Salukis Sneak Past Ky. Wesleyan, 60-56

Randy Coin sank a pair of clutch free throws with 19 seconds left to crush a spirited Kentucky Wesleyan team and carry Southern to a 60-56 victory before a gale crowd of 7,800 in the Arena Monday night.

Coin's baskets came at a time when the key-up Panthers were riding the crest of a rally that had brought them from 14 points down into a challenger's role.

The Salukis had moved out to a comfortable 42-28 halftime lead after opening up with hot-shooting in the first half. But the tide changed with the tipoff starting the second half. Throughout the first 10 minutes of the second half, Wesleyan whipped away at Southern's lead. Then, behind the scoring of 6-0 center Sam Smith, the Panthers cut the gap to 53-49 with 4:45 remaining.

Coach Jack Hartman then swung the Salukis into a deliberate style playing for each shot. The slow-down tactics managed to keep the Panthers about four points down.

With 2:45 showing on the clock, both teams went into a tight foul-court game, with the score 58-54. The Salukis then had to turn the ball over after taking too much time getting it into play.

But a key rebound by Clarence Smith and a steal about a minute later by Coin kept Wesleyan from cutting the margin any further.

Neither team was able to score after that until Coin led the victory with his free throws.

The game was similar in many respects to Saturday's win over Washington. In that game, too, the Salukis appeared to have the victory well in hand only to have to fight into the late stages of the contest to pull it out. And in that same way, too, it was a pair of free throws by Southern that turned the tide back toward victory.

The Salukis had moved out to an early lead in the contest for a strong offensive effort by Dave Lee. The little guard pumped in 16 of his 19 points for the first five minutes of that first period. Nine of his points came in the first four minutes as Southern soared to a 11-3.

* Registration Will Close On Saturday

Saturday will be the last day for students to register for the winter term.

Herbert W. Wohlwend, assistant registrar, said that postponement of the need for a dean's signature in order to register, or make a program change, did not set the entire registration schedule back a week. There will not be a time set aside for students to register with their dean's approval.

Wohlwend said the Sectioning Center was beginning to catch up with students making program changes, and those registering for the winter term.

Wohlwend attributed the long line from the floor of the University Center to the second floor, to students making appointments to register for spring term.

General education students with last names from Pa through Zyk will make appointments today and students with last names from Aaro through Harris will make appointments Wednesday.

These appointments are being made in the corridor on the second floor of the University Center.

Seniors in Liberal Arts and Sciences will begin making appointments for admission in the same location on Thursday. Other Liberal Arts and Science students may make appointments Friday and Off-Campus Panel To Meet Tonight

The off-campus housing president will meet at 7:30 p.m. today in Saluki Arms, 306 Mill St.

The interim council, representing all off-campus students, will discuss the new off-campus center, a donated house at 608 W. College St.

Committee Backs Increase in Athletic Fee; Trustees Asked to Accept $4 a Term Hike

By John Eppichmeyer

The Committee for Intercollegiate Athletics for the Carbondale campus has endorsed the proposed activity fee increase for athletics.

E. Claude Coleman, Secretary of the Committee sent a letter to President Delyte W. Morris Saturday asking the Board of Trustees to pass the increase, enumerating the committee's reasons for recommending the measure.

The proposed increase of 44 per term would go principally for National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) scholarships. The scholarships pay room, board, tuition fees and $15 per month to athletes.

The committee, which is the official body for defining and developing policies of the intercollegiate athletics program, stated that the NCAA scholarships are necessary for recruiting in both major and minor sports.

The letter, noting that the body had been "asked to make a clear our position" on the proposal, points out that the committee does not expect SIU to become a dominant national power in football.

The letter states that the committee wants Southern to be able to consistently win one-half or more of its games.

The proposal has not officially been passed by the Student Senate, which sponsored an informal referendum last term in which students voted in a ratio of about 22-17 in favor of the measure.

George Paluch, student body president, told the Student Senate last week that he wants written opinions from top university administrators on the proposal. The results of the poll are now in the hands of the

DID HEAD FOOTBALL COACH DON SHROYER RESIGN OR WAS HE ASKED TO QUIT?

A published report Monday said the coach had resigned. But his wife told the Daily Egyptian that he "had been asked to resign" his position by Donald N. Boydstun, director of athletics.

Neither Shroyer nor Boydstun, who are attending a national athletics convention in Washington, D.C., could be reached for comment.

As committee chairman, such matters as appointments and resignations would go through his hands. As dean he is in favor of the increase.

When asked who asked for the resignation, Mrs. Shroyer said, "Well, the athletic director," (Boydstun).

Mrs. Shroyer said the in Foreign Students Discuss Plans for European Club

The possibility of forming a European Students Club at SIU was discussed at a meeting of the International Students Club Sunday afternoon. A meeting to study the idea in more detail will be held in the near future.

Each organization within the International Students Club outlined its plans for the coming months, and the possibility of developing a calendar listing all of these events was discussed.

Among possible activities announced by member organizations are an interclub tennis tournament sponsored by the Korean Students Club, and interclub basketball and soccer meets sponsored by the Chinese Students Club. It was decided that the club will meet on the first Sunday of each month.

SIU Apple Expert Will Lead Panel

The role and status of women around the world will be more discussed at a meeting of the International Relations Club at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the Home Economics Building Family Living Laboratory.

The meeting will include a movie about women in Pakistan and brief talks by several foreign women students at SIU.

Pre-Cana Conferences

Applications for positions on the University Center Programming Board will be available during the week of Jan. 10-14 in Room H of the University Center.

A student may apply for any of the following committees: Dance, development, display, education and culture, communications, recreation, service and special events.

A 3.0 grade point average is required.

Food Pricing Scored

Certainly there can be no excuse for the current price of food at the Edwardsville Center. Operating costs of a cafeteria in a state supported institution do not begin to compare with those in a private establishment. The extra cost of waitresses to serve tables.

And what seems most important to us, students, are already paying higher prices each year. Therefore, should they be charged higher prices for the same amounts of food at the Edwardsville Center when, for many, it is difficult just to meet tuition expenses?

Preregistration Is a ‘Must’

Lines are a subject near and not very dear to every student’s heart.

And many of the lines nearest and least dear are those starting at a desk marked ‘registration’ and ending at an open space some­where on the Edwardsville campus and Boskeydell.

For the past two years all of the offices connected with the registration process have been moved to the Arena for several days in order to centralize registration and, if possible, remove some of the lines.

Nevertheless, ingenious SIU students have found a way to avoid the system and create inconveniences for their fellow students. We refer to the almost 1,000 students who failed to preregister for courses at the beginning of the quarter. Students who did not preregister would not have a special time set aside for them to register, the last ones to register at the same time that program changes were being made.

Under this system, if several hundred came to register, the last ones would have to face the possibility of not being able to arrange a satisfactory schedule.

We hereby endorse McGrath’s statement that “they (students who do not preregister) should not be able to disrupt the whole preregistration process.”

The schedule to make appointments for advance registration has almost been released. It would be the advantage of all students to make an appointment and then follow it through. This is the only way to prevent or delay crowding.

Multiversity Is Crowded, But Not Lonely

The following is taken from a column written by Larry Beaupre, a student at the University of Illinois for the August, 1965 edition of the Daily Illini. Beaupre is commenting, from the viewpoint of an experienced student, on the advantages of the multiversity.

I happen to like multiversity. Students don't get lost here, for instance. Oh, you may have heard that such a large campus you don't see daylight because of the crowds. Nononsense; Lincoln Hall's corridors are as crowded during the summer session when 8,000 students are here as during the fall when 28,000 students are here.

Think you'll meet fewer people? Not at all. You meet more people, and more interesting and varied ones. How many of 3,000 students on a small campus do you think you'll get to know intimately? Two, three, four or more? You'll find the same number here. Or how many casual acquaintances do you think you'll find on a smaller campus? Certainly not all 3,000. In fact, no more than right here.

The only difference is that there will be more people you don't know on this campus than on others. Your opportunities of meeting more people are not unlimited here; elsewhere they are.

The university draws from every county in Illinois, every state in the country and nearly every country in the world. Where else could you meet such varied people?

A multiversity has a true cosmopolitan atmosphere, one that I would not be willing to forsake for any small college.

Think you'll get a better education at a smaller college? I doubt it. This university is one of the most respected in the nation. It graduates more engineers—more quality engineers—than any other university in the country. Just judging from the amount of interviews from every major industry that annually flood this campus seeking U. of I. students, you know Illinois graduates are highly sought after.

Think it'll be too hard because it's too big? It's hard, all right. It couldn't keep its high reputation if it wasn't.

Sixty-seven per cent of the freshmen admitted last fall were from the top quarter of their graduating classes. And it is expected that there will be a substantial increase in the number of high-ranking high school graduates. Competition is severe, but that's why a University of Illinois degree is so much pride in graduation and opens so many doors for them.

You could go to a small liberal arts school if you wanted to, but you, as I did in 1962, chose to attend a multiversity. I think you'll like it, too.
Special Computer Used

Psycho-Visual Study Gauges Brainwaves

An SIU research project will use a newly developed electronic computer to detect brain waves resulting from visual perception.

Alfred Lit, professor of psychology who is also an optometrist, said the study will involve computer measurement of electrical impulses resulting from visual perception, as received at the cortex. Until recently development of a special computer, he said, it was impossible to accurately separate such specific impulses.

The research project, conducted in Southern's perception and human engineering laboratories under the direction of Lit, is supported by a five-year, $119,755 grant from the U.S. Public Health Service. The grant is based on promising information gained from a previous three-year study by Lit, which was also approved by the Public Health Service.

Lit said the project involves two basic methods of studying psychophysical and electro-physiological.

The psychophysical includes studies of varying visual stimuli such as words and pictures, and various visual stimuli arising when illumination of the two eyes is made unequal. For example, a pendulum swinging on a plane appears to move in an ellipse when a filter is placed over one eye. Direct reaction times to light of varying intensity and quantity will also be measured.

Lit said the electrophysiological tests include electronic amplification of nerve impulses in the retina. Measurements will determine how much visual stimuli are detected at the eye, and the evoked cortical potential will be measured by the computer.

The computer, connected to electrodes placed on the scalp, will measure at fractional-second intervals all impulses from the cortex. By computing average impulse levels and individually comparing these with impulse levels detected when a light is flashed in the subject's eyes, the computer can measure those impulses associated with the light.

By analyzing results of the two types of studies applied to the same individuals, Lit hopes to gain information under the process of vision, especially factors influencing the "latent period"—the time it takes an individual to perceive which is visible to him.

Lit said the project could result in valuable basic knowledge about such things as the photochemistry of vision and the operation of the rods and cones within the eye.

At the same time, information on how lights of varying color, intensity, and wave lengths differ in effectiveness as signals could be important in a wide range of situations—traffic safety, space travel and advancements in color television, to name a few.

A native of New York, Lit came to SIU in 1961. He previously held research and teaching positions at the University of Michigan and Columbia University, and was an Army psychologist from 1943 to 1946. He holds a bachelor's degree in optometry and master's and doctoral degrees in psychology, all from Columbia.

Rapid Growth of University, Carbondale Places Pressure On City Police Force

By Bob Reincke
(First of a Series)

Less than 10 years ago Southern was basically a "suitcase college." The city of Carbondale was similar to many others in the area—stable and sedate.

Some people might call those the "good old days." But the area has seen some dramatic changes in and around Carbondale.

The city now ranks 20th in the nation in full-time student enrollment and the city has nearly doubled its population to 15,000.

This extreme growth in both city and University has brought about many changes. It has also placed strains on many facets of community life—not the least of which has been law enforcement.

The police were among the first to feel the pressure of expansion in Carbondale, where the student population is virtually equal to that of the city.

Carbondale has a force of 18 full-time policemen, who are split up into three shifts. One man on each shift must operate radio dispatches, leaving the others to patrol the city and answer calls.

In addition to the full-time officers, the city has nine auxiliary policemen, of whom two or three work each night. Altogether the auxiliary force contributes about 200 man-hours a month, according to Jack Hazel, Carbondale chief of police.

The city has one police dog and expects to add a second in May. Hazel said King is effective in helping patrol alleys and control crowds, is used to escort prisoners from the police station to the jail. Hazel says he has little trouble in moving prisoners when King is along.

Before King arrived the city was plagued by as least one break-in every two months in the downtown area. Since then there has been only one break-in, and that was while King and his handler were in training school.

City police work closely with the University Security Office.

"The relationship is very good between us," Hazel said. "If we handle anything involving a student, the University gets a copy of the complaint, and they do the same for us if they make an arrest. If we prosecute the case, they don't interfere, and after we're through they handle the case from there."

This cooperation is crucial since, according to Hazel, nearly 65 per cent of the city's cases in one way or another involve students. The city received 5,192 complaints last year, of which 3,800 involved students.

After traffic, the big problem is alcohol. Hazel explained that most students are underage and can't legally purchase alcohol, but they keep trying to find one way or another to get it.

Last year, students were involved in 88 liquor law violations, 135 cases of public intoxication, and 10 cases of driver intoxication, in 120 cases of disorderly conduct by students, many involved drinking.

Another problem is prowlers, Hazel said. There were 71 complaints of prowlers in 1964, but only 17 resulted in arrests.

"This is one thing we can't seem to control," the Chief said. "We get the report of someone prowling around, but by the time we get there he is long gone. It's something we always have to stay on top of."

The number of offenses reported last year was considerably higher than in the past, according to Hazel. But, he added, "in proportion to this population increase, our crime rate is about the same as in the past."

The 11-year veteran of the Carbondale police said that he has not noticed any significant difference in the conduct of students over the years.

"I think we are fortunate for a college town in that we don't have more crimes of an especially serious nature. Other college towns are much worse off than we are."

India's Premier Shastri Dies on Peace Mission

TASHKENT, U.S.S.R. (AP)—India's Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri died Monday night, a few hours after he signed a limited agreement with Pakistan to pull back their opposing forces. He was 61.

India's Indian leader was killed by a heart attack, the Soviet news agency Tass said.

He had a history of heart disease, having been stricken by a serious attack in 1959. He became ill again in June, 1964, shortly after he succeeded Jawaharlal Nehru as leader of India's millions.

In New Delhi, Home Minister Gulzarilal Nanda, 67, was sworn in as prime minister. He held the job briefly after the death of Nehru.

The Indian nation was told Shastri's body will be flown home from Tashkent Tuesday morning.

In Washington, President Johnson described Shastri's death as "a grievous blow to the hopes of mankind for peace and progress." He said Shastri had "proved a fitting successor to Pandit Nehru by holding aloft the highest ideals of Indian democracy."

Shastri was to have seen President Johnson next month on a postponed visit to the United States. Pakistan's President Agha Khan, with whom Shastri signed the "Declaration of Tashkent," saw President Johnson in Washington last month.

Shastri had been scheduled to fly back to New Delhi Tuesday after agreeing with Ayub on eliminating most of the 22-day un-already had three sons and their bodies will be flown back home.

Shastri, a middle of the road leader, was felled by a heart attack in Tashkent meeting.

He was 61.

With intelligence and quiet vigor, Shastri took charge of the vast—33.5-million employees — bureaucracy and plunged into India's inherent illis of divisism and diversity of race, religion and regional-

ism. He preserved Nehru's nonalignment abroad and state socialism at home, but was more liberal toward sorely needed foreign private investments. The acting director of the

Viet Nam Is High on Agenda As Congress Returns to Work

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congress reconvened Monday for a session shadowed by war. "I think that every piece of legislation we consider will be colored by the situation in Viet Nam," said Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

But for the day, there were only formalities as the 89th Congress - a mountain of "Great Society" legislation already in its record - began its second session.

Two new House members and Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr. of Virginia appointed to succeed his retired father, were sworn in.

Major Attack Is Disappointing

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) - U.S. and Australian troops pushed to the edge of the Viet Cong iron triangle Monday, blew up an abandoned tunnel and captured a huge food and weapons cache.

But U.S. officers expressed disappointment over results of this biggest operation by American forces in the war. Only 32 Viet Cong had been killed and 38 captured on the front 25 miles northwest of Saigon. The officers had hoped to trap a regiment of Viet Cong.

Supermarkets ‘Sell’ with Music, But, Could It Inspire Learning?

By Rose Astorino

Supermarkets now use background music to prompt their customers into buying more. For example, the music may be slow so the customers will have more time to browse, or near closing hours, the music may be faster.

Scientists at Stanford University recently experimented with background music in classrooms, the library and several cafeterias and pronounced it a success.

In short, they said the music helped students relax and released their tensions, thereby making them more receptive to the knowledge imparted in the classroom.

Should SIU give it a whirl?

Here’s what some SIU students and faculty members think of this idea:

Laura Chovanec, junior, says, “There should definitely be soft music in the halls and in certain parts of the library because it is more soothing.”

Charles Rohr, graduate student, feels, “It is a very good idea to have background music in the library because it’s a distraction. If you want to study you should go somewhere that is quiet and provides ample opportunity for concentration.”

Sally Battle, sophomore, says “Music should be for We have already fought that battle three or four times here and it has been proved repeatedly to be too distracting.”

Victor Randolph, professor of elementary education, says “I like music. I don’t think soft music in the library and cafeterias would hurt anything.”

Although there probably isn’t an answer to this question it might be interesting to try something similar to the supermarket theory whereby

Swimmers Leave Sooners High and Dry; Gymnast Contributes to 50-45 Victory

A gymnast turned out to be the Saluki swimmers' best insurance in Southern's 50-45 victory Saturday over the University of Oklahoma. Gymnast Frank Schmitz, who occasionally competes in the diving event for Coach Ralph Casey's swimmers, won the event with a score of 146.15 and added five points to Southern's team total.

All together, Southern's swimmers took first place in seven of the eleven events. Co-captain Tom McAneney paced the squad with two victories. McAneney finished first in the 200-yard freestyle with a time of 1:48.5 and first in the 500-yard freestyle with a time of 4:49.3.

The other co-captain, Kimo Miles, won the 50-yard freestyle with a time of 21.32. Miles also finished third in the 50-yard freestyle and competed on Southern's victorious 400 medley relay team.

Other first-place winners for Southern were Gerald Pearson in the 200-yard breaststroke, Ed Mossotti in the 100-yard freestyle and Schmitz in the diving competition.

Pearson's time in the 200-yard breaststroke was 2:18.4, and Mossotti turned in a winning time of 49.4 in the 100-yard freestyle.

Southern's 400 medley relay team, consisting of Bob Callaghan, Pearson, Miles and Mossotti, accounted for the other Saluki victory with a winning time of 3:42.3.

Sooners victories were recorded by Bill Engle in the 50-yard freestyle with a time of 23.4, Dave Urey in the 200 individual medley with a time of 2:07.2, Charles Schober in the 200-yard backstroke with a time of 2:20.6, and the 400-yard freestyle relay team which won with a time of 3:19/8.

The victory over the Sooners completed an earlier victory over Evansville College, left the Saluki swimmers in good standing in the Big Eight meet with Holcombe should be in action Jan. 15 when they travel to the University of Nebraska.

Frank Schmitz swimmers with a 2-0 dual-meet record.

In the preliminary meet, the Oklahoma freshmen swam past the Saluki freshmen 49-46. The frosh led 46.44 going into the final event, but lost the 400-yard freestyle relay.

The varsity swimmers will next be in action Jan. 15 when they travel to the University of Nebraska.

Saluki Cagers Stop Bears’ Upset Drive

Most people expected the Washington University game to be something of a breeze for the heavily-favored Salukis. It wasn’t.

Coach Bob Bowman warned before the game Saturday that other teams would be playing extra hard to knock off Southern, which is now ranked No. 1 in the college division. He was right.

The upsets-minded Bears pulled to within one point of Southern with about five minutes to go before a last-minute spurt lifted the Salukis to victory, 99-81.

Southern seemed to have the game iced four minutes earlier with a 71-68 lead. But the Bears broke loose to score nine straight points in the next three minutes to put themselves back in the game.

A 30-point rout the following week by Clarence Smith snapped Southern’s three-game winning drought and allowed the Bears’ charge momentarily. Shortly after, Washington to Southern’s lead to the narrowest of nine points, half with the score only 74-73.

At that point, Boyd O’Neal, who had been the clutch performer for the Bears since Walt Frazier put in his three-minute drought and slowed the Bears’ offense, pooled up his total by hitting 10 of 18 field goal attempts and 13 of 16 free throws. Smith had just as hot as he hit 10 of 16 from the field and five of seven from the line.

Across the floor, the Salukis hit 18 of 33 field goal attempts and 23 of 29 free throws, with the Salukis holding the ball 25 points to keep the Bears scoring.

Injuries Hit Johnson After 10 Hale Years

By Joe Cook

It's probably an overstatement to coal basketball Coach Jack Hartman, but before this season, his star forward Ralph Johnson had never missed a basketball game due to injury or illness.

That goes back some 10 years when Johnson first started playing organized ball in grade school.

At high school in Trenton, Johnson played one year of junior varsity and three years of varsity ball, and still his luck held up.

This year, however, has been another story.

Johnson was hit sidestep with a knee injury he sustained in the game against State University of Iowa.

After missing one game and playing in only parts of three others, Johnson was ready to go again.

But then his luck turned sour when he suffered a kidney infection which he suffered Christmas day.

Johnson is still hopeful he will be able to make the trip to Arizona. "It's a day-to-day proposition," said Johnson.

The warm Arizona sun might be just what the doctor ordered.

Siu Squanders Big Lead In Moving to Eighth Win

The Aces suffered their third loss of the season—43-73 loss to Valparaiso. The defeat came after Southern's first victory since the Indiana Collegiate Conference since 1963 and left its season's record at 8-4. Southern was 7-1 going into Monday night's game against Kentucky Wesleyan.

It appears that at least one pair of long scoring streaks of seven and nine for Southern in the first half compared to the visitors .535. The Salukis made all eight free throw attempts.

A pair of long scoring streaks of seven and nine points also aided in building up the first half margin. At one stage in the period, Southern's defense held the Panthers scoreless for better than four minutes.

After the fast-moving first half, the play slowed down considerably in the lastperiod. Southern scored only 18 points in the entire final 20 minutes compared to 28 points for Wesleyan.

Lou's 19 points gave him scoring honors for Southern. He was followed by George McNeill with 12 and Stovall, who added 10. Goin chipped in nine points, and it's possible that Smith had six and Boyd O'Neal four.

Higher Athletic Fee Backed; Trustees' Approval Sought

The student Welfare Committee of the Student Senate, which must make a recommendation to the Senate, said Monday that he will be able to make any action on the bill until he has written opinions on the proposal from all top administrative and the Board of Trustee leaders.

It seems reasonable to assume that if students were something done they should get all the support they can," Paluch said.

The committee is composed of:

Two student members appointed by the Student Senate, Robert P. Laurs and Pat J. Schmalsliger; two alumni members appointed by the Alummi Council, Roger Spear of Carbondale and Coll. Alternate Ed of Golden.

Faculty members Willard C. Hart, associate University architect; Orville Alexander, chairman of the Department of Government; Kenneth A. Lente, professor of chemistry; E. Claude Coleman, professor of English and secretary of the committee; Elmer J. Clark, dean of the College of Education and chairman of the Committee; Jack W. Graham, dean of students; John S. Rendleman, vice president for business affairs; and Donald N. Boydston, director of athletics.

Coint took place last Friday or Saturday before Shroyer, Boydston and the entire football coaching staff left to attend the conference. Who is Shroyer going to do now?" "Well, our plans are not definite," Mrs. Shroyer said. "We were taken completely by surprise and were both more or less stunned," she continued.

"We were taken completely by surprise and were both more or less stunned," she continued.

The head football coach will be leaving SIU at the end of his contract or the end of the academic year, whichever comes first, she said.
