Liquor Committee called by Keene; chairman quits

by John Durbin

Carbondale Mayor David Keene said Monday he will call together members of his Liquor Advisory Committee sometime this week to discuss details of the alleged bribery attempts in connection with city liquor licenses.

The chairman of the committee, Charles Murden, submitted his resignation to Keene last week.

Murden said Sunday his resignation had nothing to do with recent allegations by Keene that he had been offered bribes in exchange for his influence in the issuance of liquor licenses.

"I just had more things than I could do, so I had to drop something. It's as simple as that," Murden said.

Murden, real estate man and insurance agent, said he is in the process of buying an insurance agency. He was named to the advisory committee 16 May, 1967 and took over as chairman Sept. 18, succeeding Ward Morton.

Keene said he would inform the city council of Murden's resignation at its regular meeting Tuesday night.

The mayor said he does not immediately plan to appoint either a new chairman or a new member to the committee.

Other committee members are Robert Stalls, director of Office of Economic Opportunity, Donald Darling, Carbondale physician, and David Luck, SIU professor of marketing.

Although the mayor is the liquor commissioner and has the sole authority of issuing liquor licenses, the committee advises him on each license application. Keene also asks the City Council to approve each license applicant.

Darling said he had not been told about a meeting this week with the mayor. But he said he wants to find out from Keene about the alleged bribery attempts, and also why Murden and Ward Morton resigned.

Morton, SIU professor of Government, resigned from the committee during the summer.

According to Keene, Morton resigned because of an excess amount of work connected with his teaching position.

Darling said he does not plan to resign from the committee at this time. He said before taking any action he wants to learn all of the details behind Morton and Murden's resignations.

"I have not discussed the situation with Keene at all and the committee has not met for several months," Darling said. "I only know what I have read in the papers."

Referring to the proposed strengthening of the present liquor application, Darling said he thinks it is "a good idea to know all of the owners of a particular license."

Luck said he has no plans to resign from the committee. He said he had received word from Keene about a meeting this week. He also said he has not been offered any bribes.

Concerning the proposed strengthening of the present liquor application, Luck said he feels it is "very desirable."

Stalls was unavailable for comment.

MacVicar says parking rules now in effect

Enforcement of parking regulations on campus began Monday morning at 8 a.m., according to SIU Carbondale Chancellor Robert W. MacVicar.

Earlier a spokesman from the Chancellor's office said Security Police were issuing only warning tickets Monday, but MacVicar formed the action "enforcement."

The police concentrated on clearing blue decals of unauthorized vehicles in the campus area, and issued a courtesy ticket. All blue decals have been sold. (See story, page 13)

Previously it had been announced that decals were supposed to be displayed on all vehicles beginning Monday.

The issuance of warning notices was interpreted as a temporary measure to give people time to purchase their decals, the spokesman said, and lines were steady all day yesterday at the Parking Section offices.

Thomas Jeffetter, head of the Security Police, was in Edwardsville and unavailable for comment.

Cpt. Carl Kirk said he didn't know when ticketing would begin.

Late Monday Chancellor MacVicar said it was his understanding that Security Police had begun enforcing the new regulations at 8 a.m.

It is not known how long Security Police will continue to issue warning tickets.

Faculty power; no!—MacVicar

By Dan Van Atta

The SIU Faculty Council will not, in the immediate future, be granted actual powers in the establishment of University policies, Chancellor Robert MacVicar said Monday night.

In a rather intimate give-and-take session with the SIU Chapter of the American Association of University Professors (AAUP), held at the Crime Theater in the University School, the Chancellor reacted to some of the frustrations voiced by members of the faculty.

"Can you see the Faculty Council having the final judgement on deciding issues?" one professor asked.

"Why does the University have to function within this framework — why can't we change?" asked another. "I sometimes feel the same anxieties I felt as a student."

MacVicar answered these questions by giving what he said was his "honest viewpoint" of the University governmental framework.

"I do not believe you can divorce authority from responsibility," he said. "I feel it is essential that person in the position of responsibility have the authority to act on dispositions."

TV plans Illinois series

Three centuries of Illinois history will be recounted in a five part color television documentary film series beginning Thursday on SIU's two educational TV stations.

"Illinois--The Rugged Land" consists of five half-hour episodes to be aired at 8:30 p.m. Thursday simultaneously on WSIU-TV, Carbondale, and WUSI-TV, Olney.

A year in the making, the series was written and directed by Brian Schelter from the SIU Broadcasting Service. Historical consultant was author John W. Allen whose new book, "It Happened in Southern Illinois," will be released to coincide with the start of the TV series.

The films are a blend of motion picture footage taken on location at famous historical sites throughout the state, hundreds of old still photographs and dramatized historical sequences recounted by members of the SIU Theater Department.

University Park voters ratify new constitution

Residents of University Park ratified a new constitution by a reported vote of 97 percent in favor, a spokesman for the Executive Council reported Monday.

Officials of the Executive Council declined to announce the exact vote count, but Steve Brown, vice president, said the vote was "approximately 1,150 in favor and 99 against." The election was held Friday. Stuart Hirsch, president of the Council, said the voting "was the largest turnout in University Park history. I hope this is an indication of growing student interest in the area.

Eric Kramer says he never would have finished college without Reading Dynamics.

Come to Carbondale's new Reading Dynamics Institute and see why he feels this way.

Whether you're worried about finishing college or would just like A's instead of B's, Reading Dynamics can make you a more effective student.
How? By improving your basic ability to read.
The average person reads about 250 to 400 words a minute—word by word; the way he was taught in grade school.

Eric Kramer of St. Louis University is one of thousands of college students who have decided to stop reading like fourth-graders.
A pre-med student from Plainview, Texas, Eric says "I took the Reading Dynamics course when it became evident that I could not keep up in college, or even hope to achieve the educational goals I had set for myself. Unless I learned to read faster and more effectively. Now I read 2,000 to 2,500 words a minute in literature courses going down to around 1,200 for technical books. I wish I could have taken the course in high school."

Jerry Burn, a St. Louis University psychology major from Oaklawn, Illinois, says "Prior to taking the Reading Dynamics course, I had found my reading to be tedious and time-consuming. With my reading speed increased, I am able to read more material in different areas and in a shorter time. Also helpful were the methods of teaching Dynamic Reading i.e. the re-call patterns, I remember what I read much longer and I'm able to enjoy my reading much more than ever before. I got eight friends to take the course. I'd recommend it to anyone."

"WIN RADIO"
A bit ridiculous

"Ridiculous" was the way one student senator described Student Senate action last week and factual approach his comment was justifiable criticism.

Pete Gollo, a commuter senator who ran unopposed in last spring's election, said on the issue over the Senate's endorsement of a Faculty Council proposal critical of recent motor vehicle regulation.

As Gollo pointed out, it seemed a bit much to expect the University to reconsider its parking decal rates at this late date.

"Maybe if they (the Senate) wouldn't go off on as many diversions, they could have made it a real deal before now.

There is another side to the picture, however, one that involved those students who wonder why the Senate had not taken a position on the parking regulation change before.

Even Darrell Harrison, president of the Faculty Council that drafted the resolution, expressed surprise that student opinion had not been taken into account by the Senate earlier.

Realistically, both sides need a little lesson in assessing the majority student opinion. Many students don't find the regulation changes a hardship; in fact, most find it a definite improvement over last year.

Despite the $25 cost of a red decal, students find that they are willing to afford the expense of a luxury they couldn't have gotten for any amount of money in the past.

And for those with weaker pocketbooks, the $5 silver decal provides just about the same parking privileges as were formerly allowed undergraduates last year.

Amid what is, then, a joint faculty-staff furore over the increase, the Student Senate decides to endorse the Faculty Council resolution, fully realizing that such endorsement would have little or no effect on the eventual outcome of the debate.

But it is not to be expected, that the Student Senate is ineffectual as many students charge, but rather in Gollo's words, a bit "ridiculous."

It seems that some members of the Senate have still not realized the lesson they should have learned last year—that their power is as effective as the degree of responsibility they give to their actions.

Student Body President Sam Panayotovitch has asked for a reestablishment of normal communication with the University administration, fully knowing that progress will be slow, but recognizing that only then will there be any progress at all.

If Student Senator Gollo is right, and if the goal of the Student Body is right, then perhaps the Senate should have deliberated on its decision and come up with a constructive proposal on its own.

Black culture vital dimension

To the editor:

The following is submitted to introduce to a further degree the new Black American Studies Program at Southern Illinois University.

The Black American Studies Program introduces a vital, new dimension into the current movement toward greater human dignity among men in America.

As already apparent, recent developments within this country have made critical the lack of understanding and complementary consideration of Afro-American people by many Americans. The fact that many Black Americans themselves are suffering a lack of the sense of history which is necessary for any man's identity and dignity has also been brought to critical focus. Consequently, the opportunity and need is evident for educational institutions throughout the country to apply the worth of academic activity to the multi-dimensional aspects of Black Americanism.

The Black American Studies Program is an act to meet this need on this campus and in its environs. It has as its immediate task the task of introducing aspects of Black Culture and History into the curricula of the University.

The program's basic goal is to enhance with Afro-American heritage the total curriculum, thinking, and activities of the University and its environs. Hopefully, in so doing, the program will foster a balanced awareness and increased understanding of contemporary and future developments by virtue of extended historical-cultural perspectives.

The major function of the program, accordingly, is to serve as an interchange for ideas concerning new course designs and expanded personnel needs. In addition, although the program itself is not sponsoring any courses at present, it is designed to service any expressed need of the campus and local population by way of serving as a resource bank or initiating seminars and informal discussions on some aspects of Black America.

Another direct service to the university community will be the program's reference center which is presently being installed in the "Old Baptist Foundation" building, located adjacent to the Office of the Chancellor. The reference center will be equipped with an array of books on Black America, primarily written by Black Americans, other printed materials, and some audio-visual facilities which will also be made available.

This aspect of the program is designed to encourage and sustain self-governed interests and studies. In the future this facility will be geared to accommodate any research endeavor pertaining to Black America.

In conjunction with the general lack of systematic knowledge of Black America in a lack in this country of personnel equipped to transmit this understanding, another immediate aspect of the program is the establishment of courses of study directed toward a minor or major in Black American Studies.

All immediately realizable programs are to be geared toward the ultimate realization of areas of specialization in Black American Studies on bachelors and graduate degree levels.

The program may be contacted, temporarily, through the Intercol Program, located in Woody Hall, Room C116, Tom Lattour, Assistant Coordinator Black American Studies Program

Academic dilemma: argue or get tough

By Robert Betts
Copies Newsvacce
First of a Series

Faced with the threat of further campus disorder this fall, some university authorities have decided to open a dialogue over a question that is far from academic.

The question, as viewed by many is: At what point must a university begin dealing with radical students and start getting tough?

The feeling that tolerance and respect for the rights of others to express their views have often been made excuses for overturning or disrupting student mob rule.

"Universities have been too soft of late to try to combat force with reason," said Logan Willon, president of the American Council on Education. "I believe in using reason as long as you can. But in some situations, the only way to counter force is with force.

Vernon R. Allen, president of Ohio University, has drawn up a list of institutions that have been wracked by student violence, admits that administrators and faculty members expect some confusion since they are dedicated to freedom of inquiry and expression.

"But when confusion reaches the point of anarchy," he adds, "it interferes with the functioning of the university, action must be taken. Persuasion must be the first step. If that fails, the university must be prepared to use force."

Reagan has told the University of California Board of Regents, of which he is chairman, "Of course, dissent should cause us to give due appraisial to current policies and actions. But to yield to or ignore revolts is to ensure more and greater revolt.

Several others have spoken out strongly on the need for firmer action not only in the case of those who infringe on the rights of others, but also to enforce the many rules, interfere with the normal operations of a university or otherwise disrupt campus life.

One who leaves no doubt about his stand is Charles Lindbergh, the famous California state legislator. He states: "When a few hundred students can take matters into their own hands, occupy buildings, hold administrators and professors' hostages and bring to a halt the normal educational process for hundreds of thousands of serious, law-abiding students, something is radically wrong—and I say it cannot be tolerated."

Distinguishing between proper, lawful protest demonstrations and the disruption of the educational process by groups using intimidation or force, Luckman says: "Academic freedom means freedom from interference, not freedom from the law."

No authority denies the right of students or others to support causes or engage in orderly demonstration and protest. But some administrators seem to have difficulty in deciding what is the permissible limit of student protest—where to draw the line and tell students not to cross it.

While agreeing that police action might be the only answer to outright rebellion, they believe the basic problem of student rights remains unresolved.

The thought of this group of administrators seems to be that it is proper to crack down where there is serious rioting. However, the deeper problem is claimed to be the elimination of the cause of the rioting, for once rioting occurs things have already passed the stage where anything other than strong countermeasures is possible.

SERVING THE THIRD GENERATION OF AMERICA'S FINEST STUDENTS
Safe driving plans praised by Tadejevic
by Sam Cox

"Traffic safety programs have a significant effect on the public if people take a little time to pay attention to them," said John Tadejevic, staff member of Governor's Advisory Committee on Traffic Safety. "It's the same with the safety "commercial" Swamped at the public by radio and newspapers, he indicated.

"Most people hear such messages, but really don't listen to them," he added, "sometimes a commercial can keep the driver on his toes and remind him to stay alert."

Tadejevic was in Carbondale Monday as a coordinator for the Egyptian Region Youth Traffic Safety Conference. 265 high school students attended the conference at the University Center.

"Many of the students are leaders in their high schools, and they do have an influence on others around them. So we believe that distributing the problems of driving has a positive effect on young people," Tadejevic said.

Tadejevic said that the school should have an important role in traffic safety. "Naturally you have to educate people in a safe manner, and the high school is the ideal place to do this."

"The trouble is that the time given to driver education in most high schools is very limited," Tadejevic said. He explained that most high schools in Illinois offer thirty hours of the classroom phase of driver education and six hours of behind the wheel instruction.

"This is why we seek to get promotional ideas across to young people. Then they will be more likely to be affected by good driving attitudes and habits," Tadejevic said.

He said that sometimes the best education is to have a close call or to be involved in a minor accident. "This is an expensive way to learn, though," he admitted.

Tadejevic said the key to safe driving is to stay alert while driving.

Faculty power not in near future according to MacVicar

"I feel that I am disposed to listen to the recommendations of commitees, but that I am not disposed to always act in conjunction with those recommendations," he said.

The student decision must remain his legal responsibility within the present University system, Tadjevic said.

The senior class president, professor of government, asked if the University community could look forward to a more regularized meeting of dealing with student disciplinary action.

"We do have a whole system of appeals boards - or 2-Boards as the students like to call them - now under consideration," replied MacVicar.

"I think the boards should move from panels comprised totally of students, at the lowest or dormitory floor level, to a joint student-faculty board at the Chancellor's level. I would also like to see students involved at the level of the Dean of Students," he said.

He said the highest appeal board would culminate either at the level of the president or the Board of Trustees, concerning what methods would be employed in dealing with student disciplinary action with serious political and social overtones.

He said, however, that the student body appeared to be "happier and more satisfied" this fall than they were last year. He said he did not anticipate any "serious trouble in the near future."

In restating the three goals for the University that he outlined at the University Convention last week, the Chancellor emphasized his devotion to achieving their end.

"I really believe in individual freedom, equal representation, and an ordered structure in which freedom and opportunity can survive," he said.

Sales completed for blue decals

By Gary Call

Blue parking decals have been sold out, but a priority list of persons desiring blue stickers has been established at the Parking Section Office. August LeMarchal, parking office supervisor, said the last blue decals was sold Friday afternoon. The number on file is equal to the number of blue parking spaces on campus and no more will be sold unless additional parking spaces become available.

Those signing the priority list are asked red decals, for $25, and should more blue spaces become available these persons may obtain them by paying the $20 difference between prices of the two classifications. About 80 persons have already signed this list.

As of Monday afternoon, 5,000 decals of all types had been sold including 1,244 blue decals. Although the parking plan had called for only 1,800, the extra 44 decals went to those students who are severely disabled.

Red decals sales totaled 2,004 while silver decals sales were 1,789. LeMarchal commented that many of the faculty and others eligible for blue decals had purchased red or silver decals.

Although sales are progressing smoothly, with few delays for purchasers of decals, filling, collating and numerating all sales will take the staff a matter of weeks, LeMarchal said.

Car pool decals and exchanges of decals have been allowed with some extra work for the staff. The number of exchanges made in the few days before all blue decals had been sold. Many red and sun decals were returned and exchanged for blue during that period.

Dwyer lauds youth as future state leaders in SIU speech

by Mary Frazer

Making an obvious bid for the college vote, Robert A. Dwyer, Republican candidate for Lieutenant Governor praised youth Monday as the future leaders of the state.

Dwyer was on campus during the afternoon and spoke informally with students for about an hour on the patio of the University Center. He answered many questions regarding his position on major issues of both state and national government.

One question concerned the actions on the parts of both young people and police during the disturbances in Grant Park and Lincoln Park, Chicago, at the time of the Democratic convention.

Dwyer combined in his answer his feelings regarding the riots in particular and his general opinion of the youth today.

Dwyer showed concern for young people, feeling they react as they do because of lack of leadership in government today. He said this was the overruling reason for the riots that erupted during the convention.

He said he understood their motives and felt that, if conducted peaceably, marches and demonstrations are a sincere expression of their opinions.

He said the protests in question were not conducted rationally and meaningfully due to a few leaders disinterested in the major issues of today and seeking only to disrupt governmental organization.

The policemen were within their rights to protect the law and to restore peace as they did under the circumstances, Dwyer answered.

He added further that he is in favor of a strong police force, but denounced a police army specifically aimed at putting down protests.

Several questions concerned the qualifications of Republican candidates for the state offices as compared to Democratic opponents.

Generalizing, Dwyer said he knew of no justifiable way to measure a candidate's abilities. He said he was opposed to predicting the effectiveness of either party's candidates on the basis of past experience in government. He did, however, feel that what a person stands for and his ideas and solutions to the basic issues at hand were reliable reasons.

He concluded the discussion by assuring his audience that he would work hard and push for the rights of young people. He said he is willing to respect and consider their voices of opinion as interested citizens and participants in government.

Reservist claim turned down

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court Monday turned down a challenge to President Johnson's mobilization of reservists and freed the Army to call up 525 soldiers to Vietnam.

Eight justices joined in the action and gave no explanation for their ruling.

The ninth, Justice William O. Douglas, dissented and said the Army has not lived up to its promise to the reservists.

The reservists lodged two major claims: 1) that in being called up for 24 months instead of 256 soldiers to Vietnam.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Richard M. Nixon said Monday that Secretary of State Dean Rusk has advised him the administration still hopes for progress in the Vietnam peace talks before the Nov. 3 presidential election.

The Republican nominee for the presidency said if these negotiations fail and he becomes president he will seek a settlement of both honor and generosity, offering even to help Communist North Vietnam rebuild its bomb- shattered economy if interference in the South is ended.

Nixon said as president he would place greater emphasis on non-military aspects of the struggle, on training of South Vietnamese forces and would "broaden the diplomatic table" to include items not now in negotiation. He did not spell out the matters he had in mind.

Awards banquet ends
Greek Week activities

By Mary Lou Manning

"The day has long since passed when Greeks can justify their existence on social activities," Mrs. Frankie Muse Freeman told approximately 500 SIU Greeks and their guests at the annual Greek banquet Saturday.

Guests included President and Mrs. Deloye W. Morris and Carbondale Mayor David Korwe and his wife. The banquet held in the University Center Ballroom was the culmination of the 1968 Greek Week.

Mrs. Freeman, national president of Delta Sigma Theta, public service sorority, then challenged Greeks to take an active role in integration.

"The Civil Disorders Commission warned last February that "the nation is moving toward two societies—one black and one white,"" quoted the only female and Negro commissioner on the U.S. Civil Rights Commission.

"Racism is not in the past. It is not a regional problem but a national phenomenon."

These conditions are going to change, she said. The question is whether the change will be through the democratic process or by national violence, she added.

The remainder of the banquet program consisted of the presentations of awards by Lee Ann Scheuerman of Sigma Kappa and Julian Pet of Theta Xi, co-chairmen of Greek Week.

Debbie Conner of Delta Zeta was named Greek Goddess while Joe Schultz of Phi Kappa Tau received the Greek God award. Alpha Gamma Delta sorority took first place in Greek Sing with Delta Zeta sorority placing second. In the fraternity division, Theta Xi took first place honors for the third consecutive year; Kappa Alpha Psi was second.

The award to the faculty member who contributed most to the Greek system during the past year was shared by two men, Robert Kingsbury, assistant professor in the Department of Music, and Charles Zeeckler, associate professor in the Department of Theater.

Nancy Hunter of Alpha Gamma Delta received the award for the most outstanding sorority woman and Mike Klevan of LEAC was named outstanding fraternity man. The awards were made on the basis of scholarship and activities.

Tug-of-War winners were Alpha Gamma Delta sorority and Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

The Interfraternity Council scholarship trophy was presented permanently to "TIPAC" for winning the award six consecutive quarters. The Panhellenic Council scholarship trophy went to Sigma Kappa sorority for a 3.6 average spring quarter.

Unofficially, the Junior Inter-Greek scholarship trophy was given to the Delta Zeta sorority spring pledge class which compiled a 4.3 overall.
New student directory scheduled for November despite increases

By Lawrence Maley

This year's increased enrollment will not significantly add to the problem of compiling the SIU phone directory, said Earl E. Parkhill, in charge of publication of the directory at Central Publications.

The process is highly automated, he said. No additional work or time will be required because of more students. All that 1,500 more students will mean is that the directory will have about 10 more pages.

The directory, to be published the first week of November, as of now will have the same format as last year's, but nothing is definite, Parkhill said.

The student section—the white pages—is printed directly from IBM print of student records. There is no intermediate type setting; the print-out is photographed for printing plates.

If a student is enrolled by the second week of the fall quarter, his name will be listed. If a student filled out his record sheet incorrectly, the mistake will be in the directory, Parkhill warned.

The faculty-staff section is the yellow pages. Each department received a print-out sheet from the faculty-staff data file showing who works in what department, said Parkhill. This print-out is corrected and ex-employees struck from the list. Then it is sent to personnel at Central Publications.

The information for the office section, the green pages, is obtained from the telephone exchange.

Parkhill also mentioned that the Parachute Club to meet tonight. Parachute Club will have a special meeting of the SIU Parachute Club at 9 p.m. today in Room D of the University Center. Prospective members are urged to attend.

Southern Dancers' repertory group gains easy acceptance

By Thomas Bills

Southern Dancers' Repertory Company has had no trouble gaining an audience in this area, says W. Grant Gray, assistant professor of Dance and Theater. "We have something to offer the students for free admission," he said.

The group opened its fall season last week to nearly full houses with performances of "Brutus as a 'A'" and "Hoff." Another performance of "Brutus as a 'A'" and "Roscich Circa!" is scheduled for 8 p.m., Saturday, "Art of Dance as Theater," a lecture-demonstration, will be presented Sunday at 3 p.m. All performances will be in the SIU dance studio.

Gray previously worked in Colorado and California where audiences were larger because of metropolitan areas with larger auditoriums. Gray said, however, that the West Coast audiences were more enthusiastic than those in this area. The repertory company performs in the Southern Dance studio north of University Center, which has a seating capacity of about 220.

Many people have a misconception of the art, Gray said. "Dance does not try to promote a hidden, meaning or story. If a person leaves a performance with a story derived from it, then it is something extra the individual has received from the performance. Dance is the art of motion and we move, there is no hidden meaning to understand in appreciating the art of dance."

The repertory company is trying to become the most active and popular group on campus, promoting dance in southern and central Illinois, Gray said. "This is why we are touring the area."

The Southern Dancers meet at 7 p.m., each Tuesday and Thursday in the studio, which is open to the public.

A dancer for the repertory company must possess "a total awareness of his body, an instrument which the dancer must know what to do with," Gray said. "A dancer must have rapport, the ability to work very closely with others in the company."

SIU psychologists simulate moon shot

By Margaret Niceley

The next American "moon shot" may be launched from the SIU campus.

Psychologists here have built a simulated rocket launcher to find out how people make decisions. Student volunteers sit at the controls and decide whether or not to launch imaginary rockets, based on data fed into the simulation machine. The "rockets" that blast off from there will never reach the moon, but they will help researchers discover how decisions are made and how decision-making abilities can be improved.

The rocket launcher actually is a homemade computer built by Gordon Pitz, associate professor of psychology, and several graduate students in the Department of Psychology.

"It has been in the process of being built for about 12 months," Pitz said. "Every time we decide to do something a little more complicated, we go out and buy more parts."

He calls it "The Thing -- usually preceded by unprintable epithets," he said.

A sample program consists of telling a person at the controls that he is in charge of testing rocket systems and he is to decide whether a certain system will work. There are "payoffs" for correct decisions, and "pay" is deducted for wrong answers.

"We are trying to learn how people revise their judgments as they gain additional information and how they respond to the 'payoffs' we offer," Pitz said. "We have discovered that most subjects are more interested in making the correct-decision than in getting the money involved. For instance, in a medical problem, the subject is more interested in determining whether a tumor really is malignant or benign than in saying whether the 'patient' wants to have or what would 'cost' less."

The psychologist also learned that a person's responses will vary little after a short briefing on how the computer works and how they can improve their performance on it. But answers vary a great deal after one has gained experience in operating the computer and making the decisions it asks for.

Ultimately the machine will be used to train individuals in making wise decisions. "Obviously a five-year-old child cannot make as good decisions as a person who is 25," Pitz said. "We want to find out what he should be paying attention to in order to develop his decision-making. Once we know this, we can direct attention to those factors."

Pitz, who is from Litchfield, England, said he had been interested in building a computer like "The Thing" for about five years. He has used computer programs in research for several years and worked extensively with data processing in research toward obtaining his own graduate degree at Carnegie Tech.
Few students believe Carbondale values views of ‘Joe College’

By Linda Reiner

If an informal survey is any indication, SIU students seem uninterested in Carbondale’s city government.

Last week Carbondale Mayor David Keene appealed to students to take an active part in the city government by making suggestions to the City Council.

The majority opinion of about 35 students stopped at random on campus this week revealed little interest in the idea. All agreed that this system would probably be ineffective. They said that only a small minority of interested students would actually contact the council, and the council would probably pay little or no attention to “Joe College’s” proposal.

Most admitted that they really never thought about Carbondale government because they didn’t feel it affected them. One cop said, “I don’t consider Carbondale my home; the University is.” The University, keeps such a hold over students that most of us don’t need Carbondale.”

All agreed that the University is a dominant influence in the Carbondale community. Although little interest was shown, they said that there should be more communication and a deeper relationship between the two. The government should establish student opinion in matters such as traffic control, voting registration and “the Carbondale cost of living.”

Stuart Hirsh, the president of University Park and a junior majoring in forestry, suggested several changes. He would like to see the city government back merchants-student trust, the establishment of more places for student fun and relaxation and the construction of an overpass on U.S. 51 in front of Neely Hall.

Hirsh also said that he thinks the city should investigate the practices of local landlords who rent to students.

Many students agreed that the city has recently been showing a favorable attitude towards students. W. Michael Bohdan, a student, said that Mayor Keene last spring quarter “talked with him; he was real friendly and acted like one of us,” he said.

Dead silence was the most common response to the question: “How do you feel students can participate more in city government?” However, there were several ideas. Larry M. Marisotti, a senior from Western Illinois, Ill., who is majoring in zoology, suggested that student support from the engineering students in solving the traffic problems. Actual field work in the city government could be required for government and political science majors.

Perhaps students would get involved if local papers were more available to students, such as having reprints at the Information Desk in the University Center,” he said.

David M. Bonomo, a junior majoring in government, suggested a possible solution to the problem of strengthening ties between Carbondale government and the students. “If the voting age is lowered, students will have tremendous impact on politics locally and nationally. You can bet that the city government would make an all-out effort to reach and interest us,” he said.

SIU staff to aid ‘Model City’ plan

SIU graduate students and faculty will help plan Carbondale’s “Model City” project for the northeast section of the city.

The planning staff will analyze the problems of the neighborhood and then plan a project. $81,000 has been allotted by various agencies of the federal government for use in making the plan. If the plan is approved, the city will be eligible for future federal aid.

The “Model City” project is designed to eliminate the social and economic problems of the northeast neighborhood, according to the SIU Office of University Services to Carbondale.

Carbondale is one of 37 cities in the United States participating in the federal program.

The next step in the program is the drawing up and submitting of finance plans to the Federal Department of Housing and Urban Development.
Kaline, Tigers stop Cardinals

DE FRUIT (AP) — Al Kaline, who swatted out-16 lean years into a second World Series, kept the Tigers alive Monday with a two-run homer in the seventh inning with a .5-3 victory.

Mickey Lolich, the only Tiger to win in the first four games, came through again despite a two-run bomber in the first inning when Orlando Cepeda's two-run homer capped a three-run out.

It was Mickey who opened the winning rally in the seventh with a single when Detroit bounced back as they had done all season. The Lolich closed out a ninth inning threat by fanning Roger Maris and throwing out Lou Brock, who had collected three hits earlier.

The sellout crowd of 53,634 gave Kaline a standing ovation when he went to the right field position at the start of the eighth after his big single off relief pitcher Joe Hoener with the bases loaded and the Tigers trailing 6-4. Norm Cash then knocked in the third run of the inning with a single.

The clubs will take Tuesday off for travel before picking it up with the sixth game, with St. Louis leading the Series 3-2, in Busch Stadium Wednesday afternoon.

The Tigers, fighting desperately to avoid elimination, clawed back with two runs in the fourth inning and finally 'won through for three' in the seventh when they knocked out Nelson Briles and racked up loser Hoener.

Lolich came through dramatically in the ninth inning when the always-dangerous Cardinals stirred up a fuss. Fireman Mickey opened the ninth with a single to center but pinch hitter Phil Gagliano died out, Ed Spezio, another pinch hitter, fouled off eight, including two foul tips that catcher Bill Freehan faked to hold, and then singled to left.

With the tying run on base, Mickey Schefsky sent Maris up to the plate but for pitcher Ron Willis. Maris, a bench warmer today who will retire after the Series, struck out.

The Cards still were alive with Broek, who had 11 hits in 21 previous at bats and the batter, Brock fouled one to left, took a ball and then tapped back weakly to pitcher Lolich on a checked swing, ending the game.

Bright sunshine and a chilly breeze provided a contrast to Sunday's rainy, sloppy game. There were many exciting plays and dramatic moments in the best played game of the Series to date.

Brock was thrown out trying to steal by Freehan in the third and was nailed at the plate, trying to score from second on Julian Javier's single in the fifth. The perfect throw from Willie Horton to Freehan got Brock, who did not stop.

Dick McAuliffe also came through with two fine defensive plays, taking Brock's slide-gled in the seventh and throwing him out and grabbing Flood's smash in the eighth in time to force Javier at second.

It started out like another chapter of a Series that has lapsed for the Cards, Brock, hitting .500 coming into the game, opened the attack on Lolich with a double to left. With one out, Flood single-gled to right, scoring Brock. Cepeda then slugged a two-run homer into the left field stands.

Despite this early bombing, Lolich maintained his poise and blanked the Cards the rest of the way, striking out eight. Detroit fore into starter Briggs for two in the fourth when Stanley led off with a trip to right and scored on Cash's sacrifice fly to Brock. Willie Horton followed with a triple to deep center and scored on Jim Northrup's single, a smash that hopped over Javier's glove.

The Tigers finally broke the seventh when Lolich singled to right with one out, a ball that Ron Davis got his glove on but could not hold.

Runner Hinton remains unbeaten as Saluki loses to Kansas State

Running in the pouring rain, SIU’s best distance runner Gary Hinton continued to control his competitors even though Kansas State University de nooded SIU 20-43 at Moline. Hinton set a record that last ended.

Unbeaten thus far as a collegian, Hinton took the soggy three-mile course in 14:32. It was a course record held by SIU’s Oscar Weimann.

"Gary ran this meet best of all from his other eight,” said SIU coach John W. Brown. "He stayed out in front of all the rain and pressed the pace throughout."

Hinton is expected their Jerome Howe to win, but he couldn’t keep up the pace and was second. SIU runners placed first, ninth, tenth, eleventh, and twelfth for a total of 45 points. Glenn Ujeye placed ninth with a time of 15:29; with Hinton in second, turned in a 15:07 performance. Anderson took third with a 15:16 and Steve Peterson placed fourth with a time of 15:31.

KSU in scoring its 20 points took every place from second to ninth and finished fourth with a 15:4:5 time.

"KSU was a real tough team," Hinton said. One of their last year’s better winners didn’t even make the top 12 because the competition from the under graduates is so stiff. It’s a young team, but they’re showing in their performance so far each week he seems to get better."

Tulsa Hurricanes get revenge, 20-3

By Brent Phelps

Awaiting their 1967 loss to SIU, the Golden Hurricanes of Tulsa braved out their re-venge with a 20-3 victory over the Salukis Saturday in Tulsa.

In each of the first three quarters Tulsa scored and thwarted any offensive threats the Saluki fans presented.

Only 21,700 fans of the expected 40,000 were on hand Saturday for the grand opening of Tul'sa's newly remodeled stadium. Periodic showers throughout the game accounted for the drop in anticipated attendance.

SIU now holds an 8-2 season record while the win boosts Tulsa to an 1-1 record, after losing its season opener to Arkansas.

Tulsa's first touchdown came after a 45-yard drive which ended when quarterback Mike Stripling connected with Vic Prather for a six-yard scoring play.

Southern's only scoring threat in the first half came after they marched from their own 20-yard line to the Tulsa 28. Stalled there; a Saluki field goal went wide as the snap from center sailed through holder Barclay Allen's hands.

In the second quarter Tulsa took the lead again on a 56-yard pass from Allen to Conley, a second touchdown.

Late in the third quarter SIU managed to score a 37-yard field goal with Bradley kicking his second of the season.

SIU's leading scorer was John Quillen, gained 45 yards in six carries. Fullback Tony Parola carried five times for 19 yards.

Tulsa's leading ground gainers were Prather and Conley, each carrying 7 times, for 25 yards.

Barclay Allen again displayed his talented foot maintaining a 43.3 punting average over Tulsa's 35.3 average.

Late in the third quarter the Hurricanes in their second scoring position for the first half.

Fullback Brant Conley picked up the necessary yardage for the touchdowns and his conversion attempt was no good.

The Hurricanes went out in front 13-0.

Southern tried the ground route the first half while Tulsa gained most of its yardage by passing. Tulsa's Stripling completed 13 out of 25 attempts for 125 yards in the first half.

Southern's rushing attempts were stalled by the huge defensive front line of Tulsa.

In the second half SIU took to the air somewhat but Tulsa's defense once again curbed any attempts made by the Salukis.

Midway through the third quarter Stripling carried for the Hurricane's third touchdown and Wyant's conversion attempt was no good.

McLain able to pitch if needed

DETROIT (AP) — Denny McLain saw his doctor Monday and decided he could pitch the sixth game of the World Series if necessary.

McLain, Detroit's 31-game winner who has lost two games to the St. Louis Cardinals, had said Sunday he might not be able to pitch again if the Series got past Monday's, fifth game.

The Tigers won that game 5-3 so now a sixth game is necessary.

"My shoulder feels real good," McLain said after the game. "I can pitch if there's a seventh game. In fact, if he'd like me to pitch Wednesday, I'll go out Wednesday. God knows I'm rested."

McLain said his arm was not bothering him.
