The association is the accrediting agency for colleges and high schools in 19 states.

The report has been awaited since the visit of the North Central Association's accreditation team to SIU on Jan. 20. At that time, seven college administrators arrived to participate in the accreditation visit, which was the second phase of the doctoral accreditation program.

The visit was the culmination of two years of self-study and preparation by the University, in which more than 200 pages of expertise were compiled.

At the time of the visit, preliminary accreditation was expected to be followed, in two to five years, by another examination for full accreditation.

Sociology Student Gets Grant

For Norwegian Summer Study

David R. Schweitzer, graduate student in sociology, has been awarded a full scholarship to attend the Oslo International Summer School in Norway.

The six-week school, beginning June 27, offers basic introductory courses in Norwegian language, education, literature and other aspects of the Norwegian culture.

Nearly 5,000 international students have attended the school during the past 15 years.

Schweitzer is enrolled for a graduate seminar offering a social critique of Norwegian literature, specializing in the work of Henrik Ibsen. He also plans to study economic and institutional structures of the Northern Europe.

Now working toward his master's degree, Schweitzer received his bachelor's degree from North Central College in Lombard, Illinois, near Chicago.

He will expect to complete his studies in June 1966, when the summer school ends.

At SIU Accredited

CHICAGO (AP) -- Southern Illinois University's doctoral degree programs in 13 fields have been accredited Tuesday by the North Central Association's Commission on Colleges and Universities.

A spokesman for SIU, in announcing the announcement, said preliminary accreditation means the programs will be subject to a continuing review before they are considered for full accreditation.

He said the programs already are functioning.

Approval of the programs were followed what President Morris described as "a change of self-study period in which every effort was made to meet the field's approved requirements." Dozens of faculties were representing the association.

The association is the accrediting agency for colleges and universities.

Lament Long Waiting

Students Speak Out on Recreation; Say SIU Should Add More Facilities

Last of a Series

"I just got my appointment for advising, I can't believe it was so fast and easy," boasted a freshman who had just received her fall appointment without going through the usual "line ritual.

With such added efficiency is the advising and registration centers as had been exhibited in recent quarters, what are students going to do with all this added leisure time?

"I think we need more intramural sports in the spring," commented a freshman, "It's easy to get out of shape down here with nothing to do."

"Well, we've got a terrific amount of facilities here, but there is such a wait list," said a junior. "Weaver said of the indoor recreation, including bowling, ping pong, and pool. "Stadium bowling lanes are quite a few, but still for a university of this size at 16 doesn't go very far."

Another student, Muriel Tese, agreed that the lists are a problem if they want to play pool an hour before between classes, you have to arrive two hours early, but said he thought the University had a pretty fair program, "I don't see what more they could add."

"The Beecher, Ill., freshman commented, "I think it would be better to organize off-campus housing more, Tese said, "it's hard to get to know people."

"Well, we have a softball intramural league this spring because the Thompson Point field was torn up for construction of the Technology Building, and there isn't going to be any place to play flag football next fall, I can't see riding a bike to city park," said Dave Freund, an Evanston, Ill., junior, seemed to agree, "I feel that it's a dirty, rotten shame we're not having intramural sports for all for the buildings, but I'd give it a chance to have a softball field."

"Of course, the Lake-on-the-Campus - Campus provides many warm, weather activities, like everything about it except its name," Freund continued.

"I'm a pretty bad," said Bobbie Sturm about the recreation problem, "There isn't anything other than the University, if there is, it costs a fortune."

"And after being in classes all day," she continued, "you get sick of University life Faner, James Benziger and Earle Johnson.

Brown, Felts and Warren halls held in number of voter residences with 85, 76 and 74 voters respectively. Third floor Brown led the floor totals with 34 of 39 voting.

The student, Frank Weaver of Nokomis, Ill., also cited the need for a soccer league, especially for foreign students.

"They've got a terrific amount of facilities here, but there is such a wait list," said a junior. "Weaver said of the indoor recreation, including bowling, ping pong, and pool. "Stadium bowling lanes are quite a few, but still for a university of this size at 16 doesn't go very far."

Southern Players to Feature 2 'Absurd' Plays April 10-18

Turning the spotlight on a current style of drama called the "theater of the absurd," the Southern Players will present three Aristophanes' "Achilles" and "The Frogs," and Edward Albee's "The American Dream." Director Burton Dikelisky, Lynn Leonard, Barbara Burgdorf, Heinie Stein, and Christopher Jones.

Did you know that Southern has the only random access digital tape recorder teaching machine in existence? This little green machine with the long using name resides in the new Educational Media Research Center on the fourth floor of the library, its job being to select one of 500 possible audio responses to give to a person using a teaching machine. The machine was developed by Groover Rust and his associates in the Educational Media Research Center from numbers. The machine was turned on the wall. The instructions were projected on the wall. I was given some printed information and another combination of numbers. This continued until I completed the series, I was alternately instructed and quizzed, taking all of the quarter-sized, numbered buttons. The machine was turned on and I was instructed to print instructions were projected on the wall. The instructions said to push a combination on the numbered buttons in front of me and then a button lettered "done." There was a white and a clock behind me and another image was projected on the wall. I was given some printed information and another combination of numbers. This continued until I completed the series. I was alternately instructed and quizzed, taking all of the time I wanted. I had the opportunity to skip the material that I already knew, and if I made a mistake, nobody but I knew about it.

Rust pointed out that much of his testing is done with printed material at the teaching machines are used primarily for basic research. The Educational Media Research Center is now preparing for research in pictorial material and printed instruction and in the near future will be instructing groups through the use of teaching machines.

8 Firms Indicted In Steel Pricing

WASHINGTON—Eight giants of the steel industry were indicted Tuesday on charges of conspiring in secret hotel room meetings to fix prices at the multimillion-dollar-a-year "smear sheet" business.

A federal grand jury in New York City charged that the firms conspired to eliminate competition in the $3.5-billion industry, which accounts for a third of all finished steel mill production in the United States.

In doing so, the indictment charged, the corporations and two of their officials violated the Sherman Antitrust Act against restraint of trade.

The charges were brought on the heels of an earlier grand jury's investsigation of the April 1962 attempt by leading steel companies to put into effect a $4-a-ton price increase on all steel products. Sharply rebuked by the Kennedy administration, it rescinded the price increase.

President Drive Recklessly, Sipped Beer, Newsman Report

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy and his wife, sculptor while driving reporters around their LBJ Ranch in Texas over the Easter weekend, announced who accompanied them report.

The President also did some fast driving, say the reporters who went along.

On one occasion, they said, he gunned his grand-colored Lincoln Continental up a long Texas hill and the driver of an oncoming car veered off the road.

Mrs. Johnson, driving another Lincoln Continental at a leisurely pace, took cooling sips of beer from a paper cup as she gave a running commentary on the LBJ Ranch, its cattle and opinions of interest to a car full of reporters. Occasionally, she drove along the ranch roads with one hand on the wheel as she held the cup.

President press secretary, said, when asked about the President's beer drinking and fast driving, told reporters Tuesday he had no personal knowledge of the incidents referred to and, therefore, could not make comment.

In his account, Time magazine said that when Johnson's car raced up the hill, one passenger groaned, "That's the closest John McCormack has come to a brush with death yet." House Speaker McCormack, D-Mass., is next in line of succession to the presidency.

"The whole caravane jumped at high speeds across a pasture, zigzagging around ditches and clumps of fat white--faced cattle," Time said.

Johnson blew the cow-like horn on his car at the cattle, and Time said one newsmen recalled he once gave a "very graphic description of the sea life of a bull."

Spotting a new with a ball donor, Time said the President offered to pose for a photo with any reporter who could catch one--and "guf-fawed exuberantly" as the scene charged the frightened photographers, as he knew it would.

Senator Alarmed by Gun Clubs

WASHINGTON—Sen. Jack W. Wyer, R-Texas, said Tuesday he hopes the Justice Departmert will look into the report formed report of rifle clubs in Cleveland, Ohio, and elsewhere to support the civil club drives. Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, in a speech Monday night, cited a Cleveland Plain Dealer story quoting a World War II veteran as saying that gun clubs "become prepared to protect themselves against any person they think is disturbing their civil liberties when the police department fails to do this."

Ribicoff Says Distortions Used by Rights Bill Foes

WASHINGTON—Sen. Abra­ham A. Ribicoff accused civil rights bill opponents Tuesday of using a smokescreen of "daring distortions" in an effort to defeat it.

The Connecticut Democrat called the "gouging distortion" a campaign by some that the late President John F. Kennedy opposed Title VI, under which federal aid ultimately could be cut off from programs which discriminate against Negroes.

"President Kennedy made it perfectly clear what he opposed and what he favored in this area," Ribicoff said in a speech prepared for Senate delivery.

"Title VI does provide in precisely what President Kennedy favored: I don't think we should extend federal program in a way which encourages or really permits "discrimination," Ribicoff said.

The leadership, fighting for an anti-poll tax bill, kept the Senate in session through Monday. It took 24 minutes to assemble 51 senators before Sen. George A. Smathers D-Fla., began a speech at 8:36 p.m. Monday. It took 20 minutes setting up an Equal Employment Oppor­tunity Commission, to keep that to enforce that section the government would need "a corps of psychiatrists" to search the hearts and minds of em­ployers to determine whether an employer was guilty of "unconscious and racial prejudice if he fails to employ a Negro or failed "to grant a pay increase to him."

Civil Rights Picket Killed By Bulldozer

CLEVELAND, Ohio—Civil rights demonstrator threw himself under a bulldozer at a school construction site Tuesday and was crushed to death, police reported.

The driver of the tractor, identified by police as John White, 33, said his attention was distracted by demonstrators and he did not see the man jump in front of his bulldozer.

Police identified the demonstrator as the Rev. Bruce Nowakowski of the Rev. Bruce Nowakowski of the Student Christian Union in the fall of 1961. He is white.

After the accident, picketers stopped and did not move to trucks and heavy equipment, but some shoveling continued. A crowd of about 200 had gathered earlier at the site of a new elementary school at Lake­side and 112th Avenue on the east side about 12:30 p.m. to protest start of construction.

The protesting groups claim building a new school on this site could and describe as "de facto" school segregation in this area.
Fraternities to Collect Cancer Drive Funds

Members of sororities and fraternities at SIU plan to devote three days next week to collecting cancer drive funds.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday have been designated for philanthropic activities of Greek Week. April 13 through 16, during the three days, every Greek resident will take part in the annual drive to cover the Jackson County area.

Greek Week is an annual event sponsored by the sororities and fraternities on campus to stress charity work and cooperative efforts within the group.

Judith Pope and Byron Taylor are co-chairmen, John Nelson, supervisor of Small Group Housing, advises committee.

Traditional track and field events April 16 will be a highlight of the week. The "chariot race among fraternities" will be a renewal of "real Greek" atmosphere.

April 17 a banquet in the Roman Room will be followed by a semi-formal dance in the Ballroom. During the dance the 1964 Greek Goddess will be crowned by last year's winner, Laurie Brown.

This year the annual Greek sing will be non-competitive and informal, and it will be held April 18 at Shryock Auditorium. The program will consist of only fraternity and sorority songs and is open to the public. Money saved on buying priorities go for a scholarship to a Greek student.

The scholarship will be presented to President Delroy W. Morris and will become effective in September. It will consist of free tuition and fees for one year. Any Greek resident may apply if in good standing with the University and in financial need.

During the week the fraternities and sororities will invite foreign students to dinner. The purpose is to make them feel at home although away from home.

The committees and their chairmen are as follows: Barbara Wise, secretary; track meet committee, Trudy Gidcumb and Ron Knack; projects, Pam Newberry, Julie Brown and John Heikink; projects to the Cardonble area, Larry Larson and Margaret Malone; dance and coronation committee, Marlon Morgan and Bill Banister; publicity, Danny Crausbach and Sue Congin; design, Fred Bammann and Linda Atwater; banquet, Judy Lloyd and Julie Bucari; finance, Gary Liberton and Carolyn Mahack; Greek singing, Kathy Wolak and Bill Carel.

Mr. Dooley Remembered—The Mark of a Journalist

Finley Peter Dunne (1867-1950) was one of the few genuine novelists in recent American history. They do not acquire fame, fleeting though it may be, until their names are carved in the national tapestry. And when Dunne died, he had added his name to the list of the greatest. He is the only writer in the history of America who can be truly called a journalist.

There are many who might be excused for thinking that Mr. Dooley acquired success by routine in the use of language. But if Dunne's Elizabethan English of the southern Irishman, which gave him a libel-proof guise of humor, was his most imaginative art, some of the freshest, most imaginative art of all was his ability to mix straight man and comedian, play it with considerable taste and put it fully into his body—"but cut the cards," he said regarding some of the Mr. Dooley pieces published in the Chicago Post. "I thought it up to me that while it might be dangerous to call it a joke, then it was no joke at all no one could see if a comic Irishman denounced the thing as a truant, I had written the same thing in English I would have inevitably been pistolaged or slandered, as other critics were, but my victims did not dare to ridicule me.

This book contains the 564 finalists in two categories each of advertising and editorial art exhibited by the Art Directors Club in New York. The entries judged the best of 18,000 entries.

As a group, they might be accounted for most of the entries, 533 to 28 of 141, which is the number of the exhibits utilized photographs and filming in their exhibitions. The latter category actually offered less of value than did the others.

Kristoff, Finn Work to Improve Chance for Olympic Team

By Richard La Susa

Although Southern's 1964 wrestling season is officially over, Saluki mascot Larry Kristoff and Terry Finn are working hard to improve their chances for selection to the Olympic team.

Kristoff and Finn, who formed the nucleus of the team in the state meet wrestling squad in the nation this year, hope to be on the American team which will compete in the Olympic wrestling meet this month in San Diego, Calif.

Kristoff, defending AAU heavyweight champion and a surprising late entry in the recent NCAA wrestling championships, has the best chance of gaining an Olympic squad spot, according to his coach, Jim Wilkinson. "Kristoff," said Wilkinson, "is as good a heavyweight as anyone in the country and he is more determined than ever to make the Olympic team."

The big heavyweight, a product of Carbondale and Knowledge of the squad for the past two years, made a 13-2 record during the regular season, but was out in the first round of the NCAA tournament by Purdue's Bob Hopp.

"Kristoff made one mistake when he dropped his 7-5 decision to Hopp," Wilkinson pointed out. "Larry had a far more comfortable lead with only about a minute to go in the match. He felt the opponent looked as if he was so tired he was ready to be pinned."

"I guess Larry thought so also," said the Saluki coach, "because he made a bad move for a takedown and a pin which cost him the match."

With one minute remaining in the match, Hopp took advantage of it and quickly wiped out the Saluki lead of 2.

Wilkinson said that Kristoff accepted his tough defeat and came back to train and quickly out of the University Center.

Finn, a rugged little 115-pounder, surprised many in the collegiate wrestling world last month when he won the NCAA title in his division.

Science vs. Religion

Baptist Discussions

Feature Schweitzer

"We must affirm that both science and religion are transformation of the Greek view of nature with certain Hebrew Christian presuppositions." said George K. Schweitzer in an interview yesterday at the Baptist Student Foundation.

Schweitzer, a professor of chemistry at the University of Tennessee, is lecturing at 7:30 p.m. today through Friday on "The Hebrew-Christian Tradition and Modern Science" at the BSF.

"To say that science and religion have no conflict is a gross oversimplification," said Schweitzer, "but science and religion do not disagree; they look at the universe from different points of view.

"It is when one attempts to find scientific information from the Bible, or when we try to come to knowledge of God in science that the conflict arises," according to Schweitzer.

He believes that science cannot adequately deal with dedication, loyalty, purpose, meaning, value, beauty, and good.

Religion is required to provide individuals with an ultimate loyalty, dedication to cause, feeling of purpose, and meaning in the universe and in themselves.

In a talk before the BSF Monday, Schweitzer discussed the historical roots of the scientific method. He paid particular attention to the questions of science and religion.

"Science is when one attempts to come to knowledge of the meaning in the universe and of its implications. It's logical validity. It's validity. It's transformation," said Schweitzer.
