial Commission, plans include monument restoration, surfacing an 1,886 square foot path with crushed rock and enhancing the landscape with plants and trees.

Sidewalk work is directed by contractor Louis Culle with monument cleaning and repair conducted by Randolph Monument Works ofsville.

T.P. council schedules dance

A semi-formal dance sponsored by the Thompson Point Executive Council will be held Saturday at the Marine Family Inn. The band, The Twist, will provide music from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Transportation for TP residents will be provided with the purchase of a ticket. Buses will leave Thompson Point at Lents Hall at 7:45 and 8:30 p.m. Return trips will be made at 10 and 11 p.m.

Tickets, which cost $2 in advance and $2.50 at the door, include free beer and hors d’oeuvres at the dance. Mixed drinks may be purchased at the bar.

This should be the social event of the year,” said Cindy Elliott, Thompson Point president. “Dress should be semi-formal. No blue jeans allowed.”

“We don’t intend to make a profit from this dance,” Elliott said. “We want residents of Thompson Point to attend the function and enjoy themselves. We are using some of their activity fees to pay for the dance,” Elliott said.

A similar dance was sponsored by Thompson Point last year, she said. Residents responded favorably to that dance and on a questionnaire distributed this year many residents requested another Point-wide semi-formal dance.

in the Carbondale Christian Church and later the main entrance of Southern Illinois University, will guard the cemetery entrance. The funds were donated to the city by Bill Marbery, 1111 Hill St.

The building from brick salvaged from the former City Hall will be located in one of the square gardens. A 210 square foot Cemetery entrance could be built for handling of the arcade which will also be constructed.

Another possible projects will be installation of standard 175 watt lights on冈 Gang and Logan St. to help prevent vandalism and placing a power source for garden lights which will also be installed.

A glass case will protect a map depicting lot ownership and markers.

Project completion is estimated is May 30, 1976, according to Nancy Baumgart, city planning secretary.

Cash register bells ring for future brides

Kewoodscope, 30 S. Illinois Ave., has also had two or three registrants during the last year. "Usually the girls don't make a formal list but go by word-of-mouth," Carolyn Tschomkeff, owner, said. Most select dishes and place settings.

Weddings gifts are big business. Brides in 1972 received a total of $89.7 million in sterling flatware, $101.9 million in china dinnerware, and $84.1 million in crystal.

'...it's partly traditional to register, but mainly it is just things I wouldn't buy for myself--luxuries, but I'll use them everyday, bride to be Murphy said.
When the brides are through selecting, they are followed by friends and relatives choosing their idea of a good gift--and the cash registers just keep ringing. Do I hear bells?

Rose Bowl spots questionable

By Fred Reithenberg

AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK AP — Casting for Hollywood's ancient spectacular, "The Rose Bowl," has begun in earnest. The surprise around cinematic circles is that there is still a lot of competition for the lead romantic role.

As usual, the heavy will be played by Woody Hayes of Ohio State or Bo Schenckbecher of Michigan, as the Big Ten, once again, draws its star from the George Patton school of acting.

"Out West in the Pac-8, there is a mad scramble for who will play beauty to the Big Ten's beast. Football schools remain in the running and all of them think their appearance in the big Jan. 1 extravaganza would be pure box office.

"California, 3-1 in the Pac-8, has agents playing for that stock, and they are dreaming of winning the big bowl.

"The California agents have been telling the Rose Bowl directors that long hair and a beard is a must for the lead role.

"The big Jan. 1 extravaganza would be of the same importance to the Pac-8 as the Big Ten's "Four Horsemen" Bowl was to the Big Ten.

"Schembechler (from the George Patton school of agents) would be loaded with a lot of time and miles to throw in the race around campus lake at the big Jan. 1 extravaganza would be of the same importance to the Pac-8 as the Big Ten's "Four Horsemen" Bowl was to the Big Ten.

"No. 3 Southern California at Illinois: No more Monday off's, vowed Woody Hayes, after his Buckeyes went undramatically against Indiana last week. Illinois gets crushed Saturday by the Buckeyes and their work ethic - Ohio State 42, Illinois 7.

"Kansas at No. 2 Oklahoma, which hasn't lost since the second week of the season, really is starting the range? Now Norman finally returns to Norman, with Nebraska two weeks around the corner. Oklahoma 49, Kansas 10.

"No. 3 Nebraska at Kansas State: Point spread here represents psychological earring for the big game against Oklahoma Nov. 22. Somers beat Kansas State 24-3. Cornhuskers lack for that scare by halftime - Nebraska 42, Kansas State 10.

"Southern Methodist at No. 4 Texas A&M: Everything comes in larger sizes in Texas, including revenge. SMU's 18-14 victory last year is A&M's inspiration now - Texas A&M 30, Southern Methodist 10.

Duo steps into hurt Moore's position

By Scott Burnside
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

It is going to take two players to replace Ivy Love and David Short as the Salukis go against Arkansas State University at War Memorial Stadium in Little Rock, Ark.

Moore broke his wrist Saturday during the game against Drake University.

Besides missing Moore's abilities as a wide receiver and kickoff return specialist, the Salukis will miss his leadership qualities.

Coach Doug Weaver said, "We're going to miss him for more than just his physical abilities. He's a team man all the way and a great moral man, too. When you love talent like that, it always something you can't replace."

The Salukis will alternate Lawrence Love and David Short as wide receivers against the Indians. Love, a junior, has seen limited action as a receiver, but freshman Short has been used primarily on kickoff returns.

Saturday against Drake Love was the leading receiver, catching two passes for 80 yards and a touchdown. Short returned two kickoffs for a total of 35 yards.

Receiver coach Bob Halley said the Salukis have been using Love as a wide receiver on different occasions, especially when Moore lined up as a tight end.

Halley said both Short and Love have speed, but are a step behind Moore. He said Short ran the 100-yard dash in 10 seconds while in high school and Love was the low hurdles state champion in Mississippi.

According to Halley, the change in receivers should not effect quarterback Leonard Hopkins throwing.

"It's just a matter of Leonard's experience with Ivy, and his confidence in Ivy. Those changes will be mostly psychological for Leonard. He's been working with them (Short and Love) in practice," said Halley.

Carbondale boosters to host Saluki basketball

SU's 1975 basketball team will give its first public performance Friday at Carbondale Community High School's Bowen Gym in an intrasquad game.

The Salukis will take the floor at 1 p.m. for the preliminary Squads game. The Squads' wholehearted play will put the high school's Booster Club at 2 p.m. at halftime of the intrasquad game, the members of the CUSS football team will be introduced.

Saluki coach Paul Lambert has split his squad into three teams for the game. (Unmarked) Sam Cutler and Monte Pitcher, Mac Turner, Mel Hughett, Gary Wilson, Gary Fittsammons and Mark Winter.

Making up another team are Tommie Harris, Corky Abrams, Dan Knecht, Al Williams, Mitt Huggins and Richard Ford. The third team will be walk-ons. Jim Bolden, Mark Garcia, Ben Dickens, Tom Beals and Fred Banks.

"We have everything we need to be successful," said Lambert.

The intrasquad game is being sponsored by the Booster Club, with all proceeds going to the high school's athletic fund. This will be the first time in recent years that SIU has played an intrasquad game at the high school.

Admission is 50 cents for both games.

Seaman adds to marks in erratic season

By Mark Kazlowski
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Ken Seaman gets a kick out of what he does.

But the SIU junior field goal kicker isn't getting as much out of his duties for the Salukis as he'd like.

Seaman has been what he describes as "erratic" this season in his place kicking chores, missing only five of 10 field goal attempts and six of 40 points.

Most football watchers would agree that 50 per cent in the field goal department barely qualifies a college player for a pre-game media ticket.

Seaman has made two of three attempts from inside the 20 yard line and three of three from between the 30 and 40, one of three from between the 40 and 49 and one from 50 yards and beyond.

For a player who was on Playboy's "Player to Watch" list last year, that's not much of a kick.

Seaman has not quite filled the bill.

Last season Seaman was perfect in 12 extra points attempts but made only seven of 17 field goal attempts. He led the low scoring team a year ago with seven points.

Short has had only one pass thrown at him during a game situation, and he caught the aerial so far this season he is operating at a thousand per cent capacity as a wide receiver.

Ivy is a great receiver, there's no question about it," said Short. "It's quite a position for me to step into."

During his senior year in high school, Short was a running back but he was a wide receiver as a junior.

"All I've got to do Saturday is to keep cool. Ivy has taught me a lot this season. He takes me to the sidelines and talks to me during practice," Short says.

As for his skills. Short thinks his biggest asset is his quickness. "I think I'm pretty quick and I can get open and if I can get a hand on the ball I should catch it. Ivy has told me that if the quarterback gets the ball out there, it's the receiver's job to catch it."

Hopkins has been working with Short on practice, getting used to the shorter receiver's style. Hopkins said, "Dave's quite a bit shorter than Ivy (Short is 5-foot-10, five inches shorter than Moore), but Dave's his quick and with his small size, he should get open.

Concerning Love's abilities, Hopkins said, "We've had a lot success throwing a high curl patterns to Love and he's caused the ball. I've seen that the players have busted their tails in practice this week."

Kazually speaking

Seaman is already tied with Ralph Galloway and Goodman for most field goals in a game with three. The right-footed sidekine has accomplished that feat twice this season.

Seaman's record for most field goals in a season with 11 which he set as a freshman. He is tied for the most points with each game. He has 23 in three seasons.

Seaman also holds the mark for most extra points in one game with 10 in the 29-2 rout over Xavier in 1973.

As for the remaining games this season, Seaman commented, "I've got all the confidence in the world if we get the chances. We would like to upset one of these two teams (Arkansas State and Bowling Green)."

With a 1-6-1 record and three games remaining, it's a little late for the Salukis to have a respectable season.

Seaman's估计 that at the end of the season to judge a team's performance and he seemed to think that victories at the season's end could shed a little light on an otherwise gloomy season.
