Bulgaria asks for changes
Protesters seeking democracy

SOFIA, Bulgaria (UPI) — About 60,000 protesters jammed Sofia's main square Sunday to demand political reforms in the largest pro-democracy rally in the Balkan country in more than four decades.

Picking up the political muscle, the crowd of office workers, factory hands and students waved banners and chanted slogans in a swirling snow, exercising freedoms unknown in Bulgaria until a few weeks ago.

"Dismantle the totalitarian system," and "A multiparty system and democratic elections" were slogans seen on several placards at the rally, which came two days after a shakeup in the ruling Politburo and on the eve of a crucial Communist Party plenum.

Although the communist government recently has taken a more inclusive stance toward dissent, it faces behind some of its East Bloc neighbors in implementing democratic reforms.

Despite the snowfall and freezing temperatures, the estimated 60,000 demonstrators stood for several hours in the freezing Sofia main square to hear speakers and call for an end to communist domination.

Bulgarian state police, which uses batons and police dogs reportedly cracked any public expression of dissent, did not intervene.

Several speakers, made a point out of distinguishing Sunday's rally from a smaller, more radical demonstration by several hundred young Easterners who marched through Sofia Saturday chanting, "Dismantle the state." "The aim of the Union Democratic Forces in Bulgaria is to accelerate and deepen the process of perestroika," nor to tear down the government, said Jedynia Bajer, a leading figure in the UDFB, the umbrella organization that sponsored the rally.

The demonstration was slightly larger than a Nov. 18 pro-democracy protest in Sofia and was the largest since communist rule was established shortly at the end of World War II.

Although small in comparison with the massive demonstrations in East Germany and Czechoslovakia, the rally was new evidence that Bulgaria's budding democracy movement is gaining support. Hard-line Romania is the only Warsaw Pact country still largely unaffected by the reform movement.

Friday's shakeup in the Politburo — the third in less than a month — saw former disgraced Communist Party general secretary Todor Zhivkov who died Saturday chanting.

"It is a question of the claim to absolute power. We have given that up," said Gysi, 41, who was elected chairman of the party Saturday afternoon, accoring to the sources, some of whose witnesses the incident.

The demonstration, all men who appeared to be in their early 20s, marched in front of the building housing the Ministry of Radio, Film and Television in western Beijing late Saturday afternoon, according to the sources, some of whom witnessed the incident.

The demonstrators defied a ban on public protest by marching in silence to protest against the evidences in most of urban Beijing last May 20. It also violated a tough new law against street protests.

Foreign witnesses and doctors of police sharply tightened security Saturday night in the area by stopping cars and demanding identification.

The sources said the protesters were students at the Beijing Institute of Astronautics and Astronautics, one of the most active campuses in last spring's protests. Their reason for demonstrating was unknown, but they said the students proposed to monitor Morris Library security

Members of the Saluki Patrol have in problems because of an increase in thefts and security problems.

Members of the Saluki Patrol, both uniformed and plainclothes, will be wandering the libraries, watching for thefts and people mutilating materials, Roland Person, assistant undergraduate librarian, said.

The recent assignment of the Saluki Patrol to Morris Library is in response to an increase in thefts of personal items, such as books, and mutilation of library materials, Person said.

The number of incident that are reported to police are only a fraction of what actually happens," Person said.

Kenneth Peterson, dean of Library Affairs, said, "I'm concerned about all the students that are getting ripped off and I feel I have an obligation to help protect the students.

"People come into the library and get their wallets, backpacks, books and jacket stories and I want to do something to stop this," Peterson said. "Also, there are people who rip pages out of books and magazines, which is a state offense punishable by a fine and imprisonment."

Reforms continue in Europe

East Germany's ruling party has relinquished its claim to absolute power and Czechoslovakia installed a new government Sunday as reforms continue to sweep Eastern Europe.

The East German Communist Party expects to get only 20 percent of the vote in the national election, the new leader of the party said Sunday.

"I cannot imagine that we will disappear entirely as a political force," party boss Gregor Gysi said in an interview with the West German Bild daily, released Sunday in advance of publication.

In a question of the claim to absolute power. We have given that up," said Gysi, 41, who was elected chairman of the party Saturday morning at a marathon all-night congress held in a bid to restore some of the communists crumbling authority.

Delegates at the two-day assembly agreed on drastic reforms party policies and called for an end of the hard line communism that had been the state's trademark until the downfall of former leader Erich Honecker.

Close to the talks said that the president of Costa Rica, El Salvador, Guatemala, Honduras, and Nicaragua would meet throughout the afternoon to discuss the domestic issues that have thrown the region for the last month.

Dalai Lama awarded '89 Nobel Peace Prize

OSLO, Norway (UPI) — Tibet's exiled God-King, the 14th Dalai Lama, accepted the 1989 Nobel Peace Prize Sunday as the Nobel Committee chairman accused China of persecuting genocide against the occupied Tibetans nation, China's ambassador to Norway boycotted the tradition-bound ceremony. The Chinese government has already condemned the award as gross interference in its internal affairs. "The Dalai Lama has been awarded the prize for his consistent resistance to the use of violence and his work for world peace," said Nobel Committee Chairman Einar Aavik at the ceremony at Oslo University.

Arafat declines attendance at peace talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — PLO leader Yasir Arafat said Sunday he has "nothing to gain" from Middle East peace talks advocated by the Bush administration among Israel, Egypt, and Lebanon. Speaking on NBC's "Meet the Press," the leader of the Palestine Liberation Organization steadfastly refused to confirm speculation he had approved Egypt's role in the talks sponsored by Secretary of State James Baker. "I have nothing to gain with this meeting because I am not involved at all in the meeting," Arafat said in the interview from Baghdad, Iraq.

Hungary's leader works on economic crisis

BUDAPEST, Hungary (UPI) — Prime Minister Miklos Nemeth said Sunday the government will close down state-owned companies and privatize state property in a move this month to combat Hungary's economic crisis. Nemeth, closing a three-day meeting with the opposition parties, said he was "in mortal danger."

Apostrophe reveals no signs of abuse in bodies from fire

KANIKAKE, Ill. (UPI) — A postmortem autopsy Sunday showed no signs of sexual or child abuse in the death of four young children whose bodies were found in a burned-out parked car. The coroner said, Kakukake County Coroner Jim Orrison said all four children — ranging in age from 3 to 11 — died of carbon monoxide poisoning. Car noise was heard coming from a nearby road at 3 a.m. The coroner said he believed was some redness or irregularity around the vagina of one child, which led to the speculation of sexual abuse. Fire officials said the blaze began in at least two locations, leading to the conclusion that arson was the likely cause.

Madrigal dinner a triumph
By Carrie Pomeroy
Entertainment Editor

Diners took a trip back in time to the court of an imaginary king and queen in merry old England during the 13th Annual Madrigal Dinner Concert held last Thursday and Saturday at the Student Center center ballrooms.

A Review
The lavishly decorated ballroom, the medieval sounds of the musicians and madrigal singers and the authentic costumes and settings created an entertaining atmosphere.

A crowd of diners that included community members and University faculty and students was conducted into the ballroom and seated by costumed "servants" who addressed everyone as "m’lord" or "m’lady.

The ballroom was a work of art itself. Festive hand-sewn banners and floor-to-ceiling stage flats resembling stone walls created the illusion of a castle dining hall. The king and quee's banquet table, wreathed with evergreens and a purple velvet runner, was at the front of the ballroom stage to allow the monarch to preside over the crowd. Christmas trees as tall as 22 feet decorated the corners of the ballroom.

Servers and performers dressed in medieval costumes wandered among the crowd while singers, trumpeters, guitarists and a harpist-chest player set the musical mood. Diners initially seemed a little overwhelmed by the profusion of sights and sounds at the dinner. Often, food got ignored in favor of taking in the evening's entertainment.

The food was served fairly efficiently, considering how full the serving of six courses to about 380 diners had to be orchestrated with the entertainment. The main problem was that diners at one end of a table were usually finished by the time the people at the other end were getting served.

The food itself was delicious and was served in moderate portions to let people take in all six courses without waddling out of the ballroom. Culinary highlights were the box sausage cup, the fried rice and turkey basque soup, the rib roast with mushroom gravy and the Yorkshire pudding. The evening's musical entertainment was uniformly excellent. The fifteen madrigal singers multi-textured harmonies and tightly syncopated rhythms kept the audience in a holiday mood. Fanfare trumpet players David Bauman, Ken Kera and Tony O'Mara hailed the serving of each course of the meal with dignity and precision.

Library dean: Financial costs hinder concept of later study hours at Morris

The article entitled "Lazar hours at library needed," which appeared in The Saluki Patrol on Jan. 22, has caused a few legitimate concerns. Thus, the following information is provided.

Morris Library is open 92.25 hours per week during regular semesters. During the last two weeks of each semester, the library extends hours until midnight during which time the total is 106.25, an increase of 14 hours per week.

In response to student concern in the early 1980s and again in 1985, concern was raised during evening hours and it was found that the major exodus from the building occurred between 9:30 and 10:30 p.m. with comparatively few patrons. On a trial basis, hours were extended until midnight and 2 a.m. and it was found that very few people remained during these later periods.

The major problem posed by extending hours is financial. Costs approximately $50 per hour for staff overtime and student wages for each additional hour. Thus, for example, if the library remained open until midnight every night, we would add 14 hours per week, i.e., $500 per week, or $28,000 per year. The library is not given any additional funds to increase library hours. There is an added fact to consider this and next year. The increase of 43 cents per hour in the minimum wage beginning April 1 will necessitate the library absorbing roughly $17,000 for increased student wages for April, May and June unless we reduce the number of employees which, in turn, only decrease library hours. Considering this increase and the additional $17,000 in May, we would have to reduce our library staff by 16 people in April, 1991, the situation will be much more serious next year when we estimate the total cost for wage increases will be approximately $35,000.

The facility and staff in Library Affairs are strongly committed to serving the needs of students. We are not opposed to extending hours if they can be justified. We will continue to extend hours until midnight during the last two weeks of each semester, and only if we feel it is in the best interest of students.

The suggestion of keeping the first floor as a study area on the first floor is not possible. Moreover, with open stairways and elevators which provide easy access to all floors, there are no effective ways to secure the rest of the building.

In the preliminary plans for the future addition to Morris Library, one of the major recommendations for the study area on the first floor is to become a reality when funds are appropriated for the much-needed study area.

Nelson Ferry, News Editor, and Kenneth A. Peterson, Dean of Library Affairs

No excuse for taking materials from library

WHEN ONE goes to Morris Library to collect information for a research paper, one expects the research material to be there and in usable condition.

However, this is not always the case at the University's library. In fact, many students report that library officials are trying to improve the security in the library by having members of the Saluki Patrol present. The purpose of the patrol is to make the library a better place to study and work.

The frustration felt by users needing crucial information that has been destroyed or stolen is unsurmountable. And this frustration should not have to occur. Nelson Ferry, SULC security officer, reported a 34percent increase in criminal activity in the library in the first nine months of 1989 in comparison with the 12 months of 1988.

There is no excuse for mutilating or stealing from Morris Library. The library has copy machines on each floor to reproduce materials that cannot be checked out. Material that can be checked out should be.

The Saluki Patrol will be on alert for mutilation and theft of library material and personal possessions. The patrol will also assist librarians in enforcing library policies such as no smoking, eating and drinking in the library.

The members of the patrol will be present during all times the library is open. Placing the patrol in the library is a permanent attempt by Morris Library and the University to help alleviate some of the problems beneficial to the University.

Everyone must play his part in making the library the best possible research environment for its users. The next time you go to rip out a page of Newsweek or the Chicago Tribune, please remember how deeply it hurt you. You could be stealing the very article you need to complete your paper next semester.

Reserve System is fine

Providence Journal

To its detractors, the Federal Reserve System often seems like a dark coven of Svealgians: Diabolical schemers, remote from the real world, whose main business is to wreak mischief on the American economy. Or so one would infer from the renewed attempts to give the Fed a line to the dean's office of political accountability.

In fact, over the past decade, the Fed has probably been increasing interest rates to keep the economy healthy — remarkably well. And it has done this precisely because it has remained independent of outside pressures.

Presidents over the years have tried to bring the Fed to heel. And elected officials are suggesting for raising interest rates, thereby boosting the economy to make the party ticket look good, are not unknown. But the best Fed chairman, recognizing that the central bank's independence is crucial to its political viability, have resisted these blandishments.

When the Fed's Open Market Committee decides to tighten money by raising interest rates, howls of anguish are usually heard in the land. In the early 1980s, it may be remembered, then-Chairman Paul Volcker was roundly assailed for daring to raise money costs. True, the resulting higher interest rates did bring on a serious recession. But they also blotted the steam out of a scary burst of inflation.

The system is working. The output has grown at an average rate of 2.5 percent a year since 1982, which is roughly twice as fast as was the case during the period of the last inflation. According to the Federal Reserve Board, the decline in the inflation rate in the period since 1987 has slowed the rate at which the dollar is devaluing, and this has reduced the cost of imports. It is also true that the higher interest rates have discouraged construction and buying, and thus have contributed to the current recession.

The system is working. If the Federal Reserve System is not perfect, it is working. And the country is better off for the increase in the independence of the central bank.

Cold weather delays building of new psychiatric hospital
By Lisa Miller
Staff Writer
A harsh winter with colder than-normal temperatures will delay construction of Carbondale’s new psychiatric hospital until late spring.
Construction was expected to begin on the $5.6 million hospital in February 1990, but since February’s record-breaking frigid winter for the Midwest, construction will be delayed until spring, said Debra Nasca, vice president for development for the Park Hospital Foundation.
Nasca said no construction company has been selected and, therefore, no definite date has been set for groundbreaking ceremonies.
“The snow is not stopping this building project,” Nasca said. “I think the snow and cold down here this winter have been unusual. We are predicting the jet stream to straighten out this winter and bring cold air from Canada down into the Midwest,” Lively said.
Nasca said the construction delay is not a major setback and she expects the new hospital to open sometime in the fall of 1990.
Nasca said, “We want this hospital to be as perfect as it can be.” Nasca said, “This is the fifth time we have built so far and we strive to make each one better than the last.”
Nasca said she has been receiving a lot of resumes from professional applicants for positions at the new hospital.
“I’m thrilled with the amount of positive response we’ve been receiving over the new hospital,” Nasca said. “I’ve received many resumes and we have not started advertising for once.”

The new 60-bed psychiatric hospital for adolescents and adults will be built on Route 51 north of the industrial park in Carbondale.

City Manager Steve Hoffner said the hospital is a major step in the ongoing social and economic development that will create new jobs, both during construction and after it’s open.

The new hospital will be the only free-standing private hospital of its kind in Southern Illinois.

carried two large red banners with flowers decorating them.
One read, “Why is China so poor?” The other said “Television makes people happy.” It is possibly a satiric reference to recent government exhortations to stress television as a new way to inform the public.
A stunned crowd of 200-300 people surrounded the demonstra­tions. They said police officers watched them for minutes and then hauled off the students. It was not known if the protesters were arrested.
“I think half the onlookers were sincerely hoping this would happen and the other half had no idea what to make of it,” said one source, adding that he was “shocked” by the events.
It was the first public protest reported since the crushing of the student-led demonstrations for greater freedom and a more open government began on universi­ty campuses early last spring and spread nationwide.
A continuing series of political crackdowns has followed. Conservative forces in the government have assumed tight control over the state-run media, which broke free last spring by devoting lengthy, largely sympa­thetic reports to the protests.
Several prominent journalists have since been arrested. Recently, editors at the state central radio station — also housed in the ministry building — said to be chafing under the onslaught of propaganda have been transferred to report.
The participants in Saturday’s demonstrations included both students or young employees from central television or radio, the two state-owned television stations.
The protest occurred on the sym­bolic anniversary of the so-called “Dec. 9 movement.” On that date in 1989, Beijing college students held a mass demonstration to protest the Japanese invasion of China.

In Czechoslovakia, the newly installed government is the first in more than 40 years that is dominat­ed by non-communists.

Vaclav Havel, Czechoslovakia’s most famous dissident and playwright, the former Czech president, said the government, which crushed the Prague Spring, “was the first time since the communist takeover in February 1948 that the government has not been under the direct control of communism.”

Havel was the last high-ranking Communist Party official still in government who was closely asso­ciated with the 1968 Soviet-led Pact invasion of Czechoslovakia that crushed the Prague Spring, pro-democracy movement.
A tale of 10 members of the 21-person Cabinet, including Havel, are communists. The remaining posts belong to two representatives each from the Socialists and the Communists and seven people who belong to no political party.

Also, there are serious problems of mutilation of materials, particularly journal arti­cles, and destruction involving disrup­tive behavior by users.

But the silent Queen might have been one trad­ition worth discussing.

Highlights of the evening were the tears-of-blood fight and sword fights Kevin Paul and Chris­opher Proctor, who played the knight with an amusing and entertaining array of weapons and acrobatic sword, which carried them up and down the aisles between acts, clashed them up against walls and sent them scree­ching across the stage, was a hilarious and clever way to portray the final battle.

AMA survey tells area restaurants what foods students like, dislike

By Jeanne Bickler
Staff Writer

The SIU-C chapter of the American Marketing Association is offering area restaurants a chance to find out more about the eating preferences of students.

For around $200, area restaurants can buy the results of AMA's survey, which should lend some insight into what students are looking for when they go out to eat. The survey is called the Student Preference Profile.

Allison Ardita, AMA's vice president of marketing research, said the survey will cover a random sample of students.

"The survey will be given to all types of students in a variety of majors," Ardita said. "The survey form will cover all types of factors that affect student choices when they go out to eat."

The research report, which will be finished in mid-February, covers all five questions:

1. What types of food do students eat when they go out?
2. Where do they go to eat?
3. When do students go out to eat?
4. How often do students go out to eat, and how much money do they spend?
5. Why do students prefer some restaurants over others?

Ardita said the study can be bought in advance. Three area businesses, King's Wolf, 611 Pizza and Daisy Mae's Smorgasbord, already have purchased the survey.

The survey is called the SIU-C Preference Profile. For information leading to the conviction of the person(s) responsible for the attack on 82 year old Julia Myers, a patient at Stytest Nursing Home, the attack occurred between 4:00 pm, Oct. 7 and 8:00 am, Oct. 8.

High-level U.S. delegation attempts restoration of relations with China

BEIJING (UPI) — A high-level U.S. delegation is meeting with China's senior leaders for the first time since the crackdown on the democracy movement last June and a U.S. official said the talks are "very good groundwork" for restoring relations.

But the delegation, led by President Bush's special security adviser, Brent Scowcroft, left Beijing for Tokyo without any public sign of substantive progress after the whirlwind round of talks, aimed at easing months of mutual hostility.

The 25-hour visit, kept secret until the delegation's arrival Saturday, was unusually content and classified in a meeting at the Great Hall of the People with senior leader Deng Xiaoping.

"I believe your move is a very important move," Deng told Scowcroft at a photo session, "in spite of the discount and after all, some U.S. relations have to be improved." The U.S. mission, including Deputy Secretary of State Lawrence Eagleburger, was the first since relations deteriorated after the Chinese army's bloody suppression of pro-democracy protests in Beijing last June 3-4.

Scowcroft left Beijing without comment but the official Xinhua news agency quoted Scowcroft and Chinese Foreign Minister Qian Qichen as saying that both sides would "make efforts to eliminate the differences to restore and develop" relations.

There was no indication of an end to the limited sanctions, including a suspension of military sales, imposed by Bush in June.

Seattle's Largent sets NFL record

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Seattle Seahawks' wide receiver Steve Largent set an NFL career record Sunday with his 100th touchdown pass reception, tying a mark of 99 he had shared with Don Hutson.

Largent's record-shattering catch was a leaping reception at the back of the end zone on a 10-yard pass from Dave Krieg with 42 seconds left in the first half against the Cincinnati Bengals.

Hutson's record was the oldest receiving mark in NFL record books. He played from 1935 through 1945 with the Green Bay Packers.

Largent also holds NFL career records for receptions (811 going into Sunday's game), yards (12,963 going into Sunday's game), most 50-catch seasons (10), most 1,000-yard seasons (8) and consecutive games with at least one catch (175). He co-holds marks for most years with 70 or more catches (6) and most consecutive seasons of 1,000 or more receiving yards (6).

"We could have added two different people in the huddle (of the race)," Neuman said. "And we still would have scored in the same range. We were very good."

In the 4,000-meter run, Stasich and Gavras also scored a one-two finish in the Saluki’s first four Saluki hurdles cleared their personal bests for the season. Senior Greg Seig added to the first three finishes in the 3,000-meter run. Freshman Geraldi Owen placed first in the event with a time of 8:18.07 and sophomore Mark Stuart came in second with 8:20.33.

Pegues said he was happy with Stuart for taking off more than 17 seconds off his previous record.

That was the best race of the whole meet," Pegues said. "(Owen and Stuart) both turned in exceptional performances.

In the 4 X 400-meter relay, senior John Stinson, freshmen Bernard Henry, senior Donnell Williams and Pegues combined for their efforts for a first-place finish with 3:23.1. We’re very good for this early in the season."

Senior Leonard Vance out-distanced the competition to win the triple jump with 40.7. Overall, Pegues said he was impressed with the freshman as a whole.

"This gave us a good look at what the competition is going to be like this season," Pegues said. "We look very good for this point in the season, but we are behind Indiana State. It is good that the team is ahead of where it was last year. That is very promising."

Third (over)time's a charm for Salukis at Murray

By Daniel Wallenberg
Staff Writer

MURRAY, Ky. — "It was one of the wildest games I think I have ever been a part of," Herrin said.

This is the synopsis given by "Red" Herrin, the head coach for the Salukis’ triple overtime 114-108 victory over the Murray State Racers in the SIU Arena.

The Salukis, 5-0, trailed 81-78 with seven seconds to play in regulation when guard Sterling Mahan took the ball the length of the floor and put up a 25-foot jump shot with one second left. The three-point field goal sent the game into the first overtime.

Mahan’s shot finished with 24 points, and the Salukis will benefit from the hard-fought game in the long run, Mahan said. "We didn’t quit and it will give us confidence in each other. We didn’t want to quit. We wanted to win."

Junior forward Rick Shipley and senior Freddie McSwain also were instrumental in the game. Shipley led all Saluki scorers with 27 points while pulling down 13 rebounds. He also was involved in two technical fouls assessed to the Salukis in the second overtime which resulted in the ejection of head coach Rick Herrin.

With 1:41 to play in the second five-minute overtime, Shipley was guarding against an MSU inbound pass after a Kelvin Lawrence layup brought the Salukis to within one point of the Racers at 98-97.

Shipley sized up at the ensuing free throws, missed one and put in it for a layup. But game official Darrell Hoobler whistled Shipley for a technical foul for fouling the ball while still in the possession of an MSU player out-of-bounds. Herrin immediately shuffled out onto the court, protested the call and bumped Hoobler in the process. Herrin was immediately ejected. Herrin’s charge would not count on the call after the game.

The Racers managed to make only two of the four free throws awarded because of the technicals and took a 100-97 advantage. Shipley, who was living following the turn, called his turnover inspiring his teammates. He came down court and caused a three-pointer to tie the score at 100.

MSU’s starting freshman guard Frank Allen, who led all scorers with 35 points, had his first two free throws followed by Saluki Jerry Jones’ layup to tie the score at 102 sending the game into the final overtime.

The Racers’ lateral Rosario hit the front of a one-and-one, but missed the second giving MSU a 108-107 lead. The Saluki defense then buckled down.

McSwain, who finished with 23 points, hit a 10-foot jump shot to give the Salukis the lead 109-108. After a MSU turnover, Shipley called for his fifth foul after he

Scott’s cagers edge Western Kentucky

By Greg Scott
Staff Writer

It took the men’s basketball team three overtimes to defeat Murray State Saturday, but the Lady Salukis put their opponents away in regulation — barely.

With 1:09 left in the game, Karlie Redder hit two free throws to give the Saluki women a 53-52 come-from-behind victory over Western Kentucky at the Arena.

The victory put the Salukis at 4-0 for the season and 19-13 overall. The Hilltoppers dropped their fifth consecutive game and fell to 2-5.

"This takes a little sting out of the Coughlin loss," Saluki coach Cindy Scott said. "Women win by a talented team.

A big and physical Western team had control of the game early and led 29-20 at halftime. But tight defense was the story of the game in the first half.

Tamina Green, Western’s 6-0 senior forward and 1989 Kodak District All-American, held her points by the Salukis. All of Green’s points came in the first half.

Amy Rakers and Angie Roughead helped spark the Saluki victory with 17 points each in the second period.

"We know Western would be pumped up for us after losing four straight," Rakers said. "Defense is a strong point of our game and I’m excited about our victory.

Roughead’s first start of the season was the key to the Saluki triumph. "That is a confidence booster for us," Roughead said. "The good defense is what won it for us.

In the second half, the Lady Hilltoppers don’t look like a team that had lost four straight. Western rallied to an early 8-0 lead and never looked back in the first half.

The Salukis cut the Hilltopper lead to 30-24, and then a basket by Roughead with 7:38 remaining. But Western outscored the Salukis 11-6 down the stretch and led by nine at the half.

"Our defense wasn’t bad in the first half," Scott said. "But our offense did better in the second half too.

The Hilltoppers led 33-27 with 13:51 left in the game, but Western couldn’t pull the Salukies away.

The Salukis were foiled by a foul for Shipley and led 37-33 with 9:46 left. Rakers, held to four first half points, scored six points during the Saluki comeback stretch.

Western, trying to bail out a four-game losing streak, scored seven unanswered points and led 40-37 with 6:35 remaining.

The Hilltoppers led 52-49 with 1:48 remaining, but the Salukis could never catch up and the Hilltoppers pulled away to win 70-67. The Salukis men held a record of 8-1 and the women are still winless, but the tie gives them a 9-0 conference record.

"I was real pleased with both the men and the women," Ingram said. "The men were able to get a big win and the women are playing at home in their own back. We were able to get into their routine and get chemistry better. It was a tough conference at the NET." Jui Ross, Chris Gally and the 400-meter freestyle relay team made up of freshman Brian Gargan, sophomore David Newhart, and senior David Mawokey and Gally sparked off.

Women hammer open strong at indoor meet

By Tracy Sargent
Staff Writer

The women’s track team opened its 1989 season as the Illinois State Indoor Invitational, taking first place in four of the six events and sharing second place in all but three events, for a total of a one-scored meet.

Women’s track coach Don DeWeon believes the Salukis have the talent and the skill to compete with regional teams this season.

"This most proved we have a lot of strength with the young team," DeWeon said. "I take a class act and put them in a different situation and they’re still a class act."

According to the team’s time of 1:44.4 for the 4 X 400 m, Mack, junior Danielle Scano, freshman Jennifer King and Nunn swept the competition with a time of 3:57.1.

Donovan said the 4 X 200 m and the 4 X 400 m relay also swept their races.

Swimming and diving teams turn in solid performances

By Eric Bugger
Staff Writer

Concerned that his team might come out a little flat after a tough National Invitational Tournament dual meet, Saluki swimming and diving coach Doug Ingram was pleased to see his Lady Salukis swim so strong from start to finish at the Saturday tournament.

The SIU C’s men’s and women’s swimming and diving teams improved their records Saturday as the men defeated Auburn 75-65 and the women led the Lady Tigers 70-70.

The Saluki men hold a record of 8-1 and the women are still winless, but the tie gives them a 9-0 conference record.
