Housing Quality Varies For Married Students

This is fourth in a series of articles being written on the living situation of students. The first two articles dealt with the current housing situation of students and the third with the University administration's efforts to improve living conditions. This article will focus on the specific living arrangements for married students.

By Dan Hallinan Egyptian Staff Writer

Housing quality varies widely for married students, with many having adequate living conditions and some facing significant challenges. This article aims to provide an overview of the housing situation for married students at the university.

The Veteran, Administration has issued a checklist of dual eligibility requirements. If you are not familiar with these requirements, we encourage you to read the checklist so you can determine if you are eligible for certain benefits.

One of the deadlines for the Veteran’s Administration is coming up on Jan. 31, 1993 as the end of the year for dual eligibility for the Beneficial and Early Retirement Option (BERO) from the Department of Defense.

Any veteran wanting to participate in the BERDO program must apply for a benefits statement no later than Jan. 31, 1993. If you do not find out more about the BERDO, you are not eligible for the benefits.

The Veteran’s Administration is not affected by the President’s proclamation. There are veterans who are not affected by the President’s proclamation and must prepare to lose all their benefits if the government runs out of money.

This requirement is contained in the law itself, therefore, we are not affected by the President’s proclamation.

Both the state and federal governments are running out of money.

The state government is running out of money by the end of January, while the federal government is running out of money by the end of February.

For all $1,000 grants toward the purchase of a new bicycle or other equipment, actually disabled veterans must be eligible for the grant.

How to apply for the grant, you can apply by writing to the Veterans Administration or by calling your local office.
