Student Senate election date set

By Barry Cleveland
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Student Senate elections will be held Wednesday, Nov. 10, it was decided at the Senate meeting Wednesday night.

Until that date, the Senate will operate with nearly a third of its membership depleted. The Senate constitution provides for 27 senators.

Resignations of two senators were accepted. The seats of Randy McCarthy and John Boggs have been added to the list of vacancies, which has now reached at least nine.

The Student Affairs committee submitted a report in part requesting the resignation of Greg Vertrees from the Senate. The resignation was requested on the grounds that Vertrees is no longer a full-time student, according to Tim Gianoulis, student body vice president-elect.

A move which prompted some criticism by senators, who contended that no provision in the Senate by-laws or constitution grants the vice president such powers.

Chattanora has not been present at either of the two Senate meetings and is reported to be on his way to the army.

In other action, the Senate passed a resolution directing the Student Rights and Responsibilities committee to inquire into the operation of the Computer Services Committee.

A by-law amendment was passed providing for impeachment of a senator by a two-thirds vote after that senator misses more than two regular Senate meetings or more than two committee sessions per quarter.

Dave Maguire, assistant student body president and parliamentarian of the Senate, submitted a list of University Committees and subcommittees for which vacancies exist. Persons desiring to serve on these committees should contact Maguire at the student government office, 530-2341.

A list was submitted on behalf of Camille detailing tentative appointments to various committees, councils and boards.

The Senate refused to pass a resolution endorsing next week's moratorium sponsored by the Student Mobilization Committee. The resolution was tabled, thus effectively killing it, since the moratorium will be held October 12, the date of the next Senate meeting.

Letter cites laxity on part of teachers for "party"

By Chuck Hostechnick
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Laxness on the part of teachers was discussed along with the idea of terminating contracts until the end of the term of teachers who leave before the quarter is over.

Talley said, "This won't go over well with the faculty," he said, "but it makes sense to me."

In his letter, Talley said, "It is the considered opinion of one University administrator that one of the causes of the September 4th 'street party' was the slow start up of the classwork on the part of many teachers.

"I think it should go without saying that we expect each teacher to hold each class session with a full plan for constructive use of the whole period."

"Reports of many classes not meeting when there is no exigence—inept students or partial attendance—makes our whole approach seem to belittle the function of teaching."

Talley said failure to do the same thing, including failure to meet during assigned exam times, "contributes to the same end."

The letter asked instructors to give advance notice of when they would be absent from class to their department chairman, so someone else could be found to cover. "Alright, the teacher should indicate any steps he has taken to cover the work missed at that session, if no substitute can be found."

Absence at the end of the quarter could be excused after consulting with a department chairman who would report the circumstances and his approval to the dean."

"All of you who do your work conscientiously and well will not object, I think, to our checking on any of your colleagues who feel they are hired just to do as they please with no real responsibility to the community or the University," Talley said in his letter.

No guarantee of vote for students

By Dave Mahamun
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A long-haired youth walked into the Union Lobby on Monday, October 8, and asked to be registered to vote. It was his 18th birthday. 8

"I just had a problem registering," Ward said. "We don't count out-of-town students unless they're in the Student Association," 8

Ward's assertion that most students have to register to vote in Jackson County comes in the wake of criticism of Ward's method of registering students from other Illinois counties filed by the Committee on Illinois Government and Campaign Finance (CIG). The CIG contends that Ward has not explained the registration requirements that the constitution allows.

In addition to the registration requirements cited are:

- the student's parents must reside in the same county as the school he is attending.

Illiinois Avenue will remain open

By Dave Mahamun
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The City of Carbondale will not voluntarily close South Illinois Avenue and re-route traffic this weekend, but will attempt to keep the street open with police patrols.

The Carbondale City Council made its decision after two hours of discussion Thursday night. The final vote was split two-for-two and against closing the street when Mayor Neil Eckert decided to keep the street open.

"I can't see any way to justify the closing of the street," he said.

Eckert said in announcing his decision. "Activities must be planned but not on a street highway. The street will stay open."

Tuesday night's open discussion of the issue was ending. Maybe we don't understand," Eckert said. "Let. George run the street. And we'll see what happens."

Contestants George Karm and Clark Vineyard voted to close the street. The two differed, however, in how they would police the area. Karm suggested keeping police patrols. Vineyard favored police patrolling.

A student body President George Cameron told the Council he favored keeping the street open. "Every student has the right to travel the street," Dahn said.

Free Clinic story correction

A story about the Carbondale Free Clinic in the Daily Egyptian Wednesday incorrectly stated that no local physicians other than Dr. Bruce Hector are affiliated with the clinic.

Joel Lee, medical coordinator of the clinic, said that besides Hector, who is the clinic's chief physician, two others, Dr. Lelan Sallings and Dr. Charles Russka, are now working with the clinic.

Other physicians working with the clinic in the past include Dr. Nilda Danger, now practicing in St. Louis, and Dr. Martin Golder, a psychiatrist at Anna State Hospital. The clinic also received some assistance from the help of all the people the clinic would have had to come

A proposal for prisons

By Arthur Hoppe

Reform is in the air. The violence at San Quentin and Attica has appalled the public. Something must be done.

Unfortunately, the public is divided on which direction to turn.

A few leading hearts are surprisingly sensitive to the plight of prisoners in the country's worst Penal Institutions. But most Americans, of course, feel the only prison reform we need is tougher vengeance on escapees.

The problem here is that we expect our prisons to do the punishment, not criminals at the same time.

Now, as everybody knows, prisons have done a pretty good job of punishing inmates. The high recidivism rate proves it. There are far more effective methods of punishment readily at hand.

Thus, if our prisons are neither rehabilitating nor punishing, let's abandon the first step in prison reform, obviously, is to abolish prisons.

Once we have done away with costly, troublesome, ineffective prisons, we can turn our attention to drawing up a list of punishments that fit the crime.

These would be administered in State-approved Punishment Centers. Following a speedy trial and conviction, the criminal would be dispatched to such a center. There he would be quickly and efficiently punished as prescribed by law. And he would be released as soon as he was physically able to travel.

Ideally, the punishment would be televised during prime time. We would thereby provide interesting entertainment to millions of Americans, but the educational impact would be tremendous.

Watching a slobbering having his tongue cut out in living color would go a long way toward making any criminal think twice before speaking ill of his trade.

From this we see the punishment should not only fit the crime, it should prevent the criminal from committing the same crime again. Capital punishment, the only form of punishment we now inflict, is a good example of this thesis. Statistics show that less than one per cent of convicted killers subjected to capital punishment ever kill again.

So if we can kill killers to deter them from killing, there is no reason we shouldn't cut off the fingers of pornographers, the ears of those who listen to subversives, the right feet of speeders and both legs of jay-walkers. As for those fiends who seethe and rape young maidens, the penalty is obvious: lopping off, cruel enough, the same as the war.

Draw and quarter a few hundred pot smokers.

Squeeze on the search?

To the Daily Egyptian:

President Laver has announced that SUI is now facing a budget squeeze. The squeeze is so severe that vacant staff positions will not be filled, and recruitment will be abandoned.

This has me wondering if the costly job of finding a University president will also be stopped for want of funds. I certainly hope so. If that search has been stopped it will show that the administration is trying to practice what it preaches.

Fight the irrational

To the Daily Egyptian:

Mr. Whitehead's concern is unwarranted. Cynics would even say that Mr. Whitehead is setting up strawmen. He's being over-reacted to by outside agencies. His enemies are within. As a matter of fact, outside threats—if they are really such—would strengthen the concepts of freedom and the proud possessors of this beautiful commodity become more aware of their privileges and conscious of their responsibilities.

A classroom is not a platform or a theater. It is not designed to advance one's prejudices or for playing out one's own fantasies. It is a shrine where the senator and junior learner come together for a stated, restricted and clearly defined purpose. Exploration of ideas, currents and any other pertinent material within these confines in valid teaching. But surely academic freedom does not mean the excluding the variety of "Rumarts" in a class supposed to teach the "Navya" system.

To answer criticism by name-calling is a manifestation of personal inferiority. I do not mean that Mr. Whitehead evinced this. I only suggest that the civil liberty. The little person who came to learn a particular subject at a particular time and also paid for it, must also be protected.

Time for questions

To the Daily Egyptian:

Perhaps it is now time for SUI's 60,000+ student body to be informed of what is happening in the residence halls. Probably the President eventually shows that in colleges as well as prisons, "high-ups" begin answering questions only when a great many people begin asking them. Someone might uncover the seemingly obscure logical explanation as to why this illegality is taking place.

Change is too slow

To the Daily Egyptian:

Perhaps the most important change necessary in the Catholic Church today is the election of bishops and a length of time of men (or women) who would serve as bishops and also an election of the Pope by more than the cardinals and a length of time a Pope would serve.

Throughout history it is clear that allowing Popes and bishops to serve until death has been a mistake. Some Popes have served much too long. Others have tried to serve despite a great variety of physical and emotional ailments. The same for bishops.

Because of the advance age of the Bishop of Belleville and the endless rumors about his resignation (which I do not believe) there has been increased interest in the Belleville diocese about who will select the next Bishop of Belleville. The people of God of Southern Illinois deserve a voice in the selection of their next bishop.

The Pope warned the Bishops gathered in Rome about the dangers of change. All Catholic Church history teaches us that the Church was too fast to change. Too fast to change and again. When was the Catholic Church too fast to change? Yet ignoring history, Pope Paul wants against change.

The seventy-four-year-old Pope talks about the need for change being born on the way to Rome. In fact, of course, is the collected wisdom and spiritual sense of the people of God; priests and religious and "or" of the major of Carpenters. The Pope uses his own pressure to keep the Church from changing, but he does not call that pressure. Pope Paul's encyclical on birth control was a disaster for the Catholic Church and for the papacy itself. I hope and pray that Pope Paul will reform his attitude and deUCE again do great harm to the Catholic Church.

He said that there had been plans for a new movie to be produced for the multimedia show, that that last minute changes and budget cuts meant it was impossible for it to be made. The slide show was put together to replace it, Blake said.

Blake explained that the attendance was held down by the rain, and that, under those conditions and the available budget, the program was the best they had done.

Blake added that this year's program was an important one for next year's. The traditional format of a periodical of speakers at the main meeting had been dropped, he said, with a few of the highlights being presented in the form of the multimedia show taking its place.

Changes are under way for next year's orientation, Blake said, with transfer students undergoing a separate orientation program.

In the article, "Student Housing: Community University Model" gives Students Educational Freedom. Self-Support System, Benson advocates a "learning by doing" type of student life discipline, rather than having other persons determine what students will study: where and how they will live; how, when and where students will study; where and how they will live; how, when and where they will be fed and other such basic decisions.

Kissinger’s Red China visit unaffected by internal acts

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Dr. Henry A. Kissinger’s coming trip to Red China says a good deal about possibilities for future relations between the United States and Peking. It seems also to lessen the importance of the current “What’s going on in China?” mystery.

The announcement of Kissinger’s plans, which is not a secret, is a signal to the world that Red China means to establish effective communications with the United States, regardless of political conditions.

It suggests that world-wide speculation about enigmatic goings-on in connection with the Oct. 1 National Day developments inside China don’t prevent plans for President Nixon’s trip from moving ahead.

Peking says Nixon’s chief security adviser will be in Red China sometime in the last 10 days of October to prepare for the presidential journey. The trip is expected to take two days.

Any four days in that period will represent a crucial time in U.S. debate on China’s seat. If the issue is not decided by then the vote will be left.

Only a day before the announcement of the new Kissinger mission, Secretary of State William P. Rogers in a major U.S. policy speech had strongly upheld the Chinese-Kuomintang regime’s claim to rejoin membership. The speech reflected the U.S. continued support for Taiwan.

Only a few days ago Rogers voiced concerns that Chinese developments could affect the presidential trip. Can the trip might have been dictated by a major U.S. policy change in view of the 10-year regime’s enigmatic moves.

These moves included cancellation of the National Day parade and banquets, cancellation of army leaves and commercial flights, emission of a major policy statement and slightly lessened emphasis on Mao’s personality.

There are signs that the decisions resulted from a week of high-level party meetings beginning in mid-September if there had been a rapprochement the top leaders might not have been ready to make it known. Thus the parade and banquet would be cancelled to remove any need to reprimand the leaders by rank.

As for hinted emphasis on the leader, Mao himself was reported not long ago to have expressed worry that the adulation was out of control. Perhaps with Mao’s blessing the pragmatists are ready to start a cautiously gradual deflation of the cult. At a time when Red China hopes to win over Western capitals with a veto-wielding seat in the United Nations, it might make political sense, too, to show the world that the party still rules.

Such a trend could serve alarm among elements who have been more Maoist than Mao and who also might resist the idea of a Washington-Peking relationship as a symbol of the revolution. A rapprochement in the party would be hampered with the apparent release of Nan She."

Lorek ends libel suit

Carbondale Attorney Ted Lorek has dropped his libel suit against Jackson County State's Attorney Richard Richman "with prejudice," meaning there will be no further action in the suit.

Lorek filed suit against Richman last May, asking $100,000 from Richman and $50,000 from two student tenants, Mark E. Leach and Richard Johnson, who rented from Lorek.

The suit charged false and malicious action by the defendants against Lorek, in connection with charges of criminal housing management filed against Lorek by the two tenants through Richman's office. The tenants filed suit against Lorek May 17, claiming Lorek allowed proper to 605 S. Logan St. Carbondale to become a health hazard.

Lorek claimed in his suit that the tenants were at fault. The tenants suit is still pending in circuit court.

Officer selection slated by GSC

The selection of a temporary president will be the main feature of the Graduate Students Council (GSC) meeting at 3 p.m. Friday in Bulletin A of the Student Center.

Joe Vinnepen, the present president, said he will resign Friday. The temporary president will serve until officer elections are held. Nominations for president, vice president, secretary-treasurer and two executive council members at large will be taken at the meeting. The election of officers will take place at the following meeting. All the officers must be representatives appointed or elected by their departments.

In addition to the selection of a president and the nomination of officers, selection of graduate students to fill various committee posts will also take place. A review of the past year's activities also is scheduled.

Sackle and the others. He's written about these, researched about them for many years."

Allen said that he had once told Chemisky that Center personnel had stated that they were merely academic. According to Allen, Chemisky "broke out laughing and Crying."

"He said that it was misconceived that Wesley Finchel could be un

Chemisky had mentioned Milton Sachs' theories critically in one of his books — "American Power and the New Mandarins," and according to Allen, he "personally defended and supported him."

"He thinks what these people do is criminal," Allen said. "These people benefit from the exploitation of other human beings."

The other part of Chemisky's appeal to the Center, according to Allen, is in its funding by the Agency for International Development.

"He knows a lot about it," Allen commented. "He is one of the leading writers, now about U.S. plans to defeat and control the Vietnamese AID is one of the main agencies responsible for destruction of Vietnamese society."

Chemisky knew these agencies backward and forward. Allen added. It would be difficult to talk about an academic agency funded by AID.

According to Allen, Chemisky met with and discussed the Center controversy simultaneously shortly after the Center for Vietnamese Studies was formed.

The Center had used Chemisky's name on a list of speakers for one of his Ph.D. candidates eligible for grant Eligibility for the fellowships requires that a student complete his dissertation within four years after beginning graduate study.

The fellowships provide $250 per month for up to 15 months, plus a discretionary grant for special research needs and a dependency allowance for children.

Deadline for receipt of the applications is Jan. 16, 1972. They may be picked up at the office of John M. H. Olmsted, dean of graduate studies and research, in Woody Hall.

CARBONDALE TO HAVE NEW POSTAL FACILITIES

A new post office is in the offing for the Carbondale area.

According to Robert Goforth, postmaster of the post office at Main Street and University Avenue, the new facility will be a sectional center, handling mail for Southern Illinois north of Du Quoin.

The new facility is under construction east of Postley's on Route 12.

There are 86 post offices under the Carbondale sectional center, said Goforth, which send out mail by truck each night to Carbondale, where it is consolidated and shipped out.

Under the reorganized postal service, Carbondale, said Goforth, is one of 16 sectional centers under the District Post Office in Evansville. Ind. Higher still, he said, is the Regional Post Office in Chicago, which covers 13 midwestern states and is under a new reorganization.

At present, Goforth said, what the new building will encompass is not entirely known. However, he said, it will not totally replace the present one, with windows and has service possibly being retained in the old building.

One possible feature of the new building, Goforth said, is a program for area mail processing, which has been implemented in many other sectional centers around the country.

Under this new program, said Goforth, area mail offices under Carbondale will not cancel, face mail from their offices. Rather, the mail will be picked up out of drug boxes and sent to Carbondale for processing, where a gigantic letter-sorting machine will process the mail automatically.

Goforth said the processing could be done at a rate of 80,000 pieces per hour, and that the mail would never be touched by human hands until it was ready for delivery.

However, he said, in order to make such a process feasible, the Carbondale office would have to handle a considerable volume of mail. At present, Goforth does not know whether Carbondale has such equipment.

Goforth added that because of the new reorganization of the postal system, it is difficult to say exactly what is planned for the new Carbondale office or even when it will be completed.

Goforth, however, said he expects it to be ready by Christmas, 1972.

BLACK THEATER GROUP IS GETTING AID

Contrary to statements in a story in the Daily Egyptian Wednesday about a new Black Theater group, the theater faculty is not supporting the program with money and other forms of aid, according to Terry Browne, assistant professor of theatre.

Browne, who is advisor to the Black Theater group, said the department has encouraged development of the program and is now supporting it by providing space, props, makeup, costumes, set pieces, technical services and probably sever hundred dollars.

Browne said the theater faculty approved the department's aid to the student-organized group.

"We're helping them with equipment and services but letting them alone artistically," he said.

Socialists to sponsor controversial speaker

A vote for Linda Jamison is a vote for equal education, economic freedom and an end to the Vietnam War—for says the Socialist literature that publicizes the presidential candidate of the Socialist Workers Party.

She will speak at 7 p.m. Saturday in the Morrison Library. The meeting with Miss Jamison promises to be controversial, said John Centre, member of the Young Socialist Alliance at SIU, who is sponsoring the speech.

Miss Jamison has been active in the women's movement, serving as an officer of the Washington, D.C., Mobilization Committee during 1967 and on the steering committee of the Atlanta Mobilization Committee in 1968. She has taken part in many demonstrations as a spokesperson for the Socialist Workers Party in including the antiwar demonstration in San Francisco on April 15, 1970. She unsuccessfully ran for mayor of Atlanta and governor of Georgia on the socialist ticket.

In the spring of 1971, she toured the country speaking for women's liberation and was active in the Emily University women's lib group.

Miss Jamison has authored numerous articles which have appeared in The Militant, a weekly socialist newspaper. She has also written several pamphlets, including "Women in Cuba" and contributed frequently to the International Socialist Review.

Her tentative topics for discussion include the role of journalism and women's liberation as a force in American politics.

Book Bank arranging for book donations

After a successful year sending 4,000 books to Hong Kong University in Seoul, Korea, Book Bank is beginning its second season in combat illiteracy in the world, according to Chikako Yamada, organizing secretary of Book Bank.

Kumara Ratnam said the organization, which began in 1965, will send 10,000 books this year to one of the easternmost countries of Africa, probably Uganda. He said, however, that his goal was flexible and that, if possible, other countries would also receive books.

Ratnam said that the main function of Book Bank is to provide access where people can study, thus fulfilling a mission of spreading knowledge. That is an attempt to cut the world of illiteracy. He said that Book Bank is in its formative stage and is right now focusing on an administrative aspect.

According to Ratnam, any kind of book will be accepted from anyone and they should be brought to University Center, 3rd and Main North, MacLean University. Inquiries should be addressed to Ratnam.

Land is scarce

The plan includes homes for 6,000 people and office and industrial buildings. The $3.5 billion project would include about $10 million a year in

Filmdom's capital gets its own flick fest

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - After 40 years as center of moviemaking, Hollywood is finally getting its own film festival.

Except that it isn't called a festival. And it's not about Hollywood. It's called the First Los Angeles International Film Exposition.

Over the years many a public-spirited citizen, as well as some publicity-seekers, have proposed that Hollywood sponsor its own "festival" to show the films of other countries. Finally it made sense, since Hollywood is considered the movie capital of the world.

The Los Angeles Festival, nicknamed FILMEX, had its origins in a tour by veteran director George Cukor. The Motion Picture Academy sent him to filming capitals of the world to investigate how countries subsidize their entries for the foreign-language film award. Cukor learned much about film festivals in his travels.

What good do festivals accomplish?

Their adherents argue that festivals reward film excellence by honoring past accomplishments and recognizing present ones. Selection by festival boards brings prestige to a film and, sometimes, greater receipts in the world market.

The founders realized from past experience that festival plans had failed because backing was not wide enough, says Gary Essett, FILMEX director. "So all of the major organizations in the film community were contacted."

"All were hesitant to make the first step. Finally the academic said 'Yes, we will participate if you can get four other organizations.' Then all the others fell in," said Essett.

It couldn't be called the Hollywood Film Festival because a local production had been using that title. The board of trustees, who include Cukor, Norman Corwin, Walter Wanger, Rosalind Russell, King Vidor and critic Arthur Knight, decided to broaden the geographical base and name it after Los Angeles.

But the Nov. 4-4 4 event will wear the unmistakable stamp of Hollywood.

"We'll show approximately 17 new films and 17 vintage films, some of which will be followed by symposiums featuring the film makers," said Essett. "We will also have a program of student films and another of animation as well as two children's shows."

Unlike most other festivals, FILMEX will be noncompetitive - no prizes given. Judging is in $300 00 and the sponsors believe the affair will be self-supporting.

OK on phosphates causes dilemma

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Nixon administration's decision that it's all right after all, to use phosphates in laundry detergents leaves the housewife in the U.S. caught between concerns for the environment and protecting her family's health.

"What are you supposed to do?" asked a young Los Angeles housewife.

"They've been telling us phosphates are bad for the environment and I don't want to contribute to water pollution. But my family's health comes first.""What are you supposed to do?" asked a young Los Angeles housewife.

Reform is needed

Prison officials state cause of unrest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The size of the penal institutions and nature of today's prisoners are among the reasons why prison officials are concerned about the welfare of the prison officials for recent penitentiary disturbances.

Charles Fenton, assistant warden of the federal penitentiary at Marion, Ill., said that New York and Illinois could go to 500-man institutions — such as Marion — if society would only decrease its problems.

Fenton, calling eight-year-old Marion one of the most modern prisons in the world, said the smaller population allows a lot closer and more meaningful staff-prisoner interaction.

He said in an institution of 2,000 inmates such as the prison in Attica, N.Y., scene of mass rioting last month, a convict can successfully avoid contact with the prison staff.

Inclusion included among the larger, older prisons the state penitentiary at Pontiac, Ill., scene of weekend fighting which left nine inmates and 10 guards injured. Pontiac has some 1,000 inmates and traces its history to 1871 when it was founded as a reform school. It became a state penitentiary in 1893.

Fenton said the cost of making basic security and reform moves becomes prohibitive. "To take the place of a 2,500-inmate prison would take four places like this Marion," he said, and cost "billions of dollars."

Fenton suggested another problem with decreasing reform is the diversity of penal systems around the world.

Reformers "are talking about one model," but there is variability in each of the 230 systems. You have 50 state systems, a federal system, overseas, major city and county, and so on. There is no relationship to any set of standards. Prisons are almost as diverse as police departments.

Fenton added that Marion is fortunate in not having difficulties.

The Marion area's main security facility at Marion and nearby Peoria is today much younger than it was only 10 years ago. Marion used to be 10 years ago. Marion used to be a major security prison frequented by a gang numbering from 2,000 to 10,000 in a large city.

The featured event in prison issues is the tension and problems resulting from the above.

Housewife said there have been no demonstrations or protests by the approximately 350 inmates at Marion, but that there is a written plan for dealing with escapes and disturbances. He added that the plan was used for some time and is not the result of recent events.

Vermont opened in 1913, has no walls or guard towers. Inmates are put there after serving in other institutions and passing screening tests.

At Monard state penitentiary in Chester, Ill., recent events have led to greater caution by the guards, Warden Elia Brantley said.

Brantley said they would like to employ more guards, partly as a safety measure, but primarily because "we need them for various programs we have."
Pirates capture NL pennant

PETTISBURGH (AP) — Richer Helmer and Al Oliver slammed three-run homers while Bruce Kassen and Dave Ginni turned in top relief performances as the Pittsburgh Pirates beat San Francisco, 9-3, Wednesday and won the National League pennant.

The victory gave the Pirates the best-of-five series, 3-2, to capture first NL title since 1960 and sent them into the World Series against the Baltimore Orioles starting Saturday.

Oliver’s three-run homer cleared a four-run sixth that staked
a 5-4 tie and came off Jerry Johnson who relieved starter
Garyford Perry during the inning.

Helmer’s three-run homer came in the second and gave Pittsburgh a 5-5 tie.

Roberto Clemente also drove in three runs with a pair of singles, the second hit snapping 5-4 tie in the sixth.

Kasan took over the Pittsburgh starter Steve Blank out of the third. He held the Giants to a single until the seventh inning, when, with two out, a single, wild pitch and walk brought in Ginni who stopped the Giants the rest of the way.

Willie McCovey draws in four San Francisco runs with a single and three-run homer, and Chris Speier homedered.

Froth in good shape as grid opener nears

By Ernie Schmidt
Daily Enterprise Writer

With its first game less than two weeks away, the SUU freshman football coaching staff is taking a new look into the Froth's lineup.

The Froth's strategy will be to take advantage of its size in the defensive line and position the ball carriers into scoring opportunities.

Head Coach Rusty Hatfield has high expectations for his team this season.

"We have a lot of talent on this team," Hatfield said. "I believe we can have a successful season."
Harriers ‘getting it all together’

By Ken Stewart
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Like the slogan for one of the television networks new fall programs, the SIU cross country team is “getting it all together” after a shaky and rocky start.

First, Southern’s top three runners—Dave Hall, Don Nalder and upstart freshman Jack St. John—are constantly improving in every meet. The threesome tied for first place in 26:16 on a five mile Midwest Hills course against Illinois State Saturday. In cross country, a team that gathers the first three places almost automatically wins the meet no matter how its other runners finish.

Such was the case for SIU with a 16-40 win over the ISU Redbirds, its first win after three losing starts.

Second, Gerry Craig is staying right up there to the end after a slow early season. Craig placed fourth last Saturday for a 1-2-3-4 sweep of the first four places.

The third reason for the reassembly of an effective cross country team is what coach Lew Hartung calls the secret to a successful season Jeff Bayes and Carl McPhereson.

“Both the runners are catching up with the first four,” Hartung said against Illinois State. McPhereson finished sixth in 26:22 and Bayes was three places down in 30:57.

McPhereson said probably the best time he’s done since he’s been here, and Hartung, the junior from Jamaica, pulled it off while suffering bronchitis, too.

Hartung feels the win over ISU was a feat the Salukis deserved because of their caliber, not the Redbirds. “Dan Pittinger (the only Redbird to place in the top five against Southern) was the No.2 prep cross country runner in Illinois last year,” Hartung said.

“They also have four other outstanding freshmen runners,” he said, “so they have a pretty decent team.”

And now the Salukis face Kansas Saturday in Lawrence, a team that has won two NCAA cross country titles in recent years besides being just as successful in indoor and outdoor track.

Second Thoughts

Loukas rushes from obscurity

Fourteen months ago, football players around here were pretty concerned about SIU’s rushing attack Bob Hanberry, All-American the year before, wasn’t going to make it back from knee surgery.

In fact, he never made it back to school. So all those concerned people went looking for some new runners. And they made many suggestions revolving around six or seven young men with varying amounts of experience and ability.

But absolutely nobody said, “There’s no doubt that we’ll miss Hanberry. He was a great runner. But you know, we’ve got another one in George Loukas and we all know he’s been one of our greatest backfields.”

Nope, absolutely nobody expressed that much confidence in Loukas. Most of the time, they forgot to mention he was even around.

So it wasn’t surprising that Loukas ended up with 129 yards rushing for the career game.

Well, this George is no quitter. “I had a lot of faith in myself. I knew my job and I thought I could do it well. He was determined to make it,” George Loukas said.

And that determination has carried him to success.

New SIU record

Last Saturday night, George Loukas ran his way into the record books in the best exhibition of running the football team has ever witnessed in a college game. It was especially true when you consider he went for just 130 pounds.

The junior from Chicago carried 25 times, a new school record, for 364 yards and three touchdowns. He was better than Hanberry, every bit an All-American himself, and better than Calvn Harrell. All-American from Arkansas State who will perform in MCA Stadium Saturday night. But Loukas didn’t feel like talking about it after the game. Losers never want to talk about their losses.

And Southern had lost, 26-24, to go underdog Wichita State team.

“Big bleeding deal,” George said of his performance. Fill in your own word.

By Wednesday, he was more talkative.

“The only reason why I did that well was because of the line. You must have heard that before. You can’t have a good running attack without a good line.”

Loukas said, “That’s the best they’ve performed every since I played here.

But as it gave yardage, the offensive line also took some from Loukas. It was the third quarter; Southern was parked on its own 25-yard line and needed some points. The Salukis trailed, 18-17.

Misses other mark

Loukas took off through a gaping hole in the left side of the line and dashed to Wichita’s 20 before going out of bounds. But back in Saikili territory one of those men dressed like a penguin in jail clothes was pointing his finger at big Billy Story who had been holding, a now he committed three times.

The ball came back, Loukas trotted back and the Salukis had their backs to the wall. They eventually punter.

That deprived Loukas of another rushing record, most yards in one game. His 364-yard total fell short of Carver Shannon’s 368 yards against Great Lakes in 1907. And don’t think Loukas wouldn’t like to displace him.

When we got this year’s TV brochure, I couldn’t believe he got so many yards in one game, especially with only nine carries,” Loukas said.

“And I thought to myself it would be one of the most difficult records to break. It would have been nice to have it.”

True. But who would have thought Loukas could chalk up 364 yards? That’s one big, big, big. And it takes more than just a good offensive line for that caliber performance.

Defense

The Saluki defensive line swung into action as a Wichita State runningback tries to drive through Saturday night. Southern collected his host the 347 yards while WGU held the Salukis to 417. (Photo by Nelson G. Brooks)

$500 in ticket hike reduces for football has few takers

By Ernie Rebwater
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

There’s a $500 pot of gold in the SIU Arena that nobody seems to want. It’s not that the dough is yours for the asking, in fact it’s not in the Arena at all but neatly tucked away in the Bur­ g’s Office. All that has to be done to claim is to have people who are entitled to refunds on their SIU reserved seat football tickets individually keep a refund amounts in 25 cents for regular game tickets and 50 cents for home games before being mailed.

The refund was made possible last week when the Springfield office of the U.S. Department of Internal Revenue Service (IRS) told the SIU athletic department it could not raise the price of football tickets.

So, there the money sits. All $500 of it and ticket manager Naomi Kinsey has her own theory why there have been no takers.

“A lot of people have called me and said they thought the whole thing was not fair,” she said in reference to the IRS’s ruling that SIU had to roll back 3 winless seasons.

Eagles fire head coach

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jerry Williams, labelling under a production or else elimination from owner Leonard Tose, was fired Wednesday as head coach of the wireless Philadelphia Eagles.

Defensive line coach Ed Khayat, a tackle on the Eagles 1960 National Football League championship team, will succeed Williams for the remainder of the year.

Williams, 47, in his third year with the Eagles, had been fired at a meeting with Tose and General Manager Pete Rozell, whose career was tied closely with that of Williams.

The Eagles under Williams were 1-2-2, including a 2-10 record last year and three humiliating defeats in their first three games this year in which they scored only once since scrimmage.

Earlier this week, Williams blasted what he called his team’s lack of effort in its 31-0 loss to San Francisco Sunday and listed fives on several players. They were not identified.
