Unique, Independent
High School Students Publish Newspaper

By Norma Grogan

"The Bod" is out! "The Bod" is the latest effort of a group of students at University High School in publishing an independent summer newspaper. Much freedom in printing is allowed, and contributions are accepted from anyone on any topic, according to Jerry Magnus, a U-high student who is in charge of the project.

The function of most high school newspapers is to provide students with a bulletin board for school news. Magnus and his staff disagree with this completely. They argue that most students know what is going on in the school and they say the school newspaper exists for the enjoyment of those who put it out. The paper includes students' contributions and what they want, and this is what is printed. "Our motto is," Magnus said, "All the news that fits, we print; if it doesn't fit, we add another page."

Trains to Load At Physical Plant

An agreement has been made between the University and the Illinois Central Railroad to load students at the Physical Plant during holiday periods. John Rendleman, vice president of business affairs, said several cars would be backed to the west side of Illinois 51 on the existing railroad spur to the Physical Plant. The exact number of cars would depend upon the number of students to be accommodated, he said.

L Clark Davis, special assistant for mass communications, said the following the Christmas and New Year's break the passenger situation was not as critical as following the Thanksgiving vacation.

SIU Receives $9.3 Million For Research

SIU was awarded $9,335,000 in research grants and training contracts from 45 federal, state, and private organizations from July 1, 1966, through June 30, 1967. Ronald G. Hansen, associate dean of the Graduate School and coordinator of research and projects, said the total covered a program of rapid training contracts on Carbondale campus and 33 on Edwardsville campus.

Of the $9.3 million dollars, about $1.2 million will go for research projects, $5.6 million for training contracts, $1.4 million for buildings, and $155,000 for equipment.

Leading the state, over the $9.3 outside sources is $2.5 million for building and equipment from the Illinois State Board for Vocational Education.

Other totals include $1.6 million from the U.S. Office of Education, $500,000 from the National Science Foundation, $360,000 from the Public Health Service, and $320,000 from the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Nearly $11 million granted during previous years by the Agency for International Development was earned during the past fiscal year. Magnus said that during these activities during the period of the contract, Hansen explained.

Morris Library

Gets 'Hilarious' Gift

The order department of Morris Library received the original,indsay's, "The Bod," a publication of a group of students at the University High School. The paper, a student publication, was printed by the students themselves, not by any official reprimands for their potentially offensive material by the faculty or administration. "It is a small school students are afraid to criticize," Magnus said.

The 12 regular members of the group, which is constantly growing, work late in the night to put out their paper. The group is enthusiastic about its work, and the students consider their publication an experiment in high school journalism, Magnus said.

He said they set out to create an environment for the student to "speak out" and not be afraid of what ever interests them. All their material is spontaneously de rived from their contributors. Several articles in this latest edition are contributions of SU students, Magnus added. Magnus said the most potentially dangerous thing in the newspaper is the comic strip, "The Flying Nun," patterned after a television program scheduled for release in the fall. This feature received the most unfavorable reactions in the last issue from a group of Fundamentalists and Re­ sidents, he said.

The general reaction to the last two issues, entitled "Germ" and "Sturm," res pective­ ly, were favorable, he said. There was controversy among parents and faculty because the papers were so un­ like the traditional high school newspapers, Magnus said.

There is no charge for "The Bod," and copies will be left at the University Center, Carbondale Community High School and at the office of University High School, Magnus said.

City Council
Okays Light
On East Main

Proposals for a traffic light at the intersection of old routes 13 and 113, east of Carbondale, and the changing of a number of streets in the southwest section of the city were among actions taken Tuesday night by the Carbondale City Council.

In a letter to the Council, Robert McGrath, chairman of the Carbondale Plan Commission, recommended the installation of the traffic light and proposed sharing of the cost of the project, between the city and state. City Manager C. William Norman formally proposed the issue and said the Illinois Division of Highways studied the problem and recommended spending $12,000 on the signal to relieve the hazard.

The manager also proposed traffic signals at the intersection of Sycamore and West Main Street.

Stephen Wasby, chairman of the Mayor's Street Name and Numbering Committee, presented the committee's recommendations.

Most of the street name changes were proposed to eliminate the various names cases where there are more than one name four.

Among the other action taken by the Council was the approval of construction plans to extend Grand Avenue from Wall Street to Lewis Lane, approval of the final plat of the first and second areas of Lewis, Sycamore & Madison, and approval for a City Youth Corps. Directed by the city manager, the Youth Corps would employ a number of young men to work on city projects for at least six months for $1.40 per hour.

Council agreed to a recommendation by Police Chief Jack Myles, to be a traffic controller on either side of Monroe Street from University Avenue to Poplar Street.

West Frankfort
Woman Dies, 2 Hurt in Wreck

A West Frankfort woman was killed and two other persons injured Wednesday in a two-car accident at the intersection of Illinois Route 13 and Cr 14, on the Richard Lake entrance road.

The dead woman was Mrs. Hazel Weaver, 68, according to the Illinois State Police at DuQuoin. Her husband, Gerald Weaver, 75, driver of one of the two cars, was taken to Doctors Hospital at Carbondale with major injuries.

The other driver, John Key of Murphysboro, was also taken to Doctors Hospital. The accident occurred just a few miles east of Carbondale.

Student Responsibility

Deferment Requests Due Under New Draft Law

By Richard Diederich

Unless SIU students want to return to their homes at the end of this quarter in time to receive "greetings" from their local draft boards, they had better start writing "Dear Sir," letters requesting deferments.

Under new draft laws effective July 1, 1967, students who want deferments must write letters to their local draft boards requesting the deferments, according to Mr. John Paulus, chair of the Local Selective Service System Board 139 of Jackson County.

"If we don't get these letters," she said, "the students, whether they are qualified or not, will be classified I-A and inducted.

In 1966, under the old draft laws, student deferment qualifications included attendance figures, class standing, and other criteria which the local draft board used in deciding whether to grant deferments.

Under the new law, the decision has been left to the student. If a college student submit to his draft board a signed request for deferment, and his school verifies that he was in satisfactory attendance during the past academic year, and meets age requirements, the deferment will be granted.

Request forms are being printed, but letters will suffice until such forms are made available.

The Registrar's Office is printing letters which will be sent to SIU students explaining the proper procedures to follow under the new law. Letters will be sent to the students in one week.

Graduate students may be deferred if they are pursuing a course of graduate study in medicine, veterinary medicine, dentistry, osteopathy or optometry, and in other fields necessary to the national health, safety or interest as determined by the director of Selective Service.

Edwardsville AAU
Chapter Sets Up Three-Man Panel

A three man committee has been appointed by the Edwardsville AAU chapter, the committee will draft a letter to the AAUP's national secretary providing information concerning President Delyte W. Morris's refusal to submit a one-year lecturing appointment to the Board of Trustees.

During a meeting Wednesday afternoon by the Edwardsville campus it was decided to examine administrative procedures in making faculty appointments, Villemain said. The investigation will continue into the fall quarter he said.

Three-nian Panel

A three man committee has been appointed by the Edwardsville AAU chapter of the American Association of University Professors to investigate appointment practices of Southern Illinois University.

According to Francis T. Villemain, resident of the Edwardsville AAU chapter, the committee will draft a letter to the AAUP's national secretary providing information concerning President Delyte W. Morris's refusal to submit a one-year lecturing appointment to the Board of Trustees.

During a meeting Wednesday afternoon at the Edwardsville campus it was decided to examine administrative procedures in making faculty appointments, Villemain said. The investigation will continue into the fall quarter he said.

All Dangerous Riot Agitators Are Newsworthy

Someone once said that a liberal politician is one who has more solutions than there are problems. In the aftermath of the recent Negro riots, disturbed and sympathetic leaders have suggested nearly as many as explanations as have been upheavals.

One of the latest expected explanations comes from Pennsylvania's Senator Hugh Scott, a respected liberal Republican. Senator Scott thinks part of the turmoil came from the mass media's reporting of the riots.

No one would defend misrepresentation or distorted reporting of violence in the streets. Indeed, no one, including Senator Scott, has suggested that news reports were less than factual. And yet, some of the agencies of printed and electronic journalism may seem to focus too much on a handful of wild-eyed black intransigents, the exposure of which is merely a reporting of the acts of evil-making and thus attention-gaining men.

H. Rap Brown and Stokely Carmichael are not expected "civil rights leaders" and are not reported to be. But if either of them can set a city afame with racial violence, then his exposure is newsworthy because they are dangerous. And all dangers should be made known, without censorship, whether either compulsory or voluntary.

Almost the entire learning is in motivating a student, the fact remains that the grade, or end result, plays a large part in this motivation. A student who ordinarily may have equal interest and aptitude, would submit to taking an extra course for credit only if he were promised a grade.

One question arises as to whether or not another student, who might be able to pass a course which he does not enter for credit, would be able to pass the course if he did so under the present audit system. The amount of work which he would be required to do would be the same as in the regular audit system, and a grade might be better.

The question is: "Is it possible to encourage a student to take elective courses and 400 level courses, if a student is interested in taking part of the pass-fail grading system? Would there be a tax deduction?" The answer is yes.

So that students may have equal interest and aptitude, the proposal that students be given a tax deduction for two hours of lecture or discussion per week should be passed. The proposal is simple, logical, and would motivate many students to take extracurricular electives.

Population May Total One Billion in 1999

More and More People Starve as India Grows

Editor's note: The following article on India's problems in population control was written by Madgawa Madailah, an Indian student at SIU who is working toward a doctorate in economics.

India presents a bewildering spectacle of a large, overcrowded nation with a rapidly growing population and a level of living and at the same time a population growing at a relatively rapid rate. This is particularly true of the country, the area to the census of 1961, was 439,2 million. The estimated midyear population for 1966 is 419 million. This number occupies the second highest place in respect to population, the first being Red China. Improvement in the food grain production has caused a fall in the mortality rate without any significant change in the fertility rate. As a result, there has been a great increase in the population in the recent decades.

The rate of growth of population has estimated to be 1.8 percent per annum during the period 1961-1966, whereas it was 2.8 percent per annum during the period 1951-1961. The population in India which was estimated in 1911 and 1921 and about 32 in 1945 is not estimated at 50 years, then the growth will be about 100,000,000. According to some estimates, the expectation of 60 years and 70 years for men will be impossible.

Keeping in view that alteration in population trends can be determined by at least up to two generations to materialize and reproduction behavior takes about the same time to change, Dr. S. Chandrasekaran, an economist who is now demanding the present minister of family planning in India, has recently estimated that at the current rate of growth, the population of India would be alarming figures of one billion by the year 1999.

In 1960, the following table is presented to show the increase which is not possible unless proper measures are taken on a national scale to bring it down. India is already having a very large population and a very low per capita income. The rate of population in India is very low. The rate of economic development, which depends on capital formation, can not be made rapid enough to absorb the growing population and to ensure a higher standard of living. During the first three five-year plans (1951-1966), the gross national product was increased very low by the increase in population.

Further, the urgency of the population problem, as elaborated by the committee of experts, was that the population in India is growing faster than the growth of the country's food production. At a minimum of 1500 calories per head per day, the population, which is already very high, can not have enough food, and is bound to increase unless proper measures are taken on a national scale to bring it down. India is already having a very large population and a very low per capita income. The rate of population in India is very low. The rate of economic development, which depends on capital formation, can not be made rapid enough to absorb the growing population and to ensure a higher standard of living. During the first three five-year plans (1951-1966), the gross national product was increased very low by the increase in population.

The government of India has recognized family planning as a key program for the success of the country's five-year plans and has adopted a nationwide family planning program with the objective of reducing the birth rate by 40 percent at present to 25 per thousand population by 2050.

The operational goal of the first five-year plan was to reduce the birth rate by 20 percent at present to 25 per thousand population by 2050. The operational goal of the second five-year plan was to reduce the birth rate by 20 percent at present to 25 per thousand population by 2050. The operational goal of the third five-year plan was to reduce the birth rate by 20 percent at present to 25 per thousand population by 2050.

New York Democrat Denies Improper Use of Donations

WASHINGTON (AP) - Rep. Thaddeus J. Dulski, D-N.Y., who on Wednesday he kept for his personal use the $1,000 that was raised at a 1965 testimonial dinner in his honor, said there was nothing improper about the dinner and that he had done nothing wrong.

The 51-year-old Buffalo Congressman told newsmen in response to a Wall Street Journal story reporting the affair that the news media had misinterpreted comment Dulski had made in conversation with Dulski in the past about his personal finances. Dulski had been quoted as saying that he had learned to keep his personal finances in order.

The article noted that Dulski had been quoted as saying that he had learned to keep his personal finances in order.

Dulski, who is from Buffalo, N.Y., has been a member of the House从来没有 appeared in the news media for security reasons at Stevenson's request.

Jackson County will receive $13,339 as its share of the motor fuel tax paid into the state treasury during June. The Illinois Department of Finance reported that Illinois townships and road districts have been allotted $1,650,185.

Industrial Ed

Students Write Illinois History

An industrial education history class, taught by Charles M. Rice, visiting professor at the School of Technology, has written a book, “Illinois, Historical Heartland of Industrial Education in the U.S.A.,” to clarify the position of Illinois in the history of industrial education.

People in Illinois are so close to the historical developments in industrial education that they do not realize the importance of their state’s contributions in the field, according to Rice.

Each student contributed one chapter to the book in a class project, Rice said. “It contains much information that might otherwise have been overlooked,” he continued.

“We are not planning to publish the book,” he said, “but someone may decide to in the future.”

Manager Hodges Makes Senators Winner

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (AP) - Patent Hodges, who threw away his catcher's mitt 20 years ago to become one of baseball's finest first base man, has fashioned the Washington Senators into a winning team which is threatening to slip into the American League's first division.

Hodges, who mastered first base under Brooklyn's old pitching staff in the late 1940's because sluggish Hodges was the old catcher in the league, is in his fourth season as manager of the seven-year-old franchise.

The expierenced Senators never finished higher than eighth place.

But Hodges has the 1967 team playing .700 ball in the last month, win 21 of their last 32 games. The Senators had won nine of their last 13 games before Wednesday's game here with the Twins.

The spurt has boosted Washington from its customary 10th place in the American League to sixth.

The match set a record for the Senators' ranch.

Another Saluki, Jose Villalobos, took his first round match in the same tourney downing George Seawag, Rice University's No. 1 player, 6-4, 3-6, 25-23.

Both players have spent the summer competing in several grass and clay court tournaments on the United States amateur tour.

Villalobos' match was the longest of the tourney until Sprengelmeyer and Knight hooked up for their grueling match.

Probably just long enough as the autumn to end the 20 whou him as the playing point of the match was.

Best Man' Biggest Factor in Mexico Olympics

By Harold Y. Jones
Copley News Service

MEXICO CITY -- British Olympic officials think that, despite the rarefied atmosphere in the mountain resort, they have little to fear from the British athletes, who were able to compete in four events.

The question of the effect of altitude on the ability of athletes to compete in the Games, and to what extent this will affect the results, is something that cannot be answered until the tests are completed.

Frank Bare, of the United States, was able to compete in four events.

Tillman Goes To Yankees

NEW YORK (AP) -- The New York Yankees have acquired pitcher Bob Tillman from the Boston Red Sox, picking up the pitcher for the low $20,000 waiver price.

Tillman became available when the Red Sox obtained Elston Howard from the Yankees last week. The Yankees said the sale of Tillman was a result of the Howard deal, but that it was not a part of that transaction.

Tillman, a right-handed pitcher, has been with the Boston since the start of the 1962 season and has a 2.38 lifetime average going into this year.

Dale Hardy Will Demonstrate

Trampoline Skill in Germany

Dale Hardy, SIU's trampoline star, will be doing some jumping around overseas this summer.

Hardy will leave for Germany Aug. 24 and remain there until Sept. 11. While in Germany Hardy will put on trampoline demonstrations and compete in trampoline meets. One of the meets likely will compete in is the Fairbank-Schoener Cup, the championship for trampolineists.

"I am really looking forward to making this trip. It took eight special week courses this summer with the hopes of being able to make the trip," said Hardy.

Frank Bare, of the United States Gymnastics Federation, will sponsor Hardy in Germany and will cover all expenses. Bare is a good friend of Bill Meade, Hardy's coach at SIU.

Meanwhile, Hardy and other trampolineists are awaiting word from the NCAA on the status of the trampoline. The trampoline was banned by the NCAA several weeks ago. Another meeting, to be held early next week, may reverse that decision.

But in long-distance events, he said, runners will have trouble equaling their sea-level performances.

"We British have no complaints," Duncan said.

"As soon as we heard Mexico was chosen, we accepted it," Duncan said.

But many people in England, even athletes, feared the effects of the altitude. Some London sportswriters wrote dire stories about Mexico City's altitude and the possibility, as they saw it, of British athletes suffering serious injury because of insufficient oxygen.

So a team of English runners went through four weeks of tests here late in 1965. The team was headed by Dr. Griffith Pugh, of the British Medical Research Council.
