WILLIAMSBURG, Va. - On the eve of drug-filled June 1, several hundred students of the College of William and Mary gathered in a candlelight vigil to protest increased drug enforcement on campus.

The vigil was organized by the College's Student Assembly, which passed a resolution earlier in the week calling for increased drug enforcement and a more active role in local drug awareness programs.

The Student Assembly also provided $1000 of its operating budget to sponsor the vigil.

MADISON, Wis. - With the announcement of the three-year drug enforcement plan of the Madison Police Department, University of Wisconsin-Madison students are expected to face a more aggressive enforcement of campus drug laws.

The plan, which was announced by the police department last week, includes increased drug education programs, stricter enforcement of campus policies, and increased patrolling of drug-related areas.

Organizers of the vigil said they were concerned about the potential for increased drug arrests on campus.

"We are concerned about the impact of the drug enforcement plan on our community," said one organizer. "We want to ensure that our rights are protected and that our voices are heard."

"We want to make it clear to the police department that we are opposed to drug enforcement on campus," said another organizer.

Eddie Money plans tour stop at Arena

Singer releasing ‘Walk on Water’ in late September

By Theresa Livingston

After a year-and-a-half hiatus, Eddie Money is re-emerging into the popular music scene with his newest release, “Nothing to Lose,” to be released later this month.

Originally from New York, Money (whose real name is Manuel) became interested in music at an early age, fronting bands in junior high. In high school, Money was influenced by James Brown, The Coasters, Mitch Mahoney, and other popular bands of the late ‘60s. He continued to serve as lead singer for several local groups.

“...was a way to date the opposite sex, make money, and have fun,” he says.

Immediately after high school, Money began working full-time and formed his first band in LA as lead singer for the up-and-coming band “Money.”

His singles, “Baby Hold On” and “Two Tickets to Paradise,” became hits in the early ‘70s.

In 1977, he decided to move to San Francisco, where he was discovered by manager Bill Graham in a battle of the bands contest.

The release of his self-titled debut album soon followed, as well as two hit singles, “Baby Hold On” and “Two Tickets to Paradise.”

Eight years and five albums later, Money describes himself as much more mature. After giving up “getting high” and going through a divorce more than a year ago, Money is back on his feet, both emotionally and physically.

“I’m growing up a little bit. I exercise and I’m healthier,” he said.

Money and his girlfriend Laurie also celebrated the birth of their beautiful daughter, Jessica.

Money said he is looking forward to returning to Carbondale, where he feels he has the opportunity to perform old standards along with new hits.

The first single of the new album, “Walk on Water,” which will be released on Sept. 9, will be one of many songs Money has performed at his previous Carbondale shows.

Money will perform at 8 p.m. Sept. 16 at the Arena. Tickets are $15 and are available at the Arena ticket outlet. For details, call 453-5341.

About 1,000 tickets have been sold. Seating for 4,000 has been planned.

‘Picnic’ opens theater’s season

“Things are not always what they seem” is the theme for the fall season of entertainment at McLeod Theater.

The season opens with the Pulitzer Prize-winning “Picnic,” by William Inge, on Oct. 20 to 23. “Picnic” is a contemporary drama that examines the changes in a small town after the arrival of a handsome, young stranger.

“Margaret Fleming,” known as the “American Isaacs,” premieres Nov. 10 to 13 in the Lab Theater. It deals with an American woman’s refusal to accept a double standard and was written by James A. Herne.

On Dec. 1 to 4, Oliver Goldsmith’s “She Stoops to Conquer” will appear. It is the story of a bumbling, young hero who loses his way on a visit to see his fiancée, who he has never met, and mistakes her for the serving maid.

Also this fall, the Department of Theater will welcome a visit by several members of the Rain Art Theater, which will present a performance of “The Loony Docks” on Oct. 5. The group will also hold workshops for students at McLeod.

In addition, an evening of original one-act plays is planned for Sept. 30 and Oct. 1 in the Lab Theater. These performances are sponsored by the Playwrights’ Theater.

Roll up the sleeves; keep SIU-C on top

ALTHOUGH STUDENTS of the 1980s have been considered apathetic, students of SIU-C can take pride in knowing that they have blown the most for a home run.

In April of 1986, SIU-C set the peacetime record for donating the most blood during one blood drive, with 3,706 pints of blood collected in a three-hour period. The all-time record, set by Auburn University in Alabama, is 4,812 pints of blood during the Vietnam War era.

FOR ITS efforts, the University was presented with a national award in 1986 by the American Association of Blood Banks. SIU-C is one of the few larger institutions among high schools, colleges and universities.

SIU-C is still considered one of the nation’s top suppliers of blood, but the record was accepted, blood donations have been slipping off in the Southern Illinois area. No alarms have been sounded, but students, faculty and citizens of Carbondale are resting on their laurels and need a gentle nudging to get them back in the race.

AUBURN AND OTHER universities across the nation have exceeded SIU-C in breaking SIU-C’s peacetime record. Although donating blood should not be considered akin to a sporting event, these challenges can be considered healthy competition.

If SIU-C maintains its lofty status as a major blood supplier to the nation, it will take a healthy step in the right direction in changing the University’s image as a major party school.

THE RED Cross will sponsor numerous blood drives throughout the school year, urging students, faculty and citizens of Carbondale to remain at the top of the list of blood suppliers.

The Red Cross will end its two-day blood drive today at the Student Center. We encourage everyone who is able to give blood to roll up their sleeves and do so.

U.S., Soviets share space

SOVIETS AND AMERICANS held their breath Tuesday when American and Soviet space Appliance broke out at Mission Control when the spacecraft finally landed, according to Radio Moscow, which broadcast English language reports of crisis to North America.

National news networks reported Americans shared the tense moments and were equally relieved when the cosmonauts landed safely. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration had earlier extended an offer of help. This is the kind of cooperation that should exist always between the two countries.

SOVIETS HAVE been reminded that space exploration is a risky adventure. That is the same lesson Americans learned from the Challenger tragedy.

"Monday morning quarterbacks" went about their time, set against the backdrop of the Iranian hostage crisis.

The space shuttle will be put into operation in 1983 and the American and Soviet space programs will be on a collision course, and Americans can expect to see a shuttle flight by the 1985-86 mission.

We see it as a healthy competition between the two countries.

Senator's remark on homosexuals sparks opening of Republican closet

As a new-born, flag-waving, Pledge-of-Allegiance Republican, I'm shocked by the political-bumbling of Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah.

A few days ago, Hatch made a speech in which he said that the Democratic Party is the "party of homosexuality."

I assume he meant that as an insult. Democrats took it that way. But it was a very smart thing for Sen. Hatch to say.

Apparently Hatch has forgotten that homosexuals have the right to vote. And if this is a close election, as the polls say it will be, everv vote will help our heroes, George Bush and Dick Cheney.

So why is Sen. Hatch trying to persuade gays to vote for Democrats?

Unironically, Channel 4's investigative unit, Channel 6, was looking into the story of the Putnam family, who was kicked off the Republican Convention due to sexual orientation.

What he should do is point out to the Putnam family that the Republican Party welcomes the Putnams with open arms, and that their presence is welcome.

Hatch's comments come at a time when homosexuals are being considered as a viable vote, and as a result of the Putnam family's story, homosexuals are being considered as a viable vote.

If Hatch had forgotten that homosexuals have the right to vote, and if this is a close election, as the polls say it will be, every vote will help our heroes, George Bush and Dick Cheney.

So why is Sen. Hatch trying to persuade gays to vote for Democrats?

So I would think that Hatch would be proud that an entire gajie of gays raised millions of dollars for one of the conservatives' favorite causes. I'm referring to the conservatives, not the boyfriends of gay fundraisers.

Sen. Hatch also seems to have forgotten about Bob Bauman, who used to be a congressman from Maryland.

In 1966, Bauman was considered one of the outstanding conservatives in Washington, and one of the Republican Party's most ferocious liberal bakers.

I can't understand how Hatch could have forgotten Bauman, since both were liberal Republicans and conservatives on Capitol Hill for several years.

However, Bauman is no longer there. He had the misfortune to be nabbed by a cop one night while making romantic overtures to a 16-year-old male hooker.

And it would be impossible, as a young lawyer, not to remember Roy Cohn, one of the legendary conservatives of modern day America.

Although attorney Cohn never held public office, he had enormous influence. As a young lawyer, he was one of the few behind Sen. Joe McCarthy's relentless hunt for communists in our government. Although McCarthy and Cohn didn't find many communists, they destroyed the reputations of a lot of liberals they discovered, who were honest.

In later years, Cohn was a cham of many of the nation's liberal and most powerful conservatives.

He was a chummy with many young men that one of his aides regularly recruited for him. And as a recent best selling book revealed, Cohn was the one who ordered Cohn's body to be put on a public, and most powerful conservatives.

Attorney accuses Nitz of being a "homosexual hater"
By Scott Perry
Staff Writer

An emotional Peggy Miley ruminated on the day she shared her son with someone else during learning days three days later when she sat in the witness stand to answer questions about family members that took the community. Mrs. Miley was one of three family members to take the stand during the second day of testimony in the trial of Richard Nitz. Nitz is charged with the April 6 murder of Michael D. Miley, who was decapitated and found Tuesday in his automobile near Rocky Cushaw Road in Union County. Mrs. Miley last remembers seeing her son during a church practice at about 4:45 p.m. on April 4 near Elkins St. in St. Matthew Baptist Church in Murphyboro. She recalled being intimidated by ladies who wanted to put something in the church bulletin. She did not see her son before he left for the evening. Also brought to the stand was Miley's father Richard and his twin brother Mark. While on the stand, all three witnesses were asked to recreate the last time each of them saw Michael D. Miley living and to identify items presented as evidence, including a cassette tape. The blood-stained watch was found on the Nitz property during a police search. The blood type matched that of Michael's, but not of Nitz or his wife Rita, who also is charged in connection with the murder. Mark Miley was brought to the stand by the prosecution to identify items that supposedly belonged to the victim and to answer questions concerning the gay community in Southern Illinois. Miley described him and his brother as "practicing homosexuals" and told of places he and members of the homosexual community are known to gather. Among those mentioned was the Carbondale bar II Hearts Inc., 213 E. Main St., and four parking areas on Spillway Road near Crab Orchard Lake. Williamson County State's Attorney Charles Garnati said it was one of these locations that Miley was assaulted then taken to a remote Union County where the body was found. Garnati has described Nitz as a "homosexual-hater" and said it was his desire to prove that was what led him to beat Miley with a baseball bat, shoot him in the head and then decapitate him. Public Defender Larry Brooking asked Mark Miley about his whereabouts and activity and with what frequency he visited the homosexual bars. Brooking contends he has a witness that Miley was leaving II Hearts Inc. with an unidentified male the night of his disappearance. Miley was missing until his automobile was found on April 9. The trial is set to resume at 9:30 a.m. today at the Williamson County Courthouse in Marion.

whether the Carbondale and Edwardsville campuses should stay together. Unions feel department heads should vote and that the action is three votes separately. The EHLB has to decide on the conditions for the vote. The EOUB also wants a vote to come soon. "I share the goal of the union that the EHLB and IIDB reverse its decision soon," Thomas Brinton, vice chancellor for administration, said. The conditions of a collective bargaining election have been struggling with more than three years. During that time, the University has spent more than $300,000 in legal fees to prevent the case and defend itself on collective bargaining. "These fees are ridiculous and the EHLB should put an end to the expenditure of scarce public monies," Berton said. The administration has said the legal fees have been necessary to prevent its case to use the EHLB and to defend itself against charges of unfair labor practices. The chancellor's office also said that it would need to increase its staff if teachers, vote to unionize because staff members will be needed to work with the unions.

the buyer. Rep. Bill McCollum, R-Fla., has prepared a amendment — sold as the 96 to be con sidered by the House — to scrap the waiting period and require a background to identify felons who try to purchase firearms. Other amendments expected to spark contentious debate include one that would make a federal death penalty for certain drug-related offenses, the proposal to cut off federal benefits to drug users and a bill that would allow warrantless searches. Congress is expected to con­ to the so-called exclusionary rule, which prevents the use of illegally obtained evidence, even if it would erode police accuracy, if the House chamber votes. Writers argue it would prevent drug dealers from going free on a technicality. Several lawmakers said they would support a amendment to make users accountable for their actions, including one that would revoke the drivers' licenses of drug offenders. House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, said he expects several days of debate on the bill before a final vote is taken next week. Democrats do not want to appear soft on drugs in an election year but will try to curtail some of the Republican measures, such as the death penalty for drug-related killings. Rep. Charles Rangel, D-N.Y., chairman of the House sentencing subcommittee, plans to in­ troduce an amendment that BURMA, from Page 1
fections added about 32 Australians defense attaches, which would be evacuated "on the next available flight" and Radio Thailand broadcast a foreign minister announcement saying smaller evacuation all Thai nationals in Burma — especially women and children — back to Thailand. The act was opposed by many fearing that Gen. Ne Win, 77, believed to be making most major decisions, has no sooner regained power after 30 years of military government. Despite his resignation as president, the new leader in July, would unleash the army to crush the general's former allies in an effort to cement the socialist regime. Last month, the army opened fire on unarmed demonstrators, killing an estimated 500 to 1,000 in Rangoon, but failed to stop over-wheeming protests that topped Ne Win's successor Lt. Gen. Soe Lin, 77, who was in office and threatened the current junta of President Maung Maung. Looting broke out Tuesday night and the worst incidents occurred Wednesday. Witnesses said three river boats had been attacked, with charcoal loads by hand of men who emptied the boats and set the charcoal to a row of 5,000 on the river bank. The crowd then broke into nearby government buildings and timbers, carvings away lumber and furniture. "No one dared to prevent the looting as a good many of the people were armed with knives, pointed iron rods and slingshots," a witness said.
Renewal Institute offers classes for teachers

University helps teachers upgrade classroom skills

By Phyllis Coon

"In a rut with old teaching ideas and want to get out?" said John T. Stinebaugh, a student in the institute and a first grade teacher at Lewis School, said. "The Renewal Institute is something different set up specifically for teachers." Stinebaugh, who has been teaching for 12 years, said. "School administrators don't see a teacher's report card unless it is written by the teacher so the teacher can move up on the pay scale, he said.

"You don't get that in some graduate courses," he said.

Incentives for taking the courses include the low cost and a chance to move up on the school district salary schedule, Stinebaugh, who has been teaching for 12 years, said. words use pictures and maybe just a few words. While Stinebaugh is teaching, an instructor from the Renewal Institute opens his class to see if he is using some of the new techniques.

"IT'S QUITE interesting when some of the instructors come because some of them haven't been in my grade level," Stinebaugh said. "It's interesting to see some of their reactions to situations that arise."

Almost all the instructors Stinebaugh has had through the institute have had their doctorates, he said. "I don't feel threatened by the presence in the classroom and I don't think anyone should. They are just there to help," Stinebaugh said.

The Renewal Institute "seems like a pretty good program but it might be better if the instructors could come to your class while you are taking the classes," Stinebaugh said.

"The institute does more than a graduate course because the classes are much more useful and convenient."

The Renewal Institute offers courses that focus on mathematics, science and communication. It received its share of praise, Stuck said. "Teachers who deserve the credit. We have an excellent faculty and they do their job very well."

Knowledge of the program goes beyond Southern Illinois. A majority of the participants are from a 60-mile radius. However, "we have had teachers come from as far away as Belleville. We even had someone here from Springfield," Stuck said.

DONALD BEGGS, dean of the College of Education, said he sees "the Renewal Institute as an extension of our cooperative effort with the area schools. It clearly demonstrates the University's commitment to quality and excellence in education."

Shy family of six claims one-fourth of Lotto jackpot

CHICAGO (UPI) — A publicity-shy family of six came forward late Tuesday and claimed a share of a $21 million Lotto grand prize, to be split among four winners of the Sept. 3 drawing. State Lottery officials said the winners of one-fourth of the huge Lotto pot, the state's fourth largest, asked that their names be withheld and were identified only as the "Kolet family partnership."

The family lives in the Chicago metropolitan area, she said.

Summer courses are taught in four-week workshops. The summer program had about 140 participants, Stuck said.

The Renewal Institute offers nine courses that focus on mathematics, science and communication.

"THESE ARE the areas that math teachers have difficulty teaching," Stuck said. "We would like to expand into other areas but money is very tight and that makes it impossible."

A class size restriction has been set at 20 students per lecture, he said.

"There usually is a waiting list for some courses, but everyone who signs up gets in," Stuck said.

"The popularity of the courses is amazing. I think teachers believe because the program is tuition-free, and because it can earn them a pay raise."

WSIL breaks studio ground
Station will relocate in Crainville for more central location.

By W. Jayne Wallace
Staff Writer
WSIL TV-3, the local ABC affiliate, plans to move its studio from Harrisburg to Crainville as early as April 1989.

At the Tuesday afternoon ground breaking ceremony, State Senator Glenn Davis, president and general manager, expressed the station's goal to better serve Illinois from this more central location. Just eight miles east of Carbondale on Route 13, between Carterville and Marion.

Among the 100 guests, well-wishers, and station employees at the gathering were State Senator Glenn Poshard and Congressman Ken Gray. Gray quipped as he scooped a shovel-full of dirt, "This is the most work I've done all week.

J.W. Davis, WSIL's director of engineering, noted that the new facility will encompass 14,000 square feet and be more cost efficient than the 60-year-old buildings that presently house the station.

Davis estimated the new station would cost $1.25 million. This would not include the costs of transporting the satellite dishes and other broadcast equipment from Harrisburg.

Weather permitting, the new building should be completed by February.

Robert Wheeler, News Center-3's news director, supported the relocation plans, citing the move as a chance to WSIL's goal of "continual upgrading" over the past few years.

Wheeler is confident that Crainville will be a much better location from which to gather the news because Harrisburg is so far east. She said that news crews presently spend more time on the road back and forth between Harrisburg and the rest of Southern Illinois than they do covering stories.

TV-3 reporter Andy Alcock said his time on the road is about 45 minutes per story.

"We usually have to write our stories in the car on the way back to the station in order to have it ready for the 5 p.m. newscast," he said.

Mark Kiesling, sports director, also hopes the central location will help the sports staff cover a wider range of sports more fairly, noting that it will be easier to cover Saluki sports.

Wheeler and her news team look forward to the higher visibility on Route 13 that will help them compete more strategically with other stations that have Southern Illinois news bureaus.

Wheeler's husband, Steve, assured reporters that WSIL's broadcast range will in no way change as a result of the move.

2 charged for illegal trading

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Securities and Exchange Commission Wednesday charged Drexel Burnham Lambert Inc. and junk bond king Michael Milken with insider trading and other securities law violations in a multimillion-dollar scheme that involved a secret pact with disgraced financier Ivan Boesky.

Drexel, one of the nation's most prominent brokerages, has been the target of SEC and federal grand jury investigations since the firm was implicated by Boesky nearly two years ago in the largest insider-trading scandal in Wall Street history. The civil SEC complaint, which also named multimillionaire Victor Posner and four others, charged Drexel and Milken had a secret arrangement with Boesky.

The commission did not put a dollar figure on profits from the scheme because the amount is subject to interpretation, said Tom Benton, SEC chief litigation counsel.

"We want that involved a secret pact multimillion-dollar scheme money he needs for the bankrupt ministry. "Before we have satisfied with Bakker," we have not been satisfied that the money is anywhere.

Bush, Dukakis face jeers on road

By United Press International

Michael Dukakis and George Bush have spent most of this campaign bickering in the cheers of friendly crowds. But, running into unexpected waves of boos and jeers, they each learned in harsh fashion that not everyone is a fan.

On one front, the Democratic Massachusetts governor and the Republican vice president saw progress in their campaigns Tuesday, as their top staffs made strides toward arranging two debates that could decide the presidential election. However, as they tried to sell their messages in different parts of the country, the two candidates confronted their most difficult day on the road.

Dukakis, campaigning near Chicago, was forced to delay his remarks for almost seven minutes as shouting anti-abortion protesters yelled, "You're a baby killer." Bush received similar confrontations in Portland, Ore., where hundreds of iron-workers heckled him as a "union buster" and booted as he tried to boast about the Reagan administration's economic record.

Both men hoped for warmer receptions in campaign stops today. Bush planned to address the American Legion convention in Louisville, Ky., and they each scheduled separate appearances at an international B'nai B'rith convention in Baltimore.

For Dukakis, the Tuesday journey began the same day he threatened to delay the couple's trip to the Midwest if federal money has been used. If federal money has been used, IDOT would be required to conduct an environmental impact study on the couple.

The city said that this ruling would be necessary to meet minimum requirements of IDOT.

Another disputed point was whether federal money has been spent studying the feasibility of the couple. If federal money has been used, IDOT would be required to conduct an environmental impact study on the couple.
Bush confused on Pearl Harbor date

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Vice President George Bush, in an address at the American Legion Wednesday, confounded the veterans by declaring, "Today is Pearl Harbor Day," pumping the gun by three months.

The Republican presidential candidate disdained the 6,000 people attending the 70th annual convention of the American Legion and set them to mumuring with his error.

"Today, you remember. I wonder how many Americans remember. Today is Pearl Harbor Day," the Republican presidential nominee said to a stunned audience.

"Today, you remember. I wonder how many Americans remember. Today is Pearl Harbor Day," Bush told the audience. "Forty-seven years ago to this very day, we were hit hard and hard at Pearl Harbor and we were not ready."

Later, Bush was asked about the mistake while flying on Air Force Two to Baltimore and he said cheerfully, "Remember Pearl Harbor."

"I just got messed up," he said. "I wanted to work Pearl Harbor in and just got carried away and said Sept. 1 and then I looked out and saw the incredibility on the face of one particular guy down to my left and I thought, 'Whoops, my howlers, I've done it, so fortunately I got it in time to correct it.'

In Baltimore, Bush told the 1,200 delegates at the 94th annual convention of the Jewish service organization B'nai B'rith that he opposes a Palestinian state but also cited the continued Israeli occupation of the West Bank and Gaza Strip, seized in the 1967 Middle East war.

But he pledged strong support for Israel and vowed, "Stronger partnership "stronger tomorrow."

Democratic presidential candidate Michael Dukakis also addressed the B'nai B'rith gathering Wednesday evening; he was scheduled to speak to the American Legion convention Thursday.

Wednesday, Bush, who had diverted from his prepared text in making the mistake, carried on with his address for several more minutes as the whispers among the legionnaires in the city's Commonwealth Convention Center grew louder.

"Freedom is on the march," said Bush, who, when realizing his mistake, diverted again from his text.

"Did I say Sept. 7? Sorry about that — Dec. 7, 1941, 47 years," the vice president hastened to explain.

"I'm glad I corrected that. I saw this guy in the audience go off here," he said as the legionnaires laughed.

At the end of his speech, Bush ad-libbed again in reference to his earlier mistake and tried to make amends, but his concluding remark only elicited gasps from the crowd.

"I will never forget that day, Dec. 7," Bush said. "I was in a church service on that Sunday ... Remember that attack."

Bush spokeswoman Shells Tale said later the vice president apparently made the mistake because earlier he had referred to the date of Sept. 2, 1944, — the day he was shot down in the Pacific as a young Navy pilot fighting the Japanese.

There was a general feeling among the legionnaires that Bush, reading many speeches on the campaign trail, was entitled to a mistake occasionally.

"The man has one speech after another and I can understand him making a mistake once in a while," said John Lynch of Post 63 in Clarkston, Mich.

Earl Neuman, a Presbyterian in Pontiac, Mich., agreed, saying, "He caught the mistake and went on. It wasn't that big a deal."

NOTICE FROM STUDENT WORK AND FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE.

ALL UNDERGRADUATE STUDENTS MUST COMPLY WITH THE FOLLOWING SATISFACTORY PROGRESS POLICY IN ORDER TO RECEIVE FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE.

SATISFACTORY PROGRESS POLICY
FOR UNDERGRADUATE STUDENTS AT SOUTHERN ILLINOIS UNIVERSITY AT CARBONDALE

The Federal government, the States, and Southern Illinois University at Carbondale have invested large sums of money in order to provide financially needy students the opportunity to attain a post-secondary education. Financial aid recipients are responsible for using the funds provided in an acceptable manner. Therefore, a student who wishes to benefit from the receipt of financial aid funds must maintain "satisfactory progress" as defined in this policy.

AUTHORITY
The Higher Education Act of 1965 as amended and the final regulations set forth by the Department of Education in 34 CFR 668 require that institutions of higher education establish reasonable standards of "satisfactory progress." A student who does not meet these standards is not eligible to receive federally funded financial aid. Southern Illinois University at Carbondale shall make these standards applicable to all state and institutional aid programs for the purpose of maintaining a consistent and reasonable financial aid policy.

SATISFACTORY PROGRESS STANDARDS
Southern Illinois University at Carbondale requires that a student be making "satisfactory progress" toward a degree if that student wishes to receive financial aid funds. A student is making "satisfactory progress" toward a degree if successfully meeting two basic academic standards. First, a student must complete a reasonable number of credit hours toward a degree each academic year. Second, a student must maintain a scholastic standing derived from grades, that allows for continued enrollment at the University under current academic guidelines. The following parameters will be used to define these two basic academic standards:

1) Maximum time to graduate: A full-time, eligible student is expected to complete a degree in six academic years (12 semesters). A half-time, eligible student is expected to complete a degree in twelve academic years (24 semesters). In order to be sure that a student is progressing toward that goal, each student's progress will be measured annually after Spring Semester to determine the progress made for the last academic year of attendance. Each term of at least half-time attendance shall be included in the annual review whether or not the student received financial aid for the term. The following chart will serve as a model to determine if each student is meeting this requirement of "satisfactory progress."

2) Grades: A student must remain in compliance with the University's policy concerning scholastic standing, grades, and grade point average as defined under the topic "Grading, Scholastic Regulations, and Credit," in the Undergraduate Catalog Bulletin. A student who is on Scholastic Suspension is not maintaining "satisfactory progress." A student who is academically suspended may be readmitted under Scholastic Probation status by the appropriate academic dean and remain eligible for financial aid. Each student's scholastic standing will be monitored after each semester or term of attendance.

A student who does not meet either or both of the standards set forth above and who cannot show "mitigating circumstances" is not maintaining "satisfactory progress" toward a degree and is no longer eligible to receive financial aid funds.

NOTIFICATION OF TERMINATION

It shall be the responsibility of the Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance to publish this policy and to notify by letter any student who is no longer eligible to receive financial aid funds. Said notice shall be addressed to the student's most current home address on file with the University. IT SHALL BE THE RESPONSIBILITY OF THE STUDENT TO INFORM THE UNIVERSITY OF A CORRECT HOME ADDRESS AT ALL TIMES. Student's academic deans shall receive copies of all notice letters.

FINANCIAL AID

Students will have their eligibility to receive financial aid reinstated when they have reached the level of satisfactory academic progress required by this policy. They may achieve this status by the completion of incomplete grades, correction of incomplete grades, and by earning more than the required number of completed hours for a term or terms without the benefit of financial aid.

Any student who cannot meet the grades requirement or the cumulative credit hours completion requirement, shall have an opportunity to appeal in writing to explain "mitigating circumstances." The appeal should be sent to the Financial Aid Advisory Committee within 15 days of the notice of termination. The Financial Advisory Committee will review the "mitigating circumstances" documented in the appeal and provide a written decision within 20 days after receipt of the appeal.

The United Way fundraiser under way

The Pacesetters Drive for this year’s joint United Way Combined Health Appeal campaign is underway through Sept. 22. This advance drive is a special solicitation to faculty and staff who donated $5 or more to this year’s United Way campaign.

The results of the Pacesetters Drive will be announced at a Laffit Rally scheduled for Oct. 15. "By merging the United Way Campaign with the Combined Health Appeal of Illinois," said Joanne Chazes, campaign co-ordinator, "the University has made it convenient for faculty and staff to show their support!" Chazes emphasized that several methods of payment are offered.

The joint solicitation will be known as "The SIU-C Campaign Alliance." It combines the United Way Drive normally conducted in the fall, and the Combined Health Appeal of Illinois, which has been run in the spring. The slogan for the coordinated campaign is "Working Together To Make a Difference." The United Way supports 18 local agencies involved in diverse social service programs. These range from emergency services to child care services.

The Combined Health Appeal of Illinois provides funds for 17 health service agencies. This funding supports patient care, rehabilitation, research, education.

A raging Yellowstone National Park wildfire swept over and consumed old, abandoned buildings near the Old Faithful geyser Wednesday, consuming 1700 acres and blowing up fuel tanks like artillery shells.

The firestorm raced over a maintenance yard, a housing complex and a communications building, said Denny Bungarz, incident commander for the North Fork fire. The burning area also included a huge workshop, gasoline and propane tanks, dormitories and an apartment complex. But a coating of fire retardant foam spared most of the buildings from heavy damage.

"There is a great deal more at stake than most people would appreciate," Dingell, the chairman of the House Energy and Commerce Committee, said at a subcommittee hearing.

Dingell said pushing along U.S. development of the technology, which will allow viewers to get a movie-quality picture, is of "utmost national interest" because it will affect the broad sectors of the economy from the electronics filed to the broadcast industry.

Commerce Department reports estimates that some 700,000 jobs will be linked to high-definition television.

"It is not a secret that Japanese and European companies are far out in front in developing this new technology," said Markey, chairman of the Telecommunications and Finance Subcommittee, which held the hearing.

Markey suggested that future of the nation's electronics industry might depend on "advancing television because of the "ripple effect" it will have on other technology such as microchips, semiconductors and software.

He called on the industry to submit a report to Congress by January on ways the govern-ment can help to catch up in advanced television technology. "I am ordering whether the industry needs an antitrust exemption to effectively compete with government-sponsored development efforts in Japan and Europe," he said.

Testifying before the subcommittee, Richard Wiley, the chairman of a government task force on advanced television, testified the United States is behind and needs to take steps to ensure that it is not just a "passive recipient" of other country's technology.

But he warned that the government and private industry must move carefully in developing and approving a standard technology for advanced television.

"While we are late coming to the party, we must make sure we don't rush to judgment," Wiley said.

Possible prosecution for St. Louis officer

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — A city prosecutor said Wednesday he has not decided whether to seek criminal charges against Anthony D. Daniele, the former policeman who held authorities at bay in a downtown high-rise for more than 24 hours during the weekend.

St. Louis Circuit Attorney George Peach said that he has not made a decision about whether to seek charges against Daniele even though U.S. Attorney Thomas Dit­tmeier promised not to seek charges against Daniele as part of the agreement to get him to end his standoff.

Daniele, 35, who had been sentenced on Friday to eight years in prison and ordered to pay $100,000 in restitution for his part in a police pension fund scandal, said on Saturday that he would get $10,000,000 in re­stitution and held downtown offices. Daniele re­leased Frank after holding him for 10 hours, but stayed alone in Frank's 15th-floor office for another 10 hours before surrendering to police.

Daniele was formally booked Sunday on state charges of suspension of fel­lowship restraint, which carries a maximum penalty of seven years in prison.

After his surrender, Daniele was immediately taken to the medical facility for federal pris­oners in Springfield, Mo.

Teachers strikes continue

By United Press International

Schoolchildren and sub­stitute teachers in the Blue Ridge School District crossed the picket line Wednesday as classes resumed despite a divisive teacher's strike, and a federal mediator entered a 2­day-old school walkout in Granite City.

Officials in the central Illinois school district of Blue Ridge reported no violence as students returned to a half­day of classes Wednesday.

District Superintendent Don Albracht said about 75 percent of the district's 945 students showed up for classes. The district — with students from Farmer City, Bellflower and Min­nesota — has hired about 50 substitute teachers to staff four elementary schools, a junior high school and a high school. Twelve regular teachers have crossed the picket line.

No strike­related violence was reported at the schools Wednesday morning.

"Schools weren't built to be empty," Albracht said Wed­nesday morning. "It feels real good to be up and going again.

I was hoping he would get more than half of the students back today, so 71 percent is pretty good. This will count as a school day.

Albracht said if students are truant for an extended period they would be dealt with on a case­by­case basis.

The Blue Ridge school board set down at the negotiating table this week and Monday and Tuesday with representatives of the district's 71 striking teachers.

Death of Mayor Washington helps collegue lose weight

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mayor Marion Barry, ex­pressing concern about his physical well­being partly because of the death of Chicago Mayor Harold Washington, said in an inter­view published Wed­nesday that he spent his secret vacation tending to his health and came back a little pounds lighter.

Barry, while declining to say where he was, said in an interview with The Washington Post that from Aug. 27 until Saturday he meditated, walked 6 miles twice a day, went hiking in the woods and did daily aerobic exercises.

Having long been urged by his doctor and political friends to "periodically get away" from the stress of his job, Barry said he lost 8 pounds and feels "just great" and "re­energized."

"I'd gained up to 210 pounds," said the 53­year­old mayor. "I was too heavy. I got to the point where I had to scuffle to button my shirt top."

Barry says he expects to take health­oriented vacations about four times a year to relieve job­related stress.

When Harold died (last November), I said, 'I'm not going to kill myself in this job.' Barry said. "I needed to mediate, connect myself spiritually, needed to con­tend. Re­create, he by myself.

Discussing his fellow mayor, Barry said Washington looked like a "big balloon" before he died of a heart attack.

Washington, 65, collapsed and died Nov. 25 of a massive heart attack.

Artifact kits bring the past to present for third graders

By Laurie Schenk

Student Writer

Mrs. Rice has prehistoric man slated for the science topic to be discussed for the week. She's made prehistoric man a part of the science curriculum for her third graders since she began teaching. Only this year the lesson is going to have a greater impact on the children because of actual artifacts Mrs. Rice has borrowed from the University Museum. The museum offers Southern Illinois grade schools an opportunity to enhance their curriculum with the Educators Outreach Loan Program.

"Learning about something you hear in a lesson is one thing, but touching a concrete object that is being talked about makes a much greater impact," said Robert De Hoet, assistant museum educator, said. "THE PROGRAM has been a wonderful thing to use to supplement a curriculum," Cathy Klop/sarabean, director of Carltonale New School, said. "We used the fossil kit and slide show," said teacher Judith Baker. "It was especially nice to have hands on for the kids. They really enjoyed the rocks." The loan program makes artifact kits, exhibit specimens, filmstrips, slide presentations, cassettes and records available to surrounding grade schools. The artifact kits contain about 18 pieces relating to one subject and printed material for teacher instruction.

The loan program makes artifact kits, exhibit specimens, filmstrips, slide presentations, cassettes and records available to surrounding grade schools.

The museum's 1987 Achievement Report shows that 73 guided tours were given with a total attendance of 2,174.

"Our broad mission is to acquire, preserve, interpret and exhibit the fine and decorative arts, historical and natural artifacts for the education of people," said John Whitlock, museum administrator. "As museum educators, we feel that the best way one can handle the present and intelligently look to the future, one must have insight into the past," he said.

"THERE IS A WORLD beyond Southern Illinois," said Kelly. "Seeing the artifacts, children are able to compare and contrast world cultures." The Outreach program began around the 1930s. "Esther Bennetl was key in the development of the program as curator of education," Kelly said. "The program has changed over the years. Kelly said. Originally, museum personnel brought materials to the school. Now the loan materials have to be picked up."

Kelly said that changes in the program were the result of budget cuts.

Florida lady largest Lotto winner

By United Press International

It was a $99.1 million bonanza day as Americans started cashing in Wednesday on three state lotteries led by a sprightly 75-year-old Florida woman who claimed $56.1 million in Florida to become the biggest lottery winner in North American history.

Shelley Ryan of Winter Springs, Fla., who declined to give her age but appeared to be in her 60s, showed up at the Florida Lottery office with the winning ticket, matching six numbers she read in a newspaper with six numbers drawn Sept. 3.

"I've had three firsts today," the bespectacled Ryan told a packed Tallahassee, Fla., news conference. "It was my first plane ride, second, my first press conference and No. 3, I've never won $1 million before."

Ryan beat out a Florida janitor who had claimed he won the prize and even bought two expensive vases on the strength of it. Officials ruled out his claim.

Lottery officials in New York and Illinois said grand prize winners in their weekend games had come forward, with a single $5 million winner in New York City planning to attend a party for other lottery winners drawn Saturday.

Webster's has new words

About 20,000 new words included in Third College Edition

CLEVELAND (UPI) — "Valley girls" didn't make it into the Third College Edition of Webster's New World Dictionary this year, but "golden parachutes" "kissy-face," "cooch potato" and "glassed" did.

The dictionary's second edition has added 27,000 words, phrases, definitions and usages, which were included because they have become an accepted part of the American language.

"The "Valley girl" may have been in use long enough but in its early stages it was not common enough, certainly not out of Southern California, perhaps even California," said Victor Neufeldt, editor of Webster's New World.

The Third Edition, which sells for $17.95, is the first complete update since 1970 and contains more than 178,000 main entries, including 11,000 words of American origin.

The First College Edition appeared in 1953, and some 80 million copies of the dictionary in all its editions have been sold in the years since the book was first published.

Neufeldt said a combination of factors determines whether a word is included in the dictionary.

"The single most important factor is what we have in our citation cards," he said. "For instance, whether, whether in the dictionary or not, has a card that notes where and how often it is used, and how long it has been around.

"We might have 500 citations from last year, but even though that's a lot, it doesn't mean the word will get in.

Neufeldt said the greatest increase in new entries came in the business and computer fields.

"With mergers and takeovers, all kinds of language has come out of that," Neufeldt said. "Things resulting out of recession, such as 'golden parachute' 'golden handshake,' which I saw in British novels 20 years ago but it was not very common," Neufeldt said.

Besides "golden handshake" (payment given an employee to retire early), entries include: "junk bond," a high-yield, speculative bond, often issued to finance the takeover of a corporation; and a new definition of the word "boot," meaning "is used, as from a disk," a program or instructions for basic operation of a computer.

"For the first time, the entries also are more than 500 citations of a word that is included in an electronic database, which will be used as the basis for other dictionaries such as a paperback edition and school dictionaries.

Neufeldt said all prolatities are clearly labeled so the user will know the words might be offensive.

"The smgle work 'players' is included in Third Edition. The single word 'players' is included in Third Edition. The single work 'players' is included in Third Edition. The single word 'players' is included in Third Edition.

On October 7th, 1995, 'Players' was included in the dictionary.

"A word is included in Webster's if it has some meaning in the writings of the time, whether it was used in the works of a great writer or not," Neufeldt said.

"For example, 'golden parachute' was used in the works of Ernest Hemingway.

"The single word 'players' is not used in the works of any great writer, but there are thousands of uses in the works of lesser-known writers."

Public health system is sick, committee warns

Problems threaten future health care, according to report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. public health system is in "disarray," fragmented by political pressures, poor organization and a general complacency that could erode previous health gains, leaving medical experts said Wednesday.

In a 218-page report on the future of public health, a National Academy of Sciences' panel concluded the complicated maze of federal, state and local agencies often makes "difficult if not impossible" to take decisive action on key health problems.

"We found much to commend in our nation's public health system, but unfortunately we found an even longer list of problems. The most complicated is that we Americans are taking our public health system for granted. ... The result is a public health system in disarray," said Richard Remington, chairman and professor of preventive medicine at the University of Iowa.

The panel pointed out the major public health gains achieved in this century are slipping as infant mortality increases in some major cities, flu still makes a rebound and outbreaks of measles continue. In addition to complacency about longstanding, but still menacing diseases, the panel often politely charged agency officials with attacking new health threats such as AIDS, drug abuse and teenage pregnancy.

"We are often, political leaders push short-term solutions to various health crises without reference to the knowledge base that exists for sound programs," the report states.

"The result is a hodgepodge of fractionalized interests and programs of organizational turmoil among new agencies, and well-intended, but unbalanced appropriations," a spokesman for the Public Health Service said he had not had a chance to review the report.

Vaccine exonerated in crib death

BOSTON (UPI) — A vaccine that babies routinely receive to protect against diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough apparently does not increase the risk of crib death as previous research has suggested, a study showed Wednesday.

A computer survey involving more than 120,000 children failed to find any association between the DTP vaccine and crib death, which is also known as sudden infant death syndrome or SIDS.

"I think based on this work and (previous studies) there's so good evidence at all that DTP causes SIDS. We think that parents and physicians do not have to worry about DTP causing SIDS," said Dr. Marie Griffin, who directed the study published in the New England Journal of Medicine.

"It should be comforting," added Griffin, an associate professor of preventive medicine at Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tenn.

There had been several reports of cases involving infants who died from SIDS after receiving the vaccine, and at least one study found an apparent association between the vaccine and SIDS.

SIDS, which kills as many as 10,000 babies in the United States each year, is the second most common form of death among young babies after accidents. Although there have been many theories, the cause of SIDS is unknown.

The DTP vaccine has been used for decades to prevent potentially fatal bacterial infections: diphtheria, tetanus and pertussis, which is also known as whooping cough.

In the new study, the researchers used state and national data on reported cases of pertussis and whooping cough among newborns and the number of infants in each state who were vaccinated with the DTP vaccine. The researchers found no association between the vaccine and SIDS deaths that occurred among the children studied.

Japanese disease vaccine found effective

BOSTON (UPI) — A long-used but never tested vaccine is very effective for protecting against Japanese encephalitis, the most common form of epidemic viral encephalitis in the world, researchers reported Wednesday.

Japanese encephalitis, a deadly disease that causes the brain to swell, is very common in China and parts of Asia, such as Thailand, Vietnam, Nepal and India. It is also causing some concern in the United States because the Asian tiger mosquito, which can carry the virus that causes the disease, has recently been found in this country.

Starting with flu-like symptoms, the disease can lead to neurological problems, including paralysis. There is no effective treatment. There are at least 30,000 cases a year worldwide and 10 percent to 50 percent of victims die.

Doctors from Walter Reed Army Institute of Research in Washington, D.C., found the vaccine was 91 percent effective in protecting children from the disease in Thailand. The vaccine is inactivated Japanese encephalitis vaccine, protect(s) against a disease caused by the Japanese encephalitis virus.

The committee took a rather weak position on the volatile issue of public health care for uninsured and indigent people, saying "until federal action is forthcoming," local agencies must foot the bill.

That relatively toothless stance came under fire from one committee member. In an individual statement, Dr. Harvey Sloane, a physician and a judge in Jefferson County, Ky., said the nation's first priority should be to provide a way to finance care of the "medically indigent."

"In my estimation, (the report) is severely flawed if it does not come forth with a great sense of urgency to meet the health needs of the 43 million uninsured and underinsured people of this nation. ... Until we resolve this issue, general public health care will be secondary," Sloane wrote.

The 22-member panel, formed under funding from the Public Health Service and the W.K. Kellogg Foundation, examined public health care in California, Mississippi, New Jersey, South Dakota, Washington and West Virginia.

Wide variations in services were reported, with one state being a major provider of prenatal care for poor women, while in other locations women who could not pay received no care. State and local health expenditures per person in the survey ranged from $72 to $172.

The panel said, but did not provide more detailed breakdowns.

"We think the United States because we don't have a 218-page report on the future of public health, a National Academy of Sciences' panel concluded the complicated maze of federal, state and local agencies often makes "difficult if not impossible" to take decisive action on key health problems.

Volleyball powers converge here for three-day Saluki Invitational

By Lisa Warns
Start Writer

Women’s volleyball coach Debbie Hunter is calling the 12th Saluki Invitational the biggest event of the season.

No wonder, considering the field boasts teams from a variety of conferences. Arizona is from the Pacific, Illinois is from the Big Ten and Bowling Green State is from the Mid-American.

“This is a prestigious event,” Hunter said. “We will have the most competition in the nation going on this weekend.

The amount of play each team plays four matches will test our stamina. Our team loves the obvious challenge. The players are pleased to be facing this caliber.

Arizona and Notre Dame are the top contenders for the title, which was won by Iowa State last season.

Notre Dame returns five starters from last season’s 30-9 team.

“Notre Dame has a serious volleyball program. They just returned from 10 days of training for this season in China,” Hunter said.

Notre Dame coach Art Lambert said he was concentrating on Wednesday’s match with Stanford, but said the team is ready to play.

Notre Dame is bolstered by having recruited the nation’s premier freshmen setter in Julie Brenner.

Iowa, which plays the Salukis on Friday night, is 4-0.

“We have an excellent young team with six sophomores that gained experience last year,” Iowa coach Sandy Stewart said. “We will see how good we are and where we stand at this invite. This is a test weekend.”

“We’re used to playing in a big arena and the team is so new I can’t tell how they will do on the road,” Stewart said.

Iowa is led by 6-6 middle blocker Barb Wilks.

Bowling Green was 24-6 last season and returns seven players.

Cycling mishap injures tennis ace

By Megan Hauck
Staff Writer

Most of the players on the women's tennis team are eager to play this weekend at the Midwest Fall Invitational in Bloomington, Ind. But one player must start the season sidelined with an injury.

Dana Cherebetiu, beginning her last year of eligibility at SIU-C, began her season on crutches, injured her knee and ankle in a bicycle accident Tuesday morning.

"I'm not anticipating her even coming with us, much less play," Coach Judy Auld said.

Cherebetiu said she is not sure how the accident happened - "either the car ran into me or I ran into the car."

Jennie Hootman, assistant athletics trainer, said she expects Cherebetiu to be off crutches today.

"The only thing we're worried about right now is she may have a sprain of her left knee," Hootman said. "So far, it just looks like cuts and bruises."

"It's a tough tournament and I wish we were going in full-strength," Auld said.

Fingers crossed, the team's lineup for the singles draw is: No. 1 Beth Boardman, No. 3 Lori Edwards, No. 4 Michelle Jeffrey, No. 5 Maria Coch, No. 6 Julie Burgess.

Field hockey steams into St. Louis

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

The field hockey team will have its hands full at the St. Louis Open this weekend, when it takes on St. Louis, Michigan and Chico State.

The games are Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

"I thought we had two things we needed to work on for these games," Co-capt. Julie Illner said. "Defensively we are giving the other team an opening about 25 yards from the goal. We need someone filling that space. The teams we'll be playing will pick up on that."

The Salukis are 2-0 after victories over Southwest Missouri and Louisville.

"Offensively we didn't take advantage of the free hits," Illner said. "We did a poor job of getting shots off those hits."

Mighty Arizona to test volleyball team's 2-0 mark

By Lisa Wams
Staff Writer

The women's volleyball team, which has won its first two matches of the season, plays Pacific 10 powerhouse Arizona in the opening match of the 11th Saluki Invitational.

The match starts at 7 p.m. at Davies Gymnasium.

"The Pacific is one of the strongest conferences," SIU-C Coach Debbie Hunter said. "Arizona is going to give us all we ask for. They are a very, very strong opponent.

Arizona rolled over SIU-C at last year's Arizona Classic Tournament 15-4, 15-7, 15-6. Arizona coach Rosie Wegrich said her team is even more prepared this time around.

"This year's team will not be the same team you saw on the floor last year," she said. "Last year, we didn't have the pace and self-confidence to win on the road.

Tourney field strongest ever.

"We have no injuries except for a few muscle strains from double practices. We want to be strong on our road trip and carry our respectability to the Midwest," Wegrich said.

Arizona is 1-0 after beating New Mexico State. "Our team has had good serve reception, solar," Wegrich said.

Wegrich usually uses seven starters, but will use nine or 10 with many substitutions to keep her players hot through all five matches in four days this weekend.

"We are looking for basic playing, nothing flashy," Wegrich said. "This tournament will be our testing ground." Rod Sherrill, defensive line coach for Rod Sherrill, the offensive line coach for the Salukis, shows his players how he wants things done during practice Monday. Sherrill, who was originally hired by Ray Dempsey in 1975, is the only staff member left from the Division I-AA national championship team.

In the trenches

Third in a series that examines the personal and team's offensive line.

Tomorrow: The role of the linemen.

Sherrill is the only coach remaining from the staff that experienced winning the 1983 NCAA Division I-AA national championship.

On the subject of remaining with the Saluki organization for as long as he has, Sherrill said the reason is simple.

"I've been lucky," he said with a grin.

Sherrill became the Salukis' starting defensive tackle after transferring to SIU-C in 1975 from Gardner City Junior College. He graduated in 1977 with a bachelor's degree in physical education, and joined the Saluki coaching staff as a graduate assistant.

In 1979, Sherrill was hired by then-head coach Ray Dempsey as offensive line coach. In 1984, head coach Ray Dyer moved Sherrill to defensive line coach, but he was moved back to offense at the beginning of this season by Rick Rhodes.

"This is the guy loves SIU and cares a lot about young people," Rhodes said. "I don't mean anything negative to the other coaches that I have had. I thought it was the best way to go at that point."

Of the four coaches who have led the Salukis while Sherrill said it was difficult with the Saluki's organization, he said it was difficult for as he has, Sherrill said the reason is simple.

"I just can't say enough good things about Dempsey," Rhodes said. "He said he was Movement the national championship team's leader. "I have to have the Salukis who taught me how to be a coach.""

Runners are ready for SIU-E

By Robert Baxter
Staff Writer

The women's cross country team, after opening the season last Saturday with an impressive victory over Murray State and Eastern Illinois, is at SIU-Edwardsville this weekend to compete in the 24-team Cougar Invitational.

This same meet drew only 11 teams last year, and the Salukis placed a strong second in the meet.

Coach Don DeNoon attributes the starting increase in the number of teams to the central location of the meet.

"The meet is in a good general location and easily accessible from the rest of the Midwest," DeNoon said. "The meet was well managed last year and has an excellent facility, which has been the site of previous national championship runs."

DeNoon said four runners, "the Salukis, Southeast Missouri, and Dayton should be the favorites at the meet."

"Southeast Missouri is perennially a nationally ranked team," DeNoon said. "It wouldn't mind the offensive line coach here for three, four or five years."

You always look for the opportunity to advance Division I, but by getting the offensive line coaching position it is as good as any advancement," he said. "I really like working with the staff here. I wouldn't mind being the offensive line coach here for three, four or five years."

"You always look for the offensive line coach for greater use of teaching skills," Sherrill said.

"You have to be more analytical," he said. "With the defense you just line them up and say hit this, hit that. If you have a big enough guy, he will do it. With the offense you have to be a thinking man.

Sherrill said the enforcement of NCAA bylaw 1-1-1, forbidding freshmen to play their first year if they score lower than a 700 on the SAT or 15 on the ACT, has helped make them better and easier.

"The kids are a lot smarter now when I was here," he said. "It makes it a lot easier to make subtle adjustments. They get control of the concept a bit quicker."

The Saluki assistant is quick to point out that being smarter does not mean the players do well.

"They don't necessarily play any better. Mentally they have picked it all up, but physically it doesn't always work," he said.

DeNoon said the reason is simple.

"They are going to be a 'learning trip," Wegrich said. "I don't disclose her starting lineup, but probable starters according to Arizona sports information are: setters Lindsey Hahn and Amy LaPorte, outside hitters Julie Kakuska and Terry Launcher and middle blockers Beth Raymond and Kelly Waage.

The Salukis are 1-0.

"The Salukis is a very strong team, which has won its first game," Wegrich said. "They are ready to see more.

"They want to get control of the defense," he said. "We have a lot of strong players but don't necessarily play that well."

Rhoades said.

"I just can't say enough good things about Dempsey," Rhodes said. "He said he was Movement the national championship team's leader. "I have to have the Salukis who taught me how to be a coach.""
