Dole, Gephardt win Iowa caucuses

In the major test of the 1988 election year for both parties, front-runner Rep. Richard Gephardt of Missouri was running first in the Democratic race with 41 percent of the precints reporting. Sen. Paul Simon of Illinois and Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis were close behind. Gephardt attributed his victory in the Republican caucuses to the fact that he was "talking about the issues," but said he still has a "tough race" against the vice president in the campaign moves to New Hampshire.

Bush, conceding defeat, told supporters in the "friendly territory" of New Hampshire he had been "outrushed" by Robertson's fundamentalist message.

"You're not going to sink around up here." The Republicans were first to report the results of their $7.67 per precinct caucuses held in living rooms, church basements and schools across the farm state of 2.4 million people.

Based on reporting from secret ballot Republican straw polls with 54 percent of the precincts reporting, Dole had 38 percent to 24 percent for Robertson, 19 percent for Simon, 16 percent for Dukakis, 12 percent for Clinton and 10 percent for George Bush. In addition, Robertson was followed by Dukakis with 21 percent. Civil rights leader Jesse Jackson was running in fourth place.

Health fee hike studied

By Jackie Hampton

A proposed $9 per semester increase in health services fees will leave the University with the lowest student health fees among state universities, said...

The fee increase, which the Student Health Advisory Board approved Monday, will be considered by the Graduate and Professional Student Council and the Undergraduate Student Organization, Sam McVay, director of the health service, said.

If those groups support it, the fee increase could be on the Board of Trustees agenda as early as March, McVay said. The Board would have to read it at one meeting and then vote on it at its next one, he said.

"It looks like the legislation for this student," McVay said. "The student groups have indicated they are opposed to putting any more risk on the students in the form of higher deductibles."

The extra fees...

Israeli troops shoot four, Palestinians continue riots

Jerusalem (UPI) - Israeli soldiers shot and wounded at least four more Palestinians in renewed anti-Israel violence Monday. Gunfire of undetermined origin killed an Arab man, and U.N. relief workers charged Israeli troops beat a Palestinian boy to death. The relief workers' accusations came a day after doctors in Jerusalem said another Palestinian boy died of head injuries caused by beatings.

West Germany charges suspect in hijacking

FRANKFURT, West Germany (UPI - West Germany formally charged a Lebanese-born citizen with complicity Monday in the INS hijacking of a TWA airliner and the murder of one of its passengers, a U.S. Navy dormitory worker. Mohammad Ali Hamadi was arrested at Frankfurt airport in January 1988 when he arrived from Beirut and was held incommunicado since, but an indictment was not issued until Monday. No date for his trial was set.

S. Korean main opposition leader quits party

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI) - Unsuccessful presidential candidate Kim Yong-sam quit as leader of the main opposition party Monday, saying he wanted to heal a bitter opposition rift in time for parliamentary elections. His abrupt decision to resign his post in the Reunification Democratic Party, announced at a news conference, drew mixed reactions. Some political circles welcomed it while others said they were puzzled.

Sandinistas, Contra negotiations delayed

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) - Catholic Church mediators have postponed the next round of peace talks scheduled for this week between the Sandinista government and Contra rebels, Church officials said Monday. Maryknoll Bishop Bosco Vivas told United Press International the talks, scheduled for Feb. 15-16 in Guatemala, had been postponed because the principal mediator, Cardinal Miguel Obando y Bravo, would not be available.

Democrat replaces Mechem as head of state

Phoenix, Ariz. (UPI) - Democrat Rose Mofford officially took over as acting Arizona governor Monday, vowing to be healing and forceful in running the state while insuring it's not torn apart by the political turmoil of Evan Mechem's trial. The 65-year-old Mechem who has worked in the governor's office for the past 12 years, finally agreed to assume power Monday, refusing to do so until she received official word of Mechem's impeachment.

Contreras says private funds cannot match cuts

MIAMI (UPI) - Private contributions and money from third countries cannot match U.S. aid to the Sandinista government, rebel leaders said Monday in outlining plans to fund continued fighting despite a congressional vote to cut off aid. The Contrast, spurred by numerous offers of assistance, issued a letter to the American public directing supporters to send contributions to the rebels' Washington office and giving instructions to the Contreras include $500 from Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan.

INS to determine future of Cuban prisoners

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (UPI) - The Immigration and Naturalization Service began interviewing 377 Cuban inmates of the federal penitentiary Monday to determine whether they should be paroled or deported. Wilson athletes were among the 377 Cuban inmates being questioned by INS representatives who were conducting the interviews at the U.S. Penitentiary, said Jeff Duncan, executive assistant to the warden. Leavenworth is one of several federal facilities where the government is trying to determine the fate of 2,400 inmates transferred in late 1987 from Rikers Island in Atlanta and Oakdale, La.

University remembers 3 civil rights heroes

ORANGEBURG, S.C. (UPI) - About 200 people attended the memorial service Monday on the campus of South Carolina State University to mark the 20th anniversary of the shootings of three black men during the civil rights movement. Family members and friends of the victims joined college students who were not born at the time of the shootings to recall what came to be known as the "Orangeburg Massacre." The victims, Henry Smith, Samuel Hammond Jr., and Delano Middleton, were shot to death Feb. 8, 1968, when state troopers opened fire on a crowd of civil rights protesters.

Business incubator gets designs

By Edward Rahe
Staff Writer

Preliminary design plans for the Small Business Incubator will be reviewed today by the Office of Economic Development.

The plans call for construction of a 50,000-square-foot building at the intersection of Pleasant Hill Road and U.S. 61. About 22,000 square feet of the building would be reserved for 39 new businesses to be developed at the incubator, said Rhonda Vinson, economic development director.

"The remaining spaces would contain conference rooms, a library, computer rooms and offices," Vinson said.

Engineers soon will begin testing the soil at the incubator site, Vinson said. "We hope to start construction this summer and be finished by January of 1990," she said.

Architects from the Springfield-based firm of Ferry and Walton were hired to design the $6 million incubator.

Vinson said "light industries and service firms would operate in the incubator. No retail businesses will be allowed to set up shop in the building," she said.

No currently established businesses will be allowed to move into the incubator, Vinson said. "These are businesses we would stimulate as new growth," she said.

The City Council has received 17 written suggestions about downtown development, Dixon said.

The city sent out 144 announcements about the hearing to the University, community organizations, businesses and individuals the council knew were interested.

University President John Guyon said he was not notified about the hearing, but that he doesn't plan to attend. The council didn't want to jump into a hasty recommendation.

"I hope that people will make concise presentations," Guyon said.

Maggie Flanagan, an International Programs and Services advisor and founder of the Carbondale Downtown Revitalization Committee, said she will ask the City Council to postpone a decision about downtown possibilities of downtown land for a retreat.

"I don't want to jump into a hasty recommendation," Flanagan said.

The fate of two blocks of downtown land will be debated tonight in the City Council Chambers.

The council has asked people to suggest what Carbondale's goals should be, possible uses for the downtown property and how to finance the project.

Bill Dixon, city manager, said he expects several community organizations to make presentations at the hearing, though he hopes individuals also will make suggestions.

To speak at the hearing, people must fill out a form at the meeting with their name and address and give it to City Clerk Janet Vaught.

Dixon said. Vaught will call the speakers in the order their forms were received, he said.

"People may attend who Nature and would probably have time limits only if it appears that not everyone will have the opportunity to speak," Mayor Neil Dillard said.

Search firms futile

We hate to say it, but we told you so.

Lawrence Dennis, chairman of the search committee that conducted SIU-C's president search, recently denounced the use of expensive search firms in finding candidates for executive positions.

Dennis, in an article in the Chronicle of Higher Education, wrote that search firms get "an enormous fee for what may be little work." This may well have been the case with the Guyon search.

The results of the search are not to be criticized, but rather the way in which the search was conducted. Guyon's search cost the University more than $66,000. Most of that money, $37,000, went to a Chicago-based executive search firm.

It is not clear exactly what the firm did to earn its money, especially in light of the fact that Guyon, an in-house candidate, was hired.

The hiring of a new SIU-C president undoubtedly is a very important move for the University and must be carried out with the utmost care and thoroughness. But this does not mean frivolous expenditures, such as hiring search firms, should be made.

The main service provided by search firms is supposed to be a reduction in the work load for the University's search committee. But Dennis contended this is not what usually results from employing a search firm.

"Based upon my experience, headhunters do not make the search for a new president easier," Dennis wrote. "In fact, the committee's work expands proportionately with the entry of another party."

It is ridiculous for the University to spend $37,000 on a service that makes executive searches more arduous and time-consuming. It is to be hoped that the University will have no need to engage in another executive search in the near future.

But if it does, let it learn from its mistake and conduct the search without incurring unneeded expenses.

Choose Arbitration

The board of Trustees has a chance to make a very responsible decision Thursday by allowing an employee's grievance to go to binding arbitration.

Under the Board's current policy, final decisions on grievances are made by the board. This policy leaves the door open for egregious abuses of power, which most likely would go against the employee.

The board is not entirely to blame for the potential unfairness of the policy in that there never before has been a request for binding arbitration on a grievance. Charles Goben, professor of electrical engineering, made the request after a Judicial Review Board panel decided in December, 1986, that some of his achievements had not been properly considered for merit raises.

Much to his credit, Chancellor Lawrence Pettit has spoken against binding arbitration as a way to give both sides in a grievance a fair chance. On the whole, the reaction of the SIU system's administration has been very positive, and it is to be hoped that the administration will follow through and approve Goben's request.

Allowing binding arbitration in this case would set a positive precedent and give employees making grievances a fair chance of winning.

Networks exhibited liberal bias by nixing Reagan's Contra appeal

By Darren Richardson

Staff Writer

The decision by the three major television networks to opt for regular programming instead of President Reagan's pitch for continued aid to the Contras last week blatantly revealed the media's liberal bias.

Although the Dan Rather, Sam Donaldson and Ted Koppel's of the world are certainly entitled to their opinions, the American people should not be force-fed their opinions without being given an opportunity to hear other sides' points of view.

True enough, Reagan's speech was laced with a certain air of propaganda along with subjectivity, but as we have come to see in the Reagan years, that is to be expected.

It really shouldn't matter what Reagan's ideas on the matter are; if the president of the United States feels a topic is important enough to disrupt networks' programming.

Within Reagan's ideas in it, but as networks' bigwigs would have bombarded the Oval Office like buzzards coming to feed on a dead gullanger.

It's not as if the Democrats weren't given to get their chance to respond. Maybe the networks bigwigs remembered how utterly bland Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd and Speaker of the House Jim Wright appeared after the President's roasting State of the Union address a couple of weeks back. They knew that Reagan would once again come across as "The Great Communicator" and almost any Democrat who responded would come across looking about as charismatic as the underside of a black umbrella.

Network spokesmen claimed the reason they nixed the speech was that there was no "news value" in it, but remember these are the same networks that gave us shows like "Manimal," "Murder of Science" and a steady diet of nighttime soap about the trials and tribulations of filthy rich neurotic capitalists. This in itself should say something about the networks' priorities.

The problems in Central America will not go away by ignoring them, and neither will calls for military and humanitarian aid to the Contras end because of a terrible decision by ABC, NBC and CBS to nix the President's last-ditch appeal.

Thompson Woods should be a safer place

Is it possible for Thompson Woods to be seen as an unsafe place for anyone traveling through it at night? If speaking from experience, Thompson Woods is a perfect place for crimes to occur.

The lighting that Thompson Woods is supposed to provide is poor and useless. More than half of the time, three-fourths are completely dark with perfect, inconspicuous hiding places. In such areas, the majority of rapes occur at the University. These crimes could be blamed on the poor lighting that doesn't allow passersby to see crimes occurring.

A close friend of mine prevented a rape in the fall semester of 1986. He helped the victim by pushing the assailant off her. The assailant took a swing at my friend and missed. My friend took several punches and knocked the assailant out. This potential rape occurred in a darkened part of Thompson Woods.

The answer to this problem is simple: Get more protection and lighting in Thompson Woods. If possible, the campus police may want to man the exit into Thompson Woods; the crime there would almost totally disappear. This is one place where rapes definitely could be prevented.

The question of funding always comes into every problem concerning the University. But one should not be the question in this problem. Something must be done and placing patrols in these woods is the perfect answer. Thompson Woods once again could be seen as a safe place.

Innocent people are being assaulted in these woods. The University must provide the necessary night time protection. Rummage life must be protected at all times. How can the University possibly pay for things to protect human life in general?

America's viewing of "Matlock" or an old Steve McQueen again the networks could at last set back these shows for half an hour.

But you can bet if word would have leaked out prior to the speech that Reagan had changed his mind and was going to withdraw his request for support for the Nicaraguan freedom fighters, the networks would have bombarded the Oval Office like buzzards coming to feed on a dead gullanger.

the current procedure, the president doesn't have to say what he decided based on the complaints submitted a written request. Thus, he could also give complainants names of the JRB panels. The parties in the grievance would each name one person to the panel, providing that person is not associated with either the complainant or the respondent and is not a member of the JRB. The JRB would name one of its members to serve as panel chairperson, as long as that person isn't associated with the parties in the grievance.

Under the grievance procedures, the JRB chooses the panel's three members from within the university. Incentives for serving on the panel include paid time off and the option to earn course credits. Student still in critical condition

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — A Delta rocket triumphantly soared into space Monday carrying high technology and small satellites mimicking Soviet warheads in the most ambitious test ever attempted.

During the launch, $250 million of the mission's 15 "test objects" were to be ejected in two bursts from the 4,000-pound payload — the heaviest ever carried by a Delta — to serve as targets for sensors attached to the rocket, permitting through space in a carefully orchestrated orbital battle.

The flight marked the unprecedented mission was to gather data on how to track and distinguish objects such as enemy warheads in the environment, a crucial element in President Reagan's proposed Strategic Defense Initiative.

"This is probably one of the most ambitious missions that has been executed so far and we're just delighted things are going as well as they are," said Army Col. Raymond Ross, in charge of the project's kinetic energy.divisor.

The flight marked NASA's first major launch since March 26, 1987, when an Atlas-Centaur rocket carrying military communications satellites was destroyed by lightning during launch in a thunderstorm.

The 116-foot unmanned rocket, a Delta IV, is to live to age 4:07 p.m., after a secret countdown and preliminary orbit of 394 miles by 254 miles.

"The team was geared up for a good launch and we had it," said launch director James Woman, who also was in charge of the Atlas-Centaur flight that failed last year. "We're just elated."

The Delta IV launched originally was scheduled for last Thursday but problems with ground equipment forced a safety-conscious NASA to delay the flight. Despite heavy cloud cover Monday, conditions were deemed acceptable for blastoff under conservative new post-Atlas-Centaur guidelines.

GTE requests OK for rate reduction

By Susan Curtis Staff Writer

General Telephone has asked the Illinois Commerce Commission to allow it to reduce its rates.

The request would reduce telephone rates by an average of 10.6 percent for about 12,000 Carbondale customers in response to tax savings created by a new tax reform law enacted in 1986. GTE North reduced its rates last year.

John Green, customer service manager for Carbondale GTE North, said the reduction would not affect students living in the dorms, including those with GTE shower cards, because their phone service is through the University of Illinois.

The reduction could have an effect on the University's service cost, Green said.

Today's sirens, only a test

When the emergency sirens go off at 10 this morning, don't go running for cover — it's only a test.

The sirens usually are tested on the second Sunday of each month. However, the Carbondale Emergency Services and Disaster Agency will conduct a special test today in check newly installed equipment, Tom Harris, ESDA coordinator said.

There will be a series of blasts from the sirens as each one is tested, Harris said.

Illinois man acquitted of crimes in Managua

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — James Denby, the American farmer shot down and captured over Nicaragua, was acquitted of crimes against his captors Monday, court sources said.

Denby, who was shot down Dec. 20, 1986, in a single-engine plane over southwest Nicaragua, was spent nearly two months in a Nicaraguan prison, was charged with criminal association with the U.S.-backed Contra rebels and accused of violating Nicaragua's public order and security law.

Denby left Nicaragua and 30 after being released on bail, but his case in Nicaraguan court continued until Monday, when Judge Rodolfo Batan ruled there was no strong evidence to support his charges.

The government accused Denby of providing aid and shelter to strategically situated ranch to Contra rebels and of flying into southern Nicaragua. The state prosecutor requested a sentence of up to 25 years.

Denby denied the charges.

"I am very grateful for the sentence," said Owyen, Hodgson, the Nicaraguan lawyer who represented Denby.

Denby, a farmer in Illinois and self-described lifelong Republican who sympathized with the Contras, was shot down by Sandinista troops near private place to his ranch in Costa Rica near the northern border in Nicaragua.

"The Serpent and the Rainbow" horrifies without special effects

By Richard Nunez
Entertainment Editor

"The Serpent and the Rainbow" is one of those horror movies that follows you home and will not allow you to shake the feeling that somebody is creeping up behind you or waiting for you around the next corner.

The movie is loosely inspired by the true story of Harvard ethnobotanist Mark Plotkin who went to the Bolivian jungle to search for the hallucinogenic tree of life. He finds instead a group of people who are being used as test subjects for a mind control program by the CIA.

Craven seems to be well aware of the "Indiana Jones" syndrome, in which an American is able to wait months or years for a foreign country without regard for its politics or culture. Craven vividly illustrates the poetry of Haiti and the life of its people by using the downfall of the Duvalier regime as a backdrop.

However, Craven seems to lose that awareness by the end of the movie. The ending turns into what seems like a parody of the "Indiana Jones" movies and loses its horror and mystery that marked the entire film.

Instead of satisfying the audience's thirst for revenge against Peytraud, the ending could have held the mystery that was carried throughout the movie.

Even a weak ending could not erase from mind the terrifying scenes that came earlier. Throughout the movie, as a saw someone's scene, "you feel as if a cold hand was about to grab your shoulder."

U.S. films to be shown in Russia

NEW YORK (UPI) - Rumors that a Soviet boycott of the 1991 American Film Festival in Moscow, announced Monday, will be based on "The Wizard of Oz" and other American film classics never shown in Soviet theaters when the first American film festival was held in Moscow in 1989 have been squelched by the festival's organizer.

Carole Peyer, founder and head of Film and Theater Division of the American Film Institute which is staging the festival this summer, said the festival will feature 30 major films as old as "On" and "Ring in the Rose," in which President Ronald Reagan was a character, and new as the Empire Strikes Back and "Hoosiers.

U of I sells cupids safety

CHAMPAIGN, ILL. (UPI) - It may take the romance out of the hearts of some safety-minded students at the University of Illinois, but it will be exciting to the students who are "Cupid-O-Grange" this Valentine's Day.

Over one hundred students, from Monday to Friday, hope to get the message out that while Cupid's arrows are flying, students had better be protected.

"The festival will give the Soviets a taste of American filmmaking style and American lifestyles.

Soviet audiences.

"We are going to encourage open discussions and comment," Peyer said. "In addition, there will be special screenings, private discussions and workshops with outstanding artists of the Soviet film and theater communities. Its going to be a truly historical event with significant impact on the level of communications and understanding between our two countries." Peyer said.

The lowdown on getting ‘high’: Marijuana causes body burnout

By Barb Fiorek, Wellness Center

Recently, an increasing number of prominent people have admitted using marijuana, America’s No. 1 illegal drug. While marijuana is not the “devil’s weed” it once was considered 20 years ago, leading to violent crime or insanity, there is increasing evidence that it possesses some definite health risks.

The use of marijuana has decreased over the past 10 years among high school seniors, according to a 1986 National Institute of Drug Abuse report. Currently, 45 percent of college-aged people use marijuana.

The smoke of marijuana is unappealing, being neither stimulant, depressant, nor true hallucinogen. The marijuana plant looks like an ordinary weed, but it in comprised of about 431 different chemicals, the principal psychoactive ingredient being tetrahydrocannabinol (THC). The effects of THC may last only two to three hours, but THC metabolites are stored in fatty body tissues, including the brain, and are detectable in the blood 21 days after smoking as little as one joint. THC’s ability to linger in the body makes it unlike that of most other commonly used drugs, including alcohol, nicotine, and caffeine, which are quickly broken down and passed out of the body.

Marijuana is a combination of tars, chemicals, herbicides and other cancer-causing contaminants. Regular marijuana smoking increases the risk of respiratory illness, especially emphysema and lung cancer.

To Your Health

Marijuana also effects hormones that direct growth, reproduction, and sexual development, putting teenagers and pregnant women at higher risk. Since THC is fat soluble, it tends to be stored in the fetus and can be passed on to the baby through breast milk.

The short-term effects of marijuana are disturbed coordination, slower reaction times, impaired short-term memory. Users ability to follow complicated instructions, increased heart rate, anxiety and paranoia.

Marijuana smokers report enjoyed personal experiences. What feels like relaxation to one can be panic or confusion for another. The psychological state of the user and the physical setting highly influence the experiences.

People who abuse marijuana may think that the “high” is in the joint, when in fact, what marijuana does is release the body’s own neurochemicals, which are the sources of internal “high.”

Habitual use of marijuana may diminish or suppress the ability of the body to produce its own natural feel-good chemicals called endorphins, chemicals needed to handle pain or stress.

While marijuana users tend to characterize themselves as special and different from nonusers, the real difference is their desire or need to look outside themselves to feel good or cope with the stress of all substance abusers.

The paradox of marijuana is that what took hold in the 60’s youth movement as a radical act of independence, we know now can lead to psychological dependence.

Is the high worth the risk? Thousands of ex-smokers who have discovered healthier, drug-free ways to feel good or cope may agree. Call the Wellness Center at 536-4441. To Your Health is produced in conjunction with the Wellness Center.

Stanley Jordan to bring 'touch technique' here

About 400 tickets are still available for the Stanley Jordan concert at 6 p.m. Wednesday at Shryock Auditorium.

Jordan is considered one of the most significant guitarists since Jimi Hendrix and Wes Montgomery. His trademark, two-handed "touch technique," allows him to sound like two guitarists at once, and sometimes even three.

Jordan's technique involves tapping strings high on the neck to create chords, bass lines, fills and leads all at the same time.

"Simplicity and complexity," Jordan said of his music in a New York interview. "A clear, light sound, direct and a lot going on in the scaffold of the music."

Jordan was trained as a classical pianist, but switched to guitar at age 11. He borrowed the techniques of piano playing and applied them to his guitar playing.

Jordan studied at Princeton, where he developed his "touch technique," and spent the next two years after graduation playing on the streets of New York for a living.

After an unannounced performance as the opening act for Wynton Marsalis and Maynard Ferguson at the Kool Jazz Festival in New York, Jordan gained a following and a recording contract on the Blue Note label.

Jordan is considered a jazz musician, but his album "Magic Touch," includes renditions of The Beatles' "Eleanor Rigby," Hendrix's "Angel" and Michael Jackson's "The Lady in My Life," as well as Thelonious Monk's "Round Midnight" and Miles Davis' "Freddie Freeloader." Tickets for the concert are $9 and may be purchased at the Student Center Central Ticket Office.

Fonda defeats veterans in poll

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UPI) - A majority of western Massachusetts residents support Jane Fonda over veterans groups, but a poll commissioned by the actress showed Monday.

The telephone survey of 601 residents of Springfield, Chicopee and Holyoke found support for Fonda's mirrors that of President Reagan, while an overwhelming majority believe it is time to put Vietnam-era bitterness to rest.

"There's absolutely no support for the demonstrators," said Stephen Rivers, a spokeswoman for the actress who commissioned a research firm to sample opinion following protests over Fonda's planned trip is planned as a conference on Alcohol and Drug Abuse, the sponsor of the trip said Monday.

Burnett to give drug speech to Soviets

NEW YORK (UPI) - Actress Carol Burnett and her daughter Carrie, who graduated from the Soviet Union this summer to speak to young people about alcoholism and the dangers of drug abuse, the sponsor of the trip said Monday.

Burnett's trip with her 23-year-old daughter, Carrie Hamilton, will include appearances on Soviet television and at Workers' party conferences, said J.W. Canty, chairman of the Soviet-U.S. Joint Conference on Alcoholism and Drug Addiction.

The trip is planned as a part of the conference's programs to help combat alcoholism and drug abuse in the Soviet Union and the United States and forge closer ties between the two countries, Canty said.

The comedian and her daughter, who "is a self-taught alcoholic-drug addict with six years of sobriety," are expected to make the trip in July, Canty said Monday.

"She will be not only on Soviet television, but she's going to address the young people of the Soviet Union via an 800-number where young people can call in from all over the country and ask questions," Canty said.

Her responses and those of her daughter will later be printed in the Kommunisty Pravda, a young people's Communist newspaper, he said.

Burnett "will speak on alcoholism as a family disease because Carol Burnett came from a family of alcoholics," Canty said.
Gorbachev announces plan for withdrawal of Soviets

In Moscow (UPI) - Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev announced Monday that Soviet forces can begin withdrawing from Afghanistan, subject to agreement with the U.N., and according to U.S. demands, after the signing of a contract for the early pullout of the bulk of the troops.

He said Moscow will not attempt to change the future Afghan government. Gorbachev said his pullout deadline depended on whether a U.N.-mediated agreement being negotiated in Geneva is signed by March 15. If it is signed earlier, he said, the 10-month withdrawal could begin earlier.

The United States, which condemned the December 1979 Soviet invasion of Afghanistan and repeatedly has called on Moscow to withdraw its troops from the country, reacted cautiously to Gorbachev's surprise announcement.

In Washington, President Reagan said, "We'll wait to see what the conditions are." The State Department said it was "too early to comment in the statement, We want to see further details and consult with our allies." Afghan leader Najibullah said in a radio broadcast that the announcement "overturns" in Pakistan ties between leaders of Afghanistan, Pakistan and the Soviet Union in Geneva.

"Seeking to facilitate a speedy and successful conclusion of the Geneva talks between Afghanistan and Pakistan, the government of the U.S.S.R. and the Republic of Afghanistan have agreed to set a specific date for beginning the withdrawal of Soviet troops -- May 15, 1989," Gorbachev said.

A Western expert in Moscow called Gorbachev's statement a "high-risk strategy" intended to increase the pressure on all parties for a settlement at the next round of the Geneva talks later this month.

The talks, mediated by U.N. envoy Diego Cordovez, directly involve Pakistan and Afghanistan, but the United States and the Soviet Union are the ultimate guarantors of any settlement.

The WITHDRAWL "is directly related to the cessation of interference in the internal affairs of Afghanistan and stagnation of arms and military aid to the Afghan extremist opposition," he said.

The United States has been supplying weapons to the Afghan rebels. "We are confident that military conflicts will not be intensified in the country after the withdrawal of the Soviet forces," Najibullah said.

Soviet minister raps NATO plan

In Moscow (UPI) - Defense Minister Dmitry Yazov attacked NATO plan for military modernization and said the "Cold War" Pact's advantage of 20,000 tanks is offset by NATO superiority in anti-tank forces.

Yazov's lengthy commentary in the Communist Party newspaper Pravda was intended to counter the calls in the West to strengthen conventional and remaining nuclear defenses in the wake of the U.S.-Soviet treaty eliminating most medium and short-range nuclear missiles.

"All this is being presented on the plea that the Warsaw Pact countries have overwhelming military superiority over NATO in conventional arms and that the INF treaty allegedly upset the strategic balance in favor of the Soviet Union," Yazov said.

Yazov accused the West of seeking "one-sided reductions" in Forces and said the two sides are balanced although even such superiority in particular categories. "As far as tanks are concerned, the Warsaw Treaty Organization has approximately 20,000 more of them than NATO," Yazov said. "But NATO has almost 50 percent more combat vehicles including those provided with anti-tank systems, and approximately 50 percent more anti-tank systems."

The Soviet numerical superiority in armor has been the chief concern of Western military analysts devising plans to counter a Soviet invasion, but Western tanks are now deeper and more sophisticated. High-tech countermeasures, such as anti-tank missiles, are also believed more advanced in the West.

Yazov said "imbalances elsewhere also tend to cancel out. He maintained that the numerical edge in Warsaw Pact forces in central Europe is offset by NATO superiority in southern Europe.

"On the whole there is a rough balance and approximate parity in conventional arms," Yazov said.

"Future European talks on this issue stand all chances for success if they deal with mutual and simultaneous reductions and mutual elimination of asymmetry and disharmonies," the defense minister said.

Britain to probe residency of Nazi suspects

LONDON (UPI) — Britain announced Monday a government panel will investigate allegations made more than a year ago that Nazi war criminals settled in the country after World War II, including a claim of leading mass executions.

Home Secretary Douglas Hurd, cabinet minister in charge of law and order, announced in Parliament the formation of a two-man panel to examine charges that Nazi war criminals settled in Britain by lying to gain entry.

He also said the panel would recommend if British law should be changed to allow for their prosecution in Britain, even though the alleged war criminals took place in what is now part of the Soviet Union.

Britain has no extradition treaty with the Soviet Union and its treaty with Israel, which claims the right to try those accused of crimes against Jews, does not cover extradition of suspected war criminals.

In October 1986, the Los Angeles-based Simon Wiesenthal Center, named after the famous Nazi hunter, presented evidence that 17 accused Nazi war criminals had settled in Britain. The center accused them of engaging in atrocities against Jews in Nazi-occupied Lithuania and Latvia.

"I conclude from leads of British's $30,000-strong Jewish community and Parliament members, the Home Office conducted an investigation that led to Hurd's announcement. The panel consists of Britain's former top prosecutor, Sir Thomas Hetherington, and Scotland's former top prosecutor, William Chalmers.

Hurd told Parliament 16 people named in the allegations still lived in the country and their wartime activities would be investigated. He did not name or give details of any of the suspects.

Officials of the Wiesenthal center said Gecas led police in mass execution of Jews and even climbed into execution "pits to finish off people who had not been murdered by the machine guns."

Waldheim lied, deported Jews to Nazi death camps, panel finds

VIENNA (UPI) — An international commission released a report Monday saying Austrian President Kurt Waldheim did not commit war crimes but did hide details about his role in the deportation of thousands of civilians to Nazi death camps.

The 200-page report wrapped up a five-month probe by six war crimes experts, including a former U.N. secretary-general's World War II army record.

The Austrian Foreign Ministry, which commissioned the findings, initially blocked the report's release to government officials until the commission entered all references to its conclusions that Waldheim was "morally guilty" because he failed to halt the deportations.

The ministry said the historians overstumped their mandate by making moral and charitable judgments.

A hastily revised report that deleted references to moral guilt finally was delivered to "Chancellor Franz Vranitzky. The historians also briefed Waldheim on the report's contents and said it would be released publicly Tuesday.

The report did not arrive at the conclusion that Mr. Waldheim was guilty of committing war crimes," said West German Manfred Messerschmidt, commission member.

Asked if Waldheim was pleased at the investigation findings, Messerschmidt said, "I don't think so because he said he was not guilty."

The report said the panel questioned Waldheim for four hours on Jan. 28.

Messerschmidt said the commission concluded that Waldheim was in close proximity to war crimes committed in the Balkans and was in a position to influence orders to transfer civilians, not just a low-ranking officer as he portrayed himself.

Commission sources said Waldheim, 80, concealed and lied about his activities in a German army unit stationed in the Balkans during World War II.

"While the commission failed to uncover any evidence directly linking Waldheim to war crimes, panel Chairman Hans Rudolf Kurt said the report would take a critical attitude," the panel said.

One panel source said the documents showed "there is no question Waldheim concealed and even lied outright about his service."

Commission members said the government played a major role in the deportations of 60,000 Yugoslavs, including 23,000 children, to Nazi death camps.

Waldheim, a German army lieutenant, claimed he was only a low-ranking translator stationed in the Balkans and had no role or knowledge of the deportations.

The United States banned Waldheim from entering the country last year after a Justice Department investigation reportedly accused him of involving foreigners in the transport of civilians to death camps.

Waldheim's press spokesman, Gerald Christian, said the Austrian leader would resign the presidency, regardless of the report's findings.

"He has asked himself, 'What is the good of this for the country?' and the decision is that it is not a good time," Christian said.

"Not now with all the attention on him. He won't resign no matter what the results of this report are."

Other sources close to Waldheim suggested he might resign once the furor over the report has subsided.

Sources close to the investigation said several documents suggested Waldheim was well informed of his unit's activities.

West German panel member Manfred Messerschmidt told the Die Welt newspaper in Bonn that Waldheim could be considered an accomplice in the mass murder in Yugoslavia.

Most of the damning evidence against Waldheim is from the Balkan campaign as in 1942. Waldheim denied being anywhere near the fighting in Yugoslavia in his 1977 biography "The Challenge of Peace."

Officials knew of Noreiga’s role

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. officials have known for years that Panamanian strongman Gen. Manuel Noriega was corrupt, venal and vindictive, and he should have been indicted long ago, a New York’s district attorney and a retired general told Congress Monday.

Robert Morgenthau, considered the nation’s dean of district attorneys for his high-volume Manhattan jurisdiction, and retired Gen. Paul Gorman, former chief of the U.S. Southern Command, told a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee that Latin America is under siege by drug traffickers and its freedom and U.S. national security are being threatened.

They called for a unified initiative involving the military and the State Department to combat the proliferation of drug lords who use their endless supplies of money to buy off governments, fuel terrorism and destabilize governments.

“If there has reached the proportion of a national emergency,” Morgenthau told Sen. John Kerry, D-Mass., chairman of the subcommittee that is investigating Latin American drug trafficking in general and Noriega’s role specifically.

Noriega was indicted Friday by federal grand juries in Miami and Tampa, Fla., on charges of abetting Colombian cocaine traffickers for payoffs of millions of dollars.

However, Noriega charged in a television interview Sunday that the indictment was politically motivated, possibly because of his refusal in December 1985 to join a U.S. scheme to invade Nicaragua.

Traveling with President Reagan aboard Air Force One, White House spokesman Martin Fleischer said, “As the president has said many times, we have never had any intention of invading Central America. Remember that Noriega offers this as a defense of his drug indictment, so I wouldn’t give it much credence.”

Pilot links Eastern, drugs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A fired Eastern Airlines pilot told a Senate subcommittee Monday the airline allowed its airplanes to be used to transport drugs and money between the United States and Latin America, contributing to the carrier’s downfall.

Gerald Loeb, now a pilot lobbyist from Salinas, Calif., said he and fellow pilots traveling the Miami-Panama- Colombia routes for Eastern had documented numerous instances between 1981 and 1986 in which drugs and money were illegally transported aboard their commercial airliners.

Loeb said he was fired April 21, 1986, for “outrageous conduct” in submitting a report on the flights to the FBI.

He said he was later the target of investigations by private detectives hired by Eastern and charged investigators were bribed to give false reports about him.

Contacted at its Miami headquarters, Eastern had no immediate comment on the testimony.

Loeb said he knew of 65 to 50 incidents in which money and drugs were secretly transported aboard Eastern Airlines flights, sometimes overwhelming them to dangerous levels.

“Since 1982, Eastern, which inherited the routes from Braniff Airways, has continued the legacy of drug trafficking and other illicit, illegal operations into the United States,” Loeb said.

Fugitive’s unpaid bill leads to his capture

BENTON, ILL. (UPI) — A $12.56 unpaid gasoline bill at the arrest of a Georgia man sought in the slaying of a Baptist minister and named on the U.S. Marshal Service’s 15 most wanted list, authorities said Monday.

Franklin County Chief Deputy Sheriff Bill Wilson said the suspect, identified as Ray Anthony Griffin, 25, was held in Franklin County Jail after his arrest late Sunday and was turned over to U.S. Marshals Monday morning.

He said Puckett, a supervisor for the federal agency, said Griffin would be held at the Williamson County Jail in Marion for federal authorities.

The search for Clark at Da Queen State Police District 13 said Griffin, alias Ray Anthony Griffin, had apparently left a Marion service station without paying for gas. He was last seen Friday at 8:30 p.m. Sunday. Trooper Dennis Tregoning spotted the car near Marion and gave chase. Clark said Griffin’s car spun around on the Illinois 154 Exit of Interstate 57, 6 miles north of Benton, and Clark said Tregoning’s squad car crashed into Griffin’s car, flipping it. The driver then ran a foot into a field east of Interstate 57.

Tregoning called in a state police canine unit and Williamson County authorities at Marion also sent a canine unit.

Griffin was tracked to a barn on private property east of the interstate, Clark said, at least five officers including three state troopers surrounded the barn.

“Information we had was that he was extremely dangerous and usually armed,” said Clark. He said state police called out a warning to Griffin that a canine unit would be sent in after him if he did not surrender. Griffin shouted back that he was coming out with his hands up and surrendered to authorities around 4:40 p.m., Clark said.

“We have not found a weapon, but we are still searching,” said Clark. He said the car Griffin was driving and its license plate were reported stolen.

Police at Marion said Griffin allegedly filled his tank with 23.5 gallons of compressed gasoline worth $12.95 at American Gas & Wash in Marion and left without paying.

Griffin, a Conyers, Ga., laborer, was placed on the U.S. Marshal Service’s 15 most-wanted list after he abducted a massive manhunt and exchanged gunfire with a police officer north of Covington, Ga., a week ago.
AFC triumph in Pro Bowl ends troubled NFL season

By Jeff Hansen
UPI Sports Writer

HONOLULU — The Pro Bowl ended a tumultuous week marred by a players’ strike, racial unrest and the announced move of the Cardinals to Phoenix.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle, in Hawaii Sunday for the AFC’s 15-6 victory over the NFC, denied the strike was to blame for poor Super Bowl XXII television ratings.

“There could be some connection,” he said. “I felt we were lucky … because I thought we’d, myself included, all be breathing about the strike way after the season ended.”

“I still don’t like it, but I think the performance of the teams who came up with and the coaches on the field after the strike, including the playoffs, I know I got my mind off the strike faster than I thought I would.”

“My impression is that the strike wasn’t hurtful but that a factor, I really don’t think it was a big factor, though.”

The racial furor, which simmered last month when television commentator Jimmy “The Greek” Snyder made remarks about differences between white and black athletes, went to Hawaii.

Jones earns first PGA win in AT&T

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Fittingly, Steve Jones headed to Hawaii Monday, a vacation spot known for its beaches.

Jones spent nearly the entire last round of $750,000 AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am Sunday in the sand, rescuing pars from bunkers en route to his first PGA victory.

Jones’ three-stroke lead evaporated early in the round. He recaptured it on the back nine, fell into a tie with a bogey on 17 and finally defeated Bob Tway with a birdie on the second extra hole.

“I felt there was a purpose for all my birdies and all my bogeys here today,” said Jones, who departed Monday for the Hawaiian Open, the next stop on the PGA Tour.

The victory ended Jones’ five-year losing streak on the Tour.

“It’s very hard to get that first win,” Tway said. Tway scored his first victory two years ago at the San Diego Andy Williams Open.

“Obviously you are nervous and anxious to win,” Tway said. “That makes it all the harder for me to perform a birdie on the final hole to win my first tournament, but I raised it. Luckily, I was able to win in a playoff.”

Jones, a religious man, said he leaned on his faith during the final round.

Cubs deny deal for the ‘Goose’

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Cubs denied they were close to completing an NFL deal that would send third baseman Keith Moreland to the San Diego Padres for veteran reliever Rich “Goose” Gossage.

The two teams have been talking during the winter about Moreland and Gossage changing teams, but Cubs officials said Monday no deal had been made final.

Broadcasters report Monday in Chicago said Moreland would go to San Diego along with either infielder Paul Nocito or Mike Brunley. In addition to Gossage, the Cubs also would get either outfielder Carmelo Martinez or pitcher Ray Hayward.

“I’m not a philosopher. But it was interesting the way we made friends with these AFC guys during the week, but when the whistle blows all of that is forgotten.”

—Darrell Green

Pro Football Hall of Fame inductee Alan Page Saturday said the furor overinequality is keeping minorities from making employment advances.

“It has become very easy, almost to the point of people to say that blacks are not qualified, that blacks shouldn’t have an opportunity to advance simply because blacks have been discriminated against,” Page said. Page is an assistant attorney general in the Minnesota Attorney General’s office.

“I think it is an outrage,” he said. NFL owners also have been pressured to hire the first black head coach in league history.

All-Star MVP Jordan says he'll shoot for world title

CHICAGO (UPI) — Michael Jordan, honored as the most splendid star of the All-Star weekend, now turns his attention to an even greater distinction.

The second half of the NBA regular season begins Tuesday with Jordan and his Chicago teammates facing Central Division rival Detroit. The Pistons and Bulls are three games behind first-place Atlanta, and the two teams will surely be among the 16 to qualify for the postseason and battle for the greatest prize in the league — the title now held by the Los Angeles Lakers.

Jordan, who at the halfway point in his final season with 33.5 scoring average, collected 60 points Sunday to lead the Eastern Conference in scoring. The Bulls had two losses in the West in the 38th NBA All-Star Game. On Sunday, Jordan retained his title as the Most Valuable Player.

“By Mike Barnes

Up Sports Writer

CHICAGO — Let's take a moment to congratulate the next two winners of the Most Valuable Player award at the NBA All-Star Game: Alrek Oajiyoun and Grant Rice.

With next year's game scheduled for Houston, it's almost a cinch Oajiyoun will take the honor, the way hometown heroes Tom Chambers and Michael Jordan have the last two times.

Then it will be Waiters' turn, with the 1993 mid-season contest expected to be scheduled in one of the four expansion cities. By then, Waiters, now a center with the Bulls, will have been plucked from Chicago and be a star.

It's unfair to say Jordan became the 15th hometown MVP after Sunday's 138-133 East victory solely because he was playing before Chicago fans. But it did help, no doubt, the air he received from his generous All-Star teammates.

“Our guys wanted him to get the ball as much as possible,” grills forward Charles Barkley said. “Michael played really well. But if anybody had that many shots they would have played just as well.”

Jordan was in foul trouble and played just 20 minutes, nevertheless took 33 shots, canned 17 and finished with 66 points. Of the 36 MVPs in All-Star history, 31 have been the game's leading scorer.

“I think players feeding me the ball is a display of great gratitude,” Jordan said. Jordan also won Saturday's Slam Dunk Championship thanks to some gracious judges.

Weir: NCAA meeting went well

CHAMPAGNE (UPI) — Illinois Interim Chancellor Morton Weir said Monday he came away from a meeting of NCAA officials about possible football recruiting violations with a positive feeling.

Weir and other U of I officials met with four members of the NCAA's Committee on Infraction by Fractions for a little more than two hours Friday in Florida to discuss a handful of recruiting infractions.

The violations allegedly occurred while the school was under investigation by the NCAA for possible football recruiting violations with a positive feeling.

The new wave of allegations came to the forefront of the debate because the Boston Celtics are next at 32-12. The Lakers, who have won seven games in a row, will host to the Celtics Sunday on a rematch of last year's (27-18), would open against the Milwaukee Bucks.

Weir said, “There were not hostile questions and there were good questions about our football program and the things we have tried to do here.”

The new wave of infractions appear relatively minor, two deal with the more important issues of a former assistant coach paying for a recruit to stay in a hotel and of White himself visiting a player before he could be legally approached.

“I had the sense they were satisfied with our answers,” Weir said. “But I did not get the impression that they aren’t going to do anything because, after all, we’re on probation when these violations occurred.”

A decision on what, if any, penalty Illinois receives is expected in the next 16 to 14 days, Weir said.

Men gymnasts get first win of season at De Kalb meet

By Stephanie Wood
Staff Writer

The men's gymnastics team defeated Western Michigan 264.90-261.95 in its first dual meet win of the season, but lost to Michigan State and Northern Illinois.

"We won one," Coach Bill Melle said. "It's always good to get that first win."

The Salukis' record is 1-4 in dual competition after the weekend loss to MSU, 270-63.96, and to NIU, 200-271.40.

Senior Tom Glielmi was the team's only individual winner at the Western Michigan meet Saturday. He won the floor exercise with a score of 5.60.

Glielmi and Scott Belanger scored 9.30 in the vault. Belanger also was the team's top scorer in the still rings, 8.85, and tied for that honor in the pommel horse.

The team surpassed its goal of a 268 team score in "its best performance in De Kalb in a long time," Melle said.

"It really was quite surprising because in years past we've always had a hard time at Northern (Illinois)," he said.

"It was a great day. The vault, the best event Sunday, all six performers scored higher than 9.00, which Melle uses as a standard for good performances. Glielmi had a high score of 9.40.

Glielmi, suffering from an ankle injury incurred at Saturday's meet, had to water down some of his tricks and dismounts, Melle said. In addition, he gained a muscle strain and is not serious enough to keep him out of competition this weekend.

Freshman Greg Zeiders scored a personal best in the all-around competition with 33.75 and was the Salukis' only individual winner. He won the pommel horse with a score of 8.55.

"Zeiders had a great meet going and then he screwed up the high bar," Melle said. Zeiders fell off the high bar and received a score of 1.5.

Marcus Mulolland had the team's high all-around score, 54.80.

"Mulolland and Reed, even though they went 54-plus, they screwed up in a couple events," Melle said. "This tells me that they can go 55.'" aggravated assault.

"We haven't had a home invasion in quite some time and none of them looked like this," Braswell said.

Braswell said Monday that about 4 a.m. Saturday he was awakened when someone threw a brick through his basement window.

"I thought maybe the window was broken by the real cold weather," Braswell said. "But I picked up the phone and there was no dial tone and I figured it was a burglary."

"I tried to switch on the outside security lights but they didn't work. It seemed like he was professional and armed ... to take out the phone and search inside," Braswell said.

"I saw a man later appeared at the window going down Braswell's billboard. I thought I wouldn't choose me or something," Braswell said.

Braswell said he gave up his wallet, which contained about $150, identification cards and a spare house key.

46 minutes later, Braswell said, the robber returned through the front door, snatched up a miniature baseball bat that was near the door, and began beating Braswell, demanding more money.

Braswell said the robber threatened his life and ran away with the wallet.

"I didn't think anything would work," Braswell said. "I even thought perhaps to take out my personal gun and fire it, but they didn't work. It seemed like they didn't work. It seemed like this wasn't a very serious situation."

"I picked up my phone to call the police and there were no numbers on the lights."

"I thought overall it was a good meet," DeNoon said. "Out of 25 performances, we had 12 personal bests. Several kids moved into the top positions in the conference list."

Karen McIntyre had one. Celia Gales won the one-meter diving event. SIU-C also won all five relay events, setting pool records in the 200- and 400-yard medley and 200- and 400-yard freestyle relays.

"We're disappointed that we didn't win, but I'm pleased with the way we held on to the lead for two days," Ingram said. "I just couldn't match their depth."
What a shocker:

By Greg Robber

The Salukis came oh so close but couldn’t prevent Levitt Arena’s joy to its visitors.

Wichita State’s Lew Hill made two free throws with three seconds left to give the Shockers a 66-67 win against the Salukis on Saturday. It was the Shockers’ 20th-straight home win against Valley opponents and ended the Salukis’ season.

The Salukis rallied from an 11-point deficit in the second half. Braswell made eight consecutive free throws to cut the deficit to 8-80. Wichita State center Sasha Laskonich answered with two free throws to put the Shockers up 82-80.

Kai Nurbrber then hit a three-pointer to bring the Salukis to within four with 3:06 left. The Saluki defense stopped Wichita State from scoring for four straight times. Nurberber and Middleton each closed their steals with layups to tie the game at 82-82 with 30 seconds left.

Wichita State players played for the last shot of the night toward the basket and was fouled by Tim Richardson. Nurberber hit a desperation, half-court shot.

The Salukis won the game at the free-throw line. The Shockers hit 22 of 23 for 82 percent. The Salukis made 13 of 15 attempts for 87 percent.

Wichita State, 14-7 overall and 7-3 in the Valley, has won four straight. The Salukis dropped to 8-13 overall and 3-6 in conference.

In the first half, the Salukis charged their defense back and forth from a 2-3 zone to man-to-man, and Leffert Wichita State for most of the half.

The Salukis’ built a 23-23 lead with less than six minutes remaining. Nurberber picked up his third foul just before the nine-point lead and were fouled 20 times. The Shockers did the Friday show.

Without Nurberber in the game, Wichita State’s trapping defense took effect.

Wichita State went on an 11-0 run and finished with a 41-38 halftime lead.

In the second half, the teams traded baskets for the first five minutes. The inside play of Laskonich, Steve Greer and Dwayne Pryor led Wichita State to a 7-7 lead before the Salukis came back. Braswell was cut after his 32 points. Nurberber had 18 and the Shockers finished with 15 before fouling out.

Richardson had eight points and 10 rebounds.

Women swimmers lose title meet

By Steven Walsh

Despite winning 18 of the 20 events and setting five pool records, the women’s swim team lost the 1988 Gateway Conference championship to Illinois State.

On Saturday, SIUC entered the meet with a six-point lead, but fell 64 points to ISU. Illinois State finished with 191 points, while SIUC’s 606 at the three-day meet was in McComb.

Host Western Illinois finished a distant third with 414 points, followed by Eastern Illinois and Northern Iowa.

"They (ISU) were unbelievable," Saluki coach Doug Langram said. "On the second day of the meet we won every event and they gained 31 points on us. And on the third day we won all but two events, but they would place two, three or four places and out-score us.

"They just had too many bodies to throw at us," he said. "We used our best swimmers in as many events as we could to try to hold on to the lead, but we just couldn’t plug up all the holes.

There’s just so many fingers you can stick in the side before you run out of fingers."

Co-captain Lori Rota led the Salukis with three victories, including a 200-yard backstroke title Saturday with a time of 1:50.76.

Bret Garrett’s sixth-place finish in the 800-meter run in 1:56.76 was the team’s best performance, Cornell said. The national qualifying standard is 1:50.50.

"He (Garrett) should have qualified," Cornell said. "He ran a stupid race. I expect him to be qualifying any time soon."

The mile relay team of Billie King, Kevin Steele, Garrett and Eric Pogge finished second with a time of 3:16.56 to Mississippi State. King ran in place of John Sinon who missed the team bus.

“King did a good job so he might stay there,” Cornell said. "He was the only other Saluki to place. He finished sixth in the mile at 4:15.12."

Leonard Vance, the team’s top triple jumper, withdrew from the competition because of a pulled thigh muscle.

All-American Ron Harrer, who competed at Eastern Illinois Friday, won the shot put and placed second in the 200-meter run.

Pettigrew gets track teams’ only win

By Stephanie Wood

All-American Andy Pettigrew had the only first-place finish for the men’s and women’s track teams at the 33-team Indiana Invitational.

Pettigrew, who is recovering from mononucleosis, won the mile at the Friday and Saturday meet with a time of 4 minutes, 13.22 seconds.

"Andy has come a long way since the start of the year," Coach Bill Cornell said.
