Tenants evicted from off-campus dorm

By Raas Becker
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

About 30 persons were evicted Monday from the 600 Freeman Dormitory, an approved off-campus residence, after receiving eviction notices Saturday afternoon.

The residents were given a choice of moving into Forest Hall Dormitory or the Egyptian Apartment, said Charles Goss, president of Cherry Realty Property Management Inc. The company manages the Freeman Street dorm, Forest Hall and the Egyptian Apartments.

Goss said the decision to close the dorm at 600 W. Freeman was based on financial pressure. He said the dormitory had been losing money for some time.

The dormitory is owned by the Freeman Street Land Trust. Goss said the mortgage for the property is controlled by the Altemate Police Retirement System of St. Louis, he said.

The trust owes over $200,000 in delinquent mortgage payments to the retirement system, said Thomas A. Lechien, attorney for the police retirement system.

The decision to close the dormitory was made by Goss, because of actions of the retirement system. Cherry Management tried to set up an arrangement with the retirement system to keep the dorm open, but the system failed to accept the offer, Goss said.

The decision to close the dormitory according to Goss, was made by the beneficiaries of the Freeman Street Land Trust. Samuel Rose, 2017 Pime, Murphysboro, the only member of the trust who could be reached said he had no knowledge that the building was being closed and the residents forced to move.

James Osberg, supervisor of off-campus housing, said that there is nothing the University can do to help the students. The dormitory uses the standard University housing contract which allows the University to intervene if a dorm is being treated unfairly, he said.

Vietnam adoption mixed blessing for local couple

A Carbondale pastor and his wife spent the night Sunday hoping a 4-month-old Vietnamese baby they were going to adopt was alive despite a report the infant had died.

The Rev. James Beaty and his wife, Raye, traveled to Chicago Sunday to pick up two Vietnamese orphans they planned to adopt. But two hours before the plane arrived from Saigon carrying 72 children, the Beatys were told the baby, who they already had named Sarah, had died—presumably while on the plane.

The Beatys had never known the child, but they were grief-stricken. "I wish I had known," Mrs. Beaty sobbed, unable to control her tears.

"Just remember the child who lived," her husband told her. "Thank God for one."

But two hours before the plane arrived from Saigon carrying 72 children, the Beatys were told the baby, who they already had named Sarah, had died—presumably while on the plane.

The Beatys had never known the child, but they were grief-stricken. "I wish I had known," Mrs. Beaty sobbed, unable to control her tears.

The Beatys, both in their early 30s, have one other child, an adopted 3-year-old girl. The Rev. Beaty has served as pastor at Epiphany Lutheran Church in Carbondale for six years. The Beatys live at 902 S. Emerald Lane.

"As the day wore on, a cruel twist developed, borne of confusion. A spokesman for Holt Children Service, an international adoption agency which handled the movement of many of the Vietnamese orphans, said none of the children died in flight and no child in its care had died anywhere.

The Beatys hoped Sarah was one of the youngsters taken off the flight because of sickness or had temporarily been placed in a foster home. A reporter confirmed through an adoption agency Monday that Sarah had died in Saigon. He informed Beaty of the child's death.

"Oh," Beaty said quietly.

Beaty was told what details were known. He responded in a monotone, the vibrancy gone from his voice.

"How's the other child?" he was asked by the reporter.

"Oh, he's fine," Beaty answered. The dullness was gone. Beaty spoke loudly and buoyantly.

Sarah's 6-year-old brother, Thien, arrived at Chicago's O'Hare International Airport at 1 p.m. Sunday. His adopted parents named him Peter. Beaty told reporters, "He had pancakes this morning. Got up and washed his face and brushed his teeth. He can take care of himself pretty well."

The minister continued enthusiastically. "And last night we cooked him rice and porkchops and he cleaned his plate. And he had no trouble warming up to me. He was real friendly when I put my arm around him."

The Beatys are expected to return to Carbondale by Wednesday.

Time magazine critic deplores using -traditional standards in film reviewing

By Tim Hastings
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Time magazine film critic Richard Schickel said neither film nor television should be judged by standards borrowed from other art forms. Traditional standards are not applicable to film because of the nature of the medium, he said.

Schickel, author of the recently published book, "Men Who Made the Movies," was a speaker in the Student Center Auditorium for Liberal Arts Night.

Schickel "trotted through a brief history of film criticism to show why a new critical approach is necessary. The new criticism should hold to a humane value system, Schickel said.

The early films repulsed critics because they judged them by the standards of theater and literature. They saw film as an inferior which could never be as entertaining as the theater or offer any artistic value, he said.

This yearning for film to be more like the other arts resulted in a wave of films based on literary classics like Shakespeare and Dickens. Schickel described the resulting films as dull and not movie-like.

About 1940, a new generation of writers emerged who had grown up with the movies. Writers like James Agne, former Time magazine film critic, accepted film for what it was, Schickel said. Agne approached movies without pretense and realized they were a medium of their own.

Since the '40s, critics have realized that films could give shared memories of high moments or feelings. A generation of movie-goers shared a common identity through films and a worship of stars like Cary Grant and Greta Garbo, Schickel said.

I have been involved in city committees, neighborhood groups, etc., for some time. It seems to me there is no way to be partially involved and concerned in what you are doing. At some point you either have to get fully involved or you become ineffective. Also, I am very concerned that the size of the workforce tax payer has gotten less than a fair shake in recent years. I have no special qualifications but feel that dedication, experience and a willingness to work hard are sufficient.

QUESTION: How do you think the police should handle a crowd that attempts to close Illinois Avenue?

Helen Westberg

Protection of the people and property are of greater importance to me than keeping a street open. Special activities or occasional well-planned street parties might provide interesting, acceptable alternative uses of energy. I do not encourage closing the downtown area of the college town to try to stay a little flexible in some situations.

I believe that the Police Department should continue to follow the precedents established by my command as the former chief of police. Restraint was, and should be, the order of the day. The police should act only to dispel a crowd unless property damage or injury or lives are being endangered.

You should have seen the one that got away.

Ginny Wuetsner, junior at John A. Logan Junior College, lets fly in the tobacco spitting contest. General Motors was offering a 4-cylinder engine if it could produce a federal deficit of $100 billion. "You wouldn't be a disaster," he declared in the last of the speech released before he left Palm Springs.
The women wrote 20 sentences that began with "I am." They then broke into small groups to discuss their fantasies and sentences about themselves. It soon became evident they were not all alike. One woman was divorced and past the child-rearing age, another was 27 and another was living with a man. The other two were single. Even though they were from extremely different backgrounds, the women had no problem accepting each other.

Their fantasies about themselves revealed that the group did have some things in common—they agreed they were strong, yet weak. Some of the women had a hard exterior with weaknesses they tried to hide. Others felt they had a soft-spoken personality with a hidden strength no one would guess they had. As one woman commented, "Too many times when people hear the word liberation they think you don't want to be loved at all or taken care of. That's just not true."

Throughout the day the workshop participants continued to share experiences to learn and to grow closer to each other. They broke into smaller groups four times, each time trying to meet new people. In one group while discussing sex-role behavior, one woman displayed a problem many women share in the professional world.

"I was at a convention with another male in my profession. We spent the day together and had dinner at night. At the end of the evening I was so tired I assumed we would sleep together. He told me I had been friendly all day and he took that to mean seduction." Sharing the experience with other women helped her see she wasn't subconsciously trying to seduce the man. Hearing other women say, "Yes, that's happened to me too," made her feel better about her own self.

At one point the women experienced the threatened feeling of allowing men into the female domain of homosexuality. They laughed at the thought for criticing their men who couldn't do housework as adeptly as women. They empathized with the feeling many men have when women enter fields they've never been in before.

At the end of the day the women relaxed, closed their eyes and imagined another fantasy about their lives now and how they will be five years from now. Once again the individuality of each woman showed through. One married woman imagined herself five years in the future living in a large white house and having time for her husband and child. Another said, "I saw myself as being alone and really enjoying it."

All the women had their own unique goals but they had spent the whole day communicating with each other as human beings. This is the ultimate goal of liberation—making women more comfortable with themselves as people so they can be more comfortable with everyone.

It was invaluable to all who shared their ideas. They left with a new-found knowledge that even though their goals are distant, they are not alone.

The $64.50 SIU students pay each year for medical care is the highest health fee charged by any Illinois public university.

Mandatory fees accounted for an estimated $3.166.125 during the current fiscal year. This is over 75 per cent of the total income available for operation of the Health Service. State subsidies and prescription and testing charges are the other sources of income.

Sam McVay, administrative director of the Health Service, said students are getting a good deal despite the high costs.

"On the whole, I think SIU students are getting more service per dollar than any other college in the nation," he said.

Full-time students pay a $7.25 medical fee each semester and $15 of the SWRF fee is earmarked for the Health Service.

A bill which would require the state to take over complete funding of the Health Service is scheduled to reach the floor of the Illinois House of Representatives for its first reading Tuesday. The bill, sponsored by John C. Hirschfeld, R-Champaign, is one of four coming from the Subcommittee on Student Fees which found abuses in the mandatory fee structure in Illinois public universities.

"No longer shall student fees be permitted to fund medical facilities in the State of Illinois. Full funding of medical facilities (including staff salaries and overhead) at all of our universities should be assumed by the State of Illinois," the Hirschfeld committee report stated.

Hirschfeld said many university administrations in the state are opposed to the bill and Gov. Dan Walker may veto the measure if it passes the General Assembly. McVay said 80 per cent of the $1.687.600 Health Service expenditures goes for salaries for 36 professional people and about 40 clerical workers, counselors, pharmacy assistants and student workers.

The highest annual salary belongs to the radiologist who receives $44,000. A psychiatrist gets $42,000 and the director collects $40,000. The nine medical doctors receive $36,000 each. The student work force gets paid $120,000 each year. McVay said.

McVay said money has been saved in several areas through contractual agreements with area specialists and Doctors Memorial Hospital.

Emergency service at Doctors Memorial Hospital during the hours the Health Service is closed has saved the University over $250,000. McVay said.

The contract with the hospital costs SIU $99,000. The cost of keeping round-the-clock physicians would be nearly $500,000 McVay estimated.

Money was also saved by the insurance program, he said. "We've saved about $500,000 by not contracting a private insurance company as most universities do.

McVay said because the health program here covers all possible problems the University Health Service is essentially self-insured. "It is unique in the nation in this regard.

The insurance program here carries a maximum payment of $5,000 for incurred expenses. The University does, however, have a contract with a local insurance company to cover accidental death. Each student is provided with a $5,000 accidental death benefit.

Contractual agreements with the City of Carbondale and Doctors Memorial Hospital provide emergency room and ambulance service. Hospital care is also available through a contract with the hospital.

"This benefit is intended to assure access to necessary hospital care for students who might otherwise have difficulty in procuring such care within the campus community," McVay explained.

Pregnancy, childbirth and miscarriage care are not covered in this program and the hospital benefit is only valid when the patient is admitted by a physician.

Students are also covered for expenses incurred when a Health Service physician has to confer with a specialist about a unique medical problem. Internal medicine, orthopedics, gynecology, limited dermatology, general surgery, urology, radiology and psychiatry are included.

Over $1 million was spent by the Health Service for primary care this year. Primary care is similar to the services offered by a private, general physician. Student fees cover all of the costs for such care but there is a charge for prescription drugs, x-rays and pap tests. McVay said these are offered at cost to students and cannot be free because services outside the University are needed.

The Health Service also employs a full time psychiatrist and operates a counseling center to help individuals with personal, marital, or interpersonal emotional problems. These are covered by the medical fee.

Intermediate care in the 12-bed infirmary is available for acute illnesses and physician visits. Room and board are provided at no cost.

Student input into the policies of the Health Service comes through the Student Health Advisory Commission (SHAC). McVay said it functions in an advisory capacity reviewing policy, evaluating services and initiating and developing new programs.

"I've received tremendous help from SHAC and from students in general," McVay said. "We really like to hear suggestions from the students because they are who we serve and we wouldn't exist without them. We want to know, is there a better way?"
New state law enforces
damage deposit refund

Student renters with complaints about no return of damage deposits can use a new state law to protect their rights—but many don't know about it," said Gretchen Meyers, Student Tenant Union volunteer.

The statute states that if an owner keeps a damage deposit he must inform the renter within 30 days after the renter moves of an itemization of the damage and the costs of repair.

The statute continues to say that within another 30 days after the first statement the owner must inform the renter with a second notice showing paid receipts for the repaired damage.

Celebrity Series ends year with Milwaukee Symphony

By Marilyn Schnefeld

Student Writer

The Milwaukee Symphony Orchestra, known as the newest major orchestra in the country, will conclude this year's Celebrity Series at 8 p.m. Wednesday at Strayhorn Auditorium.

Founded in 1969, the orchestra reached wide acclaim seven years later and became the 26th major United States Symphony Orchestra. The symphony now employs 96 musicians and presents more than 175 concerts a year during its 47-week season.

Kenneth Schermerhorn, former conductor of the New Jersey Symphony and the American Ballet Theater, was appointed music director of the symphony in 1980. Schermerhorn received his musical training at the New England Conservatory of Music. He began his career as an instrumentalist with the Khatian City and Boston symphonies, and first became active as a conductor while serving in the armed forces in Germany as director of the United States Seventh Army Symphony Orchestra.

In 1959, he was appointed assistant conductor of the New York Philharmonic under Leonard Bernstein, and since then has appeared as guest conductor with such orchestras as the Boston Symphony, the St. Louis Symphony and the Chicago Symphony. Appearing with the orchestra will be Shlomo Mintz, 16-year-old violin virtuoso. The Russian-born Israeli musician has performed with every major musical body in Israel, on radio and television in his native country and at Carnegie Hall, his first American appearance last season. Under the continued guidance of Isaac Stern, who first heard Mintz six years ago in Israel, and with the help of scholarship grants at Aspen and Juilliard schools of music, the young artist is now concentrating on the development of his talent, making guest appearances when his instructors permit.

Tickets for the concert are on sale at the central ticket office at the Student Center. Prices are $4, $5 and $6 for the general public and $3 and $5 for SIU students.

Lightfoot delights audience

By Marilyn Schenfeld
Student Writer

His writing might suggest the brooding poet, but Gordon Lightfoot certainly has more charm and personal contact than what you would expect from a quiet intern. His enthusiasm was displayed Friday night at the Arena.

Appearing before a receptive crowd of 3,500, Lightfoot reinforced his stature as a poet of the city, a chronicler of the high country and a teller of tales.

Terry Clements on lead guitar and Richard Haynes on bass backed up the traveling folk singer as he alternated from six to 12-string guitar, playing both old favorites and new releases from his current album "Cold on the Shoulder."

With a soft and tender sensibility, his mellow baritone voice carressed lyrics expressing insights into love country and city living and the hardships of life.

But through all this solemn sentiment, Lightfoot remained friendly, relaxed, comic and humanistic, muffling lines on a couple of songs, foot stomping "Don Quixote" and "Cold on the Shoulder," wisecracking his way through the melody.

The audience responded with hoots and hollers, constantly requesting their favorite tunes, in which Lightfoot reminded, "We'll do it as if to say, be patient."

And with his countrified accent, the Canadian balladeer eased into "Sundown." "If You Could Read My Mind," "All the Lovely Ladies," leaving the anxious hooters relaxed and content, both mentally and physically.

The soft folk melodies did not linger however, as Lightfoot excited an appreciative audience with his imitation of an auctioneer in a song written by Roy Van Dyke, sent laughter through the crowd with "Diverse Country Style," a comical tune about his own experiences and sparked rhythmic clapping to "Old Dan's Record," one of his earlier songs.

As he turned from ballads to country folk and back again, Lightfoot evoked images of rivers and boats, the yearning for the open road, railroads and gold diggers, and drew a realistic picture of the variety of life. In this way, he created a delightful and interesting show, as many of his songs are based on the same rhythms and chord progressions and may tend to get repetitive. The audience only wanted more, cheering him on for an encore.

Although Lightfoot admitted the Dorms to consider revised constitution

The East Campus housing area may get a new area constitution soon.

Jim Dunn, vice president of the East Campus Executive Council, has written and proposed a new constitution to replace the one written before Brush Towers and University Park were merged to form East Campus in 1975.

The new proposed constitution will first come up for consideration at the Executive Council meeting Thursday. Adoption of the new constitution is subject to approval by the Council which has already found the present constitution unworkable.

Debbie Degman, East Campus president, the old constitution made no reference to or allowances for any groups other than executive council. East Campus now has four

Federal summer jobs available for students

For the student who has received a Civil Service Commission summer maintenance offer of rating, now is the time to follow-up on that notice of rating, it is suggested that he or she complete the Civil Service Commission pre-qualifications statement with the federal agency with whom he or she employs himself. St. Elizabeth’s Hospital in St. Louis, Mo. announced its summer employment program for students who seek to combine a summer work experience and on and off-campus training experience in the field of mental health.

St. Elizabeth’s Hospital operates a community mental health center, a multidisciplinary training program and the personal care center, which is interested in mental health activities, and a clinical research program to increase understanding of the causes, development, treatment and prevention of mental disorders. The hospital also provides administrative and logistical support for research programs in crime, deinstitutionalization and alcoholism.

Interdisciplinary training conferences, lectures and seminars led by members of the permanent staff are available to all students. These exchanges are provided for all students regardless of the position in which they are employed. St. Elizabeth’s has a summer employment opportunity for clerical, undergraduate trainees and graduate professional trainees. Besides the regular types of jobs that one would expect to find, there are openings for audio-visual assistant, engineering assistant, legal assistant, dance therapist and employability development.

Students interested in St. Elizabeth’s should submit standard application forms to the summer employment office. These forms are available at the hospital.

Council okays mining degree

The Graduate Council has approved a recommendation to implement a Master of Science program in Mining (coal extraction and utilization) Engineering. The motion to approve the recommendation passed unanimously at the council’s Tuesday meeting after members of the council were assured that funding for the program would come from new programs money from the state.

The council rejected a recommendation for a Center of Environmental Studies. John Booker, an assistant professor of accounting, had said the center would be valuable in digesting the great amount of environmental information that comes to the University.

John Booker, assistant professor in secondary education, declares that without the help of the type that he has worked in the past. Three members of the council voted for the motion, but three members voted against it and three members abstained.

University Graphics readies new undergraduate catalogs

By Anne Heins Student Writer

The 1975-76 undergraduate catalog is available, but University Graphics Director A.B. White said that students who are currently enrolled at SIU don't need a copy.

Institutional policy states that students need to comply to the changing requirements of the year they enrolled in their major, said White. Students meeting the requirements for a major listed in previous catalogs are protected from future revisions, unless the changes are to the student's advantage.

The new catalogs are primarily reserved for new or prospective students. Students who are changing their major might need a new catalog, White said. They will need to comply to any revisions.

Policies covered in the new catalog which might affect currently enrolled students include courses which might have been added or deleted in their department. The fee structure has got been decided on, so the old catalogs are adequate, White said.

Copies of the new catalog will be placed in the Graphics Department and Morris Library. Students may ask their advisers, faculty or departments if they want to consult the catalog.

We want to economize on the catalogs since they cost $1.25 each. Another reason less copies were printed was because the 1975-76 catalog will be printed in October instead of April 1976.

"We're urging students to employ common sense in this matter," Mifflin said. "There really isn't any reason for every student to have a catalog."

ABA switches evaluation visit

An American Bar Association (ABA) accreditation team has reschedule its visit to the SIU Law School to April 16 to 18.

The ABA team, originally scheduled to come March 20-22, postponed the visit due to the illness of a member.

The team will be headed by James F. White, law professor at the University of Indiana at Indianapolis. White in a consultant in legal education to the ABA.

Other team members are Willard V. Lernsen, dean at West Virginia University, and professors Donald L. Garberbiet and Richard F. Breen Jr., University of Maine.

The team will look at the curriculum and library, and talk to students and faculty members. It will be supplied with a supplemental report on school history, class schedule, and faculty biographies.

Annual inspections occur until full accreditation is reached. The school now has provisional accreditation. It would receive full accreditation after the graduation of its first class in 1976.

Re-inspection takes place every seven years.

Bishop refuses to ordain men until decision made on women

WASHINGTON (AP) - Episcopal Bishop William F. Creighton of Washington says he will not ordain men to the priesthood until the church's general convention considers again in 17 months whether women should also be admitted to the priesthood.

Local advocates of ordination for women generally welcomed Bishop Creighton's decision, announced Monday in a letter to his fellow bishops. But they said it did not go far enough and that Bishop Creighton should ordain women now.

In his letter, Bishop Creighton said that "to continue to ordain men who are deacons while being compelled to refuse ordination to women who are deacons has become constitutionally impossible and a form of injustice of which I can no longer be a part." He recognizes that this decision does not resolve our basic dilemma but it will at least place all deacons on a basis of equality until General Convention acts.

Driving skills emphasized at safety session

SIU driver's safety instructors are being drilled in basic driving techniques this week. Richard "Doc" Whitecomb, supervisor of driver education research at GM proving grounds in Milford, Michigan, and two other GM drivers will train SIU's safety instructors in basic driving techniques, Tuesday through Thursday, said James Aaron, Safety Center Coordinator.

SIU's instructors, with the assistance of the test drivers, Thursday will coach 28 representatives of state agencies including the Department of Transportation, Illinois Office of Education and the Office of Secretary of State. An official from the U.S. Department of Transportation will also attend.

STUDENTS ELIGIBLE FOR FEDERALLY INSURED STUDENT LOANS

APPROVED FOR VETERANS

World's shortest CPA aptitude test.

If you want to earn a living in a field that constantly offers new and exciting perspectives – new problems to solve – consider the work of the CPA.

A CPA has to grasp the essentials of many different fields, and have the independence to form objective opinions about them.

He's more in demand than ever before, by corporations, non-profit agencies, government bodies at all levels.

Why? Because the increasing complexity of business requires new concepts of fact-gathering, problem-solving, and communication of economic information.

The CPA, for example, is one of the leaders in planning new ways to use computer systems.

He might also be called upon to weigh the relative merits of social programs in terms of available resources, helping to shape an urban renewal program.

So if problems intrigue you, and you have aptitude for concentrated, meticulous, creative thinking, you might make a good CPA—in a public accounting firm, in industry, education or government. At some point, you might even decide to form a firm of your own.

Talk with your faculty advisor. He can tell you about the courses that count toward a CPA certificate soon after graduation. Or you can do graduate work.

MEET AND TALK WITH A PRACTICING CPA ON CAMPUS THIS WEEK. CONTACT THE DEPARTMENT OF ACCOUNTANCY FOR FURTHER DETAILS.

You can also learn about the work of a CPA in a booklet we'll be glad to send you. Drop a note or card to: Career Opportunities - ISCPA, One IBM Plaza, Chicago, Illinois 60611. Illinois CPA Society.
No SIU groups participating in national Pitch In campaign

By Mark Kazowski
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

SIU organizations apparently will not be part of the second annual college "Pitch In" campaign scheduled for Monday through Friday.

More than 300 colleges and organizations participated in the anti-litter event last year. The basic idea of the Budweiser Beer and ABC Contemporary Radio sponsored event is for college students to team up in ridding their campuses and surrounding communities of litter.

Mark Kroemer of the Student Environmental Center at the student government office said he is not aware of any groups participating in the event.

"We don't believe in the whole idea," Kroemer said in speaking for the environmental center. "Pitch In" is a method of appeasing the public by big business.

They don't want to accept the fact they are causing the pollution," Kroemer said, referring to Budweiser, "Pitch In is to better their image not to benefit the public.

An Inter-Greek Council spokesman said there is a possibility that some individual Greek organizations may be participating, but there are no plans for inter-Greek Council participation.

Grand prizes of $1,000 educational scholarships will be awarded in each of five regions for the most creative and effective Pitch In efforts. The five runner-up winners will get $500 awards.

To be eligible for awards, organizations must submit evidence of their participation with a written, summarized, photos, newspaper clippings, audio tapes, motion picture film or official letters of appreciation from city officials. The projects must be reported no later than May 16.

Baseball team sweeps twice

In its first crucial series since their western trip, the SIU nine put the 6-4 victory over Eastern Illinois into the game.

On Friday, the Salukis used good pitching from Ron Hodges and Tim Voss. The Salukis scored four runs in the top of the tenth to put the game away.

In the second game, Coach Ichiy Jones noted his 500th win at SIU, as the Salukis won behind the shutout pitching of the southpaw Verpaege.

"It was made possible by the outstanding players and program at SIU," said Jones of his six-year

Saturday's win came a little easier, 12-5 and 2-0.

In the first game, the Salukis jumped to a 3-0 lead. Alamos came back to within four runs in the fourth and one in the fifth to even the game. The Salukis remained the same until SIU once again broke things open in extra innings.

In the bottom of the eighth, SIU scored seven times to secure the victory. Bert Newman started things off with a single and climaxed the uprising with a two-run single in his second at bat in the inning. The Salukis were aided by three walks and two errors by the Redbirds.

Jim Kessler, in relief of Robin Derry, picked up his second win of the season.

The final game of the series was a tough defensive game with good pitching. Sophomore Dewey Robinson went the distance, blanking Miami on just four hits. Howie Mitchell scored what proved to be the winning run in the first after he tripled and scored on Steve Short's single.

In pressure situations, our pitching, Coach Ichiy and defense held up. Jones said of the sweep. "We did the little things that enabled us to win the close one.

The finishers were: Shalby Sharp, second in D-19, Mark Stover, third in H-25; and Clint VanKooke, third in H-31.

Thursday at 7 p.m. the Microphone Room of the Student Center, the club will hold a clinic for those interested in orienteering. Those interested can contact Anita Skoel, 547-8703.
The defense has been good all year—we haven't had one bad game," Salukio coach licky Jones remarked after the game. "We're really good defensively over what we've been in the past, and we've had two double plays. Maybe we've had more double play chances this year, I don't know.

While the defense was turning over three double plays Monday, the offense was wrapping up things early with some daring baserunning and consistent hitting in the early innings.

The winning run scored in the first, mainly through baserunning. Bert Newman opened with a base hit and stole second, and Mitchell singled him to third, then stole second. Steve Sharratt's relayed out in one run, and Pruck Hawk's sacrifice fly scored the eventual winner.

The hosts need the kind of game with three more in the second after two were out. Walks to Dan Herbst and Newman around a hit basemanz loaded the bases for Mitchell, who lined a single past the pitcher for two runs. Hawk's bases-loaded walk eventually brought in the fifth run of the game.

The Dogs scored their sixth run in the third, when shortstop Louis Wurtz took too long with Vukovich's two-out grounder, allowing him to reach first on a hit and Locascio to score.

After Poerner's homer in the top of the fourth, the Salukis finished the score with two runs in the half of the inning. John Hescheidt's two-out double delivered Sharratt, who was on with the second of his four singles. White, the leftfielder, then dropped Hawk's fly ball, allowing Hescheidt to score. "I knew our hitting was too good to keep leaving men on base," Jones said of the team's clutch seventh hitting. "We'd been leaving 10 men on a game, and that couldn't continue."

Adkins' six-hitter, boosting his mark to 26, didn't go unnoticed either. The Freeport righthander may have solidified his chances for staying in the starting rotation. "I thought he pitched a good game," Jones praised. "He's capable of pitching a good game and definitely can be in the rotation. We can't have a bad stretch, though," the Salukio mentor continued, "and that's what we need out of our starting pitching. Guys with lack of control have to be started, although that doesn't mean someone like Hodges is in there for that reason."

Hodges is slated to start the opener against Greenville Tuesday, but the second game starter is still an unknown. Southpaw Tim Ver- paule would be due, but he's suffering a stiff arm and definitely will not start.

It's another national title for Saluki women gymnasts

By Martha Sanford

Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

The SIU elite class women gymnasts did it again. They took their 10th national collegiate, AAU or USGF championship in 12 years by placing first at the National Collegiate Championship in Heyward, Calif., last weekend.

With a winning score of 107.35, the Saluki women were well ahead of the second place score of the University of Massachusetts's 105.5. Southwest Missouri, Springfield College and Penn State completed the list of the top five finishers with scores of 104.5, 103.70 and 102.75, respectively.

Denise Didier, a freshman from Chicago, captained the Salukis through the meet, scoring a 36.0 to place sixth all-around in the Saturday individual competition.

"As a team we did not score as well as we should have," said head coach Herb Vogel. "It was not a good meet for us, but good enough to win.

"Vogel said the SIU competitors, representing 23 teams and 46 schools, were the toughest competition he had ever seen.

Four SIU women—Didier, Lynn Geary, Sandi Gross and Stephanie Stromer—received the necessary scores from team competition to go into the finals in individual competition. With only 12 women qualifying for the finals in each event, SIU looked strong with four women in the running.

But their consistency did not hold, and the four women did not finish as well as anticipated.

Didier tied for fifth place in beam with a score of 9.46 to give the Salukis one of only two top six places in the individual events. In vaulting, her qualifying score of 9.25 was the top score going into the finals, but she missed her vault and finished with a score of 8.85.

Teammates Govin and Gross also qualified in vaulting with average scores of 9.15 and 9.2, respectively. Govin and Didier qualified in bars.

Stromer qualified in second on the beam to get into the finals, but ran into some trouble when her fall off the four-inch wide, four-foot high apparatus. She made up for it, however, by coming back to place third in floor exercise with a score of 9.2.

Defending beam champion Diane Grayson, who had her arm in a cast for six weeks, made a very good showing in trying to retain her title. In her beam routine, she completed her first aerial, but missed the second, which cost her 0.5 of a point. If she had hit the second aerial, her score would have been 9.15, close to holding her title.

"Dianne did the very best she could," said Vogel, "considering she just had her cast removed.

Vogel attributed part of the lack of higher scores to the limited amount of warmup and practice time the women were able to get. Due to the large crowds and demands placed on the available practice space, the Salukis were limited to an hour-and-a-half of practice on Wednesday and Thursday and only one try on the competition equipment.

As a result, new collegiate rules that had been installed to eliminate the disparity of the competitors and reduce quantity.

In collegiate competition, the 75 season is now past history. But for Salukis Lyn Govin and Sandi Gross, there still is work to be done. Both women will be competing in the U.S. Gymnastics Federation national qualification meet April 25-27 in Reno, Nev.

"I'm not impossible, it certainly was an improbability that the Saluki's could win the whole thing," said Vogel, "co-sponsors this one, it's more satisfying."

"I had said we wouldn't get last, but it was a situation where I'm trying to figure who we're going to beat when we get there," Meade said.

"I had no reason to figure that the Salukis would be in the final three-team competition, so finishing third behind California and Louisiana State was no great disappointment. California grabbed the team lead from the outset and led all the way in running up a 437.35 winning total. LSU, second all the way, finished at 433.70, while SIU maintained the third spot all weekend in fourth, 431.00.

Host Indiana State led the rest of the pack at 425.45, followed by Nebraska at 424.40. Michigan was sixth with 423.85, defending champ Iowa State seventh at 423.50, and defending runner-up Arizona State eighth at 418.46.

"LSU was there with California all the way, and we could have snuck in on California, too," Meade said. "It was a question of we were going with our sixth man instead of our first, so that was asking too much."

The disadvantage wasn't obvious, especially in the Saturday options, where SIU finished second behind California. The Salukis' lowest total was a 30.10 on the pommel horse, as they rolled up a 219.25 to the Golden Bears' 220.75.

The Bears had won Thursday's compulsories with 213.60 to LSU's 211.75 and SIU's 208.95. Leading the way in Irvick's absence were a pair of All-Americans, Regents Jack Laurie and Glen Tidwell. Laurie tied for second in the rings competition, while Tidwell tied for fifth on the pommel horse.

Tony Hanson was seventh on the pommel horse, while Tidwell teamed with Jon Hallberg for a pair of impressive all-around totals, 54.10 and 54.44, respectively, which still failed to place among the leaders.

"Laurie's performance was really outstanding," Meade remarked. "His father had died the Friday before. He hadn't had a chance to practice the week before the meet, since he just flew into Terre Haute on the Tuesday."

"One of the kids from another team came up to me and mentioned how we'd been written off by the newspapers in Terre Haute and by everybody else," Meade said. "He said, 'You beat teams you can't beat with the guys you have.' This was the most satisfying performance since our nationals in 1970, when we got second right after the car accident when the kids had gotten hurt. When you do something more than you had hoped for, like this one, it's more satisfying."

"And could it have been another championship with Irvick? I don't look back," Meade said, "but there's no doubt that we'd have won. Just giving Jim his average score in the regional meet would have done it, but he had improved so much more than that."
